Arrangements are rapidly nearing completion for the charity ball to be given by the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's church, Easter Monday evening. The ball will be the second of a series the society intends to give for the benefit of needy families in this city, regardless of their religious affiliations. It will be held in Columbus Auditorium where the entire building, including the clubhouse as well as the auditorium, has been secured for the evening and the ballroom will be beautified and decorated in the most lavish manner. The music will be of the highest order and will be an innovation to Plainfield music lovers as Professor Brogan has been secured to direct a stringed orchestra of nine pieces which in itself will be a treat.

Rev. B. M. Bogan,
Spiritual director of Union County Federation of Holy Name Societies.

The ball will be a character dance and hints of some of the costumes that will be worn indicate that there will be many surprises among the unique creations. They will include historic characters, some dating back to earlier centuries, quaint habits worn by folk of strange lands, splendid dresses of Oriental countries where bright colors count for so much, grotesque costumes and every strange curiosity that ingenuity can devise. Altogether the affair promises to be one of the most delightful that Plainfield people have ever enjoyed.

Albert F. La Rock,
Chairman of Charity Ball Committee.

The accompanying cuts are those of several members of the society and a most efficient committee which has charge of the arangements under the direction of Albert F. LaRock, as general chairman.

MOBUS EXONERATED FROM BLAME IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Edward Hannigan, of 437 West Third street, the ten-year-old boy who was injured by an automobile on Liberty street, yesterday, was reported as resting comfortably in Muhlenberg Hospital, this afternoon, and is now well on the road to recovery. Hannigan's leg was fractured when he collided with an automobile driven by Christopher Mobus, who is employed by Harry Huff.

Bystanders who saw the accident exonerate the driver of the machine from all blame in the accident. He was driving slowly along Liberty street, according to one witness, when the Hannigan boy ran heedlessly across the thoroughfare, hitting the middle portion of the car. He was knocked to the roadbed by the impact and in falling his leg hit the step. Immediately after the accident Mobus picked the boy up and took him to the office of Dr. Lufburrow, later removing him to Muhlenberg Hospital. He came to police headquarters and gave himself up after caring for the victim and was released in custody of his employer.

DRELLICH TO SELL AT RETAIL.

Victor L. Drellich & Company, who have been manufacturing boys' wash suits for the wholesale trade at their West Front street factory for over a year, are now going to open a retail department, first announcement of which appears in the advertising columns today. This firm has brought considerable money to Plainfield since they have been in business, and they now are planning to give Plainfield people an opportunity to purchase their line of goods direct from the factory.

WEST COAST HAS GREAT CHARMS

George T. Rogers Discusses Part of Florida About Which Little is Known.

PLAINFIELDERS THERE

Returning Tourist is Enthusiastic About Possibilities of Country, Where His Son Has Invested in an Orange Grove and Settled Down.

George T. Rogers, of Myrtle avenue, who returned to town on Thursday night, after spending the winter in Florida, has become an enthusiastic booster for that part of the country, and he talks most entertainingly about the things that he saw while there. In a talk with a Daily Press reporter yesterday afternoon, he had little to say about the East coast, taking it for granted that everyone was more or less familiar with its much advertised charm. As for the West coast it has an attraction all its own. Tampa has had a wonderful growth, due largely to the tobacco and phosphate industries. Situated convenient to Cuba, it is said to manufacture more cigars than any other city in the world, and its shipments of phosphate rock quarried nearby is very heavy. Tourists abound, at least, in the winter months, and real estate sells as readily as cigars. Its growth is apparently on a substantial basis and

TAXATION DISCUSSED BY CIVIC ASSOCIATION

Suggested That Present Sewage Farm Be Converted Into City Park.

An enthusiastic meeting of the West End Civic Association was held in the Washington School, last night, and numerous topics of public interest were discussed by the members and those connected with various branches of city work. The session was largely attended and following the disposition of routine business speeches were made by former Councilman Frederick E. Mygatt and Councilman R. A. Claybrook.

In his talk Mr. Claybrook discussed Plainfield's tax question and expressed himself as being decidedly in favor of a permanent street construction, rebuilding the thoroughfares from curb to curb. He suggested that a ten year bond be taken out to pay for this improvements and divide the cost between the property-owners and the city.

The matter of improving the trolley service on the Fourth street line was also discussed, but nothing definite was decided upon. It was suggested that the old sewer farm be converted into a public park after it is abandoned as a sewage disposal bed and this topic brought forth considerable comment from the members B. J. Boyd spoke in favor of the project, outlining the good that would come to the city and the benefits that would be derived by the public in general.

EASTER MUSIC AND SERMONS IN THE CHURCHES TOMORROW

Elaborate Programs Will Be Presented Celebrating the Feast of Christ's Resurrection.

Elaborate Easter programs will be presented in the Protestant and Catholic churches of the city and borough tomorrow, in celebration of the greatest event in the world's history—the Feast of Christ's Resurrection. In addition to the unusually attractive musical programs, the pastors of the churches will preach sermons appropriate to the day. A complete list of services arranged for the day follows:

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST.

The Easter music at the Park Avenue Baptist church includes morning service at 11 o'clock, with a solo, "The Women at the Tomb," by Miss Florence Cary, of this city, and solos by Prof. B. P. Stout the gospel singer, "Praise the Lord, O My Soul," and "Nor Silver Nor Gold," the latter repeated by request. In the evening at 7:45 o'clock, Prof. Stout will sing the solos, "The Three Calls," and "Harvest Time." He will also repeat, by special request, a number of the gospel songs which he has sung in the special services of the past two weeks. The Easter program of the Bible School has been postponed until Sunday evening, April 19, in order to give as much time as possible tomorrow evening to Prof. Stout, who is closing his work in this city, and leaves Monday for Norristown, Pa., to continue his work.

TEMPLE BAPTIST CHURCH.

The Sunday-school of the Temple Baptist church will join in the regular service tomorrow and take part in a special Easter program. There will be an orchestra of twelve pieces as a feature. The school will present a program of Easter carols and recitations and the pastor, Rev. Evarts C. Conover, will make a short address. There will also be a special Easter program in the evening under the direction of William A. Conger, organist, and L. W. Randolph, superintendent of the Sunday-school. Mr. Conover will preach an appropriate sermon and he will also baptize twelve new converts.

CONGREGATIONAL.

At the Congregational church, the Easter service at 10:30 will include in its program, two anthems by the choir: "Hail Thou Morn of Mystic Beauty," and "Easter Larks Are Singing," and a soprano solo by Miss Kathleen Phillips, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth." The subject of the pastor's sermon will be, "He That Cometh From Bozrah." Flowers will be presented to the members of the new Go-to-Church Club which has been formed among the boys and girls.

A special Easter service by the Sunday-school will be held at 11:50. A pleasing program of recitations and songs will be rendered. The Young People's social meeting at 7:30 p. m. will enjoy Easter stories and carols.

FIRST METHODIST.

The quartet choir of the First Methodist church, under the direction of Clifford A. Braider, organist and director, will sing special music at both of the services on Sunday. In the evening the cantata, "Death and Life," by Shelley will be the special feature of the service, which will be entirely musical.

Morning: Organ; anthem, "As It Began to Dawn," Harker; Apostles' Creed; prayer; baritone solo, "Hosanna," Granier; Psalter; Gloria Patri; morning lesson; offertory, soprano solo, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," Handel; sermon; anthem, "Jesus Lives," Macfarlane; prayer and benediction; organ.

Evening: Organ; anthem, "Victory," Shelley; Psalter; Gloria Patri; tenor solo, "Gloria," Peccia; Old Testament lesson; offertory, contralto solo, "The Resurrection" Shelley; New Testament lesson; cantata, "Death and Life," Shelley; prayer; hymn; benediction; organ.

Miss Gabrielle Drosse, soprano; Miss Ethel G. Kinnaman, contralto; Aleck MacGowan, tenor; Edgar A. Cole, baritone; Clifford A. Braider, organist and director.

Primary Department—Queen Easter, Florence Goodenough; Easter Sunshine Wilma Evans; I Have a Lily, Eleanor Thomas; In the Spring, Katherine Clark, Maryalys Parker, Emily Goodenough, Ruth Swick; An Easter Legend, Hazel Hilley; The Wireless Message, Carroll Runyon; The Lily's Message, Alice Johnson; song, Two Little Crocus Bulbs, Helen Knight, Elsie Hunter; The Easter Secret, Pearl Tilley; The Song of the Violet, Helen DeNise; Springtime, Daisy Hile; The Little Brown Bulb, Elsie Hunter; Silent Preachers, LeRoy Pope; An Easter Invitation, Jocelyn Horne; song We Bring Our Easter Flowers, primary class.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

Morning: Anthem, "Awake Up My Glory," Barnby; solo, soprano, "Mary Magdalene," Massenet; anthem, "God Hath Appointed a Day," Tours.

Evening: Anthem, "Now Is Christ Risen," West; cantata "The Resurrection," Mauney. The choir: Miss

BIG CONGREGATION OBSERVES GOOD FRIDAY

Annual Union Services Held Last Night at Crescent Avenue Church.

Union Good Friday services attracted a large congregation to the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church last night. Following the custom which has been established for several years, the ministers of all of the churches uniting in the service took some part in the evening's services. After the choir of the church had sung an anthem, Rev. John Sheriden Zelie, pastor of the church, gave the invocation, and read the scripture lesson, following which Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church, prayed. The addresses were based on the "seven words from the cross," the first being by Rev. Charles E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, whose topic was "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

Dr. Herring was followed in turn by other ministers whose texts were: Rev. John Y. Broek, Trinity Reformed church, "Verily I say unto thee, Today shalt thou be with Me in Paradise;" Rev. Frederick Hubach, district superintendent of the Methodist church, "Woman, behold, thy son! Son, behold, thy mother;" Rev. D. B. T. Randolph, Monroe Avenue Methodist church, "My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?"; Rev. Phillip B. Strong, First Baptist church "I thirst;" Rev. Edward G. Read, retired, "It is finished," and Rev. C. C. Cain, Grace Methodist church, "Father, into Thy hands I commend my spirit."

All of the addresses were forceful and interesting, the various speakers drawing lessons for the present day from the words of the Master as he was suffering on the cross. Three hymns, appropriate to the day, "Beneath the Cross of Jesus," "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross" and "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," added much to the solemnity of the occasion.

During the service a collection was taken, which will be turned over to the Children's Home. Dr. Zelie made an especial appeal for the Home, which is more in need of funds than usual this year.

INCORRIGIBLE YOUTH IS CAUGHT AGAIN

LeRoy Rockefeller is Arrested and Turned Over to the Probation Officer.

LeRoy Rockefeller, the fourteen-year-old boy who has been causing considerable trouble for the local police during the past month, was apprehended again, yesterday afternoon, by New Jersey Centeral Detective Laverett, when he was caught riding freight trains. Wednesday night Rockefeller was picked up by the police of Brunswick, Md., for riding on freight cars. He told the authorities of that place that he was locked in a box car by four hoboes in the Plainfield freight yards and held a captive until the train reached Maryland.

The Maryland police notified Chief Kiely and the latter requested the authorities of that place to send him back to Plainfield. The youth was supplied with a pass and arrived in Plainfield yesterday. After visiting the home of his parents the boy went back to the railroad and boarded another freight on which he was caught by the detective. When arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court this morning, he was placed in charge of the probation officer.

The police have been considerably annoyed for some time past by complaints that come to their attention regarding the practice of small boys riding freight trains. The New Jersey Central authorities are doing all in their power to curtail the habit and offenders will be severely dealt with if apprehended.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 48 degrees; 11 a. m., 56 degrees; 12:30 p. m., 60 degrees.

Warrenville.

John Gunton and John C. Cooper representing the Township Committee, went to Andover this week to inspect the Climax road machine in operation by the State at the convict camp there. The outfit consists of a steam roller and crusher combined, together with storage bins of thirty-ton capacity. The purchase of a machine of this kind has long been urged by many large taxpayers in what is believed to be the interest of economy. The Committee was very much impressed by the principle of this road building unit, but before making their report will visit other plants in operation.

No Easter vacation was granted this year to the schools because the Board of Education felt that it was better to have the schools open during the coming week and close a week earlier in June because the boys are needed to help on the farms more in summer than at this season.

No more children under the age of seven years will be accepted at the Warrenville school this year because of the capacity attendance now enrolled.

THE DAILY PRESS IN BOUND BROOK will be found on sale or delivered to any address every afternoon by Hoagland, Union News Stand at station, and A. Aaron, newsdealer.

Another White House Wedding Announced; The Contracting Parties

FORMAL announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, youngest daughter of President and Mrs. Wilson, to Secretary of the Treasury William Gibbs McAdoo.

Secretary Tumulty sent out this statement:

"President and Mrs. Wilson announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Eleanor Randolph Wilson, to Hon. William Gibbs McAdoo."

The published declarations that Secretary McAdoo and Miss Wilson were engaged influenced the president and Mrs. Wilson to make the announcement. It had been the purpose of the president's family and Mr. McAdoo to keep the matter secret for a time.

No date for the wedding has been set. At the White House only the statement that the couple are engaged was made. From close friends of Secretary McAdoo it was learned that the wedding probably will take place in June.

Notwithstanding the fact that Secretary McAdoo and Miss Wilson have been seen much together in the last year and that the White House was the first place Mr. McAdoo always visited after an absence from the city, if only for a few hours, Washington society was more or less surprised at the announcement of the engagement.

Mr. McAdoo is fifty years old, a widower with six children. He also is a grandfather. Miss Wilson is twenty-four years old. Mr. McAdoo has two married children and a grown daughter, Miss Nona McAdoo, who presides over the family home.

Friends of Mr. McAdoo say the engagement is the culmination of a romance which began about two years ago, when he was consulting Governor Wilson regarding the preconvention campaign in 1912. At that time and until the president went to Washington to be inaugurated, Mr. McAdoo was a frequent visitor at the Wilson home in Princeton.

W. G. McAdoo © by American Press Association. Miss Wilson © by Davis & Sanford.

SECRETARY WILLIAM GIBBS M'ADOO AND MISS ELEANOR WILSON.

Miss Eleanor shows a greater fondness for society than any other member of the family. She delights in dinners; she plays a fine game of tennis, and with Mr. McAdoo as her opponent she spent much time last spring on the courts on the White House grounds. She will be the fourteenth White House bride.

Mr. McAdoo first attracted public attention thirteen years ago, when he undertook the building of the Hudson tunnels. He was the organizer of the New York and New Jersey Railroad company and accomplished within six years one of the greatest engineering feats in history.

As a political figure he was practically unknown until Mr. Wilson began his campaign for the presidency. He had been much interested in Mr. Wilson when he fought for the governorship of New Jersey and was one of the few who declared for Mr. Wilson when a personal poll of the New York delegation was taken at the Baltimore convention. After Mr. Wilson had been nominated he was made assistant chairman of the Democratic national committee and because of the illness of Mr. McCombs was called upon to take charge of the campaign.

Mr. McAdoo was born near Marietta, Ga., on Oct. 31, 1863. He was admitted to the bar in Tennessee when only twenty-one years old. Five years later he took up his residence in New York city and formed a partnership with William McAdoo, who was assistant secretary of the navy under President Cleveland, later police commissioner of New York and is now chief magistrate. They practiced law under the name of McAdoo & McAdoo until 1902, when the firm was dissolved. Then William G. McAdoo organized the company for building the underground tunnels and, despite obstacles that seemed insurmountable, completed the job. He was married in 1885 to Miss Sarah Fleming in Chattanooga, Tenn., who died a few years ago.

MOVING PICTURES.

In Winter, in Summer, in sunshine, in rain, we all go to the moving picture show to while away the time and get a thrill, but lest that thrill be one of pain, take heed and go comfortable. What suffering is more intense than a pair of tired, swollen, aching feet, brought on by wearing ill-fitting, wrongly made shoes? The

A War Against Moths

Secure your furs and woolen clothes as soon as you lay them off for the season.

If you are not near enough to give them a wintering in the Refrigerating Vaults, scientifically constructed in a building where they can be insured against loss by fire, sew the articles up in cotton or linen wrappers with lumps of camphor gum tied up in a bit of muslin and place them in chests and closets that can be tightly closed to prevent evaporation of the camphor.

Carelessness in wrapping up properly and laying away the bundles may do great injury.

Have you seen and felt the storage vaults for valuables provided here for our own goods as well as yours?

Easter Largely Settles the Fashions in America as February 14th Does in Paris

Easter is the turning point. Many women have worn their winter suits until now; but Monday will tell a different story. Summer is really coming. Warm weather may be expected any day. It is important to get spring and summer clothes immediately.

The woman who comes to the Wanamaker Store on Monday "shall have her will." The collection of new fashions from which she can choose here is undoubtedly "without compare." Despite the great pre-Easter selling, we offer large, complete stocks of everything that a woman may want.

The inrush of lovely things has by no means stopped simply because Easter will be over tomorrow. There will be many new suits which we shall show on Monday—of remarkable quality for the prices, too.

There are suits at $32.50, $37.50, $40, $42.50, $45, $47.50, $48.50, and so on up to $200—a wonderful variety of styles at each price.

Silk suits—surprisingly good ones—start at $25.

You may be very sure that if you see a suit tomorrow which you like you can find its duplicate in this very large collection. The Wanamaker Gray Salons for Women is a place where everybody can get what she wants at the price she wishes to pay. Will you try it on Monday and see for yourself?

BERRY, THE HANGMAN.

How He Got His Grewsome Office and Why He Resigned It.

Berry, the famous English hangman, had an extraordinary career. He worked as a carpenter, engineer and printer before joining the police force. He knew his predecessors, Marwood and Calcroft, and secured the post of hangman out of 1,400 applicants. It is said that Berry was chosen as hangman by the sheriffs of London through an answer he gave to a question about hanging a man he knew to be innocent. "Would you hang that gentleman over there?" he was asked. After looking at the councilor, a venerable, gray bearded figure, Berry is alleged to have replied: "I would hang the lot of you. The crime would not be mine, but the law's."

And yet Berry finally gave up his office as hangman because the execution by him of two innocent persons got on his nerves.

The first case was that of a farm lad, aged about eighteen, accused of shooting a policeman. The boy protested his innocence to Berry up to the last moment, but was duly executed. Some time after this Berry hanged the Netherby hall murderers, one of whom just before he died told Berry that it was he who had shot the policeman for which crime the boy had been executed.

The second case was that of Mary Leffley of Lincolnshire, who was accused of poisoning her husband with arsenic. She, too, protested her innocence, but was hanged. Some years later a farmer dying of cancer confessed the crime. He said he had had a quarrel with John Leffley, and when both John and Mary were out he had entered their cottage and put arsenic in a milk pudding which had been prepared for John Leffley's dinner.

It was on account of these two grave miscarriages of justice that Berry ultimately turned evangelist. He was persuaded to go to a mission meeting at Bradford and there announced his conversion.—London Tit-Bits.

GEMS IN A VACUUM.

They Take on an Added Brilliance and Fairly Glow.

The jewelers of ancient Egypt knew more than modern craftsmen about treating gems so that they would shine and sparkle. Such gems as the emerald, garnet and jacinth were livelier and more luminous in the days of the Ptolemies than they can be made today. It is known that the diamond, ruby, emerald and kunzite become more phosphorescent or fluorescent under certain circumstances.

Gems exhibit the liveliest phosphorescence in vacuum tubes. Even in rarefied air some diamonds give out a blue light, which is not present in a denser atmosphere. In a vacuum a diamond of four or five karats gives as much light as a candle. The color of the light differs not only with the origin of the diamond, but with the facets of the same diamond. Maskelyhe made a collection of diamonds which glowed in a vacuum with nearly all the colors of the spectrum. An uncut stone which was roughly cube shape, with truncated corners and edges, emitted orange yellow light from the faces of the cube; pale yellow from the corners, and lemon yellow from the flat edges.

Next to the diamond stands the ruby as highly phosphorescent in a vacuum. The ruby emits a beautiful red light, as though it were incandescent. Kunzite shines with a golden yellow or yellow tinged with rose. The emerald shines with a crimson light. The same gems become phosphorescent under the influence of radium. The ultraviolet rays also produce luminosity in gems.

It is well known that rubies from the mines of Burma are more valuable than those from neighboring Siam. Externally they look much alike, but under the ultraviolet rays the Burmese stones which are called oriental rubies glow like red embers, while the Siamese rubies look almost black.—Independent.

AN EASTER MESSAGE.

The very word Easter thrills the heart with gladness, because there is in it the thought that the gloom of the winter is passed and that life is to begin anew. Nature will soon put on her glorious garments, and we shall see bud, blossom and flower, and the birds will charm us with song.

Many hundreds of years before Christ, Easter was observed as a pagan festival. The Romans celebrated their Hilaria at the end of March. The Greeks sang their song of gratitude to Mother Earth at this season. Ancient India, Persia and China all had their Spring festivals, and all because it was the season of new life and vigor.

We are not simply carrying out the thought of their joyousness in our celebration. The thing that maters most to us is that our Divine Lord proved the truth of his promises to men by breaking the bars of death on that day.

The assurance of this fact inspirited His disciples. They were beginning to disband, but the certitude they possessed of the resurrection of their Master held them together in a firmer bond and the Christian church was established. The Christian church of today is the great evidence of the truth of the resurrection, for the Lord's disciples at the crucifixion were in no condition of mind to establish a church.

"The Lord is risen indeed," is the message that brings assurance to us of our future. Death can have no permanent dominion over us or over those we have "loved long since and lost awhile."

Come with me in thought to a little island off the coast of Asia Minor, in the Aegean Sea, a little island called Pasmos, amid a group of islands that are beautiful for situation. See there a lonely man who was the beloved disciple of the Lord. Listen as he tells the wonderful vision he had of the Lord's appearance to him. This is the Lord's word to him, "I am the Living One, and was dead, and behold I am alive forevermore." Note the position of that little phrase "was dead." It is just for a moment, and then life forevermore. Now read on, "and I have the keys of death and the unseen world." Why? "To open the gates of a new life to thee." When Christmas Evans, the Welsh Evangelist, was dying, he waved his hand and said, "Good-bye, drive on." Why this certainty of hope? He believed the word of his Lord.

In the Stranger's Tomb in the cemetery at Stonington, Conn., there is this significant inscription in gilded lettering on the great stone door, taken from Pilgrim's Progress:

"They laid the Pilgrim in a chamber whose window opened toward the sunrising; the name of the chamber was peace; where he slept till the break of day, and then he awoke and sang."

This confidence is based on the reality of the resurrection of Jesus.

DR. CHAS. EATON WRITES OF WILSON

HAS A GREAT RECORD

Watchung Resident, Writing for Toronto Paper, Analyzes Situation and Predicts End of Period of Public Adulation.

Rev. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, in New York, and a resident of Watchung, has been given a roving commission by the Toronto Daily News, to write articles regarding American topics which may be of interest to Canadians. One of the most recent of these was highly interesting and dealing with the career and accomplishments of President Wilson. The article, which appeared under a New York date line, is of much interest in Plainfield because of Dr. Eaton's many friends in this city. It follows:

The political career of President Wilson reads like a romance. Less than four years ago he was president of Princeton University, and had never held public office. Since then he has served for two years as Governor of the State of New Jersey, and has just closed his first year as President of the United States.

* * * *

There is no doubt that Mr. Wilson had long cherished a desire for a political career. His studies in history and economics; his long and arduous experience in administering the difficult affairs of a great university; his wide popularity as a speaker on public issues; all entered into his equipment for the work of a statesman.

* * * *

Being a college president is not synonomous with flowery beds of ease, and Mr. Wilson found his task at Princeton no exception to the general rule. Perhaps it was providential that the nomination for the Governorship of New Jersey should have been offered him at the very time when some of his cherished plans for the university had been rejected. At any rate, he stepped from the struggle incident to his university work into the political arena, and at a single bound reached the Governor's chair.

* * * *

New Jersey has never had a greater Chief Magistrate. From his first hour of office until his resignation he was the real head of the State, as well as the real leader of his party. Professional political prophets were assured that his lack of experience would render him an easy prey to the forces of partisanship, privilege and graft. The Democratic boss of New Jersey was Mr. James Smith. It was a serious shock to Mr. Smith to discover that the "school master," as Mr. Wilson is called by his enemies, should be able to hold his own in the game of politics, and the shock became almost fatal when Mr. Wilson not only held his own, but put Mr. Smith and his cohorts to ignominious flight. In fact, this gentleman, who had spent his life in the alleged calm of the schools, seemed to take to politics like a duck to water. What other men acquire of political wisdom by years of experience, he seemed to know by intuition. In two years he lifted the State of New Jersey from the bottomless pit of hireling politics and set her government upon the solid rock of popular control. His chief weapon was publicity. He would have nothing to do with hole-and-corner methods. He gave his reasons for any line of action frankly to the people. He made his friends and enemies do the same. He showed at once extraordinary intellectual and tactical capacity; so that he was easily master of every situation as it arose.

* * * *

At the Baltimore convention he could not have been nominated but for the heroic methods adopted by William Jennings Bryan. It is within the truth to say that Mr. Wilson owed his nomination to Mr. Bryan, and that he recognizes the debt even at the present time.

* * * *

Great as a Governor, Mr. Wilson has been greater as President. He has done what no other President of modern times was able to do—kept his party pledges to the letter. The country elected him on a platform of tariff and currency reform. Within a year of taking office he has caused to be put upon the statute books a new tariff law, a new currency law, and a brand new income tax law. The latter is a good deal of a Chinese puzzle. But the currency bill is probably the most important piece of finished legislation which Congress has enacted since the Civil War. It is usually conceded that these fundamental reforms have been enacted into law through the personal influence of the President. Whatever may happen to him in the future, the brilliant achievements of his first year will distinguish his term as one of the most important in the country's history.

The time of the eclipse of Mr. Wilson is about due. A democracy alternates between idolatry and assassination in its attitude towards its big men. Mr. Wilson has enjoyed popularity in every section of the country. While it has not taken the form of flag-waving and shouting, characteristic of the Roosevelt regime, it has been none the less real. But a reaction is beginning. Mr. Wilson has been too successful. The free and intelligent electors will see to it that his joys are properly diluted from now on. His first trouble is Mexico. No one can see any way out except to take each day as it comes. Very few in this country favor armed intervention. While there is abundance of criticism, there seems to be a poverty of suggestion as to what ought to be done. Whatever Mr. Wilson may do with reference to Mexico he will wish that he had done something else. That country is convulsed with hate, and is fast lapsing into barbarism. It cannot be judged, and probably it cannot be administered by standards familiar to the Saxon mind.

* * * *

Mr. Wilson, in addition to the Mexican tangle, has taken the stand that this country ought to observe its treaty obligations with reference to the Panama tolls. In this position he is supported by the best men of all parties in the country; but the professional saviours of the country are seeing red lights, and the old flag is being unfurled. One bellicose Senator on Washington's Birthday assured his awe-struck hearers that if we must fight for our rights, we had better begin now. The Senator made a "hit," judging by the uproarious laughter which his patriotic appeal has evoked.

* * * *

Another reason why Mr. Wilson will soon taste the bitter waters of criticism is the rather absurd fact that his secretary is a Roman Catholic. Justly or unjustly, there are great numbers of people in every section of this country, who believe that the Roman Catholic hierarchy is steadily advancing in political influence, and the belief is growing that the Wilson Administration is for some unaccountable reason peculiarly amenable to this influence.

The Democratic party, for the first time in many years, accomplished a solidarity of sentiment and conviction which made the election of Wilson possible. Having reached the seat of power, and being now charged with the responsibilities of government, dissensions are beginning to appear. The fundamental antagonism between the Progressives and Stand-Patters lies hidden in the Democratic party, as it was hidden in the Republican. We shall probably see a re-alignment of political parties here within the next decade—the Progressives from both of the old organizations forming the new Liberals, while the Stand-Patters, both Democratic and Republican will unite as the new Conservatives.

The key to Mr. Wilson's public policy may be found in his conviction that private morals and public morals was one and the same thing. This was why he refused to recognize Huerta as President of Mexico. If Mr. Huerta had been his neighbor and had taken possession of another neighbor's farm by the process of murder, Mr. Wilson would have called the transaction murder and theft. When Huerta reached the President's chair in Mexico by the bloody pathway of assassination, Mr. Wilson described the process as murder. He is convinced that it would be as wrong for his country to recognize a murderer as the ruler of another nation as it would have been for him personally to recognize the murderer in any private capacity.

* * * *

It is notorious that such a view is opposed to the best diplomatic conditions of the past centuries. The European nation is that a government is an entity distinguished from the personal character of those who fill its positions. On this assumption, Huerta would be recognized as President of Mexico, while as a man he would be execrated. Mr. Wilson does not think it possible to separate the President from the man.

* * * *

We are in the age, the golden age of human politics. True we are still groping half blinded by the light. Many of us are still sighing for the good old days when the rights of property were paramount; but in Democratic countries from now on no law will be enacted in the interests of property unless, at the same time, it proves to be in the interests of humanity. Whatever happens to our material possessions, the quality of our citizenship is the most important question before the nation. Mr. Wilson speaks for the new time. He and those who stand with him from all parties and creeds, are blazing a pathway for generations to come. They will make serious mistakes, and perhaps be allied with some injustice; but on the whole they are leading us into a new time when men will once more assume their rightful supremacy over things.

BROWN UNIVERSITY CLUB WILL PRESENT PLAY HERE

The Sock and Bustin Dramatic Club, of Brown University, will present "You Never Can Tell" in the auditorium of the Park Club, Monday night. This play has been given in Providence and other cities and has been a pronounced success. The members of the cast are all Brown University students and they were secured to appear in this city in connection with their Easter recess trip.

Following the play a dance will be held, music being furnished by Van Eps' orchestra. Eynon White is in charge of the presentation of the play here.

EVANGELIST TRACED THE SCARLET LINE OF PROPHECY

A large congregation again greeted R. M. Honeyman, the evangelist at Hope Chapel last night, when the speaker traced the scarlet line of prophecy as it points to the cross through the Old Testament. Mr. Honeyman spoke at length on the substitution of Christ, the perfect, for the many imperfect, making one of the greatest sacrifices ever recorded in history.

Through all the ages, both before and after the crucifixion, the scarlet line runs through history, said the speaker, pointing to the great cross which has effected the life of all humanity. Yet, in the face of all this, ingratitude prevails in the case as in many other walks of life. Indifference to the accomplished work of Christ still remains in our midst, as in the years gone by. Human nature rules in these respects to such a great extent. However, the message of the cross still holds good today." Six responded to the invitation to raise their hands, asking for prayers.

JAMES L. MUNDY PASSES AWAY AFTER LONG ILLNESS

James L. Mundy, an old resident of Plainfield, and formerly salesman for the late James M. Dunn and George W. Rockfellow in the grocery business, died last night, following a long illness with rheumatism and heart trouble. Mr. Mundy had lived in Plainfield, practically all his life. During the Civil War he enlisted in Captain J. Frank Hubbard's company of the Thirtieth Regiment, N. J. Vols., in which there were many Plainfielders.

Mr. Mundy is survived by a wife and two sons, Clarence Mundy, of Boston and Herbert Mundy, of Newark. The funeral will be held at Trinity Reformed church, Monday morning at 11 o'clock, and the burial will be in North Plainfield cemetery. All veterans are invited to attend.

TELLS "THE STORY OF THE CROSS" IN SONG

"The Story of the Cross," was the subject of the service conducted by Prof. B. P. Stout at the Park Avenue Baptist church, last night. The attendance was so large that it was necessary to open the Bible School room. The entire evening was given up to the gospel singer, whose selections all bore on the crucifixion of Christ, which was pictured vividly in the songs which he sang.

Prof. Stout will close his services at the church tomorrow and both he and Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire are looking forward to a day of great blessing. Mr. Maguire and Mr. Stout will have charge of the Bible School session at 9:45 o'clock in the morning and at the 11 o'clock service Mr. Stout will sing several songs. In the evening he will sing, "The Three Calls," "Harvest Time" and other selections. At the close of the service there will be baptism. The Young People's meeting at 7:10 will be led by Walter Weber. Prof. Stout will sing and William N. Runyon will be at the piano.

HAS GREAT CHARMS

its future as assured as that of Jacksonville, St. Petersburg (called by the Tampa people "St. Pete") is a cross between Atlantic City and Asbury Park. Somewhat over extended and speculative, a great playground for northern people in winter and those nearby in summer and conventions aplenty all the year. Belleair, with its beautiful and commodious hotels, extensive grounds, and splendidly maintained golf links, situated on an elevation over-looking the Gulf of Mexico, is the most finished product on the West coast and fully equal to anything in Florida.

But it was not of the ordinary travelled route that Mr. Rogers discoursed most freely. He had graduated from the tourist class and after months of patient study and first-hand information had come to a knowledge of the citrus fruit industry that qualified him to speak with a measure of authority. Coming, as it were, casually to Winter Haven and Florence Villa, known as the "Lake Regions," he had remained in residence, and seen his son established in business. Winter Haven, four years ago, a country cross-roads, surmounted by young orange groves, is now a flourishing town, with water, electric lights and other modern conveniences. It has a wide-awake Board of Trade and a Civic League organization of far-seeing, energetic women who are bound to do substantial things and stamp their character on Winter Haven's future.

Florence Villa Hotel, called the Plantation Home, about a mile away, is charmingly located among groves at the head of a chain of lakes, and filled with guests in winter who return year after year, among whom are some well known Plainfielders. Situated in the heart of Polk county, embosomed among a hundred crystal lakes, at an elevation of two hundred feet above tide water, it has enjoyed immunity from the frosts that have occasionally visited other sections of Florida, and once brought the whole State to the verge of ruin. For example, there are trees standing which went through the great freeze of 1890 practically uninjured, and in the present winter (an exceptionally cold one, as we well known), while vegetation was injured and truck gardens frozen as far South as Miami, no slightest touch of frost visited this highly-favored region. Even the more sensitive limes, lemons and tender vegetables, were never for a moment threatened. It is pretty generally conceded that nowhere else in the State do citrus trees bear such heavy crops, between one and two tons of grape-fruit on a tree being no uncommon sight. Here also are located the great citrus nurseries.

Mr. Rogers then went on to describe the modern scientific methods of fertilizing, so that the orange and grape-fruit trees can be made to lie dormant during the winter months secure in their sleep against any probable temperature, and then awake into quick and wonderful growth. He spoke of the romance attaching to the orange grove, of the interest never failing in the care and culture of citrus fruits in general, of the profits both actual and possible, of the many people from the North who are finding out how to live, that is to work eight months amid most agreeable surroundings and then loaf four months up North. Especially was this true of Florence Villa, the home of the Inmans, the plantation settled and developed by the late Dr. Inman formerly from Akron, Ohio, father of the citrus fruit industry in the Lake Region and originator of the great State-wide system of packing house and fruit exchange, known as the "Florida Citrus Exchange," a boon to the growers of all Florida, it being a means of washing, grading, packing and marketing by scientific methods which secures a minimum of loss by decay and bad accounts and assures to the northern purchaser a reliable guarantee behind its trade-mark.

Men of means have recognized the promise and value of the situation and have made large investment of capital, some with a view to personal residence, some for the purpoce of settling their sons in congenial out-door employment, and some for investment purposes pure and simple. Among the last are some Plainfield citizens. Said Mr Rogers:

"I cannot help being a convert, indeed an enthusiastic Floridian. I have seen with my own eyes seen groves paying for themselves in four years, seen acres upon acres returning twenty, thirty per cent. and more upon capital invested, seen men grow brown and happy and healthy, seen young married people living the finest life in the world. I've learned a lot of things, and met a lot of intelligent, big hearted men and women from all over the United States. It all looks good to me. Yes, I expect to go back before cold weather comes again."

ANTI-SUFFRAGE LUNCHEON.

Local members of the Anti-Suffrage organization will attend the big "get together" luncheon which is to be held in New York next Tuesday, at which time Mrs. Grace Duffield Goodwin, of Westfield, will be the guest of honor, and Edward Sanford Martin one of the speakers. Among the Plainfield people who will be present will be Mrs. Sherman B. Joost, president of the league; Miss Florence Tweedy, Mrs. Matthew Swart, Mrs. John Constable Moore and Miss Laura Osgood.

TO OPEN FAITH CHAPEL.

Faith chapel, which Martin A. Korff has been instrumental in establishing at the corner of Mountain avenue and Francis place, will be formally opened and dedicated tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, at which time its management will be turned over to the Netherwood Reformed church. A cordial invitation is extended to all the friends who have made it possible to establish this mission, as well as any others who may be interested.

RELEASE COPPENHAVEN FROM TOMBS PRISON

Following his exoneration on the charge of being in some way connected with the Ruth Naylor abduction case, Thomas Coppenhaven, of Sunbury, Pa., was released from the Tombs prison, this morning. When the girl's disappearance was first reported John Naylor, her father, alleged that Coppenhaven was the abductor and had him arrested and held for extradition to New Jersey. The arrest of Lynus Walpole and the finding of the girl with subsequent confessions has vindicated Coppenhaven, however, and the father went to the New York court this morning, to ask for the prisoner's release. Coppenhaven had been paying attentions to the Naylor girl for some months prior to her disappearance and was a visitor at the home the night before she disappeared from the premises of the Stillman Grammar School, where she was a pupil.

Chief Kiely has in his possession a packet of letters alleged to have been written by Coppenhaven to the Naylor girl, who is but fifteen years of age, which would have been used for evidence had the prisoner been found guilty of the deed. He has been held a prisoner in the Tombs since Sunday on a complaint lodged by Mr. Naylor, denying any knowledge of the crime from the first.

When arrested he was living in a boarding house in West 186th street, New York, having been located by the local authorities through a letter he forwarded to the mother of the girl Saturday afternoon, requesting that his mail be sent to the New York address. The prisoner was put through a severe grilling by the police following his apprehension but his story of having no connection with the case could not be shaken.

COURT WARREN GIVES UP ITS CHARTER

Unable to Continue Successfully Members Decide to Suspend.

The members of Court Warren, No. 4978, Independent Order of Foresters, at a special meeting held in their hall at Mt. Bethel, Thursday night, after a considerable discussion decided to suspend operations and close up their affairs, that being decided as the most advisable thing to do under the circumstances. Attendance at the meetings had fallen off, because of the fact that the members are busy with farm work and many of the offices had become vacant because members had taken positions in the city.

John H. Cooper, who became associated with a New York restaurant and Peter J. Reinmann, past chief ranger, who joined his brother, Ernest, of Oak Tree, in the contracting business, were both forced to resign. No suitable successors could be found who were willing to take up the work, so all present thought it best to give up and join other courts. Grover P. Kipsey, past chief ranger, presided at the meeting. The accounts of the financial secretary, Herbert A. Toms and those of Benjamin Harrison, treasurer, were carefully audited and found to be corect. All outstanding bills were paid and the balance and paraphernalia ordered sent to the supreme court at Toronto. The court was organized April 2, 1913, at Mt. Bethel, by State Organizer Bingham, of Elizabeth.

GOOD FRIDAY SERVICE HELD AT WARREN CHAPEL

A large number of worshippers attended the Good Friday service, last night, in Warren chapel. Rev. J. A. McKelvey was in charge and during the meeting spoke on the events surrounding the trial and crucifixion of Christ. His theme was "The Seven Great Phrases." These were the words spoken by Christ while hanging on the Cross. The pastor spoke of the need of the world to observe Good Friday more than it does at the present time. The first phrase, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do," was explained by the speaker, and the idea of forgiveness was forcibly brought out. The six other phrases, "Verily, I say unto thee, today shalt thou be with me in Paradise," "Woman, behold, thy son:," "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me," "I thirst," "It is finished, and "Father, into thy hands, I commend my spirit," were discussed and explained by different men present with the thought of the humanity of Jesus being shown in each.

"HUMANAPHONE" CONCERT.

"Humanaphone" is the word. A very unique and entertaining concert will be given at Vincent chapel of the First M. E. church on Friday evening, April 17, by the Epworth League. There will be sixteen assisting artists and the program promises to be unusually attractive. A nominal admission fee will be charged.

Reo the Fifth 1914 Model $1,175 Equipped

Now $220 Less

Note that Reo the Fifth—Mr. Olds' great car—sells at a new price this year. We have saved you 16 per cent. on the car, equipped.

Some parts—like tires and electric starter—cost us less this year. But most of this saving comes from the fact that all special machinery for building this model has been charged against previous output.

And note that this car—at $220 less—has

The new streamline body.
Electric starter and lights.
A 35-horsepower engine.
Oversize tires—34x4.
Dimming searchlights.
One-rod control.

The Car That Stays New

Nobody doubts that Reo the Fifth is the best built car in its class. It embodies all Mr. Olds' extremes, based on 27 years of car building.

It takes six weeks to build each car, because of the utter exactness, the countless tests and inspections.

The steel is twice analyzed. The gears are tested for 75,000 pounds per tooth, the springs for 100,000 vibrations.

The car has 15 roller bearings, 190 drop forgings. It has a costly clutch which prohibits all gear clashing. It has the simplest gear-shift in the world.

All driving parts are built one-half stronger than necessary—built to meet the requirements of a 50-horsepower engine.

10,000-MILE TESTS

Test cars with this chassis have for years been kept running at high speed night and day on rough roads. After 10,000 miles of reckless driving the test car is taken apart, and every driving part is required to show up in almost perfect condition.

No other modest priced car has ever been built in this slow careful, costly way. But the result is a car that stays new. It saves the average user hundreds of dollars in troubles, repairs and upkeep.

Men who know are buying cars like this. The spring demand is always twice the factory output. March sales have broken every record.

We urge men who may want this honest car to come and see it now.

SCOOP HELPS SNOOP UNCORK A BIG STORY

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

Basketball fans who have remained loyal to the court sport until this time of the spring will be treated to an unusually fine exhibition on the Y. M. C. A. court tonight when the Association and Scotch Plains fives meet in the second contest of a three game series. Scotch Plains won the first by two points in one of the most spectacular games ever waged on a local court and the game tonight gives promise of being a repitition of the initial encounter. Two new faces will appear in the Y. M. C. A. lineup to replace the Gavett brothers, but it is thought that this shift will add rather than detract from the strength of the Plainfield quintet.

The reorganization of the Saurer baseball team for the coming season assures us of some more of the City League stuff. Last year the schedule was played rather irregularly during the latter part of the season and interest appeared to be lagging in the camps of several of the aggregations. It was thought at that time that the organization would go out of business permanently but there is a movement on foot at the present time to awaken enthusiasm in the league once more.

There was no change coming to that Bank team after Plainfield High School baseball players got through pounding out hits and circling the bases yesterday. The financiers were easy for the High School youths and taken as a whole the curtain raiser was a ripping triumph for the P. H. S. clan. Now that they've started off with the win habit the red and blue cohorts will probably expect nothing less in the future.

Some day for baseball. Local managers are losing valuable time in not taking advantage of the ideal weather conditions we are having at the present time. Haven't heard a murmur in the Plainfield camp. 'Smatter, Dorflinger?

Jack Martin, Eugene Lidgate and Carl Johnson, the league boys in whom we are most interested, are keeping pretty well under cover just at this time. Nothing has been heard from any of the trio in the last week.

"Nibs" Hand and "Warhorse" McLaughlin are slated to do mound duty for the Trenton Club tomorrow afternoon. But we notice that Cliff Randolph's name does not appear in the Suburban lineup which will furnish the opposition. That Atlantic League job is evidently a paying proposition for Cliff.

SOON TO HEAR THE CLICKING OF TURNSTILE

Greatest Baseball Show on Earth Opens Next Week Tuesday.

New York, April 11.—"Score cards!" "Peanuts, five a bag," "Get the correct batting order," "Cigars, cigarettes and chewing gum."

The old familiar spiels will be heard again in the major league cities when the "greatest baseball show on earth" opens next week for the season of 1914.

The big show is to be a three-ring affair this season, if the confident predictions made by the Federal League promoters are fulfilled. The American and National League magnates intimate their belief that it will be the same old two-ring exhibition with a side show as an added attraction.

The baseball public seems inclined to credit the Federal League with possessing big league qualifications. The new organization certainly has shown itself to be a husky infant and the way it has trundled over major league territory and tagged the major league players has rather caught the fancy of the fans.

With an utter disregard for the very elements of superstition the Federals have decided to open their first season on the thirteenth day of the month. The curtain-raising stunt will be staged at Baltimore, where the Buffalo team will line up against Otto Knabe's Terrapins. A day or two later the other teams of the new league will get under way.

In the Federal League there is no dope in the way of past performances on which to base a prediction as to the outcome of the pennant race. Consequently all such predictions and forecasts could be little better than guesswork.

A slant at the Johnson and Tener combinations is sufficient to start the calculating machines a-rattling. To begin with, nine out of every ten of the fans probably pick the Athletics to run away with the American League flag and the Giants as the winners in the National League race. There is no denying that so far as the Athletics are concerned the dope looks good, although the Washington team, with the great Walter Johnson doing the bulk of the twirling, may upset the beans.

The chances for the Giants to romp in a winner this year are considerably lessened by Shafer being out of the game. The Pittsburgh Pirates are generally picked to give the Giants a hard tussle for the rag. With Konetchy, the former Cardinal star, at first, Vlox at second, the wonderful Wagner at short and Mowrey at third, the Pirates appear to have a combination that will make the Giants step some from the first tap of the bell.

With Shortstop Heine Wagner and Pitcher Joe Wood on the hospital list, the Boston Red Sox will start the season under a serious handicap. When the two stars are again able to play the Red Sox doubtless will give a good account of themselves.

The Brooklyn Superbas, under the management of the veteran Wilbert Robinson, are being touted as a real surprise package. "Robbie" has had the experience and it will be up to him to show the Brooklyn fans what he knows about creating a winner.

The White Sox rooters expect the Callahan crew to keep well up among the pennant contenders. The early recovery of Ray Schalk and Larry Chappell, the spectacular work of Hal Chase and the return to form of "Big Ed" Walsh form the basis for their calculations. Without the services of these brilliant performers it is hard to figure the Sox in the running.

With a new president, a new manager, a new captain and a new second baseman, the famous old Cub machine has become a thing of the past. Hank O'Day has succeeded Johnny Evers as manager and Bill Sweeney is expected to show the goods in Evers' old position at second base.

Charley Herzog has a likely looking bunch of Cincinnati Reds and may be able to land his team in the first division. The loss of Chapman, who is out of the game nursing an injured leg, is likely to handicap the Cleveland Naps at the getaway.

Though nearly shot to pieces by the desertion of players to the Feds, the Phillies have a number of promising youngsters who may be able to bring the Dooin Daisies into the limelight.

Manager George Stallings has his Boston Braves all tuned up and will make a strong bid for place among the first four teams.

Unless Manager Chance can develop one or two real ball tossers among his recruits the Yankees will be up against it again this season. And how about St. Louis? Well, the tip has gone forth that the Browns and Cardinals are prepared to put over anything short of homicide to break out of the cellar.

CHURCH LEAGUE STARTS MAY 16

Opening Date Decided Upon at a Meeting of the Board Last Night.

J. H. CRANE PRESIDENT

Four Teams Will Fight for Championship—Trinity a New Entry—Bound Brook and Westfield Eliminated From Consideration.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Sunday-School League, held in the parlors of the Y. M. C. A., last night, final arrangements were made and the election of officers for the coming year was completed. There were representatives from four schools of this city and as a consequence a four-team league will be formed. Three of the aggregations were in the race last year and finished in one, two, three order. Trinity will be the only new team in the league and the other three are are First Baptist, Hope Chapel and Monroe Avenue schools. The Park Avenue Baptist has decided to play independent ball and the First Presbyterian could not organize a team.

At the meeting last night, J. Henry Crane, the First Baptist representative was elected president, and J. R. McCormick, as the delegate from the Monroe Avenue church was chosen vice-president. Fred Smith, of the Trinity Sunday-school, is the secretary and treasurer. The new president succeeds F. O Dunning, who was president of the board last year. Mr. Crane appoined J. R. McCormick and James Penny, the latter of Hope Chapel, as a committee to make up the schedule and to look for umpires for the league. It was decided to start the league on Saturday, May 16, and each team will play twelve games which will bring the season to a close the latter part of August, allowing for postponed games. A resolution was passed last night to the effect that no player that participated in any Sunday baseball would be eligible as a player in the league.

There has been much talk about teams from Westfield and Bound Brook seeking admission to the league, but as there was no application made last night these teams must have thought better of the matter. The outlook for the present season is very bright and it should be the best year that the league has ever had. Three of the teams that will fight are known by the reputation that they made last year and the Trinity nine is going in it to be on the top at the finish. The Baptist and Hape Chapel teams will share the West End field and the schedule will be made so that there will be no conflictions. Monroe Avenue will use their own field on Clinton avenue and Trinity will play on the Cricket Field. All of these are in good shape and fast games can be looked for as far as the diamonds go. No trophy has as yet been offered but some local merchant will undoubtedly put one up before the season opens. The next meeting of the board will be held April 24 in the Y. M. C. A. parlors.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—What Congressional district are we in?—J. D. T.

Answer—The Fifth Congressional District includes Plainfield.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Have renewed acquaintance with a young man in a different city. Would it be proper for me to ask him to come and see me in Plainfield or should I wait until he adjusts it himself?—X. Y. Z.

Answer—Most emphatically you should wait until he asks permission to call. Don't be anxious.

Sporting Editor:

Query—A few days ago I ran across the statement that the United States notes are public tender in the payment of all debts, public and private, except for duties on imports and interest on the public debt. Why not on imports and interest on the public debt?—G. K. L.

Answer—United States notes are its promises to redeem in gold or silver such notes when presented to the United States Treasury through the banks or in person. They circulate as money in all business transactions because they have the credit of the United States government behind them. You cannot pay duties on imports, nor interest on public debt, with the government's promissory notes. The actual gold coin (gold being the money standard) must be paid into the United States Treasury.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where can I get the history of the Central Railroad for composition purposes?—K. D. R.

Answer—The Public Library has the information you want.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Please state if an attempt will be made to raise the Titanic with magnets? Do they know how much water she sank in? J. S.

Answer—There has been some talk of raising the ship by this method, but nothing definite has been done as yet. The ship sank in a spot estimated to be two miles deep. The exact depth is not a matter of record.

COURT DECLARES RESERVE CLAUSE LEGALLY INVALID

The reserve clause in baseball contracts which include a ten days' notice section is legally invalid. That is the gist of the decision handed down by Federal Judge Clarence W. Sessions in the Killifer case in the United States District Court at Grand Rapids, Mich., yesterday afternoon.

Although the application of the Chicago Federal League Club for an injunction to restrain William Killifer from playing with the Philadelphia Club of the National League was denied, Judge Sessions' opinion held that the reserve clause of Killifer's 1913 contract was not valid under the law.

NEW AUTO RACE TRACK.

Lakewood, April 11—An automobile race track and an airdrome suitable for the holding of either motor or airplane contests appears now to be assured for Lakewood. At a recent meeting of those interested in the project the matter of procuring suitable grounds for the track was discussed with representatives of the Bricksburg Land and Improvement Company. Another meeting is to be held today, and it is expected that then the plans will be definitely announced. About $20,000 has already been pledged for the enterprise.

READING ACADEMY AT N. P. H. S.

The North Plainfield High School baseball team will meet one of its oldest rivals on Hyde Oval, Monday afternoon, when the Reading Academy nine of Flemington, will appear. Athletic relations have always been strong between these two schools and last year the boroughites were trounced by their opponents. As there was no game today the locals had a hard practice this morning and will witness the Plainfield-Camp Bowser game this afternoon.

MC LAUGHLIN WILL PITCH.

The Suburban A. A., of New York, opens its season tomorow with the Trenton club at New York. "Warry" McLaughlin will be on the mound for the visitors. He pitched for this team last week and lost out by one run in the ninth. "Nibs" Hand will do the catching.

THE DAILY PRESS IN SOMERVILLE will be found on sale or delivered to any address every afternoon after 4:30 by Jacob Gernert, the Main street newsdealer and stationer.

DOCTORS-DENTISTS GAME FOR JUNE 13

Annual Baseball Struggle Between Local Professional Men on Parker Field.

The annual baseball game between the local doctors and ministers will played on Parker Field, Saturday afternoon, June 13, this year. As has been the custom since the yearly contest was introduced the proceeds will be turned over to the hospital.

Last year the struggle became so complicated in the last few innings of an overtime contest that the pill dispensers and tooth pullers agreed to conclude hostilities by calling matters a tie.

JORDAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE.

The Toronto team of the International League came near losing one of its best players when Tim Jordan, who played first base for Jack Martin's All-Stars here last fall, was injured on the way to the ball field in Texas yesterday. He was riding in a trolley car with a teammate when a baseball was hit through a window near him and sent showers of glass into his face. The ball was hit by a boy who was playing in a nearby field. The glass struck him around the eyes but he was not hurt, save for a few scratches. His companion was also struck but was uninjured. Those who witnessed the scene considered it a great wonder that Jordan escaped as he did.

HERE'S SOME RECORD.

During the past season the Scotch Plains Parish House second basketball team has played fifty-six contests according to Captain Murray Hall. Of this schedule more than fifty per cent. of the contests have resulted in victories.

DUTCH ATMOSPHERE FEATURE OF DANCE

Unity Circle Making Great Arrangements for Entertainment Next Thursday.

Since the announcement was made last week that the annual dinner and dance of the Unity Circle, of the local King's Daughters, to be held in the Park Club on Tuesday evening, was to be a thoroughly Dutch affair, Miss Audrey Gernon, president of the circle, has been beseiged with questions. The queries are all concerning one subject and that is "Do we have to do Dutch dances?"

Miss Gernon, when asked who started the rumor that Dutch dancing was to be the latest style in Plainfield, smiled, and said, "Why it's so absurd. Of course we expect to have the whole affair in Dutch style and I suppose that someone took it that everything was to be of Holland origin. I don't know much about Dutch dancing myself but from the little I have heard, it seems to be an uninteresting diversion. It is the plan of the circle to have the dance one of the features of the evening and consequently we want to make it just as enjoyable as possible. Such being the case, I hardly imagine there will be any Dutch dances, especially since the music is to be by the VanEpps brothers and everyone knows that to their rhythm only the newer dances would be in order."

The members of the circle are planning to make the affair one of the most enjoyable of its kind this season. Arrangements have been made to admit people to the dance who will not be able to come to the dinner.

Last year the circle distinguished itself for the delicious things to eat as well as the timely music. No effort is being spared to make the Dutch costumes and decorations comply with the life and customs of the inhabitants of Holland.

Those attending the affair will be treated as tourists of the Netherlands and also as contributors to many local charfities in which work the money raised is to be expended.

The Dutch company of charity workers is composed of the following

Bessie Alpaugh, Mrs. A. G. Baurer, Kate Barlow, Mary Barlow, Gertrude Bowlby, Marguerite Bleninger, Katherine Browne, Marjorie Brown, Marjorie Corbett, Sylvia Curtis, Eleanor DeGraff, Katherine Drayton, Barbara Fleming, Audrey Gernon, Katherine Ginna, Gwendolen Gough, Helen Harrington, Marjorie Harris, Rae Harris, Beatrice Hedges, Alverda Holland, Abby Holstein, Helen Hyde, Frances Iredell, Eleanor Iredell, Helen Joy, Margaret Leggett, Elizabeth McGee, Mrs. Burnett B. Pettigrew, Marguerite Ramsey, Marion Rocap, Helen Rogers, Mary Rushmore, Alice Smith, Marion Snyder, Ruth Timpson, Mrs. Harold Underhill, Jean Wharton, Anna Yerkes.

FRANK LANGWORTHY GIVEN TESTIMONIAL BY EMPLOYES

Frank Langworthy, until recently foreman for the Spicer Universal Joint Company, was tendered a surprise party by a number of his former associates in his home on Orchard place, last night. Mr. Langworthy was conected with the Spicer plant for five and one half years during which he held the highest esteem of the men in the shop.

During the evening he was presented with a solid gold watch fob, the gift of the men in his department. Several of those present made short speeches in which they commented on Mr. Langworthy's ability and praised him for the work accomplished during the time he was at the head of the department.

PROF. H. R. LEWIS WILL ADDRESS POULTRY FANCIERS

The New Jersey Association for Poultry Improvement will hold an important meeting Wednesday evening, at the Exempt Firemen's Hall, when several recommendations of the executive committee will be presented for action.

Prof H. R. Lewis, of the New Jersey Experimental Station at New Brunswick, will deliver a lecture which will be instructive as well as interesting. A campaign for an increase in membership is being planned for May, June and July. The fixing of the time and place of the poultry show next fall will doubtless come before the meeting for final action.

TWELFTH ANNUAL CONGRESS.

A call has been issued for the twelfth annual congress of the N. J. State Building Trades Council to be held at Temple Hall, Camden, May 4 and 5. The call is signed by President John T. Cosgrove and Secretary Henry Sands.

CLAN MACKENZIE MEETING.

Clan Mackenzie, No. 204, Order Scottish Clans, will meet Monday night. A full attendance is desired as the royal deputy of the State, James McMaster, of Elizabeth, and others will be present.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. D. B. F. Randolph, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, will preach tomorrow morning on "The ology of Christ's Resurrection." At the evening service, he will have for his subject, "The Risen Christ."

Rev. Charles E. Herring will preach two Easter sermons tomorrow. Subject in the morning, "My Lord;" at the evening service, "If Christ be not Risen."

Sunrise services will be held tomorrow morning at 7 o'clock at the Monroe Avenue M. E., Trinity Reformed and the Scotch Plains M. E. church.

Rev. E. W. Roberts, of the Shiloh Baptist church will preach tomorrow morning on "The Resurrection." The Easter program will be in charge of a committee of women.

Warren Chapel Sunday school will meet tomorrow at the hour of the morning service.

R. M. Honeyman, the evangelist, will speak at a meeting for men only at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon at 4:15. The subject announced is "Sowing to the Wind."

In place of the regular preaching service at the First Baptist church tomorrow evening, Mrs. Lucie Rising will deliver an illustrated lecture on the Holy Land. Miss Violet Jewell, cornetist, will assist at this service.

The sermon subjects of Rev. D. Y. Campbell, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, tomoorrow, will be "The Power of the Resurrection," at the morning service, and "The True Life" at the evening.

PERSONAL.

Miss Pauline Luria, of Philadelphia, is spending the week with her sister, Mrs. George Berse, of East Fifth street.

James Nash has returned from Temple University to spend Easter week.

Miss Louise K. Greene, of Montclair, and Mrs. Orville Stillman, of Westerly, R. I., are visiting their sister, Mrs. F. St. John Fitch, of Park avenue.

Wm. Ramsey, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. V. Ramsey, of East Second street, who has been ill at Muhlenberg Hospital, is said to be improving.

J. Arthur McVoy, of West Fourth street, left last night for New York, where he will spend his Easter vacation with his aunt, Mrs. George Barlow.

FUNERAL OF GEO. SCHAFFER.

The funeral of George Schaffer, who died at the State Hospital at Morris Plains on Wednesday, was held this morning from the home of his sister, Mrs. Patrick Kellegher, on Manning avenue, and at 10:30 from St. Joseph's R. C. church, the borough. Rev. Father Miller officiated. The bearers were Richard Boyce, John Hughes, John Fuchs, Jeremiah Paoli, Clarence Schiemer and Michael Hellriagle. The interment was made at St. Mary's cemetery.

St. Joseph's Church.

The young women's choir of St. Joseph's church, assisted by Madame Schaffer Beitinette, a soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and Mrs. Alfred Seidel, contralto, will render the following program of Easter music at the 8:30 o'clock mass tomorrow morning: "Hail Ye the King," Rossini; "Ye Bells of Easter Day," Dressler; "Hosanna," Granier; soprana solo, Madame Bettinette; trio, "Day of Days." Miss M. O'Connor is the organist.

H. A. McLEAN'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Harry A. McLean, of East Fourth street, was held at his residence, yesterday afternoon, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, of Grace Episcopal church, officiating. Beside a wife, Mrs. Elizabeth McLean, Mr. McLean was survived by three children, Fred, Viola and Myrtle McLean. The pall bearers were John Stroppel, Herbert Albert, William Albert and A. S. Jefferies. The interment was made at Evergreen cemetery.

FEATURE "MOVIES."

A five reel film will be shown at Proctors this afternoon and tonight, under the head, "Through Fire to Fortune." On Monday, a serial, "The Perils of Pauline," will be started at the local house, and an installment will be shown every two weks. Other films to appear here next week are, "Far Napoleon and France" and "Brewster's Millions."

ELABORATE DECORATIONS.

The display of flowers at the First Baptist church for the Easter decorations is the most elaborate in the history of the church, consisting of azealas, lilies, palms, etc., all from C. W. McCutchen's conservatories.

DANCE POSTPONED.

The Phi Phi Chi dance, which was to have been held in St. Stephens' Parish House next Monday night, has been postponed until Friday night, April 17.

News of Interest in Building World

PLAN STILL MORE RADICAL ATTACK

Single Taxers Plan to Place Burden on Land and Not Buildings.

While New York real estate owners are pluming themselves over the fact that they have just succeeded in beating the Herrick-Schaap bill in the Legislature, designed to double the tax on land in relation to that on buildings, the single taxers are about to start a new and much more radical campaign. They are going to work to take the tax entirely off of buildings and place it on land. Their theory is that terrified land owners, fearful of this worse calamity, will rush to sue for mercy and be glad to accept the "half-loaf" typified in the hitherto despised Herrick-Schaap bill, rather than be forced to the "no bread" condition now threatened.

They have also started a weekly. The new tax plan is thus explained. "The city doesn't need this year the revenue derived from buildings. A tax rate of $2.91 on land would yield all of this year's levy. Let us reduce the tax on buildings 10 per cent. a year for nine years and 9 per cent the tenth year. Then we will have a tax rate on buildings only 1-100th that on land and a lot of revenue. Let us also work for a referendum on this."

This scheme was launched at a "Dinner Council of War" held at the Hotel Grenoble.

The biggest thing of the evening so Mr. Leubuscher said, was a new publication just started by Benjamin C. Marsh—The Tenants' Weekly. This "four page infant," as Mr. Marsh explains is not intended to be either a money maker nor a money loser. It is to be supported by subscription and advertisements. It contains (among other things) a schedule of outdoor meetings for this week.

JUST NOTES

In reviewing the local real estate and building situation, a local agent is quoted as making the statement to the effect that there has been a greater demand for homes and home-sites since the first of January this year in and about Plainfield, than during the same period of the past six or seven years, in spite of the fact that the general condition of the money market was tight. "Furthermore," he stated, "the present indications are that the demand will continue for some time, as all those who have been seeking homes have not, as yet, been satisfied. Not only have the home-seekers ben looking for room, but one or two manufacturing concerns are today seeking for sites in this city. A couple of new shops coming to this city at this particular time would not only give the real estate of Plainfield a boost in the right direction, but the industrial situation would be relieved considerably."

ONLY FOUR PERMITS ISSUED DURING WEEK

They Call for An Expenditure of $8,975 for Dwelling and a Garage.

During the past week, four building permits have been issued by inspector T. O. Doane, calling for the expenditure of $8,975. One calls for the erection of two dwellings, one for a garage, and two for alterations. The permits are as noted below.

Second Ward.

George W. Ord will erect a cement hollow brick two story, 24x29 foot garage. The foundation will be of concrete, the roof to be of rubberoid. The floor and roof beams are of hemlock. The contractors handling the work are A. Meisner and A. A. Albert, the latter of Scotch Plains. The cost will be in the vicinity of $275.

Third Ward.

Joseph Clements will place a second floor over his store located at 307 West Fourth street. Theodore J. Zeller is the contractor for the work. The cost will be $500.

Fourth Ward.

Harry Taub will erect two two-family dwellings at 617-19-21 Sachar place at the cost of $4,000 each. The foundation wall will be of concrete the superstructure of hemlock, the foundation of brick and the roof will be shingled. Steam heat will be installed. W. H. Clum is the architect while Cohen & Israel will be the contractors.

E. C. Herzog will erect an eight and a half foot extension to his garage at 226 West Second street at the cost of $200. Henry H. Bohl will do the work.

BUILDING CONDITIONS IN THE BOROUGH

Eleven Permits Are Issued by Department During the Week.

While building trades have been improving in the building trades in this city, the borough has also enjoyed a similar experience. The following building permits have been issued by the borough authorities recently.

West of Somerset Street.

George Hummer, to erect a two and a half story dwelling on Duer street.

W. C. Kirchner to erect a garage on Duer street.

Lewis P. Holstein, to make additions to his buildings at 216 Grove street.

E. S. Waserhaus, to erect a chicken house in the rear of 31 Washington avenue.

East of Somerset Street.

Joseph Church, to erect a one story 15x20 foot garage at Watchung avenue and Chatham street.

Lewis Moraller, to erect a 12x16 foot garage at 44 Mountain avenue.

IN THE SUBURBS

The Klein Realty Company awarded a contract for the erection of seven stucco bungalows at Watchung to Morris Rabinowitz. The same concern is also erecting fifteen houses at Rahway.

J. Frank Knee, of Lincoln Heights, is erecting two new dwellings at Equator Park, Dunellen.

The alterations on Lincoln School, Dunellen, are now under way under the direction of J. Newton Apgar, the contractor.

The new pumping station of the Piscataway Water Company at Middlesex Borough is now practically completed and the machinery is being installed.

BUILDING CONDITIONS NOT YET NORMAL

Comparative Figures Show a Decrease Over That of Last Year.

While the building trades took a great spurt during the last few days in March, the compiling of figures comparing the conditions of this year with the same month of last year, it is discovered that the conditions have not yet reached their normal state.

The following figures explain themselves:

New Buildings.	Mch., 1914	Mch. 1913
First ward	$14,100	.....
Second ward	7,700	$25,700
Third ward	.....	27,400
Fourth ward	4,700	7,200
Total	$26,800	$60,300
Alterations.
First ward	$1,000	$ 450
Second ward	500	500
Third ward	.....	.....
Fourth ward	300	7,150
Totals	$1,800	$8,100

TITANIC figures symbolizing the four elements — Fire, Water, Earth, Air—will flank the descents to a vast sunken garden in the great Court of the Universe at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition.

Scale models of three of the figures —"Fire," "Earth" and "Air"—have reached San Francisco and are now being enlarged in the sculptural warehouses on the Exposition grounds. Of the three, "Fire" will perhaps most appeal to the popular imagination. A colossal figue, half supine, the personification of the fearful element seems vibrant with suppressed power and superhuman strength. The figure is as sinister as it is attractive. The menace of the fire god, which struck terror to the hearts of the ancients, is magnificently portrayed by the sculptor.

"Earth" is represented by the figure of a beautiful woman, classic and charming in its outlines; "Air," the remaining of the three figures to have reached San Francisco, portrays another figure floating high above the world. The figure symbolizing "Water" will shortly be completed by Robert J. Aitken, the brilliant American sculptor who was entrusted with the design of the titanic composition.

More than a score of the world's most famous sculptors assisted by hundreds of skilled artisans were engaged to create the heroic audience of white but silent figures that will be set in the great courts and upon the grounds of the Exposition. Sculpture will be more freely employed at San Francisco than at any former world's exposition, and the figures already in evidence promise that the world will enjoy the most beautiful and imaginative collection of sculptural works to be presented by contemporaneous artists.

NEEDLEWORK

By

MARGARET LAWRENCE

AN ATTRACTIVE EMBROIDERY DESIGN FOR COMBINATION GARMENTS.

Combination garments made of lawn, linen or crêpe de Chine, have become very popular because of the advantage they have over the separate articles of clothing. They fit more closely around the waist and hips and are therefore more comfortable.

This attractive design No. 14567, of dots and flowers may be used on a corset-cover and drawers or petticoat, chemise or it may be adapted to a nightgown by using the ruffles for sleeves. The pattern includes transfers for stamping the front and back of the corset-cover and two ruffles each 42 inches long. Solid work and eyelets embroidered with mercerized cotton or silk are appropriate for carrying out this design.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfer pattern 14567 will be supplied to readers on receipt of price, 15 cents.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

This season has brought out some very charming new blouse designs. No. 7713 is a model that would be very pretty developed in voile, albatross, crepon, linen or one of the numerous wash silks. It combines the drop-shoulder and the raglan effect, has a sailor collar and by way of finish has three stitched tucks extending down the front.

As white crepe de Chine is so much in favor just now I will offer it as a suggestion here with the collar and cuffs of figured crepon.

The home dressmaker will find nothing difficult about the yoke or raglan shoulder, which appears on nearly every design this season, if she follows her pattern directions carefully and marks the seam allowance on each piece.

An effective finish for these seams on the shoulder is brought about by joining them in the usual way, pressing them open and running a line of machine stitching each side of the joining line.

The pattern is cut in 6 sizes; 32 to 42.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Some Cookery Suggestions

CRISPY CAKES OF CORNMEAL.

BREAKFAST MENU.
Scrambled Eggs.
Cornmeal Muffins.
Baked Apples.
Coffee.

EXPERTS on dietetics claim that we should eat a great deal more cornmeal than we do at present. They assert that the meal is much more wholesome than we have been led to believe. It is an inexpensive food and may be made into many attractive dishes. Cornmeal is especially useful in the preparation of hot breads.

Fruit Novelties.

Apple Corn Bread.—Take two cupfuls of white cornmeal, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar, one and two-third cupfuls of milk, three tart apples pared and sliced. Mix the dry ingredients, add milk and beat thoroughly. Add the apples. Pour into a shallow buttered pan and bake in hot oven.

Corn Muffins With Dates.—Take one cupful of white cornmeal, two tablespoonfuls of brown sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one and one-quarter cupfuls milk, one cupful wheat flour, four teaspoonfuls baking powder, one egg, one-half cupful of dates cut into small pieces. Cook together the first five ingredients for ten minutes in a double boiler. When cool add the eggs, the dates and the flour sifted with the baking powder. Beat thoroughly and bake in muffin pans in a quick oven.

Tempting Hot Breads.

Cornmeal Waffles.—Take one and one-half cupfuls each of water, white cornmeal and milk, three cupfuls of flour, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, one and one-quarter tablespoonfuls of baking powder, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, yolks of two eggs, whites of two eggs, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Cook the meal in boiling water twenty minutes, add milk, dry ingredients mixed and sifted, yolks of eggs well beaten, butter and whites of eggs beaten stiff. Cook on a greased waffle iron.

Custard Corn Cake.—Take two eggs, one-fourth cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of salt, one cupful of sour milk, one cupful sweet milk, one and two-thirds cupfuls of cornmeal, one-third cupful of wheat flour, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one cupful of cream. Beat the eggs and sugar together thoroughly. Sift the flour, soda and salt together and mix with the meal. Mix all the ingredients but the cream and butter. Melt the butter in a deep pan. Pour in the batter, add without stirring a cupful of cream and bake twenty to thirty minutes. When cooked there should be a layer of custard on top of the cake or small bits of custard distributed through it.

They Came Home With Flowers.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Lizards Celebrate Spring By Playing Cars.

JACK and Evelyn were spending all the nice warm spring afternoons in the woods. They would come home with all sorts of pretty little spring flowers and fix them in little vases around the house. They loved the spring. But then they really loved all the seasons of the year. There was always plenty to do in the winter when the ground was covered with snow. In the spring there were so many things to find in the way of little insects they had almost forgotten about, lovely songs to hear by the birds who had left their winter homes and, of course, all the flowers. And summer was nice, too, with the swimming and boating and ball and many other outdoor games.

"Children," said daddy, "the little red lizards and newts are having the best times these days. They adore the soft, marshy earth in the woods. They almost feel as if everything had been arranged all for them, and they love the green moss.

"Up on the mountain the red lizard and newts had settled themselves. They were feeling so energetic and wide awake that they thought they'd do something exceptionally nice. So they told a great many of their friends about this mountain of theirs and had invited them to join them and spend the summer there.

"Of course they wanted to make the other lizard families, who had consented to join their home, think as they did—that it was the very nicest place in the world.

"When the visitors arrived they said, 'Well, how do you like your new home?'

"'Oh, we've never been so satisfied in our lives with any home! No other could possibly be so wonderful. It is absolutely perfect, and we are all so delighted. To celebrate your arrival, then, let's play cars. That is such fun, and we want to do something in honor of you.'

"Naturally the newcomers were very much pleased that something was being done in their honor, and they all certainly did feel full of life and energy. That is rather unusual, too, for the lizards, as a rule, don't like to hurry too much. They prefer to take things slowly.

"But they did enjoy playing cars. Different bits of moss were the stations, and they'd all go along together and say:

"'Puff, puff, puff, puff, puff, choo, choo!'

"Of course they didn't run any terrific express trains. They had plenty of stations and liked to stop often. Well, they played for a long, long time. When they were really tired out they decided they'd play cars every day, for the exercise made them feel splendid and they so enjoyed stopping and resting at the beautiful mossy stations."

ADVERTISE all Your Wants, To Let, For Sale, Boards, Personals, etc., in The DAILY PRESS. 1c A WORD

Cheruit showed many dresses which had transparent capes made of a single layer of chiffon. These capes touched the waist-line in the back and disappeared mysteriously in the front; never, by any chance, did the cape cross the front. Simultaneously with these Bernard brought out a three-quarter-length cape of black satin which had jacket-like fronts belted at the waist-line, and Poiret showed military capes.

"All of those capes came to stay. We have the little pelerine which hangs from the back of the coat; we have the cape with the jacket or surplice fronts, and we have also the military cape. All of these styles of capes were shown at this year's openings, and are all being worn. Beer showed a pretty circular cape of emerald green crepe. It was worn with a dress of black satin combined with black and emerald green striped taffeta."

MUCH INTEREST IN THE NEW STYLES AND SOME SURPRISES

"Vogue" in commenting on this year's fashions, says in the April 1 issue:

"Although the first great wave of excitement caused by the Paris openings has subsided, it has left behind a thousand little whirlpools of interest, each centering about some mooted question of the new mode. Of course, every one knew twenty-four hours after the first twenty-four minutes of the first opening all about such things as the passing of the tight skirt which, having had its day, has apparently transferred its policy of frugality to the bodice; but such innovations as a collar which almost hides the mouth, coats without sleeves and a frock here and there of white damask are still enjoying their allotted seven days of wonder-making.

"The short skirt, the advent of which was prophesied in Vogue fully eighteen months ago, is now the fad of the hour. All the foremost couturiers exploited it at the spring openings this season, but we are really indebted for it to Premet who showed the shortest skirts in Paris as long ago as February, 1913. At that time American women looked at them and pronounced them very pretty, but they said that no woman would ever wear a skirt which cleared the ground by from four to seven inches. For once, however, the American was mistaken. She forgot to reckon with her smart French cousin, who has taken up the fad for short skirts.

"We were in a measure prepared for this by the adoption of the split skirt. The very short skirt of the hour appeals to people as being a much more modest affair than the split skirt. Just why, is not quite clear, but fortunately we are concerned only with the fact. The present mode decrees that the skirt shall escape the ground by not less than four inches, and that seven is not unthinkable, and the line is likely to climb rather than to be lowered.

"A year ago, in February, Madame

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by Plainfield Branch New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

A favorite argument of the suffragists is that the anti-suffragists are perfectly satisfied with the existence of the ignorant male vote.

Another is that they would be perfectly atisfied that the franchise should be granted to educated women provided it would never extend to "the girl in the kitchen."

One statement is as entirely inaccuate as the other; proof that they are trying to excite the class hatred and distrust among the memmembers of their own sex.

It has been said by a well-known anti-suffragist, "That if it was a question of limiting the vote to the educated, thoughtful and intelligent of both sexes, we might look upon it differently," and again, "We must put time and brains upon the problem of the foreign man as a voter. How will it help to add the foreign woman?"

It is quite true that the anti-suffragists consider the ignorant vote a menace, but the existing male as well as the non-existent female. Especially that of the non-English speaking foreigner for perfectly obvious reasons.

Be it noted, however, that naturalization laws in no way discriminate against him. The man who arrives here with a full understanding of the language, must wait as long, and fulfill the same requirements, before gaining his citizenship.

But in their lives in this country, the relative position of the sexes among the non-English speaking races, differs far more than that of the native born American, or other English speaking races.

The men are out mingling with other men, learning the language and usages of the country, preparing themselves for citizenship. A large proportion of the married foreign women who come to this country live here for years without learning the language.

They are not ambitious save for their homes and families. They live in their homes, leaving the outside life to the men, secure that they will do better for them in it, than they could do for themselves.

Here is a Hungarian grandmother, over seventy years old, her children all born in this country, her grandchildren all over twenty—comfortably well-off. She does not speak English. A Russian and a German mother, who have been here, one twelve, the other fourteen years, neither speak or understand English. They do not belong to ignorant or illiterate classes in their own countries, thousands of whom land here every year. They read, write, sew and are excellent thrifty housewives. They do not wish any sympathy thrown away on them either.

Self-respecting, they are worthy of the highest respect in their place. That place is not, however, as a unit in our Government, and to do them credit they do not ask to be placed in any such false position. The anti-suffragists would consider the vote of the female foreigner a menace, even such women as these.

Doubly a menace, when added to that of the men, who have so much to learn before they are fit to undertake with any degree of intelligence or realization of responsibility the duties of citizenship. As one able writer expresses it: "Coming from different political conditions, new to republicanism, new to responsibility, new to freedom, which in the exuberance of the second generation he misreads license."

We consider the "woman in politics" reardless of class distinctions, would mean added confusion to our still young democracy, dangerously, cosmopolitan in its makeup.

We hold—and suffrage States prove us justified in doing so—that against a small minority of the thoughful conscientious women, there would be an overwhelming majority of undesirable voters, added to our already dangerously large, unweildy electorate. Undesirable in various ways. Some merely entirely indifferent to the responsibility of using the ballot at all, and it would be the duty of every woman to use it.

Then there would be the intelligent woman licking high principle matching well the same type of man, using her vote for what it will bring her. Again the silly, flippant woman whose voice in the Government, would be, if not a positive disadvantage, a very negative advantage. Lastly, in the life of every city, that woman whose vote would surely be controlled by the lowest influences.

We recognize the dangers already existing through the igporant male vote. We realize the time, labor and thought, needed before it can be adjusted.

We want to give men who are struggling with the stupendous problems which our democracy presents, time to solve them, unhampered by the menace, which the female element, simply meaning doubled numbers, would represent.

The old suffrage cry that "The men have had their chance and failed" is as absurd as it is false. The problem along presented by our ever changing population—thousands of foreigners landing here every week—will take many years to solve.

Men have done their work and can do it without menacing home and family life, and women prove, that whatever their declaration to the contrary, they cannot be homemakers and politicians, at the same time.

Miss Eva Ward challenged some time since, my statement that "through its alliance with Socialism and Feminism, the abolition of the home formed part of the propaganda of the suffragists." Be it understood I do not refer to the idealistic meaning now being given to it by some of the exponents of "Feminism, as the following paragraphs from my reply to Miss Ward will show.

"It gives me pleasure to inform Miss Eva Ward that I base my declaration that the abolition of home is part of the propaganda of those who sneer at 'Heaven, Home and Mother' on three undeniable points, viz: First, the phrase just quoted; second the avowed alliance of the Socialists and Suffragists; third, the Feminism preached by such leaders as Jessie Ashley, Inez Milholland Boissevain and Mrs. Charlotte Rhodus, president of the Cooks county, Illinois, Woman Suffrage party, and others. Does not Miss Ashley's reference to the time when the 'State shall take the children, etc.,' (N. Y. Tribune, Jan. 11), mean the abolition of the home, i. e. of home life? Does not Mrs. Rhodus' declaration that 'the sanctity of marriage is meaning less,' strike at the very foundation of family life, therefore of the home? Does not Mrs. Boissevain's utterance that 'it is to be assumed that the institutions most likely to be changed are the institutions in which the sex as a sex is most peculiarly and vitally interested, namely, the home and marriage itself,' speak for itself? Another suffrage writer tells us in 'The Freewoman' at the end of a paragraph explaining her reasons, which are not suitable to quote in this correspondence, that 'the whole edifice of life marriage will at last fall to the ground.'"

Men have worked through all generations to maintain inviolate home and family, women have helped them. A minority of women are going on record in their effort to undo man's highest work, through their determination to thrust themselves into public duties and responsibilities from which women of all ages, have been glad to be protected.

They are doing it at the sacrifice of home and children and church, and womanhood, proving—with but few exceptions—by their methods in the effort to get into politics what may be expected of woman in politics.

IF BACKACHY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER
Eat Less Meat Also Take Glass of Salts Before Eating Breakfast.
Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.
Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.
Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Adv.

MAKE YOURS A PUBLIC SERVICE STORE

This is the age of service. The rewards of today go to the men who give the most in return.

Translated for you, Mr. Merchant, this means that the customers are certain to patronize the store that will give them what they want when they want it.

Cut prices may bring some trade, but better service will bring more.

This is the age when people are reading the advertising in their daily newspapers because they are finding it a distinct part of the service they expect their newspapers to give.

When a nationally distributed article of merit is advertised in the newspapers a demand for it sets in right away.

People want to see it and, if satisfied, want to buy it.

They are going to turn to the store that lets them know it has the article. That store will be giving them the service they want at that particular moment.

If it is a good article they are going to remember the store where they got it and will come back to that store again.

Co-operate with the manufacturers who come into the newspapers of your town to exploit their goods and you will be building business for yourself.

THE DAILY PRESS IN DUNELLEN will be found on sale or delivered to any address every afternoon by Edward Pennock, druggist and newsdealer.

—If you have a really desirable house or apartment to rent, your "ad" will constitute GOOD NEWS to some anxious people in this city.

BEST SEEDS

20 named varieties of Sweet Peas, also special mixture of 50 varieties Grass Seed, by quart or bushel; Vegetable and Flower Seeds. Let us quote you prices on Herbaceous Plants and Evergreens. Privet $4, $6 and $8 per 100; strong and bushy.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray. Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to an order of the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York, the undersigned, Edward R. Finch, Trustee in Bankruptcy of Henry W. Richardson, bankrupt, offers for sale the property, assets and effects of the said bankrupt in the State of New Jersey, District of New Jersey.

The property to be sold consists of the followings:

(a) All those certain pieces or parcels of land and premises, hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying, and being in the Township of Piscataway, in the County of Middlesex, and State of New Jersey, being forty-eight lots which on a map entitled "Map of the Fisher Property, Situated in the City of Plainfield, New Jersey," filed April 27th, 18[illegible] in Middlesex County, are known and designated as lots numbered one hundred and eighty-five (185) to two hundred and forty-two (242), each inclusive.

Being the entire block bounded on the north by Marion Street, on the east by Field Avenue, on the south by First Street, and on the west by Plainfield Avenue.

Subject to a first mortgage of $6,000 and interest at five per cent. from February 11th, 1913, and accrued taxes of about $[illegible]45.

(b) All that certain plot, piece, or parcel of land situate in the City of Plainfield, Union County, New Jersey, and the Township of Piscataway, Middlesex County, New Jersey, bounded, and described as follows:

Beginning at the northeasterly corner of Field Avenue and Marion Street, running thence easterly along the northerly side of Marion Street six hundred feet to the westerly line of Central Avenue; thence northerly along the westerly line of Central Avenue one hundred feet; thence westerly parallel with Marion Street one hundred and fifty feet; thence northerly parallel with Central Avenue fifty feet; thence westerly parallel with Marion Street four hundred and fifty feet to the easterly line of Field Avenue; and thence southerly along the easterly line of Field Avenue one hundred and fifty feet to the point or place of beginning.

Subject to a first mortgage of $[illegible] and interest at five per cent. from March 6th, 1913, and accrued taxes of about $[illegible]45.

(c) All those certain tracts or parcels of land and premises, hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying, and being in the Township of Piscataway, in the County of Middlesex, and State of New Jersey, comprising Lots Nos. 565 to 57[illegible] inclusive, and 589 to 594, inclusive, in Block No. 19 on a certain map entitled "Map of Edgerton Park, Middlesex County, New Jersey, adjoining Plainfield and Dunellen, surveyed December 1905, by [illegible] Bauer, C. E., Elizabeth, N. J.," and which said map is filed in the Clerk's Office of the County of Middlesex, N. J., said lots being more particularly described as follows:

Beginning at the intersection of Washington Avenue and Eleventh Street, running thence easterly along the southerly side of Eleventh Street 261.20 feet; thence southerly 200 feet to the northerly side of Twelfth Street, thence westerly along the northerly side of Twelfth Street 285.10 feet to the easterly side of Washington Avenue; thence northerly along the easterly side of Washington Avenue 201.2 feet to the point or place of beginning.

Subject to accrued taxes of about $17.27.

Further particulars in regard to said lots may be obtained from the Trustee.

The above-described property may be inspected on the premises from March 30th to April 12th, 1914, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m.

Bids for the above-described property may be submitted.

First—For any or all of the parcels of real estate above described.

Bids must be submitted to the Trustee at his office, No. 32 Nassau Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on or before three o'clock in the afternoon, April 13th, 1914, at which time and place the bids will be opened by him and creditors may attend and express themselves in reference thereto.

Each bid must be accompanied by certified check or cash for at least ten per cent. of the amount of the bid.

Dated March 31st, 1914.

OPEN AIR SCHOOL BENEFIT CIRCUS

LOCAL PEOPLE IN RING

Professional Acts of Frank Robbins' Circus to be Interspersed with Antics by Plainfield Amateurs—For Worthy and Popular Charity.

Plainfield is to have an innovation in the way of a benefit for a local charity on Monday, May 4, three weeks from today, when the first "Society Circus" ever given in this city will take place. The performance will be for the benefit of the open air school, which is conducted by the Anti-Tuberculosis League, and which is doing a great work in this city.

While the performance will be one in which a large number of local people will participate, there will also be a full program of regular circus acts, so that more than full value will be derived by all who purchase tickets. Arrangements have been made with the Frank A. Robbins Circus, a show which visits Plainfield frequently, and which has a splendid reputation locally, by which Mr. Robbins brings his complete outfit here for the benefit, giving all his regular acts, and at the same time permitting local people to perform act as clowns, sell tickets and take them, take the side show "barkers" places, peddle lemonade and peanuts, and in fact do everything but put up and take down the tents.

Members of the league have been quietly working on the matter for three weeks, having learned of the great success of a similar affair which was held at Spring Lake last summer for the benefit of a hospital. They have waited to make their announcements, however, until all plans for the performance had been definitely completed, and it was assured that the performance would be a success. Local young people are already planning to take part, and announcement of the names of those who will participate will soon be made. The tickets will be on sale during the week at a place to be made known later.

Everyone in Plainfield is more or less familiar with the work of the open-air school. Through its equipment and teaching about forty children have been put well on the road to recovery, and they are gong out to teach others in their families how to avoid the white plague. The school is the most important branch of work of the Anti-Tuberculosis League, and unless the funds are raised within a few weeks to continue, it will have to be stopped at the end of the present school year.

Decision to have the circus come was made on Saturday night at a meeting held in the league rooms in the Babcock building, at which George M. Holstein, chairman of the finance committee; James Murray, treasurer of the league; G. T. Elliott, Lewis G. Timpson, C. Boardman Tyler, Frederick E. Mygatt, Harry W. Marshall, John Boyd Potter and Leslie R. Fort were present. Mr. Fort was chosen as chairman of the circus committee, having conducted the show at Spring Lake last summer.

On Thursday, the women who comprise the school committee met and enthusiastically endorsed the project, urging that it be proceeded with. They have agreed to take over the sale of tickets, in addition to those which will be placed on public sale at a later date during the week.

Provisions have been made for twenty-four boxes, seating four each, at both the matinees and night performance, and there will be plenty of reserved seats, in addition to the regular general admission seats.

The Robbins Show, while not the largest on the road, has enjoyed continuous prosperity for thirty-four years, and is said to be going out better than ever. It has been wintering at the State Fair Grounds, Trenton, and will not leave there for two weeks yet, having but about seven show dates before being in Plainfield, so that everything will be bright and new for the local show. The show has been fully re-equipped with tents this year, and as a result no matter what the weather it can be watched by all spectators in comfort.

EASTER SUNRISE MEETING.

The annual Easter sunrise meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church was held in that church, yesterday morning at 6:45. More than a hundred were in attendance. As is the custom all Endeavor Societies of Plainfield were invited to be present. Mrs. Lucie Rising had charge of the service and took for her topic, "The Risen Christ." Messrs. Young and Frazee and the Christian Endeavor choir of Trinity church furnished music. A vocal solo was rendered by Miss Jennie Serre.

WAGING A WARFARE AGAINT CIGARETTES

James J. Jeffreys Addressed Several Sunday Schools Here Yesterday.

James J. Jeffreys, who says that he is not related to the prize-fighter of that name, but that he is fighting against the cigarette habit, spoke yesterday at the first day school of the meeting of the Religious Society of Friends, the Congregational Sunday-school, the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church, and Epworth League of the First M. E. church. Mr. Jeffreys is going about the country waging a warfare against the use of tobacco and especially the cigarette.

Mr. Jeffreys gave the Century dictionary definition of tobacco, which is that "tobacco is a powerful sedative poison." He claimed that in the cigarette there are five poisons that are not in the pipe and cigar. They are made by burning paper and tobacco together. Furfural is said to be fifty times more deadly than alcohol, and the speaker claimed that there is as much in one cigarette as in two fluid ounces of whiskey.

Mr. Jeffreys said that these poisons have the same effect that opium, cocaine or morphine would have, making a person sleepy and dopey. Particular attention was directed to the use of cigarettes by boys, retarding growth and progress in studies. Quoting figures, Mr. Jeffreys said that four years' wasted time at a cost of $34.56 a year for each grade school pupil in Philadelphia means $140 wasted by that boy and if there were fifty cigarette smoking boys in each large city in the United States, it would cause a loss of more than $5,088,000. May 3 will be observed as anti-tobacco Sunday by the International Association which is fighting the habit.

FRANK H. FLANNERY DIES, AGED 42 YEARS

Passes Away in House in Which He Was Born at Scotch Plains.

Frank Flannery, aged 42 years, son of J. E. Flannery, of this city, died early yesterday morning at Scotch Plains, where he had been living for some time. He had been in poor health for more than a year and was obliged to give up business. He spent a short time at Spring Lake, but the salt air did not agree with him and he removed to Scotch Plains. He died in the house in which he was born.

Mr. Flannery lived in Plainfield for a number of years and was widely known here where he had many friends. He was a most estimable young man, and his whole life was one of self-sacrifice for others. Several years ago he married Miss Pansy Herring, sister of Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, and she was loyal in her devotion to him throughout his long illness. Mr. Flannery was a member of the First Presbyterian church and an earnest Christian.

There survives beside a wife, a father, J. E. Flannery; a sister, Mrs. George H. Johnston, and a brother, Harry Flannery. The funeral will be held at the home of the sister in Scotch Plains, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, will officiate and the burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

SPRING INSTITUTE TO BE HELD HERE

Union County W. C. T. U. to Meet at Park Avenue Baptist Church.

An attractive program has been announced for the spring institute of the Union County Woman's Christian Temperance Union to be held in the Park Avenue Baptist church, Thursday, April 30, with morning, afternoon and evening sessions. There will be representatives of the union present from all parts of the county. Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson, county president, will preside, and will open the institute at 10 o'clock in the morning. The program follows:

Devotions, Mrs. J. L. Manning, of Dunellen; roll call of the executive committee, answered by temperance quotations; greeting from the union, Mrs. W. J. Hamilton; response, Mrs. H. W. Desmond, of Cranford; appointment of committee; W. C. T. U. catechism; address, medal contest work and its possibilities, Mrs. Edythe M. Currie, of Cranford; Bible reading, Mrs. Gabriel Reid Maguire; song, "Out for Prohibition;" noontide praper, adjournment. Luncheon will be served at a nominal price and the executive committee will meet at 1 o'clock for department conferences.

The afternoon program will be as follows: 2 o'clock, devotions, Mrs. H. L. Polan, of Dunellen; minutes of the executive committee; address, News hot from the Wires, Mrs. T. C. Bodine, of this city; address, Dr. Eva W. Lake, of Norwood; song, Woman's Cause Shall Win; an Anti-Suffrage Monologue, Mrs. Edythe M. Currie, of Cranford; reception of new members, adjournment. Supper will be served at the close of the afternoon session.

The evening program will begin with devotions in charge of Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor of the church; followed with a violin solo, "Liebessrend," by Miss Lyle Udelle Smith; a half hour with the Young People's Branch; piano duet, "La Travatore," Mrs. C. T. Dunwell and Miss Edith A. Hamilton; an address by Rev. C. C. Cain, singing of "America," and benediction.

PROTEST AGAINST PASSAGE OF VIVISECTION BILL

Among those from this place that went to Trenton today to protest against the signing of bill 339 by Governor Fielder were Mrs. E. S. Hyatt, of West Eighth street, and Mrs. S. G. VanHoesen, special agent of the local branch of the S. P. C. A. The bill has passed both houses and will, if signed by the Governor, permit the Rockefeller Institute to practise vivisection in this State. If it becomes a law the institute will locate at Rahway. Letters of protest have been obtained from the biggest men of the county which will be used in trying to stop the signing of the bill.

BROWN—STEWART.

Miss Carrie C. Brown and William A. Stewart, both residents of the West End, were married yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Solan Maven, of Plainfield avenue. Rev. W. H. Hicks, of Mt. Zion M. E. church, officiated. The bride, dressed in a white silk gown and veil, carried a bouquet of ferns and Easter lilies, and given away by Miss Julia Heloms. Miss Josephine Stewart was the maid of honor, while the groom was attended by J. C. Lupkins as best man. After a reception to the couple, they left on a short trip to Philadelphia. Upon their return they will reside in this city.

ELKS TO ENTERTAIN.

The Plainfield Lodge of Elks is arranging to give its members an opportunity to entertain their wives, daughters and friends at the new clubhouse on Watchung avenue Thurday evening. Dancing and games will be a feature of the evening and supper will be served. Owing to the large membership of the Elks, it has been found necessary to limit the privileges to the members of the lodge and their women friends only. The committee consists of the following: H. B. MacDonald, C. E. Teel, William R. Townsend, George W. Pope, Dr. Charles Davis, Laurens H. VanBuren.

CHILDREN PRESENT PROGRAM.

The Sunday-school of the First Presbyterian church held their Easter exercises yesterday morning, when a program was presented by the beginners' and intermediate departments. Among those who took part were Claude Banghardt, Virginia Barkelew, Katherine Koch and Adele Texier, of the beginners' department, and Francis Kriney, Eleanor Keenan, Ida Reid, Florence Bicknell and Mary VanCleef, of the primary department. The exercises were arranged under the direction by Mrs. G. P. Hinman.

FOUR GUNMEN DIED AT DAYBREAK

Slayers of Herman Rosenthal Fail to Make a Confession.

MEET FATE CALMLY

Walk to Chair With Same Stoicism They Displayed Since Their Arrest—Assert Their Innocence of the Crime.

LAST STATEMENTS MADE BY GUNMEN.

Three of the convicted gunmen issued "last statements," but none came from "Dago Frank" Cirofici. Here are the statements of the other three:

"Well, we have to die some time. It seems to be God's will that we go now. We are ready.
"LOUIS ROSENBERG,
"'Lefty Louie.'"

"Tell mamma that she is not the mother of a murderer. Ask mother and father to forgive me for all the anxiety and worry I caused them. But I was never really bad, just wild; that's all. I'll go to my death without any man's blood on my hands.
"JACOB SEIDENSHNER,
"'Whitey Lewis.'"

"We all know that the result was decided against us just as soon as we heard Justice Goff was in the case. We had given up expecting mercy from Justice Goff or District Attorney Whitman.
"HARRY HOROWITZ,
"'Gyp the Blood.'"

Ossining, N. Y., April 13.—Four young men in the full vigor of youthful health were shocked to death at Sing Sing prison at dawn today as the penalty for killing Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, on the morning of July 16, 1912, in New York.

The four gunmen, known among the gangsters as "Gyp the Blood, "Lefty Louie," "Whitey Lewis" and "Dago Frank," marched to the chair retaining that same calm, stoic and perfunctory demeanor that characterized them since their arrest.

The four men spent their last few hours on earth under circumstances that would have crushed any man of imagination into reasonless inertia. They heard prayers asked for their souls, soon to depart, and bade fare well to the persons supposed to be dearest to them and awaited death with uncanny interest.

On the brow of the hill overlooking the grim prison a marked throng congregated, conjuring the hideous thought that the four were deliberately hurled into the great black mystery, death.

Here in Ossining, where the ugly stone walls of Sing Sing alone marred the marvelous sun drenched picture of the rolling Hudson, the blue Palisades, vapor shrouded hills, the sleepy little village on this day of new hopes and fresh desires, they paid the penalty of wildness and indifference to the law.

The execution this morning established a precedent in the criminal annals of New York state. Four young men met death calmly, unflinchingly, and the only sign of emotion was the nervous twitching of the hands as the straps were being tied.

The chair was vacated by the dead only to have the living supplemented.

The execution took place at 5:45, just as the gray streaks of dawn entered the gloomy portals of the death chamber.

Relatives Claim Bodies.

Mrs. Horowitz and Mrs. Rosenberg remained here all night to watch in the early morning at the gate of the prison for the cheap wooden coffins in which the bodies of their husbands will be brought forth after the surgeons finished with them. At the prison gate on the same errand will be Mrs. Cirofici and her daughter and the father and mother of "Whitey Lewis."

The first of the men to see his relatives for the last time was "Dago Frank," whose mother and sister had arrived at Ossining last night. Later the wives of "Gyp the Blood" and "Lefty Louie" and the father and mother of "Whitey Lewis," dull eyed and weeping, passed through the gate of the prison.

Between the doomed men, each in his prison made death suit of black, and the relatives to whom they were speaking for the last time were the bars of their cell doors and a heavy meshed grating two feet away. There was no opportunity for a farewell shake of the hand, a last loving kiss. There could be no whispered word of parting, no secret word of cheer and courage, for there at the cell door sat a keeper. In their last moments the men were kept far apart from their friends, lest something reached them that would enable them to cheat the grim purpose of the law by taking their own lives.

There was a dramatic incident which moved even the keepers. "Dago Frank" attended a Catholic school in his very young boyhood, and on Saturday he wrote a letter to one of the Franciscan sisters who had taught him to come on Sunday and pray with him.

Two sisters arrived in the afternoon with Father Cashin, and the three, with Warden Clancy and Principal Keeper McInerny, went into the death house. The sisters knelt before the cell of the Italian boy and began their

BURGLARS MAKE BIG HAUL IN THE BORO

Home of John P. Emmons Entered—Amount of Loot Cannot Be Estimated.

Burglars ransacked the home of John P. Emmons, in Prospect place, North Plainfield, some time between Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning, and disappeared without leaving the slightest club for the police to follow. The family, with the exception of one son, Frank Emmons, spent the Easter week-end at their cottage in Belmar and no estimate of the value of the goods taken could be ascertained by the authorities this morning. The house was searched from top to bottom and everything of value was confiscated, including wearing apparel, jewelry and money.

Frank Emmons returned home early Sunday morning and immediately reported the robbery to the police who started an investigation. It is the opinion of those working on the caes that the haul was made by the same ones who robbed the home of Walter P. Van Camp, 131 DeLacy avenue, the week previous. The investigation conducted yesterday by Chief Marshal Weiss and his men failed to reveal any evidences of prying on the window sashes or doors and it is the supposition of the authorities that the house was entered with a skeleton key.

PROF. B. P. STOUT RECEIVES GOLD WATCH

As An Appreciation for His Work at Revival Services Here.

With the Easter services at the Park Avenue Baptist church, yesterday, there also closed the special series of revival meetings, which have been conducted by Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, assisted by Prof. B. P. Stout. The latter sang a number of special songs at the session of the Bible school in the morning, and at the evening service. The edifice was thronged all day with worshippers. Mr. Maguire preached in the morning.

At the close of the service, Mr. Maguire baptized Mrs. Emma Stelle, Miss Sadie Stelle, Mrs. Chester Gaskell, the Misses Elizabeth and Marie Cduthers, Vivian and Edna Mowen, Alice Spangenberg and Thomas Wilbur Cuming, Joseph Bush, Asa Williams, Benjamin Hadley, Walter Weber, Russell Hughson and John Shafer. Afterward Rev. C. C. Cain, of Grace M. E. church, baptized Miss Frances Bird, who wishes to unite with his church.

Prof. and Mrs. Stout were kindly remembered when George E. Hall on behalf of the pastor and members of the church presented the latter with a beautiful bouquet of flowers and Mr. Stout with a handsome gold watch. They both made happy responses, expressing the hope that they might both be privileged to come back to Plainfield. Mr. Stout thanked the pastor, deacons, trustees, choir, William N. Runyon and Miss Wood, organist, for their loyal assistance in the revival.

ARRESTED CHARGED WITH VIOLATION OF EXCISE LAW

William Watercamp, who conducts a lunch-wagon at Dunellen, was arrested by Marshal Clifford Smith, of that place, last night, and taken before Justice von Minden, who held him in $50 bail for a hearing on Friday on a charge of dispensing beer in his wagon. Marshal Smith went into the wagon, last night, to get a lunch, and it is said while he was there, Watercamp offered him and other patrons a glass of beer.

The marshal, it is said, warned the proprietor of the lunch wagon, explaining that he had no right to dispense beer, but the latter claimed that he had a right to treat his friends if he wanted to, and it is alleged that he did not offer the beverage for sale.

"DOLLAR-WAY" PAVE TO BE USED HERE

Street Committee Decides on Plans for Permanent Improvement of Roads.

The councilmanic street committee has decided upon a plan for the permanent improvement of streets which it believes will meet with the approval of the property-owners in the city. It proposes to lay what is known as the "Dollar-Way" pavement, and issue bonds covering a period of ten years. Part of this expense will be borne by the city and part by the property-owners, and the latter will be given ten years in which to pay their share, a nominal amount being collected each year so that it will not become a burden.

The committee proposes first to select a badly worn street, one that is greatly in need of repair, to demonstrate the permanent pavement which will be used, and it is the opinion of the councilmen that this will induce property-owners to take the matter up. If they don't the committee will go ahead and lay the pavement and charge it up. This way, it is thought, is the only one open for securing a general and lasting improvement of streets which at present are in such bad condition.

Councilman Francis J. Blatz, chairman of the street committee, in discussing the new plan which has been under consideration for several weeks, says that by the present method the city is throwing away thousands of dollars each year and has nothing to show for it, while the new way will insure at least permanent pavements. The city has been unable to keep in the van of street improvements for sometime, automobiles and heavy trucks making such inroads on the macadam that it has been impossible to keep the pavement up. The plan proposed, Mr. Blatz thinks, will solve the problem for at least ten years to come.

WATCHUNG HUNT CLUB OPENS THE SEASON

Going is Rather Heavy But Horses Fence Well in First Run.

The Watchung Hunt Club held its first run of the season on Saturday afternoon, the members meeting the hounds at the show grounds of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club. The hounds were cast in nearby and the chase led to the Plainfield Country Club, thence to Oak Tree, where a check was made on the hillside.

The hounds were taken up and cast in again on the Kelley Estate, and the run continued to Iselin on the Pennsylvania Railroad. The going was heavy but the horses all fenced well. These riders finished: R. C. Finch, M. F. H., H. A. Bourne, Miss Adelaide Gardner, Miss Marjorie Brown, H. L. Finch, Col. C. E. S. Bellows and Huntsman Harrison. The riders will meet the hounds again Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the kennels.

PATROLMAN'S VIGILANCE FRIGHTENED THE THIEVES

Patrolman George Muir proved to be the "man of the hour" Saturday night, when he appeared in the vicinity of Halsted C. Compton's home on Compton avenue, just in time to put to flight sneakthieves who were preparing to ransack the house. The Compton family is spending some time in the South, and Muir noticed one of the windows open while making his rounds shortly before midnight.

He went to the house and upon investigation found a burglar's jimmy which had been used to pry open the window. The intruders had evidently been frightened by Muir soon after entering the place for the patrolman found nothing disturbed.

BAPTIST MISSION MEETING.

The Women's Foreign Mission Society of the First Baptist church will meet tomorrow afternoon at the usual hour. Mrs. Hillman will be the leader and Mrs. Whitney Brown will read a paper on "Education, the Essential Foundation for Evangelization Work in Foreign Lands." A proposed new constitution will be considered at this meeting.

REGULAR SESSION RESUMED.

Regular session was resumed at Herr's School this morning, there being no Easter vacation period. The school was closed on Friday in accordance with the general rule of closing when the banks are closed. Professor Herr reports a splendid attendance for this time of the year, there being an average attendance of over 100. The enrollment in the day school is 118.

WOMAN KILLED IN A COLLISION

Motorcyclist Hits Baker's Wagon on Bound Brook Road.

ARRESTS TO FOLLOW

Mrs. Isaac Kupenberg, Formerly of This City, the Victim—Bystanders Claim Boys Were Racing Along Thoroughfare—Russell Ball Hurt.

While riding his motorcycle west on Union avenue, Bound Brook, yesterday afternoon, Russell Ball, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Ball, of that place, collided with a wagon going in the same direction, injuring one of the occupants so severely that she later died in the Somerville hospital. The victim is Mrs. Isaac Kuepenberg, aged thirty-one years. She was riding in a baker's wagon driven by her husband in which there were three men and three women.

The accident occurred opposite the home of S. W. Stout near Harris Lane and witnesses allege that the motorcyclist was traveling at a high rate of speed in the direction of Somerville. Ball was riding in company with a companion on another machine and according to those who were nearby when the collision came the two boys were racing on the avenue. The mufflers of both machines were opened and the horse became frightened and ran the wagon into a ditch breaking one of the rear wheels.

The occupants were thrown out into the road and the horse became frantic, running directly across the thoroughfare. One cyclist passed the spot before the equine untangled itself from the wreckage, but Ball's machine hit the animal at right angles throwing the rider to the roadbed. The women appeared to be the most seriously injured and she was carried in a semi-conscious condition to the side of the road where first aid remedies were administered by Dr. Kaucher, of Bound Brook. A hurried examination showed that her left arm was broken and that she was suffering from internal injuries.

Dr. Kaucher summoned an ambulance from the Somerville hospital and the victim was removed to that institution, dying five minutes after her arrival. Ball was removed to the home of Nelson M. Giles nearby, where he was attended by Dr. Fisher. He was suffering from several cuts and bruises about the face and body and a dislocated shoulder. The motorcyclist was later removed to his home in an automobile. The machine he was riding is a total wreck.

No arrests have been made in the case as yet, but the Middlesex county prosecutor's office is conducting an investigation into the matter today. When interviewed by a Daily Press reporter this afternoon, Prosecutor George Silzer stated that he had not ascertained who was to blame for the fatality but that arrests would probably follow the investigation. Several witnesses were in the vicinity when the accident happened and these will be questioned by the Bound Brook police before Ball is apprehended.

The victim of the accident formerly lived on West Third street, this city, and her husband now conducts a bakery in Dunellen. Mr. and Mrs. Morris Bender were in the wagon when the collision occurred and carried a one-year-old child. Mrs. Kupenberg is survived by two sisters, Mrs. B. Shereshebsky and Mrs. D. Grabblesky, and two brothers, Lewis and Samuel Fellman, of this city.

AUTO COLLIDES WITH WAGON.

An automobile said to belong to H. G. Runkle, of West Eighth street, and driven by his chauffeur, collided on West Front street early this afternoon with a buggy driven by Mrs. Shad, of South Plainfield. The accident happened near Somerset street and the woman was thrown to the pavement but escaped injury. The auto was not harmed but one wheel of the buggy was dished.

WOMEN'S GUILD SUPPER.

Members of the Women's Guild, or the Heavenly Rest church, are completing elaborate preparations for their Easter supper to be held in the parish house tomorrow night at 7 o'clock. Arrangements have been made to receive a large number of diners and the banquet will consist of a number of courses. The dining hall has been appropriately decorated for the occasion and a program of entertainment will also be given by the organization.

ANNUAL CHURCH MEETING.

The combination meeting of the old parish society and the annual church business meeting of the First Baptist church will be held Wednesday night. Three trustees will be elected and the treasurer's report will be read. Three deacons will also be elected and a social time will follow.

Dunellen & Vicinity

Mr. and Mrs. George K. Post and son, Kenter, of New Market road, visited relatives at Newark, Saturday.

John Rinehart, of North avenue, has resigned his position as day foreman at the local roundhouse of the Central Railroad, and Otto Rice, who formerly worked with O. M. Weber, the North avenue plumber, has accepted the position.

Mr. and Mrs. Yoemans, of Prospect avenue, spent Easter with Mrs. Yoemans' parents at Haverstraw.

The foundation of the new C. D. Nonemaker house on Front street, adjoining the residence of Samuel M. Titus, has been completed.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Frederick and daughter Margaret, of Dunellen avenue, spent Easter with Mr. Frederick's mother at Delawana.

Samuel, the youngest son of Mayor and Mrs. E. B. Latham, had his tonsils and adenoids removed on Saturday afternoon by Doctors Platt and Longbotham. The operation was performed at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dayton, of New Market road, entertained their son, Alfred and family, of Bayonne, over Easter.

Thomas Beck, of Jackson avenue, who has been detained from his duties on the Central Railroad for the past ten days as the result of successive attacks of quinsy sore throat and tonsilitis, has fully recovered from the effect of these attacks and expects to resume his duties tomorrow.

C. T. Voorhees and Miss Pearl Dodwell spent Easter with Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Lake, of Jersey City.

A valuable Scotch terrier owned by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Alethon, of Mountainview Terrace, was poisoned Friday night. The dog, the father of which brought $150, attracted Marshal Tarpey's attention on North avenue about 11 o'clock that night by its rather queer actions. Three hours later the marshal espied the animal stretched stark upon the lawn in front of the Alethon residence. The perpetrator of such a despicable piece of business will be summarily dealt with if apprehended.

H. T. Ritterbusch, of Dunellen avenue, entertained Mr. and Mrs. David Suhr, of Woodhaven, L.I., and George H. Reinecke, of Brooklyn, over Easter.

Frederick Wrage has completed regrading the ground about his residence on Washington avenue. Mr. Wrage, to the more than casual eye, has made a good job out of it.

Harry Apgar and family, of Philadelphia, spent Saturday and Easter with Mr. Apgar's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Apgar, of Front street.

The presence of three bags of copper wire in the vacant lot on North avenue directly back of local Freight Agent S. C. Seal's property, was made known to the local police Thursday. Chief Marshal Mohan, upon examining the bags of wire, immediately secluded one of his lieutenants in that vicinity with orders to arrest any person or persons who should try to make away with the goods. The officer in concealment faithfully pursued the now famous policy of "Watchful Waiting" until 4 o'clock Friday morning, with nary a sign of even a loiterer in that vicinity. He then borrowed a wheelbarrow and took the wire to the borough hall, where it is now in storage. Since the severe storm of early March, which was especially disastrous to telephone and telegraph wires, much wire has been stolen throughout the storm zone, both by professionals and amateurs. In this particular case the local police say that it is obviously the work of amateurs who either got cold feet or repented of their act.

Miss Gertrude Simons, of Jersey City, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Krom, of Walnut street, has returned home.

In games of the two man tournament on the Prebyterian alleys which were postponed on account of church service, from Friday evening until tonight it will be Herlick and Apgar vs. Dealaman and Benson vs. Fagely and Voehl.

John F. Dineen, who is working and boarding in Brooklyn, visited his parents on Washington avenue over Easter.

Jack McMahon witnessed Uncle Wilbert Robinson's Dodgers tackle the Tigers at Wiedenmayer Park, Newark, yesterday.

Mrs. H. B. Arnold, of Front street, who has been ill with a slight attack of pleurisy, was able to leave her bed Saturday.

A goodly representative of the Board of Education headed by President A. F. Todd, visited the twenty-six room Christopher Columbus School at Trenton, Friday, and the South Bound Brook school, Saturday, in both of which schools are installed the heating and ventilating system, as recommended by Architect Pierson for installation in the Lincoln School. In both places the Board inquired of reliable authorities as to the satisfaction given by the system and also witnessed smoke tests and its ventilating qualities. At last Tuesday's meeting of the Board some of the members favored the installation of the Monarch system upon the ground that it was more positive of results. A special meeting of the Board will be held tomorrow evening to decide the matter. If the Monarch system is voted it will mean an increased expenditure of $800.

An unique picture talk on "New York the Nightless City," illustrated by one hundred and fifty superb views, is to be given by Robert M. Honeyman in the Presbyterian chapel tomorrow evening. Mr. Honeyman has spent much of his life on the East Side and Bowery and has seen all the great developments that today attract attention. He contrasts the present with the past by historic picures and gives a peep at Bowery and East Side life. The evening will be spent with history, social conditions, rescue mission work and the whole sums up into a bright and helpful entertainment. A silver offering will be taken.

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Piddington, Jr., of Jersey City, visited Mr. Piddington's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Piddington, of New Market road, over Easter.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Dayton, of Main street, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dayton, of Plainfield, yesterday.

The Taxpayers' Association meets at the New Market school tomorrow evening.

Merwin LaRue, of New York city, visited his parents, Tax Collector and Mrs. W. B. LaRue, over Easter. Mr. LaRue came to New Market directly from Boston, at which place he has, during the past week, been doing extensive photographing at the Business Men's Show for his employers, Underwood & Underwood, of New York city.

The schools of this vicinity will reopen tomorrow.

The splendid day and the music incident to Easter, thronged all the churches of this vicinity yesterday.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Theatregoers today demand big shows and at popular prices for the reason the theatrical producers have educated the tastes from season to season until it is now necessary to carry large companies mounted with complete scenic equipments and costumed up to the minute. The Mozart Music Co., Inc., have spent a small fortune to meet the demands of the present day theatre fan and as a result of their untiring efforts they are now able to present "The Movie Girl," a new musical show with its scenes laid in and around a moving picture plant. The book is from the pen of the well known author, Matthew Ott, who has to his credit no end of successes in the musical comedy field and "The Movie Girl" was written for laughing purposes only, giving Billy Carlton, the German comedian, the best part he has had in his career. "The Movie Girl" will appear at the Plainfield theatre, this afternoon and evening.

MOVING PICTURES.

In Winter, in Summer, in sunshine, in rain, we all go to the moving picture show to while away the time and get a thrill, but lest that thrill be one of pain, take heed and go comfortable. THE APRIL BRIDE AND HER WEDDING

WHAT it will cost to dress a bride and her attendants for the proper sort of fashionable wedding to-day is a question with the same answer as always, depending of course on the sum which can be allowed. Nothing, in the eyes of French modistes, is ever too extravagant for their susceptible clientele, much less for the wedding day; and the garments from across the sea bear out this conviction, in exquisite conceits and combination of satins, crêpes, laces and nets. The wedding gown itself continues to be a more or less stately garment, with perhaps an Empire or a Watteau train; or it may be a very up-to-date modification of a "period" dress inspired by a historic portrait.

The picturesque frock is attracting a great deal of notice for the bride's attendants, partly because those who plan and carry out the details of a formal wedding study the effect of the wedding party as a unit in the setting of flowers, the church background, or the home drawing-room. Another reason for this gown's popularity is the production of flowered silks, and satins, gold and silver laces, and telling accessories, which rightly combined, afford effects altogether different and more artistic than the conventional wedding garments of the past.

Triple Tunic Skirt of Spider-Web Lace

SOFT supple satins, chiffon cloth, and exquisite weaves of silken crêpe de Chine are featured for Spring and early Summer wedding gowns. They not only accord with the general trend of fashion toward draped and clinging robes, but are when made more youthful and becoming than the stiff bridal costume of heavy satin. The stately train appears in the new models, though it hangs out from the shoulder, often, and also from the scant and narrow skirt beneath it.

Egyptian crêpe, which has a soft sheen, and play of light on its lengthwise crinkles is the fabric of the wedding gown above (8277). From it is formed a two-piece draped overskirt, gracefully caught at the side, over a soft satin foundation skirt, veiled with chiffon. The original effect is carried on to the shoulder of the bodice, in which there are sleeves of lace, with circular ruffles just below the elbow. Dainty frills of white tulle, finishing the ruffles, match the delicate tulle veil, which you will notice has a new draping in cap effect. Pearl beads are a rich edging for the armholes.

This model obviously may be reproduced or modified with ease; and made as costly or as inexpensive as the buyer elects. If there are heirlooms of real lace available, and such is the good fortune for many a bride of to-day, they would beautify the neck, and the sleeve ends. Silk tulle is also one of the modish competitors of chiffon, and might be substituted for the side panels of this dress.

The influence of Poiret's straight long-waisted dresses, with a deep sash girdle, combined with his much exploited tunic, makes a distinctive feature in the outline of the dainty bridesmaid's gown of girlish simplicity (8293). The material is flowered chiffon taffeta, a new weave and design on which soft blues, pink, green and lavender tints are mingled in shadowy flowers. The contrasted tunic ruffle is of coral pink chiffon, having pearl beads on the edge. This girlish frock can be made from pattern No. 8293, designed for misses from 14 to 18 years. Silk crêpes with printed floral designs are much approved for function frocks, as you will notice in the charming model in the upper right corner (8248), suitable for the maid of honor, at a Spring wedding. Two gathered ruffles of the material and bordered with lace frills are joined to the kimono blouse, with narrow bands of cyclamen pink velvet. The price of each dress pattern is 15 cents.

Embroidered Opera Bag for The Bridal Shower

IDEAS come thick and fast from the shops, and elsewhere, for entertainments and showers for the prospective bride. For the kitchen shower, there is a homely but useful doll, to be bought for about $1. This has a rolling pin body, clothing of dust clothes and dish rags, arms of wooden spoons, etc.; and various other utensils are hidden beneath the skirt.

The linen shower gives opportunity for presenting the bride with many useful and dainty hand-made gifts, such as the tray, and the service cloth shown on the right of the page. For the novelty shower, which gives scope for a variety of personal and household gifts, a dainty opera bag such as the shops are showing is a happy thought. One can make a very dainty bag like that above, with pattern No. 14665, to stamp a design of Wedgewood embroidery. The pattern is 15 cents.

Wedding Bouquets

Fashions in flowers and bouquets keep pace with other changing styles. Now the bride's bouquet and those of her attendants are just enough different from those of last season to make them noticeable. The exquisite bunch of roses and lilies of the valley has long sash ends of white ribbon, on which sprays of the lilies are sewn, in lieu of the "showers" of small nosegays and many ribbons.

For the bridesmaids' bouquets, ribbons of wide changeable taffeta are modish, especially when there are unusual colors in the scheme of costuming, to be emphasized. Purple blue and green is the chameleon coloring of the bouquet of apricot colored roses carried by the maid of honor, whose photograph is on this page.

Household Hints

A NUT PICK kept close by the pantry table or in the refrigerator will prove a perpetual convenience when removing the pasteboard disks from the top of milk bottles, pickle jars, etc.

When washing fabrics of delicate colors, do not rub soap on the article itself. Instead, make a suds first, and immerse the piece in it, rubbing gently between the hands. Ginghams, whose color is likely to run in the first washing should previously be soaked in cold water to which a tablespoonful of turpentine has been added.

If colored embroidery is to be washed, the colors can be kept from running, in some instances, by rubbing the piece in a mixture of bran and hot water. Boil half a pint of bran and the same quantity of water together slowly for twenty minutes, strain and add a pint of boiling water. Squeeze and rub delicate laces in this. Rinse in water to which salt has been added. Dry quickly and do not fold wet pieces, as the color is liable to run into the white material.

14666 - Card Case Embroidered with Ribbon

Seemingly small trifles of dress may make or mar the effect of a costume. On one such as shown above, the new embroidered Wedgewood design appears as the decoration for a fancy card case. The effective wreaths and leaves are fashioned quickly with a fine ribbon, carried in a needle, and used as one uses heavy floss. Ribbasine is also used for this kind of embroidery. The card case is mounted over a piece of cardboard, and finished with a fine cord. White linen cases or blue linen with white motifs will be in vogue for Summer.

FASHION in dining table appointments has evolved a novel shaped service cloth for each person, in place of the several larger and smaller doilies accorded to the individual. The pieces, slightly triangular in outline, as shown above in the dainty scalloped cloth with embroidered grape pattern (14650), are designed for a round polished top, and a table set with four, six or more of them, according to size, is very symmetrical and attractive. Each cloth is sufficient for a large plate, a bread-and-butter size, tumbler, cup and saucer, for all of which various sizes of round doilies have long been used. A set of the new linens make a beautiful wedding gift, and can be made at small expense, other than time, by one who does French and eyelet embroidery. The pattern with two transfers for stamping, 13½ by 15 inches, is 15 cents.

WOMAN'S EFFICIENCY.

The opening to women of a rapidly increasing breadth of service in city government, witnessed by their selection in many cities for school board membership, police service, fire inspectorships and various lines of social service work in particular, has demonstrated women's ability to meet the most severe tests and to cope successfully with the most exacting conditions on a par with men who long have held monopoly in the public service.

Woman's efficiency has withstood the acid test in a manner to leave no longer any excuse for sex prejudice in the city's service. Her invasion of the field, in fact, has been simultaneous with a demand for greater efficiency, which leaves food for thought. She has shown that she can fill some places in public service at least as well and perhaps better than man. As policewoman, she has had her greatest trial and proven her superiority for certain branches of that service. As fire inspector, she has proven highly efficient and valuable in New York city. As housing inspector, unofficial, in Chicago, she has brought needed reforms. On school boards, including many in New Jersey, she has demonstrated her most general ability, while in social welfare work, the men must doff their hats to her.

"I believe where they have been employed women have shown a particularly high order of ability and fitness for public service," says Robert Adamson, New York city's fire commissioner, in explaining why he has named women to serve as inspectors in his bureau because woman applicants "had passed a difficult and technical examination which showed their ability" to perform the work required. This tribute, from such a man of affairs, should be gratifying to the fair sex, but Chief Adamson goes on to say further that he has found in the city departments of New York "many extremely capable, zealous and public spirited women who take unusual interest in their work and who take no note of the hours of their service but rather measured their work by the urgency of the task to be done."

These are a few of the signs of the times pointing to the growing selection of women for city service. Cities are demanding efficiency and if the New York chief's tribute is sustained, the fair sex may expect continued growing popularity in public service, ballot or no ballot.

A QUESTION OF FAIRNESS.

No one disputes that tradespeople in New Jersey should be placed on an equal footing with those who are in other states, no matter what their line of business may be. If a man in North Plainfield sells a bill of goods in Plainfield he is allowed to deliver it to Plainfield, unless he happens to be a wholesale liquor dealer. Then he is barred. But if the liquor dealer happens to have his place in New York he can deliver anything he wants to in Plainfield, merely because his action is one of interstate commerce, and the State authorities cannot interfere with him.

The Legislature which adjourned last week had before it a bill drawn for the purpose of placing New Jersey dealers on the same footing with every other kind of business man, and on the level with New York and Philadelphia department and grocery stores, giving them the right to make sales outside of the municipalities in which they are licensed. Under existing conditions although the privilege is denied the New Jersey licensee, the upper courts of the State have set aside all fines imposed upon foreign dealers. A North Plainfield licensee would have his business forfeited if he tried to follow the plan of the out of the State people.

Plainfield was one of the first cities to proceed against outsiders and had all its costly work for nothing. A similar action has now been instituted by a local wholesaler against a New York concern and the matter is pending. If the bill which the Legislature failed to pass had gone through the situation would have changed materially. The Daily Press has no desire to further the liquor interests in any way, but at the same time no fair minded person can deny the fact that from a point of view of justice the bill which failed to pass had its merits. As the New Brunswick Times puts it:

"No matter how strongly one may be opposed to the manufacture, sale or use of intoxicating liquors, he must agree that the law should be fair, and if there is to be any discrimination it should not be against our own people and in favor of strangers. There are in every Legislature a lot of timid persons who shy at every bill dealing with any phase of the excise question; but the most earnest local optionist, prohibitionist or moderate drinker could consistently vote for the Brackner bill to give to New Jersey taxpayers and licensees the same privileges that are enjoyed by non-residents.

Judging from the list of names considered by the North Plainfield Board of Education in connection with the appointment of a successor to Arthur B. Vossler, the position of supervising principal there is a very desirable one. Changes in the directorship of the borough schools have been numerous during the last few years and much care is being exercised by the Board in the selection of the new man. The office is remunerative and carries with it an indefinite term and therefore it is not difficult to understand that there should be attracted the calibre of men whom the Board members are now considering. Applications have been received from three different States and although a score or more were filed with the teachers committee at the last meeting it is said that the choice has simmered down to one of two men. It is probable that the teachers committee will bring the matter to the attention of the Board before arriving at a definite choice as it is desired to obtain a unanimous vote on the proposition. This latter step is advisable so that the new supervising principal shall have the satisfaction and consciousness in assuming the place, of knowing that he has the support and confidence of the entire school board, thus assuring him of the co-operation and encouragement which a fair trial demands.

That the Board of Education has nothing to conceal, and stands ready to answer any questions which may be put to them regarding the conduct of the schools, was proven last week when the twenty-two queries compiled by President Jeffery of the Board of Trade brought full responses. The Board of Education seems to have been a very much misunderstood body, and now that they realize that fact the members are doing everything possible to take the people into their confidence. The answers which were given to Mr. Jeffery were complete in every way. There was no effort to evade any facts or figures, and the Board has shown in more ways than one that the local educational system is as good as any, and better than a great many. Probably the most interesting feature was the figures showing the growth of the schools, and the need of every cent now being spent for salaries. The Board stands ready to answer any reasonable queries that may be put to it, but in order to simplify matters it seems that a good way for citizens to secure information would be to seek the aid of the officers of the Board of Trade.

BIBLE SCHOOL HAS ENROLLMENT OF 896

Annual Report Shows Baptists Gained 79 in Membership Last Year.

The annual report of the Bible school of the First Baptist church presented at the Easter services, yesterday, shows a total enrollment in all departments of 896, an increase of 79 during the year. Seventeen were added to the church from the school during the year; there were four deaths, Altie Conger, Alvin Jennison, Miss Mary J. Thickstun and Deacon R. W. Barnes. Ten classes were added, five primary, four intermediate and one adult. The adult department has now been divided into senior, 54 members, and adult, 351 members.

The report of the treasurer shows total receipts of $1,195.67, and expenses of $1,098.23, leaving a balance of $97.44. The library account shows a balance of $86.87 and the missionary account a total of $438.53 received and $409.61 expended. The total balance on hand of all funds is $213.23.

An interesting note in the report was that two servant girls in Connecticut were brought into the Bible school. Later they returned to their native State, started a home department which developed into a Sunday-school with 300 members. The summary of the annual reports covers a wide range of activities on the part of the school, of which Arthur M. Harris is the energetic and efficient superintendent.

CHILDREN GIVE PLEASING PROGRAM AT GRACE M. E.

Easter exercises at the Grace M. E. Sunday-school attracted many yesterday afternoon, when music prevailed throughout. Among the interesting features of the occasion was the raising of a floral cross during the singing of the anthems led by the school orchestra. During the service, the pastor, Rev. C. C. Cain, gave a very inspiring short address.

R. M. HONEYMAN CLOSES REVIVAL AT HOPE CHAPEL

A large audience attended the farewell service at Hope chapel, when R. M. Honeyman gave the last of his evangelistic addresses last evening. A song service, led by a chorus choir, was a feature of the occasion. The speaker referred especially to the years of preparation which the world is at present enjoying, as well as the future homes already prepared for the human race.

Mr. Honeyman urged his hearers to make their preparation for the eternal complete by excepting Christ as their personal Saviour. During the service, about thirty signified their desire to accept the Christ and follow in the steps of the Nazarene. During the session of the Sunday-school in the afternoon, several took a definite stand for Christ after a short address by Mr. Honeyman.

JAMES A. DOIG WEDS MISS HAZEL CLARK

Announcement was made yesterday of the recent marriage of Miss Hazel Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Clark, of Wallace place, to James A. Doig, of Morris street. Both of the young people are active in the work of Hope chapel and have a host of friends and acquaintances in the West End. Mr. Doig is employed by A. M. Griffen & Company, of East Front street, and was a member of the Hope chapel basketball team. Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony at his residence in The Bristol.

CIVIC ASSOCIATION TO AID TROLLEY EXTENSION

The West End Civic Association has decided to join with the Plainfield and South Plainfield Boards of Trade in an effort to have the Fourth street trolley extended to South Plainfield, and President Vail has named a committee to attend the hearings before the Public Utilities Commission. The association has also decided to work in the interest of permanent street pavement suggested by the councilmanic street committee.

The dinner committee reports progress in its work. W. L. Saunders will be the toastmaster at the dinner and Mayors Percy H. Stewart and Robert Clark, Jr., will be among the guests and make short addresses. The list of speakers will be announced later by B. K. Davis, chairman of the committee. The dinner committee will meet tonight to perfect plans.

"GO TO CHURCH CLUB" FORMED BY YOUNG PEOPLE

Thirty young people under the age of twelve years formed a "Go-to-Church Club" at the Congregational church, yesterday, the matter being in charge of Rev. C. L. Goodrich, the pastor, and was arranged in connection with the Easter exercises. The school also decided to observe "Ivy Day," and a committee was named to arrange the details. The plans for the new club formed yesterday include some suitable recognition for those who have a perfect record in attendance at the end of three months. Following the services yesterday, Mr. Goodrich presented the children with daffodils.

WOMAN AGITATOR IS PUT OUT OF CHURCH

Tries to Interrupt Easter Service With Speech.

New York, April 13.—Miss Jane Est, who has taken a leading part in recent I. W. W. disturbances, tried to break up the Easter services at the Madison Square Presbyterian church. Her effort failed in the face of the organ's heaviest tones, the voice of the congregation uplifted in song and the determined physical exertions of James H Tibbits, the sexton.

The agitator said she came to instruct Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst in theology. She has attempted similar service toward Father Schneider of the Church of St. Alphonsus.

The collection had just been taken and the elders were turning from the pulpit railing after the short prayer. Mr. Montgomery was about to announce the next hymn. Then from her seat in the front of the row of the gallery above the reading desk a large woman wearing a heavy gray coat and a white veil stood up, waving a copy of a newspaper. In a high pitched voice she shouted:

"Ladies and Gentlemen—I have here an article written by the pastor of this church in regard to the I. W. W. This article is not written in a Christian spirit. It has nothing to do with the spirit of Christ."

There was an uneasy stir in the congregation. Some one in the rear of the church shouted, "Sit down! Shut up!" Mr. Montgomery seemed inclined to pay no attention. He announced the hymn, but his voice was not heard. The woman had raised her voice to its highest pitch, and she was so angry that her words were not distinguishable. It was just one scream after another. The congregation remained quiet, but Howard E. Parkhurst, the organist, pulled his stops for full organ and the church rocked to the sonorous tones of "Lift Up Your Voice In Triumph on High." She was later arrested.

$500,000 HOTEL IS BURNED.

Canadian Hostelry Destroyed by Fire Just Been Renovated.

St. Andrews, N. B., April 13.—The Algonquin, a large summer hotel, owned by the Canadian Pacific railway was destroyed by fire here at a loss of $500,000. The structure had been renovated recently and was nearly ready to be opened. It contained 500 rooms with elaborate fittings.

Starting on the shingle roof of the old part of the building, the flames were quickly fanned beyond control by a high wind. There was practically no fire fighting apparatus visible, and in a short time all that remained standing were the concrete walls. A nearby cottage, also owned by the railroad company, was burned.

KING GUSTAF'S PROGRESS.

Surgeons Report That He Suffers Less and Sleeps Well.

Stockholm, April 13.—Further progress toward convalescence was announced in the surgeons' bulletin regarding the condition of King Gustaf issued from the Sophia hospital, where his majesty was operated upon for ulceration of the stomach on Thursday. The bulletin says:

"The pain which his majesty was suffering has diminished considerably and his condition gives reason to hope there will be no set back to his majesty's recovery. He is resting comfortably."

GIRL WINS $12,000 SUIT.

Award Is For Fingers Crushed and Arm Burned In Machinery.

St. Paul, April 13.—Miss Edith Graseth, seventeen years old, of Minneapolis has been awarded a verdict of $12,000 against the Northwestern Knitting company. The trial lasted three days.

According to the complainant, her right hand was caught in a mangle and the fingers so badly crushed that amputation was necessary. She also declared that her arm was so badly burned that skin from other parts of the body had to be grafted.

PUNISHED FOR ANNOYING GIRL

Worker Who Followed Her Home Suspended Under Company's Rule.

Pittsburgh, April 13.—The arrest and punishment in police court of Frank Martin brought out the fact that various factories in the Pittsburgh district have issued orders for their men to be courteous to women workers.

At the hearing it developed that Martin, who was arrested for following a girl home from the factory, had already been suspended under this rule.

GUNMEN DIED AT DAYBREAK

prayers. The warden, the principal keeper and every other man in the death house, prisoner or official, knelt.

On the eve of the execution an attempt was made to put the electric chair in the death chamber at Sing Sing prison out of commission and thus delay the carrying out of the sentence.

This was admitted at the prison today. It was learned that the special dynamo connected with the electric chair had been pounded to pieces by blows with a hammer. If the damage had not been detected a postponement of the execution would have been necessary.

A prison employee is under suspicion, and an investigation is now being carried on by Warden Clancy and Principal Keeper McInerny.

E. C. Davis, state electrician of Massachusetts, the inventor of the electric chair and the chief executioner at Sing Sing, tested his apparatus on Saturday and found everything working satisfactorily. He went to New York city on Saturday evening and had not expected to return until shortly before the time set.

Through the "underground system" in Sing Sing, however, it was learned that some one had wrecked the delicate electrical apparatus. A number of bolts and nuts were missing altogether. Mr. Davis was called on the telephone when the discovery was made. He made a flying trip to the prison and sent to New York for an entirely new dynamo and with a number of assistants spent hours in installing the new apparatus.

Newark, New Jersey's Greatest Store

Today Marks the Opening of Our Great Spring Display of Upholsteries

One of the finest Showings Newark Has Ever Seen--Come!--Be Our Guest

Making the home attractive—giving it a real touch of homeliness—and in a word interior decorating—is a profession. And in such a profession we lay full claim to being experts, for in every particular we put every element of art and every degree of specialists' efficiency. Our past records speak for themselves—our facilities are of the best, and our special corps of assistants are most proficient in suggesting the harmonious and decorative.

With these few facts firmly in mind, we ask you to spend an hour or two with us tomorrow. Everything is so splendidly ready—a room here suggests summer—another shows the manner of decorating tastefully, and so on it goes throughout the entire upholstery section.

As we turn into one of the lanes we find a corner where the most dainty pink scheme imaginable is set forth. The walls, the window draperies, the wicker furniture—everything so pink and fresh.

In detail the furniture, including the chairs, rocker, bureau, the dresser and table are of the white reed type—upholstered with the prettiest rose-colored cretonne. Curtains, too, are of floral effect cretonne. Even the pictures that adorn the walls seem to blend perfectly with the general scheme, also the two small rugs, of the Dolly Varden type.

Another corner, known as the blue room, is certainly most tasteful. The furniture is of gray enamel reed, with cushions of floral cretonne, showing the tiniest and most dainty old blue stripes. The paper on the wall is of white jasper, finished at the top with a faint rose border, contrasting splendidly. Several small Dolly Varden rugs of faint blue and white tones comprise the floor coverings. It's a decidely blue room—but oh, so neat, and so attractive!

And so we wander on, coming into a yellow room, or boudoir, where we find shellac finished reed furniture, with coverings of cretonne, showing yellow flowered effects with the greenest of real green leaves. Turning into another lane, we find corners—just as you would have them in your own home—where the newest of draperies are displayed—window seats with cretonne cushions and madras curtains. Then we find a quaint four-piece cottage suite—upholstered in English print cretonne. This suite is a splendid example of the way that old pieces may be revived—made new and attractive. The reupholstering of this particular suite was done in our workrooms.

Everything in this display came from the regular Hahne stock—the curtains, the furniture, the pictures, the wall papers, screens, beds, rugs, everything.

So we cordially invite you to visit us tomorrow. May we expect you?

To make your visit interesting and profitable we have provided special economies.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

ELEVENTH HOUR SPURT LANDED COURT CHAMPIONSHIP FOR PARISH HOUSE FIVE

Three field goals by Jack Ricketts in the last minutes of play gave the Scotch Plains Parish House basketball team a second victory over the Y. M. C. A. quintet on the latter's floor Saturday night, the final score being 26 to 19. This trio of pretty two point counters happened to be the captains only contribution during the second half of play but he rang them at the cycological moment giving his aggregation a victory that carries with it the championship of Plainfield, North Plainfield and surrounding suburbs.

The second contest was in many respects similar to the first, the same hard, gruelling fight being put up by the respective forces. During the greater part of the issue the Y. M. C. A. led by a narrow margin but when the final test came the visitors proved their superiority by taking lightning advantage of a moment's let up in the guarding of the Y. M. C. A. goal preventers. A large gallery of interested spectators witnessed the fracas and the sentiment appeared to be evenly divided, numerous spectacular shots and clever blocking supplying cause for frequent outbursts of enthusiasm. The bitter rivalry and laurels at stake lent roughness to the battle and fouls were numerous, Scotch Plains counting eight times from the fifteen foot mark and the Y. M. C. A. making good on five of the tosses.

Frequent rough-house periods lent sensationalism to the encounter and the contest was even more spectacular than the initial one. In winning Scotch Plains was forced to display an article of basketball that has not been equaled by a team in this vicinity during the entire season and if matched against another local contender of any calibre the 'Plains crew would undoubtedly run away with the verdict.

Close guarding was an outsanding feature of the visitors' trend of battle and the Y. M. C. A. forwards were kept "covered" in excellent style from whistle to whistle. During the opening period the association boys had decidedly the better of the argument and although the period ended in an 11 to 11 tie, the Y. M. C. A. five had scored four spectacular field goals against its rival's three. A wonderful display of stamia came to the rescue of the visitors in the last session, however, and their advantage in weight soon began to tell on their lighter opponents. The game was a man to man exhibition of basketball, each of the five players singling out an opponent for the issue and clinging to the two man style of battling.

For the Y. M. C. A. team in the first half the two forwards and Brynarski furnished the field goals and in the second session this trio was held in close submission, the entire scoring in the last session being done by Glover and Dunning. The scorers who broke into the tallying in the first half were held without a field goal in the second and the players who scored the association five's trio of field goals were the scoreless duo in the first.

Ricketts, Dallas and Marsten were the laurel bearers for the winning side. The captain, although held by Brynarski to a single goal until the last minute of play, took advantage of a sixty second letup and romped away on a wild rampage that gave his team the championship. He led with a quintet of field goals and Dallas and Marsten came second with a brace each. Naylor also bagged one in the second half. Smith's guarding was a brilliant feature of the contest. The little 'Plains goal preventer played his opponent to a standstill and broke up many a play that was journeying toward the two point climax.

SLOCUM WILL PITCH IN WEEK END LEAGUE

Local Boy to Wear a Morrisville Uniform During the Coming Season.

Louis Slocum, the local southpaw, will twirl for the Morrisville team, of the Delaware River League, according to an announcement he made yesterday afternoon. Many rumors have been current regarding Slocum's appearance in different places this summer, but the announcement made by him sets aside all of the other probabilities unearthed by dopesters.

Slocum says he is through with league baseball, as far as the organized circuit is concerned as he has a good position and intends to stick to manual labor. The Delaware River League operates Saturday afternoons and the team with which Slocum has signed is one of the strongest on the circuit. On Sundays he will probably wear an Elizabeth uniform.

WOMEN GOLFERS GIVEN A BOOST

Plainfield Players Advanced by the Metropolitan Women's Association.

MISS HOLLIS LEADER

Mrs. Stockton is Raised Two Places and Mrs. Rogers Advanced One Rung—Leader is Placed in a Class by Herself in Handicap List.

Mrs. H. R. Stockton, one of the foremost women golfers of the Plainfield Country Club, has been moved up from 5 to 3 in the handicap list of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association, which was compiled last week. Mrs. Stockton secured this creditable rating through her excellent work in the women's national championship, and in the one-day tournaments last year, wherein she won the prize for showing the greatest improvement of any woman player in the district.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, another local woman golfer, who plays under the colors of the Baltusrol Club, and who did so well in the one-day tournaments the year before last, is advanced from 2 to 1, despite the fact that she did not duplicate during last season the brilliant record of the year before. The advancement of Mrs. Rogers leaves Mrs. T. H. Polhemus, once a national runner-up alone at 2.

Miss Marion Hollins, of Westbrook, the young woman who beat Miss Georgiana M. Bishop, of Brooklawn, in the final round of the women's metropolitan championship at Nassau and afterward was runner-up to Miss Gladys Ravenscroft in the final round of the national championship at Wilmington in the fall, is placed in a class by herself.

When the list for 1913 was announced a year ago, Miss Hollins was given a rating of 2, although it seemed to be generally recognized that it would not be long before she would go even better. She was the runner-up to Mrs. Elizabeth Earle at Englewood the year previous. Winning the local championship in May as she did, caused the committee to revise its list just before the fall season, and Miss Hollins was given the distinctive ranking of plus 3, a stroke better than her fardriving club mate and the former title holder, Miss Lillian B. Hyde. Miss Hollins' performances, however, except at Wilmington, were not such as to entitle her being placed 4 strokes better than Miss Bishop, for in the fall the scratch position was done away with and Miss Bishop's rank is now in the 1 division.

Studying over the matter this winter, the handicapping committee, therefore, became imbued with the idea that plus 3 was too much of a burden anyhow, with the result that in the new list Miss Hollins is alone at plus 1, and Miss Hyde takes the scratch position.

There has been a fine shakeup in nearly every division of the handicap list, and there are probably three hundred women in the metropolitan district, all told, who are ranked. Perhaps the most radical change is that which appears in the 3 division. This contained only three names a year ago, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Florian Krug and Mrs. Lawrence Swift, the last two named of Englewood, and in the fall Mrs. A. S. Rossin, of Century, was advanced from 5 to 3; Mrs. W. J. Faith, of Wykagl, from 4 to 3, and Mrs. A. G. Gahn, of Century, from 8 to 3.

Then in the 4 set the newcomers are Mrs. William Chilvers, of Dunwoodie, who had 7; Mrs. Howard F. Whitney, of Nassau, who had 8, and Mrs. Percy Ingalls, of Essex County, who had 9 last year. In practically every division throughout the entire list such marked changes can be noted, but the foregoing takes in practically all of those who might have a bearing on the championship.

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

Following the announcement of many alleged dates the Plainfield basketball season was finally brought to a close Saturday night when the Scotch Plains team triumphed over the Y. M. C. A. aggregation. As in the previous conflict between these two rivals, the visitors asserted their superiority beyond a doubt, and to them belongs everything that goes with the verdict. Displaying a superior article of the court game made up of aggressiveness, stamina, accurate shooting and some excellent passing, the 'Plains crew evidenced beyond all question its right to all of the titles that are laying loose around these parts. Such exhibitions of basketball as the one Saturday night come few and far between, but it might be well for the managers of the two forces involved to get together earlier next season and stage a few more such contests in this section.

The curtain fell on the Y. M. C. A. season Saturday night, completing one of the longest schedules played by any team in this section. Taken as a whole the resume is full of eccentricities and the Association quintet has been treated to more than its share of ups and downs. The latest surprise came at the hands of Scotch Plains, the latter crew taking two decisive victories from the locals who had previously trimmed North Plainfield High School, one of the 'Plains' team few conquerors. The Y. M. C. A. lost a pair to Hope Chapel, a team that failed to consider Scotch Plains worthy of consideration. On the other hand the association youths have beaten such teams as the New York University Law School, Trenton Deaf and Dumb College, Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. and the Summit team.

A review of the local court season brings to light the names of teams that have never before appeared on a local basketball court and local basketball followers have been treated to exhibitions of the pastime that surpass those of any other season. One of the longest seasons of sport was a great success and the way is now clear for the National Pastime to get under way again.

Local cyclists, taking advantage of the ideal weather conditions were out in large numbers yesterday afternoon and last night, limbering up for the annual races of the local club. The event is not very far distant now and many of the pedal artists have gone into spring training.

Some agitation is going the rounds for the formation of a Y. M. C. A. baseball team. We see no reason why the local Association should not be represented on the ball field. In years gone by the Y. M. C. A. was a leader in the popular outdoor game hereabouts.

The reorganization of the Saurer and Public Service teams suggests another city league. The organization last year was far from a success and it is up to the magnates to go slow this season.

Where's the fellow who said the Federals were a joke a couple of months ago? Most of these dopesters have suddenly become noncommittal.

Big league teams are putting on the finishing touches to spring training today in preparation for the opening of the season tomorrow afternoon. The lid is off at last.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Query—Will you please give me through your query columns a few streams near Plainfield where I could get a day's trout fishing and how far they are from here, as I intend to journey by bicycle?—P. C. S.

Answer—You will find large trout near the headwaters of Greenbrook, near Watchung.

Sporting Editor:

Query—How can they electrocute four men for the life of one?—C. D. S.

Answer—You'll have to write to Governor Glynn, of New York State, for that information. We refuse to comment on the electrocution of the gunmen and that is probably what you refer to.

Sporting Editor:

Query—I understand that there is a "lawful currency" and "legal tender currency" in the United States. How, if so, are they distinguished?—J. D.

Answer—Gold, silver, United States Treasury notes and notes of the authorized National Banks are lawful currency. But the law limits the amount of silver coins under the value of a dollar which each bank, postoffice or creditor is obliged to receive in payment to $10; and of cents to 25. Up to such amounts only are they "legal tender."

Sporting Editor:

Query—Why should trees be planted in the early spring or late fall?—B. C. S.

Answer—Any farmer or gardener will give you full information.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Can I enlist in the navy without letting my parents know? I am under eighteen.—H. F. T.

Answer—The law reads "Minors over eighteen may enter without the consent of their parents, but they must furnish a birth certificate or a verfied written statement of parent or guardian as to age." Only American citizens of good character, who may reasonably be expected to remain in the service, are enlisted and every applicant must pass the prescribed physical examination, be able to read and write English and must take the oath of allegiance.

ERRATIC CONTEST WON BY LEAL TEAM

Somerville High School Nosed Local School Boys by a Score of 7 to 6.

Captain Faber's Leal School players lost out Saturday on Crescent Oval to the Somerville High School lads, by a count of 7 to 6. Kershaw, although he got fourteen strikeouts, weakened perceptibly after the first few rounds. Robeson, the visiting catcher, played a steady game. Of the home talent Schneider, Faber and VanDeventer put up the best game.

Katz, the first man up, hit safely, touched second and third and crossed the platter on three successive passed balls. In the second stanza five hits, three stolen bases, two passed balls and an error netted the Somervillians four counters, but it was enough to chase Voorhies from the mound to left field. VanDeventer came in to third and played the position like a veteran, Schneider taking the catching and Faber the pitching berths. Somerville gained one more in the third and eighth by passes combined with hits.

VanDeventer got a life the first time up, on an error by Katz. Faber advanced him with a single, but he was nipped at the plate trying to make two bases on a wild throw by Katz. In the second, fifth and ninth rounds, the private school lads garnered four runs. In the second with two down, Stevenson hit safely, Dale and Schneider each drew passes, but Garrigues came across with a timely two bagger. In the fifth Schnieder and Garrigues received free trips to first, and VanDeventer advanced them each a peg with a Texas leaguer. Kershaw passed Voorhies and Lyon after Faber had hit safely and Stewart fanned. Garrigues hav-

In the ninth Faber singled for the third time. Stewart forced Faber. Mellor, batting for Voorhies, drew a pass, but in turn was forced by Lyon. Stevenson hit to Kershaw who threw over DeFreest's head, permitting Stewart and Lyon to score. Dale walked but Schnieder left him stranded when Kershaw put on steam and fanned him.

Marathons Were Behind But Crept to the Fore and Won by Two Points.

Playing the preliminary game in the Y. M. C. A., Saturday night, the Marathon A. C., a borough junior quintet, defeated the Peerless A. C. representatives by a score of 33 to 31. Although the Peerless team was ahead at the conclusion of one half by a score of 16 to 11 the Marathons were better fitted to go the entire route and a spurt launched in the second half sewed up the contest for the Canadians.

The Marathon players broke loose with an avalanche of field goals in the final session, every member of the team accounting for at least one of the two point variety in that stanza. Kirch and Seidel led the scoring for the winners, while Cottrell and McNamee upheld this end for the Peerless aggregation.

The score:

"WILL PLAY THIRD BASE"--JACK MARTIN

Local Leaguer Drops in to Give us the "Once Over" Before the Bell Taps.

Jack Martin blew into town this morning and will make daily trips between here and Brooklyn while the Boston Braves are playing a series with the Trolley Dodgers during the next few days. When the bell rings tomorrow afternoon Jack expects to be holding down the difficult corner for the Hub aggregation, having been shifted to that position to "sub" for Deal who sprang a "Charley Horse" last week. Friday and Saturday, Martin played the third station for the Braves and did some clever work for the team.

When asked if he had landed a permanent berth, this morning, Jack replied, "I should worry, tomorrow the bell rings the opening and the shekels begin to roll in." He was optimistic of his chances of remaining with the Braves, however, and the probabilities are that he will be retained as a utility man, having displayed his versatility in several different positions. According to his own statement he is in the best of health and his old time jinx has apparently deserted him for the time being at least.

The Boston balltossers are putting the final polish on their spring training this afternoon on the Brooklyn sand-lot and the two teams will come together in the curtain raiser at that place tomorrow. Martin considers Maranville as the most likely candidate for the shortstop berth, if his praise of the little Cuban is to be taken as a criterion, and the Plainfielder's only chance of maintaining a place in the infield machine seems to be to beat out Deal for the far bag.

INDIVIDUAL LEADERS DROPPED DURING WEEK

Blatz and Demler Took Big Falls in League Race—Stout's Team at Helm.

J. E. Waldorf, captain of team No. 3, has replaced Frank Blatz as leader in the Elks Club bowling tournament individual average race and the former top notcher has dropped to third place in the 175 class. Demler, who formerly led the 165 class, has fallen to fourth rung and his former position is occupied by Vail. The team lead is still held by Stout's pinners with the Waldorf crew running a good second. The following official averages were issued by the secretary of the league today:

BAPTISTS DOUBLED THE SAURER SCORE

Church Boys Came Out Ahead in the Opening Contest of the Season.

The First Baptist Sunday-school League ball tossers started off another season of baseball Saturday, with a victory over the Saurer City Leaguers by a score of 4 to 2. The contest was an exceedingly well played and interesting one for so early in the season and the Baptist players were forced to extend themselves to the limit in order to come out on the bigger end of the count.

The lineups of the two teams resembled those of last year in many respects and all of the performers put up an excellent brand of the diamond sport. Several shifts were made in the lineups of the two teams during the game in order to give all of the players a chance to shine in the first contest of the season and the substitutes put up a strong argument in each case.

The encounter was featured by heavy hitting, five two baggers and one three base hit being chalked up during the encounter.

The score:

SEERY AT ALLENTOWN.

"Big Bill" Seery and Ed Hartzell, two well known ball players who formerly played on the local baseball team and later performed for Somerville and Bound Brook, are now members of the Allentown aggregation and in a contest Saturday afternoon with the Baltimore Giants helped Allentown to win by a score of 16 to 1. Seery was credited with a brace of hits and Hartzell pounded out three. Seery caught the game and contributed a three bagger.

MME. SCHAFER-BENITTE SOLOIST AT ST. JOSEPH'S

A feature of the 8:30 mass special Easter program at St. Joseph's church, yesterday morning, was the rendition of a soprano solo by Madame Josephine Schaefer-Benitte, a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Madame Benitte assisted the choir throughout the service and her individual number stood out as one of the musical treats of the service. She had not been heard in Plainfield in many years, owing to her absence abroad, and her many admirers were delighted with the state of perfection her voice has reached.

Madame Benitte, who is better known here as Miss Josephine Schaefer, resided in Plainfield with her parents for many years. Her father was then in business at Fourth and Liberty streets. Madame Benitte sang in St. Mary's choir for several years and when the value of her voice became apparent she pursued her musical studies under America's best instructors. Later she went to Europe where she achieved great success as a member of various operatic companies, principally at Berlin and Milan. She returned from Italy three months ago.

Madame Benitte has been conducting a studio for voice culture in New York and announced today she had plans underway to open a studio in Plainfield. She is at present visiting Mrs. Lafayette Rosensteihl, of Somerset street.

ORDINANCE OF BAPTISM ADMINISTERED TO TEN

The annual Easter eve baptism services were held in the Heavenly Rest church Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the Rev. Cortland H. Mallery officiating. The church was decorated with palms and cut flowers and the ceremony was of an impressive nature.

The ordinance of baptism was administered to Elizabeth Ingraham, Grace Metler, James MacGee, Mrs. Joseph Miller, Jane Moore, Ella Miller, Rost Miller, Grace Miller, Joseph Miller, Jr., and Robert Miller.

SOCIAL FOR BRANCH W. C. T. U.

A special meeting of the Young People's Branch, W. C. T. U., of a social nature will be held tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. William J. Hamilton, 407 East Seventh street. There will be no business transacted but the entire evening will be given up to entertainment. There will be a surprise, a most unusual and unique feature having been prepared. Refreshments will be served during the evening. All members are invited and are asked to bring any friends who will be interested in the branch. President Mrs. Mary D. Tomlinson, of the W. C. T. U., will give an address about the late Mrs. Lillian M. Stevens. Mrs. T. C. Bodine will report on what the order has done and hopes to do.

PRESENTED WITH FLOWERS.

The Sunday-school of the Netherwood Reformed church held its Easter exercises, yesterday afternoon, during wich the Ladies' Aid Society presented Rev. C. W. F. Attlee with a bouquet of flowers. Those who took part in the program given by the children were Ruth Hoffman, Madeline Hansen, Augusta Carson, Mildren Hoffman, Grace Farley, Margaret Collins, Mabel Rhodes, Alice Leacock, Claudia Gonod, Evelyn and Edna Hughes, Theresa Harnes. Mrs. T. O. Rush presided at the organ and R. O. Martin at the piano.

MARTINE'S PLEA FOR RICHARD M'CULLOUGH

Borough Young Man, Lieutenant in Navy, Fails to Pass New Tests.

Senator James E. Martine had a protracted conference Saturday with Navy Secretary Daniels, over the case of Lieutenant Richard McCullough, son of R. H. McCullough, of North Plainfield, who failed to pass a recent examination for promotion in the navy, owing to deficient rating in navigation.

The Senate said he had known Lieutenant McCullough since he was a barefoot lad, and that his career in the navy had been highly meritorious, as shown by official records.

The secretary's new efficiency rating order, which went into effect just as McCullough's examinations began, was blamed as the cause of the defective rating, which by a few marks, runs a chance of barring the lieutenant's promotion.

Secretary Daniels became deeply interested in the case, and finally assured Senator Martine that he would not permit the new order to work an injustice.

EASTER SERVICES AT HEAVENLY REST CHURCH

An elaborate program of Easter music was rendered in the Heavenly Rest church yesterday at the 11 o'clock service. Holy Eucharist was celebrated a the 7 and 8 o'clock services as well as at the last. The interior of the edifice was appropriately decorated with palms, Easter lilies and cut flowers and Wendell C. Glover, the organist and choirmaster, had charge of the musical program. At the 11 o'clock service the following program was rendered: Processional, hymn, "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today," Monk; hymn before sermon, "He Is Risen," Sounder; "Communion Service in E Flat," Simper; offertory anthem, "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today," Hall; recessional, "The Strife Is O'er," Palestrina.

The services were all well attended, the Rev. Cortland H. Mallery officiating at each. In the afternoon a special children's Easter service was conducted, an address being delivered by the pastor. Evensong was held at 7:30 o'clock, Mr. Mallery delivering the sermon. The following musical program was rendered: Processional, hymn, "At the Lamb's High Feast," Elvey; hymn before sermon, "Jesus Lives," Gauntlett; "Magnificat" and "Dimittis," Bunnett; hymn "Angels Roll the Rock Away," Roper; recessional, "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today" Rimbault.

FLOWER GUILD TO MEET.

The executive committee of the local branch of the National Flower, Fruit and Plant Guild will meet tonight at the home of the president, Joseph Harper, at which time the constitution and by-laws will be drawn up. The Guild will meet tomorrow night at the Friends' Meeting House, when the organization will be completed, and the detail of the work mapped out.

GAVE $40 FOR MISSIONS.

A congregation so large that some had to be turned away attended the service at Mt. Zion M. E. church, yesterday when a cantata of Easter music was given by the vested choir. At the session of the Sabbath-school, an Easter program, "The Resurrection Glory," was given by the pupils. At the evening service, an offering of $40 was raised for missions.

DRESS REHEARSAL.

The Washington Dramatic Club will hold a dress rehearsal for the play, "Paddle Your Own Canoe," which is to be given at the Washington School, tomorrow night. The scene of the play is in a dentist's office and the settings will be identical with such an office. There are interesting love scenes which are sure to be of interest.

APPROACHING WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph I. Tolles, of Westervelt avenue, have issued invitations to the wedding of their daughter, Miss Inez Marie Tolles, and Arthur Hazeltine, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Westfield. The ceremony will be performed at the home of the bride-elect's parents Saturday, April 25.

HAROLD SCHENCK PREACHED.

Harold W. Schenck, son of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, was the supply minister at Wilson Memorial chapel at the services, last night. His topic was "The Things that Count." A company of Trinity people from this city attended the service in a body.

DANCE AT MT. BETHEL.

The Mt. Bethel volunteer fire company, No. 1, will hold an entertainment and dance on Saturday night, April 25, at the Mountain House, that place, to raise funds with which to pay the debt on the apparatus.

DINNER AND RECEPTION.

The Ladies Aid Society of the First M. E. church will serve its bi-monthly dinner in Vincent chapel tomorrow night at 6:30 o'clock. Following the dinner there will be a reception to Rev. Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Anderson.

MISS WINIFRED COON BRIDE OF CLARENCE HOFFMAN

Miss Winifred Coon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthias Coon, of Watchung avenue, was married to Clarence Hoffman, of Park avenue, by the Rev. J. Sheridan Zelie at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Miss Carrie Coon, a sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and John McClelland was best man.

A reception was tendered the newly-weds at the bride's home following the ceremony and the couple were the recipients of many handsome rememberances. Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman will live at 10 Craig place.

LODGE CELEBRATES.

Court Union, No. 3277, Independent Order Foresters, celebrated its fourth anniversary on Saturday evening at Coward Hall. State officers were present and speeches on fraternal topics reigned during the social hour. An orchestra of stringed instruments furnished music and refreshments were served in conclusion of the affair by the good and welfare committee.

TEACHER RESIGNS.

Miss Olive Dugan, science teacher in the seventh and eighth grades of the Somerset school, will not return to school tomorrow, having sent in her resignation to Supervising Principal Vossler, this morning. She lives at Albany and has obtained a good position near her home. She came to this school last year as a substitute and later took the regular position.

"THE PERILS OF PAULINE."

"The Perils of Pauline," Pathe's newest picture, will be the feature at Proctor's today. It is running in serial form, and will be offered every second Monday. "Brewster's Millions" in five reels will be presented the last of the week. Edward Abeles the original star, will be seen in the leading role.

JUNIOR EASTER EXERCISES.

The Junior C. E. Society of the Mary E. Wilson E. Wilson Haupere-Mary E. Wilson Memorial church, is holding its Easter exercises this afternoon, when Bibles will be presented to those who have the best records for attendance and reciting the twenty-three Psalm and one hundred Psalm and memory verses.

J. L. MUNDY'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of James L. Mundy was held this morning from the Trinity Reformed church, Rev. J.Y. Brook officiating. There was a large attendance of Civil War veterans. The interment was made at Hillside cemetery.

GRASS FIRES.

A quartet of grass fires occurred between 12 and 1:30 this afternoon which kept the departments from headquarters and the Netherwood houses busy for a time. Two occurred on Randolph road, one on George street and one on Leland avenue.

Miss Mabel Ennis, a student at Barnard College, is spending her Easter vacation at the home of Miss Jennie Sears, of Westervelt avenue.

MAKE YOURS A PUBLIC SERVICE STORE

This is the age of service. The rewards of today go to the men who give the most in return.

Translated for you, Mr. Merchant, this means that the customers are certain to patrohize the store that will give them what they want when they want it.

Cut prices may bring some trade, but better service will bring more.

This is the age when people are reading the advertising in their daily newspapers because they are finding it a distinct part of the service they expect their newspapers to give.

When a nationally distributed article of merit is advertised in the newspapers a demand for it sets in right away.

People want to see it and, if satisfied, want to buy it.

They are going to turn to the store that lets them know it has the article. That store will be giving them the service they want at that particular moment.

If it is a good article they are going to remember the store where they got it and will come back to that store again.

Co-operate with the manufacturers who come into the newspapers of your town to exploit their goods and you will be building business for yourself.

Not a home in this city bu has its quota of discarded furniture, rugs, stoves perhaps, a wheelbarrow maybe.

A few cents for a Press want ad and some one who needs the very article that lies rotting in your garret will call and pay you for it.

You are better off—new owner is pleased—and the article itself is contributing to the reduction of the high cost of living.

English Home of The Washingtons Dedicated to Peace

In a quiet rural neighborhood, where the farmhouses are quaint and antiquated, stands Sulgrave manor, the one time English home of the Washington family. The manor never really saw George Washington or his father or even his grandfather, but the Washington family possessed and occupied it during most of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. It is still possible to distinguish over the main entrance to the old building the heraldic device of stars and stripes which Washington accepted as his own coat of arms and which is commonly regarded as the origin of the American flag.

What a fortune had that shield of a private English gentleman—to become the most notable blazon of all the world! Strange to think that this little obscure stone coat of arms in a secluded village should be the original of so much—should still be extant. As strange to think of the contrast between the torpid and monotonous rustic life surrounding it with the rush of existence in our great republic.

In the summer of 1911 the suggestion was made by a prominent member of the British peace committee that the historical property should be purchased and dedicated as a memorial to the peaceful relations existing between the two countries during the past century, the dedication to be one of the features of the international celebrations in 1914. This idea immediately met with popular favor, and this favor has crystallized into tangible support, with the result that now the British committee is able to announce that it has acquired the property, and the idea of dedicating it to peace will be consummated in due season.

A committee of custody has been appointed, and as the memorial will be visited primarily by visitors from this country it has been considered advisable to have the co-operation of an American committee to arrange for the international celebration and its dedication. The manor will be made into a hall of records, where matter pertaining to Anglo-American unity will be kept. It is understood that a lecture chair will be supplied by the purchasers and that James (now Viscount) Bryce, ex-ambassador to the United States, will be its first occupant.

The manor is a charming piece of old architecture, gray with the rains, frost and sunshine of 300 years. The house stands at the eastern extremity of the village of Sulgrave, in Northamptonshire, and it is approached from the west by a pretty green croft, separated from the almost encircling road by a hedge.

To the right of the gable end of the manor is a low stone wall with an arch gate, facing a small court, partly paved and partly in grass. From the courtyard the house is entered by a handsome old stone doorway, above which a little attic projects from a tiled roof. The fine old Tudor doorway is surmounted by a shield containing the Washington coat of arms, which three centuries have somewhat robbed of its original sharpness, but which is still unmistakable.

The old building is in an excellent state of preservation. The main hall has a fine fireplace and an oak beam ceiling. The ancient oak staircase has very beguiling twisted banisters and a fascinating secret cupboard at the intermediate landing. The drawing room is on the second floor, as was the custom in the days when it was built, and in one of the bedrooms it is said that Queen Elizabeth once slept. The surrounding estate consists of about 200 acres of gently rolling land, substantially all of it in full view of the manor.

Unfortunately little of the village of Sulgrave as it was in the days of the Washingtons now remains. A disastrous fire in 1675 swept the village, and only a relic may be seen here and there in an ancient house. Most of the streets are set with neat brick houses. Coming toward the Church of All Saints, one might fancy oneself in the business center of some minor New England city, but with rather less of glare and noise, and the community held in certain abeyance by the presence of the old church.

In dedicating the manor as a memorial to the peaceful relations existing between the two great English speaking nations during a century the British committee has created a permanent memorial of permanent interest.

Trinity Reformed church and the First Baptist church will hold their annual meetings on Wednesday evening.

NEEDLEWORK

By MARGARET LAWRENCE

TWO CONVENTIONAL FLOWER DESIGNS FOR EMBROIDERING TOWELS.

As fresh towels are very essential in keeping the skin healthy, one can never have too many. Attractive towels may be made of huckaback or fine birdseye-toweling and embroidered with pattern No. 12438 or 12439. These designs come in long strips of one and one-half yards each and are both four and seven-eighths inches wide. They are also suitable for embroidering sheets, pillow-cases and bureau-scarfs and may be developed in white or a color. The bow-knots may be worked in heavily padded solid work or outline-stitch and seeding, and the daisies and leaves, in solid work and eyelets. The other flowers should be embroidered in solid work and the leaves in thousand-flower stitch.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfer patterns for these designs can be supplied to readers upon receipt of price, 10 cents each.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

The vest is a very important fashion detail this season and goes far to make a dark frock becoming. It also offers a practical idea for remodeling a dress that is somewhat out-of-date.

This design is well suited to a wool fabric or one of the heavier silks.

Many of the fashionable materials this fall show a rather loose weave. These are apt to stretch when being stitched and to pull in the seams after being worn for a time if something is not done to prevent it. One way is to run a line of machine stitching along the outside or sewing edge of each piece before joining the seams.

7675 closes in front, has a removable chemisette, a full length sleeve and a three-piece skirt.

It may be made in size 36 with 4½ yards of 36 inch material and ¾ of a yard of contrasting material for the vest and trimming sections.

The pattern is cut in 5 sizes; 34 to 42.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps to the Pattern Department of this paper.

DELICIOUS USES OF CELERY.

WE have now plenty of celery in the market, and, while tender, succulent young stalks are nice served in salads or eaten with salt, there are always odds and ends that, while not especially attractive, are too good to throw away. Celery which is a trifle tough will be found to be all right when cooked.

Simple Ways of Serving.

Braised Celery au Gratin.—Make some bechamel or cream sauce and pour it over stewed celery, sprinkle with crumbs, grated Parmesan cheese and melted butter and bake in the oven to a nice golden color.

Creamed Celery on Ham Toast.—Take celery sticks three inches long, cream sauce, minced ham and buttered toast. Simmer the celery sticks until tender in salted water to barely cover. (Do not throw the liquid away, but add to the stock pot.) Spread the buttered toast with the ham, arrange on a platter, pour over the cream sauce and set three sticks of celery on each slice of toast.

With Tomatoes.

Celery With Gravy.—Take one head of celery, one ounce of butter, one large tomato, three-quarters pint of beef or mutton gravy, salt and pepper; wash the celery and cut it into pieces about four inches in length; wash these again, place them in a saucepan with water to cover and parboil; drain well; melt the butter in a saucepan, put in the pieces of celery and toss them over the fire for a few minutes; cut the tomato into slices (canned may be used), add to the celery, pour over the gravy, put on the lid of the pan and place by the side of the fire to simmer gently until the celery is quite tender. When done take out the celery, arrange on a hot dish, strain the sauce over and serve very hot.

Savory Celery.

Celery With Cheese.—Take one head of celery, two ounces of grated Parmesan cheese, one and one-half gills of white sauce, one ounce of butter, stock, bread crumbs, salt, pepper; wash the celery, remove the outside sticks, cut the celery in small pieces about one inch long, put them in a saucepan containing boiling stock; boil gently until tender; it will take about twenty minutes. When done take up and drain; melt the butter in a stewpan, put in the celery, toss over the fire, then add the sauce and two-thirds of the cheese; stir over the fire until thoroughly mixed and hot; turn out on a dish, sprinkle with the remainder of the cheese and a few breadcrumbs; put into a hot oven to brown the top; then serve.

The Cat Picked the Choicest Meat.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

How the Cat's Banquet Stopped The Traffic.

JACK and Evelyn used to often wonder why daddy never seemed to say anything about the traffic in the city. When they went to the city they were always at first afraid of all the noise and the quantities of cars and autos and trucks that moved so quickly along the streets.

After they'd been there awhile they realized that everything was managed so beautifully by the big policemen that there was nothing to be frightened at. But they always thought seeing so much traffic was wonderful.

"Everything does go just like clockwork in the city, doesn't it, daddy?" said Evelyn.

"Yes," said daddy; "it certainly does, as a rule. But I must tell you of a funny thing that happened one evening in a very busy part of the city.

"A cat discovered there was a tiny piece of glass broken in the window of a butcher shop. Now, you can't just imagine how quickly the cat got through that window!

"There was one light burning in the shop, although, of course, the shop was closed for the night. And then didn't the cat have a feast! Never before had she known the joy of having everything she wanted to eat at one time with no stopping.

"Some people saw what a good time the cat was having and stopped to watch her. And then more and more people stopped, they were so amused.

"It was just like seeing a funny play to see the cat pick out the choicest morsels of meat and play with them and then eat them.

"The crowd of people grew more and more. The street became so crowded that no one could pass by. Soon it was so thick with people that the cars and autos could not pass.

"After the cat had eaten as much as she wanted of all of the butcher's large supply of good things a watchman suddenly appeared on the scene.

"With the help of a great many men the watchman finally succeeded in getting the crowd to move, and then he got into the shop. But the cat simply flew out of the window again and disappeared into a side alley, where probably she lived, as a rule, on bits she could pick up.

"Such a looking butcher shop as it was now, for even if the cat had not quite eaten everything she had tried everything, and she had eaten a surprising amount even for a hungry cat.

"'Well,' said one person who had been watching the cat, 'I think that that cat is the cleverest one I've ever seen. Not only does she want to eat, but she knows just when to escape in time after a splendid meal and, what's more wonderful than everything else, she stopped the traffic of cars and autos and trucks and people who might have been in a hurry to get somewhere.'"

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Mabel D. Slater, of Mt. Lebanon, and William Terriberry, of Glen Gardner. Upon their return from a brief wedding trip they will reside at Glen Gardner.

Edson J. Neighbour, of Lower Valley, lost two valuable farm horses last week.

Mrs. John Rowlett, of Califon, is spending a week with her sons in New York.

J. Newon Alpaugh moved his family last week from Glen Gardner to Bunnvale.

Former Freeholder Morris P. Eick, of Woodglen, has announced himself as a candidate for sheriff at the Democratic primaries in the fall.

The High Bridge Common Council has appointed Clarence Garrison, of Somerville, borough counsel for the year.

The High Bridge High School baseball team defeated the Clinton High School team on the former's grounds last Thursday, 18 to 4.

The Lebanon township Board of Education organized by electing Joseph Apgar president and George F. Hoffman vice-president.

The annual debate between the High Bridge and Flemington High Schools will be held at High Bridge, Friday night, April 24. The topic selected is "Resolved, That the United States should increase her navy so as to compare in fighting strength with any other nation." High Bridge debaters take the negative side. The oratorial contest between the two schools will also take place the same evening.

A ball will be held tonight in Rialto Hall, High Bridge.

125,000 SEE SHOW IN ATLANTIC CITY

PANTALETTE IN EVIDENCE

Police Object to Slit Skirt Effects of Two Daring Costumes—Banish Wearers From Boardwalk—Men Also Take Some Attention — Few "Wet" Spots Found—No Serious Accidents.

Atlantic City, N. J., April 13.—Color ran riot in yesterday's big Boardwalk pageant, and the combinations seen easily featured the huge demonstration, in which 125,000 or more persons participated. Hats ran second for popular attention, the styles and shades of the remainder of milady's costume being the real attraction.

The weather conditions were the best in years for the Easter parade. When the morning promenade started at 10 o'clock the wind was capering across the water from the northwest at six miles an hour and scarcely a cloud was to be seen.

The much talked about pantalette made its appearance on the tango dance floors in the cafes, but it paled into insignificance when fair promenaders flashed lace flounced hosiery as the under garments to slit skirts. Two women who failed to take this precaution were promptly banished from the Boardwalk early in the afternoon when the police sighted them.

The hats of the women promenaders were of the almost flat style of fifty years ago, with rolling brims and trimmings from which feathers were nearly entirely absent. There were bright bits of ribbon folded into all manners of shapes and flowers that found their place underneath instead of on top. Another style had net—stiff, finlike sprouts of net—along the outer edge of the crown. Many severely trimmed panamas appeared.

The men also made a bid for attention by going to the extremes in form fitting togs, with straw and high hats with loud bands.

Boardwalk restaurants stationed special officers at their doors to handle the throngs that sought tables. The cafes had no such luck. The only wet spots were the bubbler fountains. Liquor had been on sale for at least an hour after midnight, but the cafe men refused to take a chance with stiff penalties for selling during the day.

The shoreward flow of humanity did not cease until after 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when the final incursions arrived. The exodus was well taken care of by the railroads, which are running specials in addition to the sections to the regular trains as fast as they can clear the tracks. No serious accidents were reported.

SUFFRAGE DEBATE PLANNED.

Prominent Speakers to Appear at Trenton Y. M. C. A.

Trenton, N. J., April 13.—With E. C. Stokes as the presiding officer and speakers of national fame engaged to make the argument there will be a suffrage debate in the Y. M. C. A. here Thursday evening next. The meeting will be held under the joint auspices of the Trenton Civics and Suffragette club and the Trenton branch of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

For the "antis" the speakers will be John A. Matthews of Newark and Miss Lucy J. Price, a newspaper writer, of Cleveland. Mrs. Helen Hoy Greely, a field worker for the National American Woman Suffrage association, and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York will speak for the suffragists.

GULPS POISON AS HE WALKS.

Young Englishman Out of Work Swallows Sixty Grains of Mercury.

Kearny, N. J., April 13.—William Davies, twenty-three years old, whose parents live in Bolton, England, took eight tablets, containing sixty grains of bichloride of mercury, and is dying in the Stumpf Memorial hospital here.

Out of money and unable to find the kind of work he wanted, Davies walked the streets and country roads, swallowing the tablets. He would take one tablet, and as it had no immediate effect he would take another. Then he dragged himself to the house of Elmer Blanchard at 800 Elm street, North Arlington, tapped on a window and told Blanchard to get a doctor.

He took the first tablet, it is said, at the spot where Adolph Adam, a politician, recently committed suicide.

CONDENSED STATE NEWS.

Frederick Hill, sixty-five years old, of Newark, was found dead in bed from gas which escaped from a broken bracket.

Frederick Egner, assistant treasurer of the Half Dime Savings bank of Orange, with which he has been connected for the past thirty-five years, has resigned.

Fireman Joseph Chenoweth of Engine Company No. 1, in Newark, in climbing into a rig was thrown. His skull was fractured, and his recovery is doubtful.

Five persons were injured in a runaway at Newton. A carriage belonging to Charles Emmons crashed into one with Mrs. John Ferens, Mr. and Mrs. Wilkens and Professor Philip Wilson, headmaster of the Newton Military academy. All were hurt, Professor Wilson seriously.

NEW HAVEN TRAIN PLUNGES OFF RAILS

Express Leaves Tracks Near Rye, N. Y.

Rye, N. Y., April 13.—More than a dozen passengers were injured, others were severely shaken up and scores were near death in the wreck of the Green Mountain express on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, about half way between Harrison and Rye, N. Y. The locomotive, mail and baggage cars and two passenger coaches left the rails at a switch and plowed along a considerable distance, one of the coaches toppling over on its side, it is said, when the momentum of the derailed train was nearly spent.

The wreck was the second within twenty-four hours on the New Haven road. Only a few hours earlier a train from New Britain, Conn., was wrecked by spreading rails near the station at Newington, Conn., and a fireman was killed and some passengers injured.

Leaving this city at 8:03 o'clock with coaches for Montreal and routed to pass over the New Haven and Boston and Maine roads by way of Springfield, Mass., the train was wrecked while running fast.

Men, women and children were thrown together indiscriminately by the crash, and great excitement prevailed for some minutes. Women shrieked and several fainted, but they were quickly revived.

Aid was sent to the scene of the wreck from Rye, Harrison and other nearby towns. Many passengers were cut by flying glass.

The Green Mountain was in charge of W. J. Murphy as engine driver. Whether the wreck was caused by spreading rails or some fault at the switch cannot be determined until after an investigation.

SAGAMORE HOTEL BURNED.

Noted Lake George Resort Is Completely Destroyed.

Glens Falls, N. Y., April 13.—The Sagamore hotel and contents at Bolton landing of Lake George, erected in 1893 by the Green Island Improvement company at a cost of over $150,000, was totally destroyed by fire of unknown origin. The nearby cottages were not damaged, but the servants' dormitory and the laundry were consumed by the flames. Lack of fire fighting apparatus made it impossible for the villagers awakened by the tolling of the church bells in the hamlet to check the flames. The loss is estimated at $250,000. The hotel was a three story wooden structure and could accommodate 350 guests.

Among those interested in the company are John Boulton Simpson, president of the Estey Piano company; E. Burgess Warren of Philadelphia and the heirs of George Burnham, late of Philadelphia.

The hotel was built to replace one erected by the company in 1883, which was also destroyed by fire.

Insurance of $150,000 was carried, and a new hotel will probably be put up.

$500,000 TO CHOIR.

Frederick G. Bourne Places It on Permanent Basis.

New York, April 13.—The Easter collection at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine included a check for $500,000 from Frederick G. Bourne, president of the Singer Manufacturing company and former commodore of the New York Yacht club.

The contribution is to be placed in the endowment funds of the choir school of the cathedral. This means that the choir is placed upon a permanent independent basis. The only condition of the gift was that Commodore Bourne should be elected a member of the cathedral choir, which was done immediately.

Points for Mothers

The Children's Stockings.

The first requirement in stocking economy is to buy substantial stockings which will wear well. When you buy a new pair of stockings soak them in water for a couple of hours and dry them in the open air. This loosens the texture and softens the threads. Being more pliable, they will wear twice as long.

It is well to buy children's stockings as long as possible. Some careful mothers turn them in around the top, thus doubling that portion of the stocking about the knee. The tops are whipped just below the knee, and loops of tape are sewed on for the stocking supporters.

Certain reliable grades of stockings if treated in this way will last the children two seasons. Of course different weights are worn in winter and summer.

Some mothers lengthen the life of stockings by putting new feet on old legs, others by firmly believing and following the old maxim, "A stitch in time saves nine." The foundation darning stitch is one which all who embroider need to know.

It is a splendid plan to rub the heels and toes of stockings after they have been washed with paraffin. This prevents the sliding of the shoe from wearing a hole in the stocking, as the paraffin has to be worn off first. A person who has to walk very much had better wear thick stockings, as they run less risk of blistered feet.

Colds and Chills.

Colds and chills however slight must not be neglected. "Only a cold," we say and try to still anxiety, but it must be remembered that bronchitis and pneumonia frequently follow close on the footsteps of an apparently simple cold.

At the first sign of a chill give the little one an aperient, then put him in a warm bath with a tablespoonful of mustard in it. Next wrap him warmly in a blanket and give a hot breakfastcupful of nourishing broth; then pop him into a warm bed. If the temperature is normal and there is no sore throat you need not worry. Baby will probably be himself again in the morning.

Children who are susceptible to colds need cod liver oil. The following is a good way to give it them: Thoroughly beat two new laid eggs, add half a teacupful of cod liver oil, stir well, then mix in the same quantity of honey. Add slowly, stirring all the time, the juice of half a lemon. Give the little ones a teaspoonful or two night and morning during the treacherous winds. It will strengthen the constitution, soothe the chest and keep the cold out, and—this is a grand recommendation—it is a nutritive food, not a medicine.

Let Girls Help Mother.

Many girls nowadays suffer from overmothering. They are never given a chance to help in the slightest degree with the running of the house because mother sees to everything. They never do the least little bit of sewing or knitting or mending for themselves because mother always says: "I don't think you can do that, dear. I'll do it for you." At every step they are overshadowed by their too energetic mother.

Consequently they grow up ignorant of the domestic arts. And in after years no one laments their incapacity more than their mother. But, though she acted with the very best intentions, it is really her fault. The children who turn out the best are usually those who are left to fend for themselves a good deal.

When Accidents Happen.

A child should never be whipped for anything done by accident, such as knocking an ornament over, breaking the window or some similar thing which he did not intend to do. Corporal punishment should always be reserved for deliberate and persistent naughtiness, not for mere carelessness.

The second point to remember is never to whip a child while you are angry about his offense. Take time to cool down and consider matters. While you are reflecting the child will probably do the same, and presently you may find that he is really sorry and the whipping is not needed after all.

Baby's Last Meal.

The time for a year old baby's last meal for the day depends somewhat on the baby. If the child appears quite satisfied with supper at 7 p. m. it is sufficient until 7 a. m. the next morning. On the other hand, should baby want to be fed when it awakes at 10 p. m. (and most babies do), it may be given the following: Milk, six tablespoonfuls; water, one tablespoonful; limewater, one tablespoonful; sugar of milk, one teaspoonful.

Blisters on the Lips.

Sulphur is a good, safe corrective for blistered lips, and glycerin and borax should be applied locally. Give the child so afflicted half a teaspoonful of flowers of sulphur in a dessertspoonful of molasses before breakfast. It is an old fashioned remedy, but most effective. Mix half an ounce of borax with two ounces of glycerin and smear on the tongue and lips where blistered.

Entertainment and Instruction For Children—A Game That Tests the Memory — Some Facts About the Blustering Month of March.

tableaux were given in which children took the leading parts. Some of the little folks were dressed and posed to represent noted paintings, while others posed as famous individuals. One of the best of these was the impersonation of George Villiers, first Duke of Buckingham, a famous courtier of the reign of Charles I. Master Walter Maynard portrayed this character, and those who have ever seen a picture of that old time gentleman will agree that Master Maynard made a pretty looking duke.

One Old Ox.

This is a game of memory in which you pay forfeits for mistakes and also for laughing.

The players sit in a circle. One begins by saying solemnly, "One old ox opening oysters." Everybody repeats this in turn. Then she begins again, "One old ox opening oysters; two tired turtles trotting to Trenton." This goes round the circle. The next is, "One old ox opening oysters; two tired turtles trotting to Trenton; three tame tigers taking tea." This is repeated by each one, beginning always with "One old ox" and adding a new alliteration each time. Some examples are given here, but it is more fun to make them up as you go along:

"Four fat friars fishing for frogs."

"Seven salmon sailing southward."

"Ten taciturn tomcats traveling tandem."

"Eight elegant engineers eating early eggs."

"Ten tall tinkers toiling tremendously."

"Five flirting fairies fighting fireflies."

Month of March.

March was called by the ancient Saxons the Lenet monath (Length month), because in that month folks began to clearly notice how the sun rose earlier and sank later each day. It is a blustering, windy month and was named in honor of Mars, the god of war, the strong, ceaseless winds that sweep over the fields and pastures dry out the moisture that fills the ground, and thus it is a month for planting and sowing.

Many of our little neighbors of the woods, like the rabbits, come cautiously out in search of the tender green dainties which March kindly bestows on them.

The sign of the zodiac for March is Aries, the Ram. As the ancients thought of the sun as having horns of light and heat, so the twisted horns of the Ram symbolize the increasing power of the sun's rays in this month. This genial, welcome warmth melts away the last patches of soft snow from the hollows of the fields and places shaded by trees or rocks.

HUERTA AGREES TO SALUTE FLAG

Promise of Reparation Is Finally Made.

TO END TAMPICO INCIDENT

According to Dispatches, Officials of the Mexican Government Are Now Discussing the Character of Salute. Situation Still Tense.

Washington, April 13.—The Mexican government has agreed to the demand of the United States that a salute to the stars and stripes shall be fired as reparation for the insult to this government through the action of a federal colonel at Tampico in parading a paymaster and squad of marines from the gunboat Dolphin through the streets of that city as prisoners.

According to dispatches received at the state department, officials of the Mexican government and Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American charge, are now discussing the character of the salute and the extent to which the reparation shall go.

The situation is complicated only by the reluctance of the Mexican government to accede to certain details of the apology demanded, but it is believed here that the incident will be adjusted in accordance with the terms laid down by Rear Admiral Mayo, commanding the naval force at Tampico.

Deny Any "Ultimatum."

Officials were anxious to have it understood that this government had not delivered any "ultimatum" to the Mexican government. They asserted that the dispatches showed that no crisis existed in the relations between the Huerta administration and the government of the United States and that the negotiations over the Tampico incident were progressing satisfactorily.

For a time some officers of the government thought that the Tampico affair had brought matters to a head between Mexico and the United States. This was due largely to the failure to get responses to messages sent to Mr O'Shaughnessy and Admiral Fletcher.

During this period of uncertainty one official advanced the theory that General Huerta had changed his mind about apologizing to the United States for the insult to the flag and had severed telegraphic and cable communications with the intention of forcing Admiral Mayo to land armed forces on Mexican soil to compel compliance with his demands.

This idea was advanced on the theory that if American forces were landed on Mexican territory Huerta could retire from the presidency gracefully on the plea that he was forced to do so by the intervention of the United States.

The fact that such a proposition was really advanced shows the condition of mind of government officials and how critical they thought the situation was.

Ever since the insult to the flag at Tampico officials have suspected that the Mexican government was purposely interfering with the prompt transmission of dispatches to and from Mr O'Shaughnessy. A message sent to Mr O'Shaughnessy on Friday, directing him to insist on compliance with Admiral Mayo's demand for apology and reparation, did not reach the American charge until 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. No official word has reached here of the establishment of a censorship over press dispatches.

Importance is attached here to reports that General Carranza, the "supreme chief" of the revolutionists, has yielded to the United States and agreed hereafter to give official cognizance to communications of this government concerning aliens.

There is still great anxiety over the situation at Torreon. General Velasco and his army are reported maneuvering near Parras.

Spain is pressing the United States for some action as to her subjects in Mexico, and the situation in the "fighting zone" is described as chaotic.

SUES FOR $89,000 POLICIES.

Lumber Millionaire's Widow Seeks This Sum From Insurance Companies.

Duluth, Minn., April 13.—Mrs. Sarah McAlpine, widow of the late John McAlpine, whose death by shooting several months ago caused a sensation, filed suit against three accident insurance companies to recover amounts aggregating $89,000.

The Fidelity and Casualty company of New York is defendant in an action to recover on a $50,000 policy, the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company of Los Angeles, Cal., is sued for $15,000, and the London Guaranty and Accident company, limited, for $24,000. The complaints were filed in district court.

McAlpine, who was a lumberman and rated as a millionaire, was mysteriously shot at an early hour on the morning of Aug. 15, last year.

Night and Day Signals.

Washington, April 13.—Representative J. W. Alexander of Missouri, chairman of the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries, has introduced in the house a bill to enable the United States steamboat inspection service to establish night and day signals to be carried by vessels to mark an obstruction to navigation or a point where wrecking operations are in progress.

WEALTHY MEN FOR JURY DUTY

First List of Grand and Petit Talesmen Drawn Under New Law.

AN ARRAY OF TALENT

Almost Every Vocation and Calling Represented Among Those Selected—Names of Plainfielders Chosen by Commission.

Sheriff William H. Wright and Jury Commissioner Charles A. Russ, at Elizabeth, yesterday, filed with County Clerk James C. Calvert, the first jury list compiled under the new law and from which the May term grand and petit jurors will be drawn before Judge James C. Connolly next week. There has been keen interest in the first selection of jurors under the new law.

The list comprises a remarkable directory of prominent Union county residents, there being 300 names from which the twenty-three members of the grand jury will be drawn, including the names of many wealthy and influential men, widely known in professional, mercantile and financial circles. Four clergymen are on the list, eleven brokers, one railroad president, four bankers, seven physicians, sixteen retired business men, twelve manufacturers, six men holding municipal offices at the present time, four county officials and several who have previously held public office.

Almost every vocation and calling is represented by the names listed in the grand jury list alone. The list can be divided into several groups to form combinations of artisans and experts capable of performing stupendous tasks. For instance, there are thirty real estate and insurance brokers, twenty-five contractors, fourteen superintendents, nine foremen, eleven stock and bonds brokers, twelve manufacturers, four bankers one mason builder, one painter, two plumbers, two civil engineers and three architects.

Another group could edit and publish a daily newspaper, with a staff composed of one publisher, one illustrator (Clare V. Dwiggins, of this city, is the creator of The Times comics), two printers, two editors, one lithographer, three machinists, one telephone operator, one collector and several capitalists borrowed from the first group.

In addition to the seven physicians there are one dentist, four undertakers, four clergymen, five florists nine druggists and one veterinary surgeon.

Also two butchers, six hardware dealers, five dry goods merchants, one baker, thirteen salesmen and clerks, one walking delegate, eight accountants and bookkeepers, five stationers, eight coal and ice dealers, one miller, two photographers, four clothiers, one dairyman, one dealer in house-furnishings, three bank clerks, one port captain one jeweler, one seafood dealer, three laundrymen, one furrier, four produce dealers, one electrician, two auto dealers, one decorator, one daughtsman and three farmers.

Every community in the county is represented in the list, the representation being in ratio to the population of the municipality. Elizabeth is represented by 142 members, almost one-half of the total; Plainfield has 45; Rahway, 21; Westfield, 15; Summit, 17; Cranford, 9; Linden borough, 2; Linden township, 3; Roselle, 2; Roselle Park, 7; Fanwood borough, 3; Fanwood township, 2; New Providence borough, 3; New Providence township, 4; Union, 8; Garwood, 4; Hillside, 2; Mountainside, 1; Springfield, 8; Clark, 1, and Kenilworth, 1.

Hyman Adelberg, Amos Andrews, Marion S. Ackerman, Ernest R. Ackerman, George L. Babcock, William G. Besler, William R. Causbrook, John E. Curtis, Ferdinand E. Dorman, Clare V. Dwiggin, Louis A. Hummer, Joseph Harrigan, Frank J. Hubbard, De Witt C. Ivins, Fred F. Ivamy, William Jeffery, William C. Kinny, Edward A. Laing, Robert L. Lee, George J. Luhr, John P. Laire, Harry W. Marshall, Armstrong Mulford, Robert H. McCready, Harry B. McDonald, Emil Pauly, Samuel Rothberg, Blanchard Randolph, Charles S. Sminck, Henry Stockton, Charles L. Stanley, Matthew E. Stewart Arthur E. Smith, Robert Schreiner, Frank P. Stone, Ralph I. Tolles, William R. Townsend, George J. Tobin, Duncan W. Taylor, Harry C. Van Emburgh, Charles H. Witzel, Floyd T. Woodhull, Frank W. Weed, Harry Werner.

SETTLE INSURANCE FOR CARRAR'S DEATH

Drowning Victim Not in Benefits, But Rules Are Waived in His Case.

The drowning of Albert Carrar early last summer in the old Copper Mine, Warrenville, is recalled by the settlement of his insurance by the Independent Order of Foresters through William L. Bingham of the high court of New Jersey. He had been a member of this order only a few weeks and was two days late in paying his dues, according to the by-laws of the order, and was not legally in benefits, but being young and somewhat ignorant the high officers thought they would be lenient and pay his insurance.

This would have been done long ago, but he had made his uncle, Frank Carrar, beneficiary when he joined the lodge and having a sister in Italy at the time who arrived in this country a few weeks later, he had expressed a wish to have his beneficiary changed for her benefit but died before it was done. It was finally settled by Mr. Bingham, giving Frank Carrar $700 and his sister $300 when she becomes of age.

CHARITY BALL A GREAT SUCCESS

Annual Function Exceeded the Anticipations of Holy Name Society's Committee.

HANDSOME COSTUMES

Judging Done by Mayor Percy H. Stewart, Councilman Richard A. Claybrook and Tax Collector William R. Townsend.

Originality in the selection of costumes lent a pleasing aspect to the second annual charity ball held under the auspices of the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's church in the Columbus Club auditorium last night, fully 600 guests being entertained during the evening and early hours of the morning. The dancers were garbed in unique costumes of many colors and the regalia of the guests harmonized and blended with the elaborate decorations. An enterprising committee of society workers had transformed the interior of the large club into a scene of gayety and excellent terpsichore music was rendered by a full orchestra.

As a success the affair far eclipsed the monster ball of last year and although the number present was not as large as on the previous occasion those who attended were treated to a far better program of entertainment. The spacious dance floor of the auditorium was thronged during the entire evening and the reception rooms were also thrown open for the use of the patrons. In the basement of the club refreshments were served between each dance and many of the guests took advantage of various other forms of amusement that presented themselves during the evening. The gathering was representative of Plainfield's social business and civic endeavor and delegates from every branch of city work were present. The city government was represented by Mayor Percy H. Stewart, Councilman Richard A. Claybrook and Tax Collector William R. Townsend, who acted as judges in the contest for the most unique costume.

Clergymen representing local and borough ecclesiastical institutions were present and considerable favorable comment was forthcoming on every hand regarding the excellent manner in which the ball was conducted. The commendatory remarks were expressed publicly by Mayor Percy H. Stewart and Father B. M Bogan, the speakers of the evening. The terpsichore program was interrupted long enough to listen to a few well chosen remarks by these men. Both of the honorary guests complimented the Holy Name Society on the good work it was doing for local charity and expressed wishes for a continuance of the endeavor along a more far reaching scope. Although the affair was fostered by the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's church, the proceeds, which will probably reach $1,500, will be devoted to alleviating distress among the poor of all nationalities and religions in this city.

The winners of the prizes offered for originality in the selection of costumes were Miss May McAfee, first prize; Miss Emma Sullivan, second prize; Miss Elizabeth Mara, third prize; Joseph Stavish, fourth prize; Miss Alice McAfee, fifth prize; Miss Catherine MacCauley, sixth prize. The creations worn by various dancers included the garb of numerous historic characters, some dating back to early centuries, quaint habits worn by folk of strange lands, splendid dresses of Oriental countries, grotesque costumes and every strange curiosity that ingenuity could devise.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Albert F. LaRock general chairman; Michael B. Caffrey, assistant chairman; Timothy J. Meaney, secretary; Wilber Schaeffer, treasurer; John Griffen, James J. McCann, Thomas Farrell, David B. Doyle, Frank Cullen, Michael D. O'Keeffe, Thomas Roddy, John Sloyan, John J. Hines, Martin Regan, John McCaffrey, John J. Gallagher, Thomas A. Moore, Patrick Diver, John J. Varley, John F. Miller, Joseph T. McCue, Peter J. McDonough, Daniel McCarthy, John Hurley. Assisting the above committee were the following women:

Mrs. Wilber H. Schaeffer, chairman; Miss Mary A. Smith, secretary; Miss Nellie Meaney, Miss Emma Sullivan, Miss Katherine Flynn, Mrs. M. D. O'Keefe, Mrs. Daniel J. Courain, Miss Katherine McCauley, Miss Josephine Murphy, Miss Mary Nugent, Miss Anna Daley, Miss Annabel McAfee, Miss Alice McAfee and Mrs. Albert F. LaRock.

NEWS REPORTER HELD HERE AS A SUSPECT

Ruttledge Gardner Remanded on Suspicion for Alleged Part in Robberies.

Arrested by Police Chief Kiely, of this city, Chief Mulcahy, of Elizabeth, and Detective Welsh, of the prosecutor's office, in Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon, Ruttledge Gardner, a reporter in the employ of the New York American, is held a prisoner in the local police headquarters suspected of having some connection with the numerous petty robberies that have been committed in the residential section of Plainfield during the past month. The man is being detained merely on suspicion and Chief Kiely is conducting a further investigation in Elizabeth today, where the prisoner has been living. If he can prove that he is in no way implicated in the local robberies he will be turned over to the authorities in Rahway, where he is wanted for breaking parole.

According to the police of Elizabeth, Gardner has a police record, having been apprehended for forgery. He was formerly employed on an Elizabeth newspaper and was arrested in that town for the above offense. When arraigned in the Rahway police headquarters recently on a charge preferred by the authorities of that place he was put on parole.

Gardner will be held in the local jail pending the outcome of Chief Kiely's investigation in Elizabeth. An effort will be made to secure any information that he may have regarding the local robberies when he is put through a grilling late this afternoon.

WITNESSES SAY BALL WAS RACING FRIEND

It is Alleged That Fatality Was Caused by Speeding Machines.

Russell Ball, of Bound Brook, whose motorcycle hit a horse driven by Isaac Kupenberg of Dunellen, in Middlesex borough, Sunday afternoon, is lying in a serious condition in the Somerville Hospital as the result of injuries sustained in the accident which caused the death of Mrs. Isaac Kupenberg, who was one of the occupants of the wagon driven by her husband. As the result of the young man's condition the prosecutor has discontinued the investigation into the circumstances surrounding the case until some further time.

Ball, in a statement to the police, said that he was riding slowly at the time of the accident; in fact, he says, he was coasting, his power being shut off. When he saw the wrecked wagon, he asserts he swerved to the left, not seeing Mrs. Kupenberg lying in the road where she had been thrown when the horse took fright several seconds before Ball drove up. He is twenty-five years old and for the last five years has been a chauffeur. He was riding with a man named Voorhees when the accident happened and the two were returning from a day's outing at Schooley's Mountains. Ball, according to stories told by Voorhees' friends, offered to race him to Dunellen and back and the men were on the home-stretch of their alleged race when the fatality occurred. Ball is more seriously injured than was at first reported and he will be in no condition to appear in court for some weeks.

MANY FEATURES PLANNED FOR CLUB'S "LADIES' NIGHT"

On Tuesday night, April 21, the House Committee of Columbus Club will hold a "ladies' night." On this occasion the entire clubhouse will be at the disposal of their women friends. This will be the first "ladies' night" given by the house committee in the new club and every effort is being put forth to make this surpass all previous entertainments of this nature given by Columbus Club.

A suitable program is being arranged which will include dancing, bowling, pool, card playing and refreshments.

W. S. ANGLEMAN TO SHOW CAUSE

Why He Should Not Be Disbarred From Practising in Chancery.

AFFIDAVIT IS FILED

Plainfield Attorney Failed to Proceed With Divorce Action After Receiving a Fee From His Client—Order Returnable April 28.

Trenton, April 14—Under an order made today by Chancellor Walker, Winfield S. Angleman, of Plainfield, must show cause on Tuesday, April 28, why he should not be disbarred from further practicing law in the Court of Chancery. The Chancellor has named former Assistant Attorney-General Nelson B. Gaskill to prosecute the case against Angleman.

This action of the Chancellor follows the filing of an affidavit by Mrs. Belle Overbaugh, of Plainfield, alleging that she paid Angleman $50 to institute divorce proceedings against her husband, Walter T. Overbaugh, on the ground of desertion. The charge is that after receiving an additional $20 for Masters' fees, Angleman failed to proceed with the divorce proceedings as he should have done.

According to the affidavit, Mrs. Overbaugh retained Angleman on November 6, 1906, to institute the divorce proceedings against her husband, and paid a $50 retaining fee. At the expiration of six months Mrs. Overbaugh is said to have called on her attorney and he is said to have informed her that everything was going along finely. On October 2, 1907, Mrs. Overbaugh is said to have consulted another lawyer, who, upon investigation, learned that the papers in the suit had not been filed, it is alleged. Mrs. Overbaugh is then said to have asked for the return of her money. It is said that the papers were filed October 8, 1907, and in January, 1908, Angleman is said to have asked his client for $20 for Master's fee. The order for reference following the argument in January, 1910, was refused.

PETITIONERS WILL BE GIVEN HEARING

Those Who Object to Location of New School House to Be Guests of the Board.

Members of the Plainfield Board of Education's Building Committee decided at its meeting in the High School, last night, to give the signers of the petition protesting against the erection of a school in the vicinity of Evergreen avenue an opportunity to appear before the Board in person and present their objections. At the April meeting of the Board a petition coming from residents of Evergreen avenue was presented setting forth reasons why the new school should not be erected in that section and the matter was turned over to the building committee for disposition.

A number of communications were received by the committee regarding the plans for the construction of the proposed new school building and a lengthy discussion was participated in by the committeemen on the subject. The matter occupied so much time for discussion that a number of matters were left unfinished when the session was adjourned and it was decided to hold another meeting tonight at 8 o'clock.

BURGLARS GET LITTLE.

The robbery that occurred at the home of John P. Emmons at Prospect place and Washington avenue, the borough, on Saturday night, yielded very little to the parties who made their entrance through the kitchen door. Upon the return of Mr. and Mrs. Emmons from Belmar yesterday, a glance through the rooms revealed nothing missing save a portion of a box of cigars. The borough police are still working on the case although no clues have been discovered.

LADIES' AUXILIARY GIVES ANNUAL TEA

Pleasing Affair Held at the Home of Mrs. Marcus L. Clawson.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A., the annual tea was held at the home of Mrs. Marcus I. Clawson on Park avenue, yesterday afternoon. There were about seventy-five members and guests present. A feature of the affair was the address by David D. Porter, international secretary of boys' work of the Y. M. C. A., who spoke on "The Problem of the High School Boys." He told of his work of making Christian leaders out of boys and teaching them high Christian principles and how to engage in athletics for true sport's sake.

Charles R. Scott, State secretary of Boys' Work of the Y. M. C. A., also spoke, giving a brief resume of his work throughout the associations of the State. Other features were tenor solos by James McClymont, accompanied on the piano by Miss Alice Morgan. Mrs. Thomas F. Hylan, as president of the auxiliary, presided. Mrs. James E. Kimball and Mrs. William D. Murray poured and they were assisted by the boys' work committee of the auxiliary. The house was attractively decorated with spring flowers.

BARN AND CONTENTS CONSUMED BY BLAZE

Phillip W. Mundy's Place at Springdale is Totally Destroyed by Fire.

The large barn on the farm of Phillip W. Mundy, of Springdale, was totally destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. About twelve tons of the best hay was lost together with all the farming implements. The neighbors were able to save only the live stock.

The fire was started by Mr. Mundy's small children who built a bonfire near a hay stack adjoining the building. Fortunately no wind was blowing or the entire village would have been lost as there is no protection whatever not even a volunteer fire company. The estimated loss was $4000 only partially covered by insurance.

UNTIMELY DEATH OF W. V. GODOWN

Plainfielder Passes Away Suddenly at Empire Hotel, New York.

Word was received here this morning of the untimely death of William V. Godown, in New York city. The news indicated that the young man had died suddenly at the Empire Hotel, Broadway and Sixteenth street. His body was removed to a morgue, where papers found in his pockets gave the clew as to his identity. Mr. Godown was a native and for many years a resident of the borough. He was a painter by trade and was thirty-seven years of age.

For some time past he had been living in Newark, and how he came to be at the New York hotel is not known by his family. His father died but three months ago of heart trouble at Watchung. Beside a mother and wife, two daughters, the Misses Hazel and Isabella Godown survive. Arrangements have been made to have the remains forwarded to this city. The funeral will be held at the residence of his mother, 26 Chatham street, the borough, tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock. The interment will be private.

HACK AND TAXI COLLIDE.

A horse driven by John Kelley, a hackman, became unmanageable near the North Avenue depot Saturday night and collided with a taxicab standing near the curb. The driver was uninjured but the wagon was damaged slightly.

The animal was one that has been tied up in a barn for some time and became too frisky for the driver to handle.

CHICAGO POLICE ARREST CONNORS

Notorious Criminal Alleged to Have Robbed Ackerman Home Apprehended.

FINGER PRINT EVIDENCE

Suspect Will Be Extradited to Union County at Once—Caught in Police Dragnet Yesterday Afternoon—Portion of Loot Returned.

Alleged to have been the leader of a gang of second story men who entered the home of former State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, at 506 West Eighth street, the night of January 4, and made off with jewelry valued at $15,000, Charles Connors, alias "Ice-Wagon" Conors, was apprehended by the police of Chicago last night, and is now held a prisoner in that city awaiting extradition to Union county. During the three months that have elapsed since the daring crime was committed a description of the notorious crook has been sent broadcast throughout the county by Chief of Police Kiely and the arrest of Connors comes as a sequel to the local authorities' vigilance.

The arrest was made by Chief of Police Evans, of Chicago, who communicated the news to Chief Kiely late last night. The local police head immediately requested the retention of the burglar until extradition papers can be secured from the Governor of Illinois. Mr. Ackerman has offered a reward of $500 for Connors capture and this sum will go to Chief Evans. According to the description of the crook held by the police he is a professional second story man, thirty-three years old, medium build, sallow complexion, smooth face and has medium, dark chestnut hair.

Although he is a noted criminal, he has served only one short term in the Joliet Penitentiary during his career of "porch climber." He was arrested in London three years ago and although he escaped conviction he was forced to leave England. Connors was arrested on December 13, 1913, in Westchester county, New York, with three other men as they were about to commit a burglary by climbing a porch. The trio of crooks were discovered in the act by a chauffeur who gave the alarm and after shots had been exchanged all of the thieves were captured. Somehow, Connors induced the authorities to release him on a bond of $250 on his promise that he would return the jewelry stolen from another house at Irvington-on-the-Hudson some time before. Cash bond was given and Connors sent an emmissary to the police with a message to the effect that all negatiations were off unless the other three prisoners were released on a nominal bond of $250 each. The other two were held and are still in jail.

The robbery resulted in the largest haul taken from this city in eighteen years, according to police records and consisted mainly of Mrs. Ackerman's jewels, valued at $15,000 and several hundred dollars in cash. The thieves entered the Ackerman home at about 6:45 in the evening and ransacked Mrs. Ackerman's room while the family were at dinner. The search being conducted by the robbers was suddenly curtailed by the slamming of a door and when Mr. Ackerman went to the second floor to investigate he saw a high powered American roadster speeding away from Liberty street. Michael Higgins, a cabman, told the police that two other men sat huddled in the machine awaiting the arrival of their pals and the group made good their escape before the police arrived on the scene.

The day following the robbery Detective-Sergeant Flynn went to the Ackerman home and discovered finger prints that were later photographed by Michael Evans, of the Chicago Bureau of Identification. When a proof of the prints were examined it tallied exactly with those of the notorious "Ice Wagon" Connors. The local police are certain that he is the man who committed the deed as there is not a single case on record where finger print evidence has proven inaccurate. It is definitely known that Connors was in Plainfield several days before the Ackerman burglary was committed and it has since been learned that Connors and an accomplice had been negotiating with a tourist agency for a trip around the world, to start a few days after the fourth of January. There was a hitch, however, in the tour plans, and the two prospective travelers left the agency office, saying that they would make arrangements elsewhere, but evidently went to Chicago instead.

About a month ago a representative of the General Casualty Insurance Company, of New York city, visited Mr. Ackerman at his New York office, and returned a portion of the

Fielder Kills Bill to Permit Animal Vivisection.

ACTION FOLLOWS HEARING

Governor Thinks Terms of Colgate Measure Too Liberal—Gifts From Rockefeller and Hill Were to Be Available at Once—Hearing on Bill Lasts Many Hours.

Trenton, N. J., April 14.—John D. Rockefeller's gift of $1,000,000 for the study of diseases of animals was made ineffective, at least for a time, when Governor Fielder vetoed the bill to permit animal vivisection in the state, which was introduced by Senator Colgate near the end of the legislative session and passed.

The veto followed a hearing which lasted all day. Dr. Simon Flexner of the Rockefeller institute made the main arguments in favor of the bill, and Dr. James Corliss and Mrs. S. E. Van Housen of Newark were the chief opponents.

Dr. Flexner and his associates held that permission to establish the new institute should be granted as an economic and sanitary measure and that the provisions of the bill were strict enough to guard against abuses. The opponents argued that the bill would permit the vivisection of human beings.

Governor Fielder thinks the terms too liberal, in view of the strong sentiment which has upheld the "animal act," limiting experimental work in diseases to incorporated medical societies.

Mr. Rockefeller's $1,000,000 and $50,000 given by James J. Hill were to be at once available. The gifts were prompted by statistics showing that in the last year farmers in the west lost $60,000,000 by hog cholera alone.

In the first publication of the project by the Rockefeller institute a fortnight ago it was said that the loss to the country by animal diseases was to be calculated not only in terms of animals destroyed, but also with reference to losses in the cost of living and in the discouragement of animal husbandry.

The research work in New Jersey was to be practically an extension to animals of the institute work in New York for humans.

OWN DENTIST, NOW DEAD.

Pulled Out Two Teeth and Blood Poisoning Set In.

Kearny, N. J., April 14. — A few weeks ago Richard Terhune of 30 Maple street went to a dentist and had a tooth removed. A day or so later, finding two more teeth loose, he pulled them out with his fingers. He died of blood poisoning, which resulted from the amateur dentistry.

Mr. Terhune was a manufacturer. He was sixty-five and leaves a widow and four children. He was a lineal descendant of Captain Oscar Sandford, who, settling in Bergen county in the seventeenth century, bought land from the Indians and at one time owned most of Hudson and Bergen counties.

WON'T COMPENSATE ALIENS.

New Jersey Law Denies Relief to Foreign Dependents.

Trenton, N. J., April 14.—In an opinion handed down in the supreme court Justice Bergen holds that under the employers' liability act of 1911 no compensation is provided for alien dependents not resident in the United States.

The decision was made in the suit of Eva Gregutis, administratrix, against the Waclark Wire works. The deceased man, who was killed while in that company's employ, left a father, mother, three sisters and brother, who had depended upon him for support, though resident in Russia.

JERSEY BUILDING STARTED.

Ground For $50,000 Structure Broken at Panama-Pacific Fair.

San Francisco, April 14.—Ground was broken for the New Jersey building at the Panama-Pacific exposition. The ceremony attending the event was in charge of the New Jersey Society of California.

The building, which is to cost $50,000, will be the headquarters of President Wilson on his proposed visit to the fair.

BRIEF STATE ITEMS.

Thirty days in the Elizabeth jail was the sentence imposed on Alexander Rasmussen of West Orange for running an automobile beyond the speed limit.

Dr. Thomas L. Fairfield, a dentist, of Newark surrendered to the police and was held in $300 bail on the complaint of his wife, Mrs. Mary Fairfield, who charged him with having kicked and beaten her.

For the second time the voters of Orange will cast their ballots today on the question of the adoption of the commission form of government. In September, 1911, an attempt to secure the new rule was defeated.

Health Officer Granelli has declared unfitted for use as food 400 bags of carrots, 151 crates of cabbages and thirty-six crates of garlic which reached Hoboken on March 28 on the steamship Noble. The stuff will be loaded on a lighter, taken to sea and dumped overboard.

CHILDREN IN CITY SERVICE.

Last year when an active anti-fly campaign was conducted in Plainfield, the Boy Scouts played a very important part. They distributed literature to the houses, inspected back yards, and made themselves generally useful in this important work. Because of the way in which they helped that campaign and the work they are doing in other cities, would it not be a splendid plan to interest the school children in Plainfield to wage a war on insect pests which attack and blight shade trees, following the practice which has been adopted in other cities? While Plainfield has never had a blight which has resulted seriously in the loss of trees, such danger would be avoided, and the children at the same time would be taught the lore of nature and city forestry, to say nothing of being given something useful to do and think about out-of-doors. It would certainly tend toward developing civic spirit and service to fellowmen.

In Pittsburgh, 1,500 Boy Scouts have been enlisted in a warfare against shade tree pests under direction of the city forester. The tussock moth, the coddling moth and the oyster-shell scale will be the chief objects of attack, efforts being made to destroy the cocoons before the insects are hatched in order to escape the trouble the caterpillars would give if allowed to get a start.

Patrols of Boy Scouts have been formed, the city has been divided into districts and one patrol set over each district. The scouts have been provided with printed instructions telling where to find the cocoons and scales and have set to work with energy. They will also note and report all broken tree guards and all diseased trees. Scoutmasters are expected to keep tab on the efficiency of the work and report the number of cocoons destroyed and trees treated.

The efficiency of this method of enlisting children in the work of the city forester has been in force for some time in East Orange, and Beaver, Pa., where the school children have almost eliminated insect pests which had made great inroads upon the shade trees of those communities. Not only are the trees in these three cities being protected and saved from destruction, but the children engaged in the work are being trained in practical beneficial citizenship. Their service is building for better life and more capabilities later on in life.

What Pittsburgh, East Orange and Beaver are doing may be accomplished here in a like manner and the community at one and the same time will be growing both better shade trees and more conscientious citizens imbued with civic pride. Give the boys a chance along with the shade trees of the city.

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE.

In his last annual report to the Board of Education, Supervising Principal Maxson had some very pertinent things to say on the question of vocational guidance of the pupils in the schools. He did not make any definite recommendations, probably because he realized that until much more room is provided the local schools will be unable to take up the question seriously, outside of the manual training courses in the high school.

What a splendid thing it would be if the young people in the grammar grades of the public schools could be given, in connection with their book lessons, even the briefest instruction in the essentials of the skilled trades which employ the most men in this section of the country. The industries of the city could be taken up, especially the rapidly growing ones. There are many trades today where the supply of apprentices who are really of any value falls well below the demand, and such instruction could help to fill this demand. Suppose it were possible to offer to the young people of the city preliminary instruction in half a dozen trades, with the students choosing the course which appealed to them most. They would in a way shape their own future, and be able to learn something of value which would be nearly as great to them as the "three R's."

It would not be a difficult matter in Plainfield to pick out the trades in which men are most needed. Just at the present time, because of the depression in business, it is true that there are a lot of men out of work, but when times are normal, good mechanics can always secure a place, and frequently they are unavailable. The employers of labor would be very glad to furnish information as to just what is needed of a young man entering his particular line of work, which will make him more valuable.

Mr. Maxson may be ahead of his time in making the suggestion, but that his thought is in keeping with the advanced age in which we are living is indisputable.

There has been much adverse criticism, undoubtedly inspired by those affected, of the ruling made by Secretary of the Navy Daniels, barring liquor of all kinds from the battleships of the navy. Why this should be is hard to understand. The United States government is only following the example set by all of the great corporations, railroads and other business houses, forbidding liquor at least during business hours. When a battleship or other naval vessel is at sea, there is grave responsibility resting upon the officers, and the barring of liquor not only increases the efficiency and safety of the crew, but at the same time protects big and valuable property of the government. It seems to us that Mr. Daniels has made a splendid order in barring the drink from the boats, and upon second thought his ruling will have the vigorous endorsement of a large majority of the people of the nation, including not a few who may have criticised the action at the first suggestion. The lead might well be followed in the army.

THE FORUM.

Editors Plainfield Daily Press:

Taking note in Saturday's issue of "Tax Land not Buildings," the keynote has been struck. The cry of "Back to the Farm," would be heeded by many, but for the land hogs that have grabbed up the outlying districts and are holding same for exorbitant prices. If land was taxed according to what it is held at, instead of the present rate, there would be less exploitation of farm land, more people would return to the farm as land would not be bought up and held so many years without putting it to use. Making inquiry the other day on some farm land that has been lying idle for many years, I was informed it was held by a Newark man for $1,000 an acre. Fifty foot lots in my neighborhood sell for about $300, so it can be seen that with all city improvements at hand, that farm land is held at exorbitant prices, considering convenience at hand, and buying acreage, should proportionately reduce price over one lot. Have personal knowledge of a 50x385 foot lot on Myrtle avenue, taxed at $1.68 or a few cents less per annum. Just figure the taxes on farm land, and see how it is possible to hold many acres with little or no taxes. If unimproved land was now taxed considerably more and buildings taxed half the present amount, it would be possible for many more to own their homes, as the land now held without proper taxation, would be put on the market, for by holding same, taxes would eat the value of the property. Provisions could be made for the farmer, whereby, land under cultivation could be taxed for half the amount which would have a tendency to place more land into cultivation, thereby reducing the high cost of living. There wouldn't have to be clean-up days for vacant city lots, as high taxes on unimproved property would either necessitate building, which would give the unemployed labor, or result in a flower or vegetable garden. To offset the possibility of only cultivating a portion of the lot and asking for reduced taxes, allowance could be made for amount under cultivation, also for portion of year not under cultivation. Calculation can be made from proper taxation of land, that four points of good are derived, namely, first, more building up of property which would give work to the many unemployed; second, prevention of large grabs of land as now and holding for years as high taxes on unimproved land would eat the value, reducing profit to buyer, unless cultivated; third, more land under cultivation, reducing high cost of living, and fourth, but not least, more happiness for families out in the open instead of cooped up in flats. May the movement started for "Tax Land not Buildings," get well-rooted and grow fast. Thanking you in advance for your valued space, I remain,

H. O. BOGERT.

AUGUSTA HONORS MAJOR BUTT

Handsome Memorial Bridge Dedicated in Georgia City Today.

ADDRESS BY MR. TAFT

Regular Troops, State Militia and Patriotic Bodies Present—Parts of Structure Made in This City by Hinman Bronze Works.

The tribute of his home, Augusta, Ga., was paid to Major Archibald W. Butt, today, when the memory of its distinguished son and hero was honored in a way to be remembered by the thousands of citizens who gathered at 15th and Greene streets, to witness the dedication of the elaborate bridge erected there as a memorial to their noble fellow townsman, who met a heroic death in the Titanic disaster two years ago.

The exercises were conducted under the auspices of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Georgia. Former President Taft, whom Major Butt served as personal aid, delivered the address of the day. Dr. Ashby Jones presented the bridge to the city in the name of the Archibald Butt Memorial Association. Patriotic societies, regular troops and militia detachments from Georgia and South Carolina participated in the ceremonies. A distinguished delegation from Washington also was present.

There is considerable local interest in today's dedication for the reason that the Hinman Bronze Works of this city executed the bronze lamps, tablets and other insignia used in the construction of the handsome bridge, a full description of which was published exclusively in the Daily Press several weeks ago.

The memorial bridge erected in memory of the late Major Archibald Butt, between the cities of Augusta and Somerville, in the State of Georgia, at a cost of $50,000, through voluntary subscriptions of citizens of that State, and appropriations made by the city of Augusta, and Temple-Noyes Lodge, No. 32, F. A. A. M., of Washington, D. C. The dedication of this artistic span was made today. Distinguished guests, among them former President William Howard Taft, were present from all parts of the country to pay a tribute to the late Major Butt, a former military aide of the President who lost his life with the liner Titanic. Major Butt was a native of the State of Georgia. The space is of concrete, is 200 feet in length and has a width of 75 feet. It will be used for automobile traffic.

Butt Memorial Bridge Dedicated Today

The bridge is national as well as local in its character, bearing the coat of arms of the Butt family, the coat of arms of the United States and that of the State of Georgia.

loot. Included in the returned "swag" was the string of eighty-five pearls which was left intact and also a smaller pearl necklace from which several gems and a pendant were missing, and a diamond ring. George W. Johnson, agent for the Casualty Company, in a statement to a Daily Press reporter at the time, said that after advertising the $5,000 reward a man called him up and told him to have the money ready, for an emmissary would bring part of the loot into the company's office. The man stated no definite time, according to Johnson, adding that it would occur sometime within the following fortnight. Five days later he did arrive after business had closed one night and received part of the reward for the jewelry he had delivered. Mr. Johnson said that no promise of immunity from prosecution was made to the man, who departed immediately after receiving the money without leaving either his name or his address. It has since developed that this man was an agent for "Ice-Wagon" Connors.

"Silk Will Be Very Popular During the Spring and Summer"

—Writes Our Paris Editorial Bureau

¶ All the fashion indications gathered on the Riviera and in Paris go to show that this will be a record season for silks.

¶ New silks are piling into the Silk Store every day. Shelves cannot hold all our reserve stocks. We have been obliged to cull out all short lengths, all broken assortments of color.

Today We Commence Our Annual Spring Riddance of Silks

For tomorrow, the second day, we call special attention to the following exceptional values:

$5 Printed Crepes at $2.35 Yard

All our advices point to a continued favor for printed silks. These were made for the Spring and have been selling around the city at $5. 42 in. wide. 20 designs.

40-inch Twill Black Foulard, 75c Yard

This is an earlier special purchase offered here at $1, but made to sell at $1.85 yard. 40 in. wide.

Distinguished Moire at $2.85 Yard

Brocaded Crepon and Ripple Crepe, $1.68 Yard

Same quality in other designs will be offered here later at $4. This special purchase will be rapidly seized upon by dressmakers. 10 shades. 38 to 40 inches.

Crepe de Chine, $1.38 Yard

10,000 yards specially dyed to our order. The manufacturer kept his looms busy with it or we could not offer it at such a price.

TO MOVE BECKER TRIAL FOR MAY

Former Lieutenant Reticent on Gunmen's Case.

FRANK'S FULL CONFESSION

Cirofici, in Story of Crime, Says Harry Vallon Also Shot at Rosenthal. "Dollar John" Was Marked, but Were Unable to Get Him.

PERTINENT COMMENT ON GUNMEN'S CASE.

District Attorney Whitman—The confession corroborates the testimony of Vallon, Schepps and other important witnesses. It does not implicate Vallon, as under the law it can be regarded only as hearsay.

Joseph A. Shay, Becker's Lawyer—When Becker is tried again the jury will bring in a verdict of acquittal within fifteen minutes. He himself will be placed on the stand.

Ex-Judge W. M. K. Olcott—I do not believe "Dago Frank's" statement can be introduced in court, no matter what were the circumstances under which it was obtained.

Ex-District Attorney John F. McIntyre—The paper could not be used against Becker, Schepps or Vallon. "Dago Frank" did not undergo a cross examination, so it would be of no value in court.

Bernard Sandler, Vallon's Attorney—The gunmen stood by Becker. It is only what I have expected.

"Dollar John" Langer—The day after the murder I heard that the gunmen had been out looking for me. I understood that they wanted me because they knew I was a friend of Rosenthal's, and they all thought I would corroborate his story to Whitman.

New York, April 14.—District Attorney Whitman gave notice that he would go before Justice Seabury Wednesday and move that the second trial of former Police Lieutenant Charles Becker for the murder of Rosenthal begin Monday, May 4. Joseph A. Shay, Becker's counsel, said he would oppose a trial so early and would ask for a date in the latter part of the month.

"What has happened is a vindication for Becker. Becker will be acquitted without a doubt now," Mr. Shay said. "To the last these four men denied that Rose had said anything to them about Becker. Rose testified that he went to them for Becker, but they said he didn't, and to my mind that shows that Rose lied on the witness stand in the Becker trial."

"Are you going to defend Becker at the second trial" was asked.

"I don't know," replied Mr. Shay. "I think I have fought my last criminal case. No one can appreciate more than I what an awful ordeal it is for the attorney for a condemned man to work night and day, as Judge Wahle did, in vain."

Becker in his cell in the Tombs refused to see callers. In response to notes from reporters the former police lieutenant sent word he "had nothing to say."

"Dago Frank's" Confession.

Albany, N. Y., April 14.—The actual murder of Herman Rosenthal, for which the four gunmen were executed at Sing Sing, was committed by Harry Vallon, "Gyp the Blood" and "Lefty Louie," according to the confession made by "Dago Frank" Cirofici before he was led to the chair. This confession was made public by State Superintendent of Prisons John B. Riley after Governor Glynn had read it.

Cirofici would have confessed several days ago but for the fact that he had been terrorized by the other three gunmen with threats of death to his mother and sister if he told anything. The gunmen were fearful lest he should tell, and communicated to him these threats between the cells in the death house.

Briefly, according to dispatches "Dago Frank" said:

First.—The four of them were hired not to kill Herman Rosenthal, but John Langer, or "Dollar John," a gambler, who was about to corroborate the statement made by Rosenthal to District Attorney Whitman.

Tells of Plan.

Second.—The four journeyed to Rockaway in an automobile early on the evening of July 13 to kill "Dollar John." They met him, but it was in a situation where it was impossible for them to do what they were sent to do. They talked to the man, but came away.

Third.—They rode first to a cafe in Second avenue, where he, Cirofici, went to his home at One Hundred and Forty-fifth street and Seventh avenue. Later he was awakened by a whistle, which took him to a window. He espied on the sidewalk below Jack Rose, Harry Vallon and Sam Schepps, who told him the other boys were waiting for him at Bridgie Webber's poker room, Forty-second street and Sixth avenue.

Fourth.—He went there.

Fifth.—He was informed by "Gyp the Blood" that there was something else to be done. Rose and Vallon were present.

Sixth.—Bridgie Webber came in to say that the —— was at the Metropole.

Seventh.—"Lefty Louie" told him it was to be Herman Rosenthal, the man who had squealed.

Eighth.—All started downstairs, but on the sidewalk a messenger of the Tenderloin whispered to him that Jean Gordon, his woman companion, was under arrest uptown, whereupon he left the party.

Hears Story of Murder.

Ninth.—Later that morning the three men came to his flat, where they talked about the murder and told him that Harry Vallon had fired one shot, but that "Whitey Lewis" had been entirely useless because his revolver had missed fire.

Tenth.—The following day he received one-fourth of $1,000 for the murder. (This, by a grewsome coincidence, was just the reward received by Electrician Davis for the four executions.)

EMPLOYES HONOR MORRIS HARRISON

Muhlenberg Hospital Attaches Present Him With Umbrella Previous to Departure.

Morris Harrison, the business manager of Muhlenberg Hospital, who retires tomorrow to become superintendent of the Jersey City Hospital, was given an agreeable surprise by the employes of the local institution yesterday afternoon. He was called to the administration building, where all the attaches had assembled and before any explanations were given, he was presented with a handsome gold-headed umbrella as a token of regard and esteem. The handle bore an appropriate inscription.

John Walton, a member of the ward corps, made a neat speech of presentation, conveying to Mr. Harrison the appreciation of himself and colleagues for past considerations. The recipient was greatly surprised but responded in a light vein. He thanked the donors for their handsome gift and also for their help in the past and well wishes for the future. The presentation was arraigned by a committee composed of John Walton, William Ashton and Oscar Olsen.

Mr. Harrison's household effects are being moved today and he will take charge in Jersey City tomorrow morning. His successor at Muhlenberg is J. M. Smith, who has been at the Jefferson Memorial Hospital in Philadelphia. He came to Plainfield yesterday and is now in pursuance of his new duties.

COLLEGE PRODUCTION WITNESSED BY MANY

Brown University Students Presented Comedy in Park Club Last Night.

Members of the Brown University Sock and Buskin Dramatic Society played to a large and appreciative audience in the auditorium of the Park Club, last night, presenting Bernard Shaw's comedy, "You Never Can Tell," in an admirable manner. The production was staged under the auspices of Professor Thomas Crosby, Jr., and T. R. Durbank, and the students of the college, who took the various roles, portrayed their parts to perfection.

The show was given in four scenes and many humorous incidents were brought out by the amateur performers that kept the audience in a constant round of laughter. The affair was particularly adapted to presentation by college students and the characters fitted into their various roles excellently. Following the show dancing was enjoyed by the spectators until an early hour this morning, music being furnished by Van-Epps Brothers' orchestra.

The cast was composed of the following characters:

Valentine (a newly set-up dentist), Melvin E. Sawin, '14 ;Dorothy Clandon, Harold L. Hall, '16; Mair or Janitor, Nelson B. Sackett, '17; Philip Clandon (Dorothy's brother), Paul J. Kingsley, '15 ;Mrs. Clandon (an authoress from Maderia), George H. LaRoe, '15; Gloria Clandon (her eldest daughter), Samuel G. A. Rogers, '15; Mr Crampton (a rich yacht builder and Valentine's landlord), John L. Eddy, '16; Mr. McComas (Mrs. Clandon's private solicitor), Harold M. Jackson, '15; Balmy Walters (head waiter at the Marine Hotel), Peter F. Dugan, '14; Assistant Waiter, Adams T. Rice, '15; Bohun (a successful young lawyer), W. Russell Burwell, '15.

The scenes included Valentine's office, on the terrace at the Marine Hotel and the Clandon's sitting-room at the hotel. The executive staff was made up of Morgan W. Rogers, business manager; Harold C. Kinne, publicity manager; Frank A. Farnham, business assistant; Adams T. Rice, stage manager, and Percy W. Sarle, assistant stage manager. Eynon White took charge of the preliminary work in staging the show at the Park Club.

ANNUAL MOOSE BALL WAS SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR

Saengerbund Hall was crowded to its capacity, last night, when Plainfield Lodge, No. 310, L. O. O. M., held its fourth annual ball, which proved to be asuccess in every way. National colors and Moose pennants were used effectively throughout in the decorations which added much to the attractiveness of the hall. The music was furnished by Suhr's orchestra.

The general committee was composed of Charles E. Pagliuca, chairman; N. Johansen, assistant chairman; J. T. Feiring, secretary; L. J. Feiring, treasurer; floor committee, John Dohl, George Beggs and C. Grobaleski; reception committee, J. J. Carroll, George Egel, John Conway, Thomas Pearson, George Ball, David Kelley, William Dolan and William Barry.

IT TAKES TWO--AT LEAST--TO STAGE A GOOD FIGHT

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

We are glad to have Jack Martin in our midst once again and are also glad to see that he has condescended to play some other position besides shortstop. If Jack is willing to fill in at the difficult corner for Stallings he will undoubtedly be given an opportunity to show all that he has stored up in the baseball line. Third is not so far from shortstop that Jack will become homesick and he will have the opportunity of his life to stretch that long distance wing of his at the far corner. In the few games in which the Plainfielder has participated he has shown some fine baseball both in the field and at the bat and we look forward to some more good accounts from the local sand lot product before Deal shakes that Charlie horse. In fact the regular third baseman's job is in danger while Jack is cavorting about and it would not surprise many to see the local youngster supplant the third sack guardian.

In giving the sporting calendar the "once over" we fail to see a single section wherein Plainfield has no representative. The Queen City has been well taken care of in every department and the influx of new material along various lines that has come to light during the last few years indicates that this city will continue to be a shining light on the sport horizon. We have high rated wielders of the brassie and niblock, both male and feminine, big league ball players, champions in gymnastic endeavor, collegiate representatives in every branch of college athletic work, and bowlers that have set up some creditable scores in the lively parts of this and other states of the Union.

Those who witnessed the game on Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon expressed a little wonder at the proposed abandonment of this baseball rendezvous. Although it has long since become a relic to be described in the annals of the Queen City's history, Crescent Oval today presents the fastest infield of any playing ground in the city, not barring Parker Field, which by the way, has been heralded as one of the best in the State. The diamond portion of the lot is as smooth and hard as glass and fit for big leaguers to cavort about on. Hyde Oval has been resurfaced making it a field of unusual merit for schoolboy competition but as yet it does not begin to compare with the old oval our predecessors assaulted the horsehide on.

Someone has circulated a rumor that Interscholastic Baseball League baseball competition this year has narrowed down to a two-cornered fight between North Plainfield and Leals. It's a safe bet that dopester lives altogether too near the little rivulet that separates Somerset and Union counties.

"Chicken raising," a subject of vital interest to every man in the community, will be discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the New Jersey Society in the local hall tomorrow night. Men and women alike, will be admitted gratis.

With basketball and the gun men out of the way breakfast food will now be composed of 99¼% of baseball dope. The bell taps resounded from all parts of the universe between the hours of 2 and 4 this afternoon.

There's nothing like being versatile in any line of sport. Captain Faber, of Leals, held the slants of Voorhees as long as he could keep awake and then stepped to the mound and tried the same stunt himself. Yougottahandit to him.

Whaddayamean "exclusive" golf ratings? It's great to be able to cherish such a happy thought after reading the dope in a score of other suburban and metropolitan papers while munching your wheats. Give him time, he'll learn.

The Motorcycle Club will stage a demonstration of the gasoline squirt, a new trpischore number, in connection with its dance tonight in Sebring's auditorium. Self-starting will be exhibited as an added feature. It's never too late to learn.

Haven't heard a murmur from those Jefferson Democratic Club ball tossers since their pitching phenom was uncovered. The Feds must have grabbed the youth.

HOW THE YANKEES AND ATHLETICS ARE LINING UP.

Here is the way Frank Chance and Connie Mack are lining up their forces at the Polo Grounds this afternoon. Mack sprung a surprise last night by announcing that Eddie Collins would bat second, instead of third, immediately preceding Baker.

Yankees—Maisel, 3b; Hartzell, 2b; Walsh, lf; Williams, 1b; Holden, cf; Cook, rf; Peckinpaugh, ss; Sweeney, c; Caldwell or McHale, pitcher.

HOW GIANTS WILL LINE UP WITH PHILLY TEAM.

Philadelphia, April 14.—Manager McGraw finally decided to let Milton Stock start the season at third base for the Giants. Following is how the Giants and Phillies are lining up for the opening game here this afternoon:

MISPLAYS HELP N. P. H. S. TO WIN

Boroughites' Twirler Slammed Hard by Visitors but They Pull Out Ahead.

FINAL SCORE 11 TO 5

Van Mater, Townley and Denny Led Home Team's Sticking—Bellis and Wyckoff Best for Reading Academy—Erratic Fielding by Rivals.

The North Plainfield High School baseball team defeated the strong Reading Academy team, of Flemington, yesterday, on Hyde Oval, by a score of 11 to 5. The game was fast and interesting and heavy hitting proved to be a feature. Denny twirled the entire game for the boroughites and although he was touched for thirteen bingles he kept them scattered and with air-tight support kept his opponents under control.

Reading scored one in the initial inning and the locals crossed the plate twice. Both pitchers were good, but the visiting infield was a bit shakey and errors filled the bases. The invaders tied the score in the fourth on two hits and an error, but the "Canadians" cinched the contest in the next period by scoring four times. Flemington changed pitchers but the first three men to face him walked and Smalley cleaned up with a pretty hit over short. Three men crossed the plate in this inning. Reading scored two in the seventh and one in the tighth, but did not become dangerous at any time.

Denny struck out thirteen men and was most effective in the pinches. VanMater led the locals at the bat with three singles, and Townley poled out two. Bellis, Wyckoff and Burd were the main sluggers for the visitors and the first man played a sterling game at second.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—A bets that a criminal from England canot pass the custom house inspectors at New York. B says yes. Who is correct?—S. J. G.

Answer—Assuredly none known to be a criminal is permitted to enter this country at New York or any other port of commerce.

Sporting Editor:

Query—A bets that if a man is trusted with another man's mail, not being a mailcarrier, and opens it, he cannot be arrested. B says he cannot open another man's mail even if he is trusted to bring it from the postoffice. If he does open it B says he can be arrested. Who is right?—B. S. E.

Answer—Certainly the owners of that mail can have him arrested. Whether the owner is a private individual or big corporation makes no difference.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Can the English authorities arrest a man in England for murder, and he comes across into the United States, can the officers come back over here and take him back?—D. E. O.

Answer—If the English authorities arrest a man for murder you may be certain that he will have no opportunity to "come across to the United States." He will be kept safely in jail there for his trial. If he should get away without being arrested and by any chance should get himself smuggled into this country under false pretenses, the English authorities would notify the United States government and ask for his arrest and extradition to England for trial, and he would be found, arrested and sent back in care of English authorities sent here to receive him.

Sporting Editor:

Query—In the event of Jack Martin's release from the Boston club, would he go to a minor league or be retained in the big leagues?—V. D.

Answer—This is hard to say. If all the big league clubs waived on his services he would probably go back to the International circuit. As it now stands, however, it looks as though Jack would stick with the Braves.

Thirty Thousand Fans See Baltimore Defeat Buffalo.

Baltimore, April 14.—Stands and bleachers at Terrapin park were crowded to their limit with the 30,000 baseball fans who crowded through the gates to see the first league game of the season. It was a noisy and jolly crowd, happy over the advent of Baltimore into major league company once more.

The big crowd at the park followed a remarkable demonstration in the downtown section of the city when the streets were packed and the windows of stores and business blocks filled with crowds anxious for a look at the Baltimore and Buffalo Federal league teams as they paraded on their way to the park for their first contest.

The teams were cheered when they appeared on the field and began warming up for the game. Baltimore defeated Buffalo by a score of 3 to 2.

BORO CAPTAIN'S JINX CANNOT BE SHAKEN

Ralph Smalley Seriously Injured in Collision at Home Plate With Opponent.

In the seventh inning of the North Plainfield High School game yesterday, Captain Smalley received an injury that may keep him out of the game for some time. On a hit to left field, Bellis, the visiting captain, tried to make home from second base. The ball was returned to the catcher from shortstop and the play was exceedingly close.

The runner jumped for the plate and in doing so one of his knees hit Smalley's mouth and the other hit his chest cutting the latter. Smalley broke a bone in the roof of his mouth and knocked four teeth loose. He will not be able to play for some time.

ROD AND REEL

Passengers crossing the Raritan river on a shore train Sunday saw several large shad floundering about in the mud as though they had been caught unawares when the tide fell off, and when the drawbridge opened and stalled the train they saw a boatman pick them up and throw them in his boat. Later it was learned that the fish had been feeding off maurer and swallowed so much asphalt it weighted down their bellies so they could not move from the bottom and when the tide fell they were made prisoners.

Flonders can be caught from the new steamboat pier at the Highlands. The pier extends out into the Shrewsbury river and is easily reached from the Water Witch station.

Jamaica Bay fishermen report great flounder fishing in those waters. Some of the catches last week went as high as fifty fish to a boat and the average weight was three-quarters to a pound.

The trout streams are about right for fishing now, but the banks in most cases are boggy and wet, so that waders are necessary. The big fish are biting good.

The Delaware shad are expected in the market by the end of the week and they will be closely followed by Sandy Hook and Raritan Bay shad.

WORLD'S BOWLING RECORD.

Atlantic City, April 14—Rolling in wonderful form, the Genesee team, of Rochester, last night broke the world's tournament record at the National Bowling Association Congress. Its aggregate was 3,035, just thirty-eight pins above the previous mark. The New York bowlers made but five scores below 200. As a whole, no individual showed up really brilliant, but they played consistently. The quintet improved as their competition continued, a noticeable gain being made every game, the last score being the highest. The totals were 999, 1,012 and 1,024.

MONTROSS WOULD MANAGE DUNELLEN

Baseball Meeting to Be Held Tomorrow Night in That Village.

The proposed session of Dunellen's baseball moguls failed to materialize in that borough last night, but it was definitely announced that the leaders of the pastime in the nearby village would convene tomorrow night to decide whether or not the town would support a baseball team this season. Of the fifty or more noteholders in the club only a few were able to be present at the scheduled meeting last night and little business was transacted.

during the past decade, sent in his application to manage the Dunellen club during the coming season and in the event of reorganization his name will be given serious consideration. Monty is a favorite with local ball fans and is not unknown on Dunellen lots. Last season he warmed the bench during the greater part of the playing schedule but was ready to step to the mound or hold down the first base job as a utility man. It is not known whether or not Jimmy intends to play the role of a playing manager, but in any event his appearance at the helm of Dunellen baseball should be welcome sight for the fans of that burg.

Dunellen has an excellent field on which to stage contests and if a team is organized it will be equal, if not superior, to that of other years. Plainfield, Bound Brook and Somerville, will of course, be the leading opponents of the Dunellen aggregation and other New Jersey and metropolitan baseball regiments will also furnish opposition. Bob Bogardus who has been a familiar figure in that town's baseball for many years, will retire this season from active work in the managerial department but will be indirectly interested in the organization that was founded through his zealous efforts.

STRONG TEAM WILL REPRESENT KNIGHTS

Watchung Council Should Shine in New York Tournament Thursday Night.

The Knights of Columbus Bowling Tournament being held in New York city has been in progress about two weeks and next Thursday night is Watchung Council's alloted time for swatting the pins at Thum's White Elephant Alleys on the "Gay White Way." There is a large delegation of local Knights planning to go along with the team that night.

George F. Taylor, who recently copped high average medal in the local tournament at Columbus Club, will captain the five-man team, which from present indications will be as follows: George F. Taylor, captain, P. S. Kiely, F. J. Blatz, F. T. McInerney and C. A. Shannon.

This makes up a strong combination and if they are all in good form there will be something doing. In the doubles the teams will be Blatz and Kiely, Shannon and McInerney, Howe and Taylor, Hillman and Wilson. All will take part in the singles.

BAPTISTS WILL CONSIDER PLANS FOR DEVELOPMENT

An important meeting will be held tomorrow evening at the First Baptist church, when reports from all the departments of the church and Bible school will be received and considered and important propositions for further development and future movements will be put before the church.

Following this business session will be a delightful social hour to which all members of the church and congregation are urgently invited. At 7:30 the pastor and deacons will meet those desiring to unite with the church, and any who have not already been received for membership who desire to become members, whether they have indicated such intention or not, are asked to be present.

"NEW YORK--THE NIGHTLESS CITY" SUBJECT OF TALK

A most interesting and instructive lecture was delivered last evening at the Y. M. C. A. Hall by R. M. Honeyman on "New York—the Nightless City." A large number of slides illustrated the address, showing many of the historical and modern points of interest.

The major portion of the evening, however, was spent in showing scenes on the East Side and the Bowery, where Mr. Honeyman spent several years in the institutional work of the Y. M. C. A. The speaker dwelt largely on the home life of those who he knew so well as he labored among the "down and outs" of the city.

"PADDLE YOUR OWN CANOE" TO BE SHOWN TONIGHT

"Paddle Your Own Canoe" will be presented tonight at the Washington School, under the auspices of the Washington Musical and Dramatic Club, which is one of the Recreation Committee organizations. The Junior Municipal Orchestra will render selections throughout the evening. A dance will follow the play.

"FROM MANGER TO THE CROSS" PORTRAYED

Masterpiece in Motion Picture to Be Shown at the Y. M. C. A.

The Kalem Company's wonderful motion pictures entitled "From the Manger to the Cross," depicting the great events in the life of Christ, will be shown in Y. M. C. A. Hall, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. These films furnish a reverent and most impressive portrayal of the earthly life of the Saviour. They embody the results of the very highest skill in the execution of animated photography.

This great production was made in Palestine in authentic locations. It required eight months of artistic industry, the services of a great number of specialists in authoritative research, a great company of actors and involved an expenditure of $65,000. Secretary Parker, of the Y. M. C. A., has seen the picture and he declares that, in every way, it is in keeping with the dignity of the subject.

For the reason that careful attention has been paid to the most minute detail in the unfolding of the story, these films afford a method of instruction and religious education unsurpassed for effectiveness. The treatment of every event is such as to appeal quite as strongly to children as to adults. There is absolutely nothing gruesome in the closing scenes. Appropriate descriptive music will be rendered during the exhibition of the picture.

Exhibitions will be given at 2, 4, 7 and 9 o'clock each day. The price of admission is the lowest yet charged to view this great masterpiece. It has been fixed at ten cents to children under 14, twenty cents to adults and children over 14.

TAPS FROM THE GAVEL.

Watchung Council, K. of C., will meet tonight at their hall.

Elizabeth Aerie, F. O. E., No. 667, will observe their tenth anniversary tonight at Turn Hall, that city. A number of Eagles of this city will attend the affair.

Lodges scheduled to meet tonight are as follows: Queen City Homestead, No. 3,554, D. of A. Y., at Coward Hall; Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., at the Babcock building; Court Plainfield, No. 1,144, I. O. F., at Junior Hall; Friendship Lodge, No. 4, D. of R., at Exempt Firemen's Hall; Freedom Castle, No. 42, K. of G. E., at the Babcock building; Italian Nest, No. 1,733, O. O., at K. of P. Hall, and Greenbrook Council, No. 1,725, Royal Arcanum, at Coward Hall.

ELECTRIC SHOW AT METUCHEN.

Metuchen, April 14.—An exhibition of electrical appliances is to be given all this week by the First Presbyterian church to raise $1,000 for a sidewalk in front of its property. A feature of the show will be an electrically equipped kitchen and restaurant.

Fred Dixon and family, of Chatham street, have removed to Grant avenue.

FIREMEN HAVE A LONG RUN TO FANWOOD BLAZE

A fire which accomplished $500 damage, most of which was due to water, occurred last night, at the home of Frank Loaddo, Bradley road in the Willow Grove section of Fanwood. The Westfield fire department responded to a telephone call and was forced to lay 1,100 feet of hose from the scene of the fire to a small brook.

Most of the furniture was saved by the occupants of the house. Although the firemen had a run of over three miles, the work of the men is to be commended.

MRS. ERNEST ZEEK PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY

Mrs. Ernest Zeek, aged forty-three years, of 968 West Sixth street, died suddenly this morning at her home. Mrs. Zeek was operated upon at Muhlenberg Hospital two weeks ago. Indications pointed toward a complete recovery, until yesterday, when she suffered a relapse. While Mrs. Zeek has lived here but for a short time, coming to this city from Rutherford, she leaves many friends and acquaintances in the West End. Beside a husband, three sons, Harold, Leslie and Edwin, and one daughter Miss Flora Zeek survive. The funeral services and interment will be private.

MRS. HABERMAN'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Mrs. Henry Haberman, of West Third street, was held at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's R. C. church, and was largely attended by many friends and acquaintances. Rev. Father McDonald, the new curate, officiated, conducting a high requiem mass. The bearers were Patrick Kiely, Andrew McConnell, George Moore, Thomas Coulter, John Lyons and Thomas Kenely. Interment was made at St. Mary's cemetery.

PINTO IN VAUDEVILLE.

Mary Nash, who has scored many successes in well-known plays, made her first appearance in vaudeville yesterday afternoon at the Bronx theatre, New York, presenting Rita Weiman's playlet, "The Watch Dog." Her leading man is Effingham Pinto, of this city, who has also appeared in a number of theatrical productions.

RECEPTION FOR NEWLY-WEDS.

A host of friends and relatives gathered on Sunday night at the home of Mrs. Katherine Sutton, of Pearl street, in honor of the recent marriage of her daughter, Charlotte, to Lee J. Mazotas. Many guests present from this city, the borough, Trenton and New York. Games and dancing formed the diversion during the evening.

MISS VEGHTE A BRIDE.

The marriage of Miss Ada F. Veghte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Veghte, of Belle Mead, and Watson M. Buckeman, of Taylorsville, Pa. took place Saturday, Revs. A. J. Walter and William L. Sahler officiating, at the Reformed church of Belle Meal. After a short tour, the young couple will reside in Trenton. Orville H. Opdyke acted as best man while Miss Myria V. Veghte attended the bride.

Miss Blanche Coleman and Miss Fannie S. Crawford, of New York city, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edwin I. Smalley, of Central avenue.

BOROUGH SCHOOL ATHLETES PREPARE FOR ANNUAL SHOW

The tickets for the annual play and dance of the North Plainfield High School Athletic Association are now on sale and may be purchased of any member of the High school.

The play is "All Tangled Up," by Charles Townsend, and will be given in the Park Club on Friday evening, April 24. There will be dancing after the performance.

MOTORCYCLISTS PLAN FOR EVENING OF AMUSEMENT

The first grand ball of the Plainfield Motorcycle Club will be held in Sebring's Auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock. This is the first affair of this nature to be attempted by the members of the organization and an enterprising committee has been working on plans for the affair for several months.

The main feature of the evening's entertainment will be a program of dancing, terpsichore music being furnished by a well known local orchestra. Many novel forms of entertainment are planned for those who do not trip the light fantastic and both young and old will find enjoyment as the guests of the motorcyclists. The club is preparing for the erection of a handsome new clubhouse and the proceeds of this reception will be devoted to this end.

STARTING ON BIG BRIDGE.

Arthur E. Smith, of Park avenue, today, shipped three carloads of materials to Burlington, where he has commenced the erection of a big bridge. The structure is to be of reinforced concrete, with a span of eighty feet and width of thirty-six feet. The bridge will cross a creek which runs through the city and empties into the Delaware river. It will cost approximately $16,000.

BREAKS GROUND FOR CHURCH

Woodbridge, April 14.—About 500 persons gathered at 5:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, when Rev. Columbino Galassi broke ground for a new Catholic church in Woodbridge road.

"FARMER'S NIGHT."

The McCormack and Doyle Dancing Class will hold a "Farmer's Night" in Debele's auditorium to-night in connection with its weekly meeting.

Mrs. A. K. Merrill is visiting her daughter, Miss Nell Merrill, of Central avenue.

Not a home in this city but has its quota of discarded furniture, rugs, stoves perhaps, a wheelbarrow maybe.

AN ORDINANCE

To Amend an Ordinance Entitled "An Ordinance Establishing a Sanitary Code for the City of Plainfield, Adopted December 18, 1902.

The Board of Health of the City of Plainfield by virtue of the provisions of the act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey entitled "An act to Establish in this State Boards of Health and a Bureau of Vital Statistics and to define their respective powers and duties" approved March 31, 1887, the several supplements and amendments thereto, and of other acts, doth hereby ordain as follows:

That Article No. 13 of the Ordinance to which this is an amendment be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

ARTICLE
GOVERNING PLUMBING, DRAINAGE AND VENTILATION.

Section No. 1. The Board of Health shall appoint at the first meeting in February of each year or as soon thereafter as possible a Plumbers' Examining Board which shall consist of a Plumbing Inspector employed by the Board of Health, a Master Plumber, and a Journeyman Plumber, whose duty it shall be to examine all applicants as to their qualifications to become Master Plumbers, and report results to the Board of Health.

Sec. No. 2. This board may, by resolution, grant licenses as Master Plumbers to such persons as it may deem qualified, which licenses shall be written or partly printed and partly written, bearing the date on which the same is issued and shall be under the seal of this Board and signed by its President and by its Secretary. But no such license shall be granted by this Board until after an applicant therefor shall have offered himself for examination as to his qualifications by the examining board above provided for.

Sec. No. 3. No person shall engage in the business of Master Plumber in the City of Plainfield, or do or undertake to do any work as such in said City, without having such license as aforesaid as Master Plumber from this Board or from the Board of Health of some other municipality of this State.

Sec. No. 4. Every Master Plumber shall, when so requested by any member of the Board of Health, or by the Inspector of Plumbing, exhibit his said license and upon his failure so to do shall be deemed an unlicensed Master Plumber.

Sec. No. 5. The Board of Health shall have the power to revoke any licenses issued to any Master Plumber as aforesaid for violating any provisions of this act.

Sec. No. 6. Before any portion of the Plumbing and Drainage System of any new or old building shall be constructed or reconstructed, there shall be a plan filed at the office of the Board of Health and approved by the Plumbing Inspector and signed by the Plumber, showing the said Plumbing and Drainage System entire from its connection with the Sewer or Cesspool throughout the entire building, together with the location of all fixtures, traps and ventilating pipes. No portion of the work shall be executed until all the plans have been approved by the Plumbing Inspector of the Board of Health and the name of the Plumber, who is to do the work, has been affixed to the said plans. Before any existing system is altered or added to or any change made in the fixtures in any new or old building, a permit must first be obtained, and in such case an Inspection will be required.

Sec. No. 7. With every plan for a new plumbing system to be installed in the City of Plainfield, a fee of Two Dollars ($2) shall be paid to the Board of Health.

Sec. No. 8. The Board of Health shall be notified by the Plumber when ready for an inspection or test, and the following tests must be made in the presence of the Plumbing Inspector, viz:—the water test and the smoke test before any final certificate can be granted. All defects disclosed must be removed before the granting of such a certificate.

All inspections and tests shall be made during business hours as soon as possible after such notification.

Any such system put in and covered before inspection by the Plumbing Inspector of the Board of Health must be uncovered for inspection.

Sec. No. 9. Except where the Board of Health expressly prescribes otherwise, the following provisions must be observed and any violation or departure therefrom shall be punishable as a breach of this ordinance:

(a) Before laying the drain from the building to the sewer or cesspool, and after the trench is graded, the bottom of the trench must be carefully rammed to avoid settling of the drain. After the pipe is laid, as the trench is filled, the earth must be tightly rammed as near as possible to its original compactness. Tunneling is prohibited. When the ground is made or filled in, the drain extending from the sewer or cesspool to the foundation wall must be extra heavy cast iron pipe of not less than four inches diameter; such pipe must be laid with the joints properly caulked with lead.

(b) Where a building is to be connected with a sewer or cesspool it must be connected by a drain not less than four inches in diameter of extra heavy cast iron pipe, having a fall of not less than one-quarter of an inch to the foot.

(c) Where there is no sewer in the street in which the building faces, and it is necessary to construct a private sewer to connect with a sewer on an adjacent street or avenue, it must be laid outside the curb under the roadway of the street and not through the yards or under houses.

(d) All horizontal sewer drains extending from any building to a point where the City Sewer terminates shall be of extra heavy cast iron pipe not less than four inches in diameter with caulked leaden joints or wrought iron screwed joints, and shall be so located as to be readily accessible for inspection with cleanouts located every fifty feet. The house drain within buildings shall be either cast iron or galvanized wrought iron and shall be securely hung on the cellar wall properly suspended from the cellar ceiling unless this is impracticable in which case it must be laid at a uniform grade upon a bottom of hydraulic concrete. The house drain shall have a fall of at least one-quarter inch to the foot and more if possible. Said drains shall be provided with openings for cleaning purposes, the same to be closed by gas-tight brass cleanouts placed just inside the foundation wall.

(e) All cast iron pipes and fittings must be sound, free from flaws and sand holes and when laid underground shall be known as grade "Extra Heavy." The weight of such pipe per lineal foot must be as follows:

2 inch pipe to weigh 5½ pounds.
3 inch pipe to weigh 9½ pounds.
4 inch pipe to weigh 13 pounds.
5 inch pipe to weigh 17 pounds.
6 inch pipe to weigh 20 pounds.

All cast iron pipe and fittings above cellar bottom shall be "Extra Heavy" or "Medium" untarred. Pipe known as "Standard Pipe" and fittings shall be prohibited. The weight of "Medium" pipe per lineal foot must be as follows:

2 inch pipe to weigh 4 pounds.
3 inch pipe to weigh 6 pounds.
4 inch pipe to weigh 9 pounds.

All cast iron traps and fittings shall correspond in quality, weight and finish with the above specifications.

All wrought iron or steel pipe shall be lap welded pipe and properly tested at the pipe mills. The weight of wrought iron or steel pipe shall be not less per lineal foot than the following:

1¼ inch pipe to weigh 2.731 pounds.
2 inch pipe to weigh 3.678 pounds.
3 inch pipe to weigh 7.616 pounds.
4 inch pipe to weigh 10.889 pounds.
5 inch pipe to weigh 14.810 pounds.

All wrought iron or steel pipes and fittings shall be galvanized, and such fittings below the water line, and the highest fixtures, shall be those known in the trade as galvanized drainage fittings.

Lead pipe shall be of the best quality drawn pipe of the grade known in the trade as "d" and shall weigh, per lineal foot, as follows:

1¼ inch pipe to weigh 3 pounds.
2 inch pipe to weigh 4 pounds.
3 inch pipe to weigh 6 pounds.
4 inch pipe to weigh 8 pounds.

Lead traps shall be of the same weight as specified for pipe.

(f) All brass pipes for waste and vent pipes must be thoroughly annealed, seamless drawn brass of standard iron pipe gauge. Connection with brass pipe and traps, or between brass pipe and iron pipe must not be made with slip joints or couplings. Threaded connections on brass pipe must be of the same size of pipe and be tapered. The following average thickness and weights per foot will be required:

Diameter	Thickness	Weight per lineal foot
1¼ inches	.14 inches	3 pounds
1½ inches	.15 inches	4 pounds
2 inches	.20 inches	5.83 pounds
2½ inches	.21 inches	8.32 pounds
3 inches	.22 inches	10.85 pounds
4 inches	.23 inches	12.30 pounds

Brass ferrules must be of the best quality, bell shaped, extra heavy cast brass not less than four inches long and two and one-quarter inches, three and one-half inches and four and one-half inches in diameter, and not less than the following weights:

Diameter	Weight
¾ inches	1 pound 9 ounces
1 inches	1 pound 12 ounces
1½ inches	2 pounds 8 ounces

One and one-half inch ferrules are prohibited. Soldering nipples must be of heavy cast brass, or of brass pipe, iron pipe size. When cast they must not be less than the following weight:

Diameter	Weight
½ inches	0 pounds 8 ounces
¾ inches	0 pounds 14 ounces
1 inches	1 pound 6 ounces
1¼ inches	2 pounds 0 ounces
1½ inches	3 pounds 8 ounces

(g) All waste, drain, soil, vent and supply pipes shall be as direct and concealed as possible, protected from frost and readily accessible to inspection and convenience in repairing.

(h) Every soil, waste and ventilating pipe must extend up with the pitch of roof in the building and terminate at the edge of roof, except in a flat roof house in which it shall extend at least six feet above the roof, excepting in all cases of an addition or extension to a building, the vent pipes must be returned back in the main building and thence extended up to the ridge. Each length shall be securely fastened, and each line of soil or waste pipe shall rest at its foot on a pier or foundation to prevent settling. All joints in cast iron drain, soil or waste pipes must be so filled with oakum and lead and hand caulked as to make them gas-tight.

Soil pipe shall be run as nearly vertical as possible, and in all cases horizontal pipes shall have a fall of at least one-fourth inch per foot. No short quarter ends or short offsets, except long sweep ends, will be permitted, and when the direction is necessarily changed, Ys, ⅛ ends or long sweep bends must be used. No Ts shall be used, and T-Ys may be used on vertical lines only.

Connected with a sewer or cesspool shall be provided with a ventilating pipe which shall in every case extend up to the ridge and the upper opening must be at least eight feet above or twenty feet from any window or door of the building, or adjoining buildings and this ventilating pipe shall be clear, and not less than four inches in diameter throughout its entire length from the cesspool or street sewer. The vertical soil or waste pipe may be used as a ventilating pipe, but if so used it must be clear and unobstructed by trap or otherwise.

(j) The least diameter of soil pipe permitted is four inches, except in cases of necessity, a three inch galvanized wrought iron pipe may be permitted. A vertical waste pipe into which a line of kitchen sinks discharges must be at least three inches in diameter, if receiving the waste of five or more sinks, and shall have two inch branches.

(k) All connections with lead or iron soil, waste, or vent pipes must be made with a brass ferrule of the same size as the lead pipe, to connect with the hub of the branch of the iron pipe and caulked with lead. The lead pipe must be attached to the ferrule by a wiped joint.

(l) Every water closet, urinal, sink or slop sink, basin, wash trays, bath and every tub or set of tubs, and hydrant waste pipe must be separately and effectively trapped. Urinal platforms, if connected to drain pipes must also be properly trapped and a supply of water so arranged as to maintain the seal of such traps. In no case shall the waste from the bath tub or other fixture be connected with a water closet trap.

(m) Traps must be placed as near the fixtures as practicable, and in no case more than two feet from the fixture. Each and every trap shall be ventilated by a special vent pipe except as hereinafter provided, as per following scale:

No vent shall be less than 1½ inches inside diameter. For more than one 1½ inch vent not exceeding four, it shall be increased to 2 inches inside diameter. For more than four it shall be increased to 2 inches inside diameter. Where a 1½ S trap is used within four feet of a ventilating soil pipe it shall be considered a vented trap, in which case a two inch pipe shall be used with a 1½ inch trap, and not having more than ¼ inch fall to the foot. Water closets without vent from crown of bend are not allowed more than four feet from a ventilating soil pipe. All additional closets over four feet from ventilating soil pipe shall have a two inch vent.

(n) The use of rubber connections to back vents of water closets is prohibited. In all cases vent pipes must be of lead, cast, or wrought galvanized pipe, and have a continuous slope to avoid collecting by condensation.

(o) Vent pipes must extend up to the edge of the roof.

(p) Overflow pipes from fixtures must in each case be connected on the inlet side of the trap of the same fixture.

(q) No safe under any fixture shall be provided with any drip, waste, or notice pipe. The waste pipe from refrigerators shall in no case be connected directly with any soil or waste pipe or with any drain or sewer, but must in all cases discharge into a receptacle properly trapped before entering sewer.

(r) The connection of sediment pipes from kitchen boilers with the sewer is prohibited.

(s) Water closets must never be placed in an unventilated room or compartment. In every case the compartment must be open to the outer air or be ventilated by means of a shaft or air duct with an area of not less than 144 square inches. Water closets will not be permitted in cellars unless ventilated as above.

(t) All water closets within the house of a type requiring a tank, must be supplied with water from a separate tank or cistern, the water of which is used for no other purpose. Provision shall be made for amply flushing each closet whenever used. A group of closets on the same floor may be supplied from one tank. Water closets that do not contain a sufficient amount of water to cover the center of the bowl with an area of water at least six inches in diameter are prohibited, also pan and plunger closets.

(u) All outside water closets shall be supplied with water and so arranged as to be conveniently and adequately flushed and all water supply pipes and traps of such water closets must be protected from freezing. The compartment of such water closets must be properly ventilated.

(v) Earthen or iron water closets or slop sinks having traps above the floor using lead connections must have a brass floor flange not less than an eighth of an inch thick, soldered to the lead bend and bolted to the trap or slop sink, the joint made air-tight with red lead putty.

(w) The use of saddle hubs and the tapping and threading of soil or waste pipes is prohibited.

(x) Rain water leaders must never connect with sewer pipe, nor be used as soil, waste or vent pipe, nor shall any soil, waste or vent pipe be used as a leader.

(y) No steam exhaust, blow-off, or drip pipe from a steam boiler, engine, or radiator, shall connect directly or indirectly with the sewer.

(z) No person shall place or deposit in any water closet, or waste, soil or ventilating pipe, refuse materials, large pieces of paper or other substances likely to clog the pipe or trap.

(aa) All pipes provided for in this article shall be measured by their inside diameter, and all measurements given in this article shall refer to inside diameters.

(bb) All lead pipes and bends provided for in this article must be of the same thickness and weight as their corresponding pipe branches.

Sec. No. 10. In cases where a building is found to be in an unsanitary condition through defective plumbing or otherwise, the directions of the Board of Health concerning changes and repairs shall be complied with within such reasonable time as may be designated, under a penalty of ten dollars a day thereafter until such work is done, not exceeding one hundred dollars in any one conviction.

Sec. No. 11. Any person who fails to comply with or who violates or offends against any provision of this article or any section thereof, shall on conviction, pay a penalty of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars for each and every offense.

NEEDLEWORK

By

MARGARET LAWRENCE

AN ATTRACTIVE DESIGN FOR A METAL WINDOW-BOX.

Now is the time to get window-boxes ready for planting, as the sun is quite warm, showing that Spring will soon be here. Window-boxes may be made of wood and lined with metal to keep the dampness from warping them. These are often covered with perforated or hammered metal, and this design, taken from pattern 14157, is attractive developed in this way.

Light weight copper or brass should be used, cut in strips 4 inches wider than the height of the box, allowing for the metal to be fastened to the bottom and turned in over the top of the box so that it can be tacked on the inside. Transfer the design by tracing it onto the metal with carbon paper instead of a hot iron; fasten the metal to a board with thumb tacks, then with a small wire nail, shoe-maker's awl or perforating tool and a hammer, punch tiny holes close together in the metal. This forms the background, leaving the design plain and slightly raised. It is better to outline the design with a sharp tool before beginning the perforating and the first holes should be along the edge of the outline so that the design will be distinct. When the work is complete, fasten the metal to the box with small brass tacks or copper fasteners.

Six motifs are included in the pattern, each 7 inches wide by 11 inches long. These may also be used on settle-backs or cushions developed in appliqué or outline-stitch and darning.

This transfer pattern will be supplied to readers on receipt of price, 15 cents.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

The little mother will have to begin soon to think of dolly's summer wardrobe.

No. 8009 is a set of patterns consisting of a gathered dress with round yoke that may hang loose or be shirred in to give the effect of a little French dress, a princess slip, with straight gathered ruffle, an underwaist closing in the back, petticoat and drawers.

The dress may be made from a small piece of flowered crepe left from the pretty frock made for the little mother herself and the underwear may be made from bits of lace and embroidery left overs.

If desired a touch of handwork may be added to the underwear or the yoke of the little dress with good effect.

The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 14, 18 and 22.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to state right size, taking the measure from the crown of the head to the sole of the foot.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Some Cookery Suggestions

COOKING FINNAN HADDIE.

LUNCHEON MENU.
Split Pea Soup
Finnan Haddie au Gratin.
Dandelion Salad.
Lemon Pudding.
Chocolate.

FINNAN haddie is haddock smoked by a special method with peat smoke. It may be obtained at all seasons of the year and makes a convenient food for breakfast or luncheon or supper.

Some ways of preparing this useful food are the following:

For the Children's Lunch.

Finnan Haddie Sandwiches.—Take some of the cooked fish, skinned, boned and flaked, and mix to a paste with salad dressing. Place a small leaf of lettuce on one slice of buttered bread, spread with the fish and cover with another buttered slice. Press gently together and cut each sandwich in two.

Finnan Haddie Hash.—Take leftover finnan haddie, being particular to remove every bit of bone. Have ready twice as much boiled potato as fish. Chop fine, mix well, add a cupful of milk, a little onion juice and parsley to season, with a few bits of red pepper. Put a tablespoonful of butter in a frying pan, add the fish and toss until well browned. Serve very hot.

A Luncheon Tidbit.

Finnan Haddie au Gratin.—Wash the fish and let it stand half an hour in cold water. Drain, cover with hot water and cook gently twenty minutes. Drain again, remove bones and skin and break into flakes. For each cupful of fish allow a cupful of thin cream sauce. Put the fish in a buttered pudding dish, cover with the sauce and sprinkle the top thickly with buttered crumbs and bake in a quick oven until brown.

Finnan Haddie With Toast.—Have ready one pound of cooked finnan haddie picked fine and freed from skin and bone. Make two cupfuls of good cream sauce, using four tablespoonfuls of butter, one tablespoonful of flour and two cupfuls of hot milk. Stir until smooth and thick, add the yolks of two eggs well beaten, three hard boiled eggs cut up fine, pepper to season and one tablespoonful of edam cheese. Add the picked up fish, beat all together until very hot and serve with toast.

The Pig Began to Squeal.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— How the Pig Saved the Old Woman.

EVELYN had seen some very cunning little pink baby pigs that day, and she thought it would be lovely to have a little pig as a pet. Jack didn't think it would be so nice.

When daddy came home Evelyn's first question was, "Daddy, don't you think it would be lovely to own a little pet pig?"

"I think," Jack added, almost before Evelyn had finished asking her question, "that pigs aren't nice pets at all. They grow up too soon, and they lose their cunning baby looks. Don't they, daddy?"

"Yes," said daddy; "pigs are nicest on a farm. A farm wouldn't be complete without pigs, and the little ones are certainly very cunning.

"But just think how very lonely a little pig would be all by himself! And, what would be more annoying, just think how he would squeal!

"I don't believe," said Evelyn, "that I do want a pig, after all. Not as a pet, anyway."

"Now that we've decided that we won't have a pig as a pet, I think I will have to tell you the story of the old woman who did have a pig as a pet.

"This story shows how a pig's squealing, by the way, did once do a great deal of good.

"Once there lived an old woman all alone with her pig, and she had one great fault. She was very careless about fire and never cared where she threw her matches after she had lighted her fire.

"She made all manner of fun of the people who thought she was careless. But one time she learned a very good lesson, and she realized then that one cannot be too careful with fire.

"She was on her way to bed and before getting into bed lighted a fire in a little stove. Instead of throwing her match into the fire she threw it in the waste paper basket.

"The waste paper basket was full of scraps of paper, and slowly the match began to smolder. The old woman meantime went sound, sound asleep.

"Now, the pig had a basket to sleep in by the old woman's bed. He smelt the smoke and thought it was a very queer smell. But as the old woman seemed to be sleeping so quietly he thought he would not disturb her just to find out what the queer burning smell meant.

"Suddenly it burst into flames. Then the pig set up the noisiest, most constant squealing you ever heard. The neighbors were all awakened by it, and, seeing what the trouble was, the fire department was called right out.

"The old woman was saved, but if had not been for the pig's squealing, which was so easily heard, she would have burned to death. After that she was pretty careful where she threw her matches, and she was more devoted to her pet pig than ever before."

CAPITAL FEARS INTERVENTION

General Huerta Again Defies United States.

"NO OFFENSE COMMITTED"

Refusal to Salute the American Flag Expected to Precipitate a Crisis. Army and Navy Astounded at Attitude of the Administration.

Vera Cruz, April 14.—President Huerta has signified that no public satisfaction is due to the United States over the Tampico incident, as no offense was committed.

Washington, April 14.—The administration emphasized the obvious gravity of the present complications in Mexico by putting an embargo on all news from Tampico.

Confidence that the salute demanded of the Mexican federal commander at Tampico by Admiral Mayo last Thursday would be rendered was expressed at the White House. Beyond that not a word was obtained from any official on the situation at Tampico, and the state and navy departments declined to divulge any of the contents of their dispatches from Mexico.

It is known, however, that while Admiral Mayo made his demands on General Zaragoza, commanding at Tampico, the administration has taken the matter out of his hands and is putting it up to President Huerta. In that procedure lies the danger of the situation, according to the belief here, because of the possibility of Huerta's refusing to accede to the demands of the United States.

In fact, there was a well defined report in Washington that Huerta had again defied this government and had told Charge d'Affaires O'Shaughnessy that he had made all the reparation for the incident at Tampico which the usage of nations required and that he saw no reason for going any further.

Army and Navy Astounded.

Meantime army and navy officers and observers outside the administration circle are astounded at the attitude of this government. The hesitancy of Washington in this matter, they assert, is positively the most dangerous course which could be pursued. Reliable reports from Mexico have already indicated that interests of the United States have suffered tremendously because of the popular conviction, shared by federal and rebel leaders, that the United States will never use anything stronger than words and that its demands can be disregarded always with impunity. The fact of the ultimatum sent to Huerta last November, which promised drastic action if Huerta did not do as he was bid and which was followed by absolute inaction when Huerta refused even to answer the note, is recalled in the connection.

It is no wonder, therefore, according to this view, that Carranza and Villa pay no attention to the demands of Mr. Bryan and that Huerta continues serenely on his way, regardless of representations from Washington.

Bryan Again In the Way.

It is rumored that the decision to back up Admiral Mayo was based partly on political considerations. It was argued, it is said, that opponents of repeal of the canal tolls exemption would argue that the Tampico incident proved their charge that this is a "surrender" administration. There is good reason to believe that Mr. Bryan has been one stumbling block in the way of those who would have insisted that Admiral Mayo's demands be backed to the limit.

REPEAL NOT INTERPRETATION

President Agrees With Bryan on Effect of Action by Congress.

Washington, April 14.—President Wilson declared that the repeal of the Panama canal tolls exemption could not be regarded as an interpretation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, because it would be a legislative act. He held that no amendment setting forth the rights of the United States under the treaty was necessary, in his opinion.

The president took the same view as Secretary Bryan that, by repealing the exemption, the United States merely showed a disinclination to raise the question of discrimination, but did not by its act limit any future policy of the government. Mr. Wilson drew a distinction between a legislative act and an authoritative interpretation of a treaty. The latter would have to be formulated by the executive branch of the government and ratified by a two-thirds vote of the senate.

WILSON WEDDING MAY 8?

Washington Hears Date Has Been Set. Expect Only Few Guests.

Washington, April 14. — Although there has been no formal announcement from the White House of the date for the wedding of Secretary McAdoo and Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, youngest daughter of the president, friends who are in a position to know say Friday, May 8, has been tentatively selected.

The affair is expected to be private, Mr. McAdoo's colleagues in the cabinet being practically the only guests outside of the two families. Miss Wilson's trousseau is practically completed.

Trinity Reformed church and the First Baptist church will hold their annual meetings on Wednesday evening.

Tomorrow--The Second Day of Our Great Spring Display of Upholsteries

We venture to predict, that is, if you visit this section tomorrow, you will substantiate our claim that this display is the finest Newark has ever seen, and equal to any in the large Metropolitan stores. Everything is so splendidly ready—a room here suggests summer—another shows the manner of decorating tastefully—and so on it goes throughout the entire Upholstering Section.

One of the rooms attracting a great deal of attention and admiration is that in which a most dainty pink scheme is set forth. Everything seems to suggest pink—the wall paper, the window draperies, the wicket furniture and the upholstering. Even the pictures that adorn the walls seem to blend perfectly with the general color scheme—also the two small rugs, of the Dolly Varden type.

Time to Get Your Awnings Ready

Better order them now, for stocks are fresh and complete, and experienced workmen are ready to serve you promptly. The best and heaviest galvanized frames are used on all window awnings of standard size. For porches we use ⅜, ½ and ¾ inch galvanized pipe, the solid iron being too heavy for porch use because of the greater widths and lengths required. There is a choice line of awning stripes in various colors, including browns and tans, reds, blue and greens—COLORS THAT WILL NOT RUN, no matter how much exposed to rain and wind they may be. Telephone 3460 Market.

Slip Covers for a Five-Pc. Suite $7.50, Ordinarily Would Cost $12

During the present week the upholstery section will cut, fit and make Slip Covers for any five-piece suite for $7.50. Under ordinary circumstances the price would be $12.00. We will use twelve yards of the best grade imported Belgium linen, 50 inches wide, or twenty yards of cretonne or fancy ticking, valued at not more than 30c per yard. A small additional charge will be made for any extra yardage.

CUMMINS CHARGES RAILWAY CONSPIRACY

Berates Railroads For "Appeal to Sympathy."

Washington, April 14.—Senator Cummins of Iowa in a speech delivered in the senate tried to impress upon his colleagues that the proposed 5 per cent increase of transportation rates was a more important issue, so far as dollars and cents were concerned, than the Panama canal tolls matter.

"An advance in railroad rates of 5 per cent will amount to more in one year," said Senator Cummins, "than all the tolls paid by all the ships that will go through the canal in twelve or fifteen years and more than our coastwise ships, if they were charged full tolls, would pay in more than half a century. However important our commerce by way of Panama may become, it will always be insignificant when compared with the transportation of land carriers."

Senator Cummins disavowed any intention of trying to influence the interstate commerce commission in deciding the question of the 5 per cent increase asked for by the eastern railroads.

"In connection with the proceeding before the commission," he said, "there is in progress the most comprehensive, energetic and persistent campaign I have ever witnessed to make the people of the country believe that the effort of the government to regulate railways, railway rates and railway practices has resulted in dismal, disastrous failure. This campaign seeks to establish also that the government in its endeavor to protect the people has impoverished the transportation companies. It is charged by these influences that government regulation has driven the transportation companies to the very verge of bankruptcy and ruin, destroyed their credit, rendered them incapable of performing the service which commerce demands and has outlawed them from the confidence of capital and exiled them from the field of the investor.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea Recipe are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin have a surprise awaiting them because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful— all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.—Adv.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-know authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork they get sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and no body can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.—Adv.

GRAND JURY IS INSTRUCTED

Justice Parker Charges the Members as to Duties in Important Cases.

SMALL LIST OF CAUSES

Several Hotel and Retail Liquor Licenses Are Granted—Five Applications Laid Over to April 24—List of Grand Jurors.

Somerville, April 15.—Owing to the failure of Frederick Bull, Dr. Richard Moldenke and Fred C. Taintor to respond to their names when called at the opening of the April term of court, yesterday, and Henry S. Shepherd, of Skillman, being excused on account of illness and also from the fact that he is over 72 years of age, the panel only contained twenty names.

Justice Parker said that he was obliged to deny the request of another juror to be excused because he was going to Europe because the panel was so small. He said, however that the members of the jury could excuse any of their number if they desired. Justice Parker then explained the operation of the new jury law.

Freeholder Frank W. Remsen was selected by Justice Parker to serve as foreman, and the other members of the jury are as follows: Samuel W. Davenport, John J. Kline Charles M. Dumas, Samuel Ayres, Philip A. Hickey, David M. Perry, T. D. Van Syckle, Elwood Thorn, Benjamin McDowell, William B Powelson, C. Ledyard Blair, Cornelius Suydam, Edward Feickert, Minard G. Smith, Louis I. Van Cleef, Peter V. D. Van Doren, Arthur C. Phillips John H. W. Tilton, Samuel S. Baldwin.

In his charge to the grand jury, Justice Parker stated that fortunately there was nothing but the usual grist of petty cases that usually occur in a small county of the size of Somerset, there being only two cases of special importance. One was a case of highway robbery and attempted murder, the person accused of the crime being at the present time out of the jurisdiction of the court, but that this was not to debar the jurors from bringing in an indictment if the circumstances should warrant such action. Justice Parker referred specifically to the case of Jeweler Vander Veer being induced to accompany a person by the name of Fox to a lonely part of the Borough of Somerville and then assaulted and robbed. The other case which he referred to was that of a Hungarian being charged with killing his wife at Manville by shooting her when her back was turned to him. The jurors were instructed to carefully examine all facts in relation to this latter case, and if facts should warrant they were to bring in a verdict of manslaughter. Justice Parker warned the jurors that the post-mortem statement of a wife could not be used in a court of law against an accused husband, it being stated that the man's wife had made such statement.

There were a large number of lawyers present at the opening session, particularly of the younger members of the Somerset county bar, and after the calling of the cases on the calendar, most of which were reported as being ready, a brief recess was taken to allow the members of the bar present an opportunity of greeting the new Circuit Court judge, Luther A. Campbell.

Inns and Taverns—Philip T. Hickey, George Huff, John Mihaly, Raritan; Ellis Sutton, Pottersville; William Smith, George Schenck, Charles Mangino, Julius Gscheidle, Somerville; William O. Allen, Liberty Corner; W. J. Simmonds, Millstone; Peter Knitterscheidt, Chimney Rock; Frank Probst, North Plainfield township; Henry Pedeflous, Warrenville; Jacob J. Maurer, George Schofield, S. Louise Fisher, L. W. DuFour, Bound Brook; William Howard, Bedminster; John Boudreau, Bernardsville; Andrew R. Holcombe, Neshanic; Herbert H. Mount, Rocky Hill.

The applications of Clementine Caruso, for hotel license at Mt. Bethel; A. W. Fish, Bernardsville; August Bechtold, Harlingen; J. J. Lusardi, Raritan, and John J. Becker and William Greasheimer, Manville, were laid over, that of August Bechtold until April 24, the others to Friday of this week. Mr. Lusardi also applied for a renewal of his saloon license at Raritan should his application for a hotel license be not granted, and this was laid over pending disposition of the latter.

The saloon licenses granted were: John Traynor and George Kovack, Raritan; William Fuer and Liberator DeCastro, Bound Brook. Wholesale—John Helfin, Bound Brook; Ebo DeLorenzo and Jacob Miller, Somerville.

SUSTAIN ACTION IN CARNEY CASE

Judge Beekman's Appointment of Jacob Shurts as Administrator is Upheld.

ANGLEMAN IS LOSER

Contentions of Former Judge William A. Coddington Maintained by Vice Chancellor Backes in Smalley-VanArsdale Claim.

Sustaining every contention made by William A. Coddington, counsel for William L. Smalley and M. C. VanArsdale, Vice-Chancellor Backes, at Trenton, yesterday affirmed the appointment by Judge Beekman, of Jacob Shurts, of Somerville, as the administrator of the estate of the late David J. Carney. Winfield S. Angleman, counsel for Andrew J. Carney, who sought to be appointed to the place, was unable to upset a single point brought out at the original hearing which resulted in Mr. Shurts' appointment.

The case is the outcome of business dealings which the late David Carney, head of the Monarch Printing Company, and publisher of The Review, had with Smalley and VanArsdale. Some time prior to his death he borrowed $2,400 from the two men, and in order to protect their interests, they objected to Andrew Carney being made administrator because he knew nothing about the conduct of a printing business, and because they claimed he was incompetent to manage the estate. As there had been but one case similar to this before in New Jersey, it was watched with much interest by many lawyers and others.

Mr. Coddington appeared before Judge Beekman at Somerville, and urged the appointment of some other than Andrew Carney. The judge heard witnesses on March 30 to show the value of the plant in question, and also others to show that Andrew Carney was not a fit man to do the work. He reserved decision for a few days, and then named Mr. Shurts. Angleman appealed the case, and yesterday's decision by Vice-Chancellor Backes probably settles it finally. Messrs. VanArsdale and Smalley and Newton B. Smalley accompanied Judge Coddington to Trenton for the hearing.

Just what disposition will be made of the plant of the Monarch Printing Company is not known at the present time. Mr. Shurts will probably have an appraisal made, and will continue to operate it until such time as it is decided whether it can be made to pay or not. It was brought out at the Somerville hearing that it had not paid for six months or more prior to David Carney's death.

ROSENBAUM BROTHERS BEGIN THIRD YEAR ON FRONT ST.

Rosenbaum Brothers, the Front street merchants, are beginning the third year in their present location. This enterprising firm started in business two years ago, and during the elapsed time have had a steady growth, which has been gratifying to their many friends. They began with the idea of furnishing dependable merchandise, and that they have succeeded is evidenced by the fact that already it has been necessary to enlarge the store twice, the second time adding the entire second floor. When they began business they employed six clerks, and they begin the third year with fourteen helpers. Their line of goods includes everything which is found in department stores. On another page the advertisement of the sale will be found.

GUILD WILL HOLD A BULB AND FLOWER MARKET

The Flower and Fruit Guild met at the Friends' Meeting House, last night, and transacted business of a routine nature. Among the things planned for by the guild is the bulb and flower market to be held at the lawn of the meeting house on the afternoon of Tuesday, April 28.

Contributions for this affair will be called for is the president, Joseph Harper, is notified. Mrs. Harry Vail was elected vice president and Mrs. A. K. Willett treasurer.

LICENSES EXPIRE.

All licenses for express deliveries junk dealers, peddlers, ash carts, etc. expire in the borough, today, all of which should be renewed if business is continued.

CONTRACTORS EMBARRASSED

Paul J. Exner Company Take Steps to Protect Its Creditors.

CONCERN IS SOLVENT

Financial Condition Due to Capital Being Tied up in Contracts—To Meet Creditors Tomorrow—Official Action Deferred.

Mr. Walsh, of the Paul J. Exner Company, the contractors for the Plainfield High School addition, appeared before the building committee of the Board of Education at its meeting, last night, and stated that while not insolvent, the contracting company desired to arrange a meeting of its creditors with a view of saving them from loss which was feared would result if its existing contracts were interfered with at this time by creditors filing liens.

The Exner Company has retained Harry H. Herman, whose office is at 170 Broadway, New York, to adjust its affairs and a meeting of the creditors will be held in New York, Thursday of this week.

Mr. Herman, who was present with Mr. Walsh, made a full statement of the financial condition of the Exner Company to the building committee and said that the present difficulties of the concern were caused solely by the fact that the capital of the corporation was at present tied up in contracts not yet completed, but from which on completion the company would receive sufficient funds to enable it to make satisfactory settlement of all claims against it. He placed the liabilities at about $100,000 and the assets at about $110,000. The value of these assets, however, is dependant on the ability of the contractor to complete the buildings now unfinished; and Mr. Herman requested that the board consent to await the result of the creditors' meeting before attempting to cancel and re-let the contract for the High School.

Mr. Exner, who bears a high reputation for integrity in the building trade, has authorized his attorney to make any necessary arrangement to secure to his creditors all the money coming in from his contracts and will turn over all his assets for this purpose. His present embarrassment is due entirely to the lack of ready cash to finish the buildings now under way and it is believed that this can be done by a creditors' agreement to complete the work as sub-contractors.

No official action was taken by the Board of Education, last night, but it is believed that it will await, at least, the result of the creditors' meeting tomorow before deciding what action is advisable. So far as the cost of completing the High School is concerned, the insolvency of the contractor would not affect the school board at all, as they have paid out only 80 per cent. of the present cost of the building and are further protected by the bond of the Globe Indemnity for the entire amount of the contract. If, however, the building can be completed promptly the board will be inclined to facilitate the creditors in finishing it in order to protect them from unnecessary loss. Judge Gilbert Collins, the counsel for the Board of Education, was in consultation with them yesterday and advised them as to the legal questions involved.

A number of local creditors filed stop payment notices yesterday and this morning as a protection; but a number who were seen today expressed themselves as friendly to the contractor and it is believed that they will consent to any arrangement which gives them protection when the creditors meet tomorrow.

M'ADAMS SWORN IN AS CLERK IN CHANCERY AT TRENTON

Taking office today as clerk in Chancery, Robert H. McAdams, of Elizabeth, declared that the question of efficiency would rule him in the administration of the position. Mr. McAdams was sworn into office at 11 o'clock by Chancellor Edwin Robert Walker, his chief, succeeding Samuel K. Robbins, Republican, of Burlington county. The salary is $6,000 and the term five years.

WILLIAM O. HENRY.

William Osborne Henry, colored, the twenty-two year old son of George Henry, of West Fourth street, died on Monday after a short illness. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the late home. Interment will be made at Evergreen cemetery.

MAYOR ROBERT CLARK NOT A CANDIDATE

Borough Executive Gives Some Timely Political Advice to Office Seekers.

Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of the borough, in an interview with a Daily Press representative this morning, stated that the report appearing in another local paper on Monday evening to the effect that he was a Congressional candidate, was untrue and entirely without foundation as far as he was personally concerned. "Thus far," said Mr. Clark, "it cannot be said of me that I have sought of my own initiative, any office."

Continuing, the Mayor pointed out that he has not been and is not at present a candidate for Congress, and that in all probabilities, he would not be. "Any Republican seeking that seat in this district had better think the matter over before announcing his candidacy. The fact that one district in northern Jersey has gone Republican by a majority of 5,000 does not indicate that the Fourth District could go the same way. While President Wilson has reached the zenith of his power, the reaction from the comparatively recent Democratic victories will come slowly. Many events, however, are now breaking against that party, and in favor of the Republican organization.

"For instance, the railroad double crew law is beginning early in it's career to work hardship on the railroads, and as a result the Pennsylvania Railroad has recently laid off thirty-nine trains, as well as stopping work on practically all anticipated improvements, thus re-bounding on the industrial conditions of the country. The railroads use more of the products of the factories of the country than any other line in the industrial lift of the nation. The strict laws on rebates under the Democratic regime is making it expedient for incorporations to occur in other States rather than New Jersey, thus depriving this State of tax derived from such taxes.

"In this way people are taxed directly in order to make up the deficit caused by this method, and immediately there is a protest from the people. Then, too, a Republican candidate in this district must consider the fact that in a close race, the Progressive vote will not only hurt him, but is helping the Democratic candidate as well. However, I am not worrying, as I am not a candidate."

MISS VIOLA ALLER BRIDE OF IVAN HUNT

Ceremony Performed in the Methodist Church, Somerville, Last Evening.

Miss Violet E. Aller of Somerville, and Ivam S. Hunt, of this city, were married last evening in the Methodist church, Somerville, by Rev. Mr. Church, pastor. The couple was attended by Miss Mabel Pace, of Somerville, and Harry Hardy, of Bound Brook.

The bride was gowned in a lavender traveling suit and carried Easter lilies. The bridesmaid wore a gown of crepe meteor and carried American beauties. The bride's gift to the groom was a diamond stickpin, while the groom presented the bride with an emerald lavalier. The bridesmaid received a chased gold bracelet from the bride, while the best man received studded cuff links from the groom. After the ceremony, the couple motored to New York, where a reception was held at the Ritz-Carlton.

Miss Aller was formerly employed by the firm of Siltzer & Son, of Somerville, while Mr. Hunt is an employe of the Spicer Manufacturing Company. Many gifts were received by the young couple, including cut glass, silver, and a substantial check from a relative of the bride. After the return of Mr. and Mrs. Hunt from their wedding trip, they will reside at 307 Madison avenue, this city.

TO ORGANIZE A CHORUS.

School children who desire to take part in the Memorial Day exercises under the auspices of the G. A. R., are requested to meet with Mrs. John Manley at Reform Hall Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The organization of a chorus will take place at that time and the first rehearsal will be held.

PARISH MEETING.

The annual parish meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church will be held tonight, at the regular hour for prayer service. The reports will be presented and the election of the officers will occur at this time.

BOROUGH WANTS DISTRICT COURT

Request Made That Freeholders Allow Judge Runyon to Sit There.

QUESTION OF EXPENSE

Otherwise There Seems to Be No Objection to the Plan—Money for Road Improvements Withheld by State.

Somerville, April 15—Morning and afternoon sessions of the Somerset county Board of Freeholders were held here yesterday, when bills amounting to over $900 were ordered paid, and the county collector reported receipts since last meeting of $1,416,79. Mr. Mobus reported for the finance committee in the absence of Freeholder Frank Remsen, who is serving as foreman of the Grand Jury.

An appropriation of $150 was made for the decoration of soldiers' graves on Memorial Day: $115 to the Somerville Post; $25 to North Plainfield, and $10 to Hopewell.

Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of North Plainfield, in a communication requested that Judge Isaac P. Runyon, of the District Court, be permitted to hold sessions in that borough on two days a month. It was the opinion that there would be no objection to granting the request unless it be a matter of expense. Court officers would be needed, making carfare necessary, while it would be necessary to keep the court clerk's office in Somerville while court was being held in North Plainfield. Judge Runyon is said to favor the proposition. A similar request had been received from Bernardsville some time ago. The matter was referred to the finance committee and a report will be made at a subsequent meeting.

Clarence Case, to whom the matter was referred for an opinion, advised the board to pay the bill of the County Tax Board, the law allowing such expenditure for traveling expenses. The Standard Oil Company was given permission to erect signs on the public roads. A communication from Richards & Gaston, concerning the construction of bridges of patented designs, and one from the Bernards Township Committee, concerning the dangerous condition of the Ravine Lake road. The road will be inspected.

The custodian of funds from the estate of a patient who died recently in the State Hospital, Trenton, was given a month to settle with the board. It was reported that the State road commissioner had not turned over the $1,800 due on the Franklin Park road and would not do so until a map had been prepared and presented. There is also due from the State department $8,500 on the Opdyke cut-off. Of the $19,000 promised to the county only $9,500 has been paid. The county will be permitted to spend this year for road repairs and new roads, $66,906.52. The board will meet again tomorrow to receive bids for the extension of the Manville bridge.

SPECIALTIES A FEATURE OF DANCE FOR HOSPITAL

There is much interest in the forthcoming dance to be given under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital, for the benefit of that institution. The affair will be held on Friday night, April 24, and promises to be one of the events of the season. There will be many novel features, including specialty dancing by talented artists. The dance will be given at the Columbus Auditorium, and the committee in charge has spared no expense in planning the details for the affair.

Mueller's orchestra has been engaged to furnish the music for dancing and this will be one of the big features. Throughout the evening supper will be served, the arrangement being one that will please the patrons. Members of the auxiliary will be in charge and the whole affair will be under their direction.

A LODGE OF SORROW.

Previous to the regular meeting of Plainfield lodge of Elks tonight a short lodge of sorrow will be held in memory of John H. Kitchen, a member of the order at the time of his death on April 4. A large attendance is desired.

DANCE AT STONY HILL.

The parish of St. Mary's R. C. church of Stony Hill will hold a dance at the church hall tonight. Father McGrath is in charge of the arrangements.

FATHER'S SLAYER WOULD KILL SON

Clifford Brokaw Fires Two Shots at John Rafferty Following an Argument.

BOTH SHOTS GO WILD

Attempt to Kill Youth in Lincoln Last Night—Would Be Assailant Held a Prisoner in Middlesex Jail—Believed to Be Insane.

Following an argument that took place in a road house, near Lincoln, late last night, Clifford Brokaw, who has developed a mania for shooting bullets at members of the Rafferty family, fired two shots in the direction of John Rafferty, a youth whose father was killed in a similar brawl by Brokaw on May 3, 1909. Those who were near at hand when the fight took place claim that Brokaw was the instigator of hostilities and that his intoxicated condition was the only thing that saved young Rafferty from death. Unsteady aim caused the bullets to go wild and the human target made his escape from the scene.

Although a Middlesex Borough constable lives next door to Brokaw no effort was made to apprehend the latter, last night, and it was not until Marshal Mohan, of Dunellen, took a hand in the matter this morning that a sheriff from New Brunswick landed Brokaw in a cell. He was arraigned before Justice Suydam, in New Brunswick and held to await the action of the Grand Jury on a charge of atrocious assault and battery with intent to kill.

Brokaw is known to be a desperate man when under the influence of liquor and when in this state his chief aim appears to be to riddle some handy object with bullets. He is a familiar figue in the Borough of Middlesex and because of his character it is alleged that the authorities of that place were reluctant to place him under arrest. He is now being detained in the sheriff's office in New Brunswick pending removal to the county jail where he will be held until the Grand Jury disposes of the case.

James Rafferty, father of the youth with whom Brokaw quarreled last night, was shot by the same man May 3, 1909, and died the next day in Muhlenberg Hospital as the result of the bullet wounds. He was wounded by receiving the full charge from Brokaw's shotgun in the right thigh, the fatal shooting taking place a short way from where the fracas of last night occurred in Lincoln.

The two men had been drinking together heavily during the afternoon and started quarreling early in the evening. Rafferty became enraged at Brokaw and was said to have knocked him down and brutally assaulted him. Brokaw made his escape from the elder Rafferty, running to his home. Reaching home, he secured a shotgun heavily loaded with birdshot and as Rafferty rushed at him he pulled the trigger. The pursuer received the full charge in his right thigh and the bone in that limb was splintered into seven or eight pieces. He refused to submit to amputation and as a result died from the effects of the gun-shot. His assailant escaped by jumping a freight that was passing nearby at the time and the case was never pressed against him.

Brokaw is twenty-nine years of age and has been employed as a laborer at various times for local contractors. The residents in Lincoln believe that Brokaw is mentally deficient for the young man has a reputation for various queer and uncanny pranks committed about that village. He is an enthusiastic hunter, and for sometime during the hunting season several years ago lived as a hermit in a hut. He is an expert shot with a gun or revolver and his intoxicated condition caused his erring aim last night. Six years ago he was brought before a justice of the peace and put under bonds to keep the peace in Lincoln. This was brought about by a prank of marksmanship, which badly frightened several farmers of that place. These men were talking together near the road, and stood leaning on a wire fence. Brokaw, according to the story, came up behind them with a shot-gun and fired. His shot cut the wire and the line of men fell over into a ditch, receiving a bad shaking up.

PRISONER DENIES PART IN ROBBERY

Ruttledge Gardner, Alleged Gentleman Burglar, Will Try to Prove an Alibi.

"WANDERLUST" VICTIM

Has Traveled From Coast to Coast Since He Shifted From the Straight and Narrow Path—Varied Career.

Ruttledge Gardner, aged twenty-three years, a newspaper reporter, who is held a prisoner in the local police headquarters under suspicion of having been implicated in several robberies that have been committed in this city during the last few months, related a story covering a period of seven years, to newspaper reporters, this morning, fit for reproduction in the world of fiction. During the years since he began a career of shiftlessness, Gardner has traversed the continent from coast to coast and has been employed on more than fifty weekly and daily newspapers throughout the country.

During his long tale the prisoner steadfastly denied having any connection with the local burglaries and endeavored to prove his contention by means of alibis. Claiming that he had not laid foot on Jersey soil since September last, the prisoner expressed considerable surprise when confronted with several charges in which he is alleged to have had a part. A neat dresser, good-looking and an exceptionally fine conversationalist, Gardner makes an imposing appearance and during his youth has found it easy to mingle with companions of every class, as evidenced by his tale. He comes from a well-to-do and respectable family now residing in Philadelphia and has an education far above the ordinary.

According to his own story, Gardner was expelled from Mercerburg Academy in 1907 when found guilty of having some part in a hazing escapade. The sudden curtailment of his education was followed by employment on a number of western newspapers and after securing some knowledge of the newspaper game he conceived the idea of traveling around the world on "his own hook." Alone and with allowances coming regularly from the parental home in Baltimore, where he was born and where the family lived at that time, Gardner started a trip around the world.

Stopping off in the larger towns and cities during his trip the traveler worked for various lengths of time on a number of newspapers, his employment in some instances lasting a day or two and in other cases he remained in one place for four or five weeks. The money he raised by "grinding out copy" together with the sums received regularly from home made his journeying easy and much of his time was devoted to sightseeing. He arrived in Reno on July 3, 1910, one day before the Jeffries-Johnson prize fight and paid $25 for a seat in the bleachers. According to his own statement he is a personal friend of Jim Corbett, who was at that time training Jeffries for his "come-back" fight and while hanging around the training camp Gardner says he secured many valuable tips. One of the dopesters advised him to play all his money on Johnson, and scraping together $765 he laid the whole on the colored fighter. Johnson won and after collecting the small fortune Gardner left for other parts.

He shifted about for a time in Philadelphia, Baltimore, New York and other cities and finally went to Elizabeth where he secured employment on a daily in that city. While working in the latter place he passed a bogus check and fled to Milwaukee. According to Gardner he was in an intoxicated condition when he committed this crime and went to Milwaukee for the sole purpose of securing a position on a newspaper in that town. He was assigned to police court work and was recognized by Chief Arnold, of Milwaukee, as the forger who was wanted by the Jersey authorities. He waived extradition and was brought back to Elizabeth where he was tried and sentenced to the Rahway Reformatory. After serving 360 days he was let out on parole having been recognized as a "trusty" while in the institution. Soon after his discharge, however, he left the State without first securing permission from the Union county authorities and was again apprehended and returned to the reformatory. Gardner served another 360 days' sentence when he was taken for the second time and was only recently given his liberty.

From Rahway he went to New York where he secured employment as a reporter for the New York Evening Journal doing "sub" work for the paper. Chief of Police Kiely went to the prisoner's room in Brook-

Saturday night is the last day that the managers of either the first or second Parish House basketball teams will book games for the rest of the season. Manager Marston is scouting around for an opponent for the first team, while Hall, although he has several strong aggregations in view has not agreed on the one that will try conclusions with the second team. The first team has had considerable difficulty in playing games this season, as fully half the contests that were booked were cancelled. They have played twenty games in all and have gone down to defeat in four, and those being at the hands of such teams as the Triangles, of Brooklyn. By winning Saturday night's game from the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. the championship of Plainfield and vicinity, if not of the county, was determined. The second team lays claim to the championship of the county for teams averaging 125 pounds, by virtue of the feat of winning 43 games out of 57 played with basketball fives from all over the county.

As a curtain raiser to a very successful season the Parish House second team will hold a dance in the Fanwood Firehouse on the evening of Saturday, April 25. Dancing will be from 8:30 to 12:00, the music being furnished by Dushanek's orchestra, of Westfield.

Philip Jahn, of Park avenue, has just been appointed recorder by the Township Committee, his duties dating from April 13. Mr. Jahn will now divide court cases with Justice of the Peace Clark. Recorder Jahn will try all cases involving the township, while Justice Clark will hear those between citizens.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Parish House held the monthly meeting for April in that edifice last evening and discussed plans for a social for the benefit of the Parish House treasury.

The regular business meeting of the Parish House council was held last evening. The regular monthly bills were read and ordered paid. The question of athletic competition during the season was brought up for discussion, although nothing definite was decided upon.

The weekly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the All Saints' Episcopal church is being held at the home of Mrs. H. P. Robinson on North avenue, this afternoon.

NON-CHURCHMEN ARE IMPRACTICAL

Rev. A. T. Broek Says They Give Nothing in Return for Benefits.

DON'T THINK OF FUTURE

They Think Sole Purpose of Church is to Prepare Them for Another World — A Sixteenth Century Idea.

When a preacher who stands upwards of six feet, weighs a little better than 200 pounds, that is all bone and muscle and flesh, without fat; has a determined looking jaw and could pass anywhere as a banker or a business man of any other kind, says that the man outside of the church, and not the fellow in it, is the impractical one of the two, you pay some attention.

That is the opinion of Rev. Albertus W. Broek, brother of Rev. John Y. Broek, of this city, and pastor of the Clinton Avenue Reformed church, Newark, in discussing the question in the Newark Evening News. He knows something of what he is talking about for, in addition to the fact that he is continually mixing with men of all degrees, he has many of the prominent business and professional men of Newark in his congregation.

"What I marvel most at today in relation to church life," said Mr Broek, "is not so much the apparent indifference of so many of the men within the church as the carelessness toward the church of the men outside of it.

"To my way of thinking the world of the church is simplified into an extension of the person of Jesus Christ. All over Newark there are men who own all they have to the fact that the code of ethics taught by Jesus have made civilization most possible. These men are content to accept these benefits without offering anything in return—that is, until they feel the need of the church through sickness, or the approach of death.

"They seem to think also that the sole purpose of the church is to prepare men, or insure men, for another world. That is a sixteenth century idea. These men are so hopelessly out of date that they have not awakened to the real work that the church is accomplishing for them and for their fellows.

"The first work of the church, in relational to the individual, is to lead him into a life of righteousness and thus to cause him to lend his influence to the work that the church is in the world to do. It does not deal with a man in segments. Christ cared for the temporal as well as the spiritual needs of the people with whom He came in contact. When He taught us to utter His prayer He taught us to pray for our daily bread. That includes everything needful for the day—temporal as well as spiritual.

"By this prayer religion is related to every sphere of life—business, political, social or what-not. And, of course, since the end of all life is eternity, the church considers that also, although it is not the first consideration. This is in the giving of one's self to life. But even were eternity the sole aim of the church the man outside of it who is indifferent to it woul still show himself impractical.

"Most men who succeed provide for their business futures. They do not take any chances in any important matter that must some day confront them in this phase of life. Doesn't it seem impractical to think that they totally neglect to think of their future and keep postponing consideration of the most important question of all because it does not immediately appear that it will soon affect their pocketbooks.

"How do we link our religion to our lives in our church?" Mr. Broek repeated the question. "In very many definite ways. The fact that our church is prospering and that its people are faithful to it is one of the first indications. We are a downtown church and most of the older members of the congregation live long distances from it. In a recent congregation I had members present from all the Oranges, Montclair, Glen Ridge and many other sections of the county. One of my most regular attending and hardest working elders, lives eight miles away. My people believe that it is their duty to keep the church on the firing line. That is true religion. They could have greater comfort perhaps in churches right in their own neighborhoods.

"We believe in social service, but we believe that it is the end and not the beginning of religion. Social service is of little value if it makes a church neglect the fundamentals of belief in the love of God and the forgiveness of sin. Social service should be the result and not the impetus of a church life.

"In the Clinton Avenue Reformed church we have all of the usual accessories of the present day progressive church. We are seeking to touch our boys and girls and to hold them through the societies and movements which attract their interest. In our social work we have also recently made arrangements to keep our recreation-rooms open all the time and to go out and try to attract young men of the community to join with the young men of the church in their social effort.

"But there is little need to talk along those lines," added Mr. Broek, with a smile. "After all, most of the churches are doing all they can and we are all suffering from one common need.

"And that is?

"Money," came the reply. "When we get all our church people to the point where their Christianity is strong enough to make them give all that they should, we shall have progressed toward the point where many of our problems shall have been solved."

OUR BIG ANNIVERSARY SALE

Starts Thursday, April 16

And Lasts for Ten Days Only

Two years ago we opened our store to the shopping public of Plainfield and vicinity with the intention and determination of serving the people with the right merchandise at the lowest possible prices. That our efforts have been amply rewarded is truly evidenced by the fact that since then we have found it necessary to enlarge our store twice. The last time by taking over the entire second floor which has been modernly equipped for our Cloak and Suit and Ready-to-wear Departments. We are going to celebrate our anniversary by offering you, right in the heart of the season, an exceptional opportunity to buy your Spring apparel at a remarkable reduction. Remember, this is not a sale to get rid of season left over goods, as we offer you bright, fresh, nobby goods of the latest and most desirable styles.

We could fill this entire paper quoting our special sale prices. A circular will be left at your house, also be sure to read our Friday's ad., as it will mean dollars in your pocket.

JUNIOR SCOUT BOYS ENJOY HIKE AND LUNCH

The Junior Scout boys of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, ten in number, accompanied by the pastor, enjoyed a "hike" yesterday, near South Plainfield to the home of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Wooden, the parents of two of the boys. Here they ate their dinner around a camp-fire out in the orchard.

Mr. Wooden has sold his farm and the family will soon move to Lambertville. The boys will be sorry to lose two of their comrades. From here the "hike" was continued across the country to New Era, to New Market, and Lincoln, where the boys took the trolley for Bound Brook, where they were entertained at a fine lunch at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Ellis.

THE CITY ELECTRICIAN IDEA.

Announcement in the news columns a few days since that Councilman John H. Cose has in preparation an ordinance calling for the appointment of a city electrician has naturally enough produced an abundance of comment. The Daily Press is in a position to state that practically all of it is of a favorable nature, but, as in the case of every proposition for municipal advancement there are some who feel it their bounden duty to object. We have no hesitancy in saying they do so because of only a cursory glance at the details. Mr. Cose has been securing information on the subject for many months, not only in regard to cost, but also its successful application in other cities and from the angle of efficiency. He points out that Plainfield is, and has been, paying approximately $2,500 for the maintenance of its police and fire alarm systems; that a charge of $5 is made by the Board of Underwriters for each inspection of electrical wiring made by its representative, and that contractors are frequently delayed by this officials appearance only once a week. Add to this the saving that will come to the city by reason of the local receipt of the inspection fees and you have the proposer's arguments in a nut shell.

The only thing tangible produced by the antis so far is the cry that the whole idea is only a plan to create another office. A remark of this kind is inevitable when the disgruntled ones are at a loss to back up thoughtless opposition. Of course, the passage of the ordinance would establish another municipal job, but when it is done at such a saving as Mr. Cose's proposition shows in figures it is too bad that new offices are not created more often. The father of the measure invites interrogation and stands ready at any time to explain his views fully, therefore why waste time in heedless remarks? Get in touch with him if you are sufficiently interested and fully satisfy yourself that the appointment of a city electrician is something that Plainfield should have as soon as possible.

FACTORY BEAUTIFICATION,

Manufacturers in some cities have done much in the last few years to beautify their factory premises and surroundings by grading, sodding, vines, flowers, walks, driveways and, in cases, erection of somewhat costly stations and other structures, all of which have added substantially to the value of the property and to the "City Beautiful." In Plainfield much could be done by factory men along this line and there is no time like the present for the heads of the big plants here to join in a city-wide plan for more attractive factories outside as well as inside, about the machine shops as well as around the offices.

There is an economic value to attractive factories. Not only is the city made more beautiful by whatsoever the factories do but artistic surroundings also increase the contentment and ability of employes. An attractive factory tends towards attractive employment, meaning better workmanship, hence better products to command better prices in the best markets.

Many cities are alive to their opportunities in factory beautification. In Toledo the Museum of Art has engaged an expert gardener whose services it offers to the factory owners of the city who are interested in the project.

The beautiying of the grounds and buildings about factories by the planting of trees, shrubs, grass and vines will work wonders in improving the neighborhood.

There is an additional advantage in the impression made upon regular and prospective customers who frequently pay visits to the factory. The example will react on the surrounding community and employes will naturally be influenced to improve their own home surroundings, which will in turn make for better and more contented workmen.

The local police are to be congratulated upon their success in apprehending "Ice Wagon" Connors, alleged to have stolen the jewelry from the home of former Senator Ernest R. Ackerman some months ago. There has been something peculiar about this case ever since the robbery, and it is said that the New York police refused to help find Connors, although he was at one time in that city and where they could have laid their hands on him. The very fact that some of the jewels were returned in a mysterious manner would lead to the belief that the insurance company which carried the policy on the valuables, was more anxious to return the loot than to see that justice was done and the crook captured. Chief Kiely, however, was not to be outwitted in the matter, and he has been quietly at work on the case, with the result that Conners has been apprehended in Chicago. This is not the first time that the local authorities have shown their skill, and Plainfield may congratulate itself that its police department is to be favorably compared with the departments in many cities much larger.

RECEPTION FOR REV. AND MRS. ANDERSON

Bi-monthly Dinner a Feature of Annual Affair at First M. E. Church.

The bi-monthly dinner under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church, last night, was combined with the annual reception to Rev. and Mrs. Charles M. Anderson, following their return for another year. Dr. Anderson has served the church five years, entering upon the sixth, and the reception last night was one of the most enjoyable of the several held during his pastorate.

A large number of members and friends enjoyed the dinner held in the basement of the church, and then adjourned to Vincent chapel for the reception. Mrs. Samuel Bingaman was chairman of the committee in charge of the dinner, being assisted by the members of the society, whose names are from "A to D." The menu was an elaborate one and thoroughly enjoyed.

At the reception which followed, Dr. James R. Joy was master of ceremonies, introducing the various speakers, among whom were Rev. Frederick J. Hubach, the new district superintendent, formerly pastor of the Monroe Avenue church; Rev. C. C. Cain, pastor of Grace M. E. church, and Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph, the new pastor of the Monroe Avenue church, while Dr. Anderson made one of his usual happy responses to the many pleasing things said about him and his wife by the other speakers.

The cordiality of the welcome extended to Dr. and Mrs. Anderson by the members of the church as well as the visiting ministers was marked, indicating another prosperous year for the First M. E. church. Another feature of the evening was the presence of the church quartet and Clifford A. Braider, organist and choirmaster. The quartet sang a number of selections, and Miss Gabrielle Drosse, soprana, and Miss Ethel Kinnaman, contralto, both sang pleasing solos.

The chapel was attractively decorated with flowers, green and white being the prevailing colors. The decorative scheme in the dining-room where the dinner was served was also attractive. The members of Grace church were to have given a reception to Rev. C. C. Cain, last night, but postponed it to Monday night, so as not to interfere with the affair arranged by the First M. E. church.

"PADDLE YOUR OWN CANOE" A SUCCESS

Washington Dramatic Club's First Play Enjoyed by Large Audience.

"Paddle Your Own Canoe," a farce comedy, was given by the Washington Musical and Dramatic Club at the Washington School, last night, and was a great success. The Municipal Orchestra, under the leadership of Martin A. Korff, opened the program and its excellent work added much to the enjoyment of the occasion. About 250 people witnessed the performance and were generous in their applause

When the curtain rose it revealed Harry T. Shirley, a struggling young dentist, sitting in his office, talking to himself about his ill luck. Mrs. Andrew Allen took the part of the poor widow in a commendable manner. Peter Walsh took the part of Christopher Croesus, the rich citizen, while Walter Glaentzer as Orpheus Beethoven Joyful was all that one could desire in that role. Bob Ridley, the doctor's porter, was impersonated by J. Bedell Wills, and the part of the tragedian was taken by Robert McGoldrich. Henry Donnelly was given the role of the Irishman, and amused the audience greatly. Raymond Wilson impersonated Tin Woh, a Chinese laundryman, while Miss Edith Allen was charming as Miss Kate Croesus. Miss Anna Pearson played the part of Milly Morey.

After the play, the audience all joined in dancing until 10:30 o'clock. The successful performance was dedicated to A. B. Jones in appreciation of his interest in the dramatic club. Members of the Recreation Committee who were present were Mr. and Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, William T. Sandford, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Jones, Councilman Richard A. Claybrook, who has just been chosen a member of the committee, and Champlain L. Riley. All praised the work of those who took part in this first production of the club.

PRISONER DENIES ROBBERY

lyn yesterday afternoon and searched the place for articles that might help the authorities in establishing some case against Gardner. Nothing that will aid materially in connecting the prisoner with the local robberies was located.

When apprehended by the police Gardner was working on a number of motion picture scenarios and short stories. One of his unfinished articles was a description of the conditions that exist in the Railway Reformatory as related by a former inmate. The latter story was contracted for by Collier's weekly, according to Gardner, and would have been published in that magazine when finished.

A further investigation will be conducted this afternoon and in the meantime Gardner is held a prisoner in a cell at headquarters.

UNITY CIRCLE GIVE DUTCH DINNER DANCE

King's Daughters' Affair at Park Club Generously Patronized.

The annual dinner subscription dance given at the Park Club, last night, by the members of Unity Circle of the King's Daughters, proved to be a great success. Many novel features were introduced, one of which was that the members of the circle all appeared in Dutch costume and served a most excellent dinner to about one hundred and sixty patrons. Throughout the serving of the dinner, Howard's orchestra gave an attractive program of popular music, which added to the enjoyment of the occasion

Following the dinner dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. During the evening the young women sold cigarettes and candy, thereby adding considerable to the total receipts. The large hall was attractively decorated for the occasion, the scheme being in harmony with the Dutch costumes of the young women. It is believed that about $300 will be realized as profit.

The officers of the circle are: President, Miss Audrey Gernon; vice-president, Miss Ruth Timpson; secretary, Miss Mary Rushmore; treasurer, Miss Anna Yerkes. They were in charge of the affair and were assisted by all the other members of the circle numbering about twenty-five.

SUFFRAGE CONFERENCE TO BE HELD IN CAMDEN

The second annual suffrage conference of the southern part of the State will be held at the Cooper Park Library, Camden, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. E. F. Feickert, the State president of the Equal Suffrage League, will preside as chairman of the meeting, the subject to be discussed being "How to Carry South Jersey in 1915."

Twelve addresses on the questions of the hour among the suffragettes will be delivered by prominent workers from all portions of the State. Mrs. Feickert, of this city, will talk on "The Legislative Situation and the Coming Campaign." All of the speakers will conduct a question forum after each of the addresses and it is expected that the special problems wil lbe solved by this method.

SOME DON'TS IN USE OF MILK IN SUMMER

George M. Christian Prepares Warning as to Possibilities of Spreading Disease.

George W. Christian, who is connected with the largest milk products company in the country, their daily consumption being over 9,000 pints, suggests, as summer is approaching the following Dont's on the treatment of milk in the home, to prevent it becoming unfit for food, especially for children, the sick or convalescent, and will also apply to well people.

Don't empty the milk from the bottle into a pitcher and place it in the ice box, or on your table.

Don't fail to wipe off the bottle before emptying it, on account of the great chance of cantamination from handling in the wagon, filling, capping, street dust and danger of flies settling in it.

Don't pour back into the bottle milk that has been exposed to the air.

Don't leave the bottle open on your table, or in the ice box, cover it with an inverted tumbler.

The creamery department of the United States Government, made a test recently and discovered that there were over 100,000 dangerous and malignant bacteria on the feet of one fly. Imagine the result of that fly settling on the mouth of your milk bottle or pitcher.

Don't wash any utensil used for feeding milk to children, the sick or convalescent in dish water used for washing other utensils. It is far better to boil them in clean water and set them away unwiped.

Don't feed a child milk unless you are absolutely sure that it has not reached the danger line of acidity, or on the point of turning sour. This cannot be determined by simply tasting it. Milk in fit condition for the babies should not contain over 2-10 of 1 per cent. acid and not over 2 per cent. at the outside. This can be ascertained by purchasing from your druggist a special tablet. Then procure two feeding bottles, with graduates blown in the glass. Take a portion of the milk you propose using, place this in one bottle, in the other bottle pour same amount of soft water, never hard or alkali; add one of the tablets to each 263 of water, after tablet is dissolved, pour the solution in the milk in the other bottle. If the milk remains white, it is unfit for food; if it turns pink it has not reached the danger line or over 2 per cent. of acidity. The milk containing solution must be thrown away.

To destroy and clear the house of flies, heat a shovel or any similar article, and drop therein twenty drops of carbolic acid, the vapor kills the flies.

A cheap and perfectly reliable fly poison, one which is not dangerous to human life, is bicromate of potash in solution. Dissolve one dram, which can be bought of your druggist, in two ounces of water, add little sugar, put some of this solution in shallow dishes, and distribute them about the house.

A spoonful of formalin or formadehyde, put into a quarter pint of water, and exposed in the room will be enough to kill all the flies.

To quickly clear the room where there are many flies burn pysethrum powder in the room—this stupifies the flies, and they may be swept up and burned.

No matter how well milk has been handled up to the time it is delivered to the consumer, it cannot be expected to keep well if it is carelessly treated thereafter. Sometimes in very hot weather housekeepers complain that in spite of all precaution, it sours quickly, even in the ice box; this is often due to the fact that the air of the ice box, although it seems cold in contrast to the heat outside, is really not cold enough to check the growth of the bacteria. If a thermometer placed inside registers more than 50 degrees F., the fault is almost surely in the temperature of the ice box, and not in the milk.

U. S. READY FOR ACTION IN MEXICO

To Enforce Demand For Flag Salute.

BIG FLEET IS RUSHED

President Wilson Abandons His Waiting Policy.

MAY NOW BLOCKADE TAMPICO

Eleven of Uncle Sam's Battleships, Carrying 15.000 Men, Will Be Anchored Off the City In Seven Days.

Washington, April 15.—Unless the Mexican federal troops at Tampico fire a salute to the American flag the United States will use its battleships and soldiers to force an atonement for the recent insult to the national colors.

By way of enforcing this demand the strongest fleet of American fighting vessels mobilized for business purposes since the Spanish war days is now making hurried preparations to start for Tampico; the war department has made itself ready for action at a moment's notice, and everything has been done to open the way for putting the military arm of the government on a war basis.

Within seven days a fleet under Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger, consisting of eleven of Uncle Sam's most modern battleships, re-enforced by several cruisers and gunboats and carrying all told about 15,000 men, will be at anchor off Tampico.

President Huerta of Mexico knows now that by the time this formidable array of fighting vessels arrives off his coast he must have decided whether or not he will revise his present determination and yield to the demand of the United States for adequate reparation for the insult growing out of the arrest of American marines in Tampico last Thursday.

There is no doubt that an ultimatum has been delivered to Huerta, although it does not attempt to fix a limit to the time in which he may meet the demands of the United States.

Whether United States marines will land at Tampico has not yet been determined.

Announcing the mobilization of the fleet Secretary Daniels issued the following statement:

"Secretary of the Navy Daniels sent orders to Rear Admiral Badger, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet, to proceed at once with all the ships under his command to Tampico. Admiral Badger is at Hampton Roads.

"At the same time orders were issued for the Hancock, now at New Orleans with 800 marines, to proceed at once to Tampico.

"Orders were also issued to the South Carolina, en route from Santo Domingo, to join the fleet at Hampton Roads, intercepting her and ordering her to Tampico.

Cabinet Members Hopeful.

Members of the cabinet were hopeful that no further step would be required to secure compliance with the American demand, but they privately admitted that the Washington government was getting ready to enforce its demand should it meet resistance.

The mobilization of the fleet under such circumstances immediately raised in official circles the question of whether the possible landing of marines at Tampico in satisfaction for the arrest of the marines last Thursday would be an act of war.

It has been repeatedly stated that the landing of any armed forces without the permission of the government in control of the territory was regarded here as an act of war and military intervention. It was said, however, by those familiar with precedent that should the Huerta commander fail to resist any aggressive steps by the American naval officers and retire no further serious consequences might result, as the United States might feel disposed not to press the affair any further.

No Recognition.

The United States has recognized no government in Mexico, but regards the southern republic as in a state of anarchy.

John Lind, the president's personal representative in Mexico, who is now in Washington, is known to have held for some time the view that a more drastic policy should be pursued by the United States in dealing with Huerta. He is understood to have told the president and Secretary Bryan that Huerta would delay and evade the issue just as long as the United States seems disinclined to use force.

This feeling has been growing in administration circles, for the last month in particular, and President Wilson has shown in his talks with callers a rigid firmness and fixed determination not to temporize with the Huerta government, but to insist on whatever demands the United States might make.

Outcome of Eight Months.

The naval demonstration ordered is an outcome of the events of the last eight months, particularly since the contending forces in Mexico began to disregard the rights of foreigners.

There was evidence that the president was reluctant to use force in dealing with the situation, but none the less intended to demonstrate to Huerta the earnestness of the American policy.

When the concentration of the fleet is complete Admiral Badger will have under his command in addition to the twenty odd big warships

Rear Admiral Fletcher, at Vera Cruz now has with him the battleships Florida and the transport Prairie, with 800 marines. Rear Admiral Mayo, at Tampico, has the battleships Utah, Connecticut, Minnesota and the cruiser Des Moines, Chester, Dolphin and San Francisco and 600 marines. The hospital ship Solace will join him at that port in a day or two.

GENERAL MAAS.

A general concentration of the Atlantic fleet at Tampico was ordered by Secretary Daniels. The order was issued after a cabinet meeting in which President Wilson laid before the cabinet the necessity for backing up the demand of Rear Admiral Mayo that the American flag be saluted by the Huerta commander. The president conferred with John Lind, his personal representative in Mexico, just before the cabinet meeting. General Maas is in charge of the federal troops at Tampico.

STATE DROPS CASE AGAINST C. S. MELLEN

Former Head of New Haven Finally Freed.

Bridgeport, Conn., April 15.—Judge Joseph P. Tuttle in the superior court nolle prossed the charge of manslaughter against Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, as a result of the wreck at Westport, Conn., in October, 1912, when many lives were lost. The judge's action was made upon recommendation of Attorney General Light as special counsel for the state. In doing so the judge avoided making any decision on the motion of Homer S. Cummings, counsel for Mr. Mellen, to vacate the warrant upon which the railroad president's arrest was effected.

This fact also made it necessary for Judge Tuttle to answer the motion of State's Attorney Judson of Fairfield county to amend the complaint against Mr. Mellen, which was found defective by the court. The dropping of the prosecution of the retired railroad president had been predicted and was no surprise.

Mr. Mellen was arrested on a bench warrant in May of last year, together with four other officers of the New Haven road. The complaints against the latter were withdrawn about two months ago, and State's Attorney Judson exerted himself to get Mr. Mellen at the bar for trial. His counsel successfully attacked the complaint, and further action awaited Judge Tuttle's decision. Meantime Mr. Judson, who long had been ill, withdrew from pending court cases and resigned.

Army's Only "Mister" Drops Dead.

Newport, R. I., April 15.—John T. Freeman, said to be the only person in the United States army with the official title of "Mister," dropped dead at Fort Adams, where he was bandmaster of the Seventh Coast Artillery corps. Mr. Freeman was nearing retirement after an army service of many years.

TO FREE KUEHNLE FROM JAIL JUNE 1

Commutation of Sentence Granted by Pardon Court.

LIBERATE THREE OTHERS

Action of Court Accomplishes Release of First of So Called Political Offenders Convicted Under Elisor Drawn Grand Juries—Expected Full Pardon Instead of Commutation.

Trenton, N. J., April 15.—"Commodore" Louis Kuehnle, for many years the Republican boss of Atlantic county; former Sheriff John Zeller of Hudson county and three other lesser politicians of Atlantic county will be released from the state prison on June 1 as a result of a commutation of sentence granted by the court of pardons. Each of the five men was sentenced to one year's imprisonment, the actual term of service beginning last December and expiring next October, except in the case of Zeller, whose maximum term under the indeterminate sentence law now in force was five years. Kuehnle and Zeller were also fined $1,000 each, the fines having been paid.

The action of the court of pardons accomplishes the release of the first so called political offenders convicted under the elisor drawn grand juries which followed the displacement of the sheriffs of Hudson and Essex counties by the supreme court and subsequently resulted in the adoption of the jury reform law now in operation in New Jersey.

Former Sheriff Zeller, whose work at the prison has been at the main gate, in company with Kuehnle, was the first to receive word of the court's action. It was through him that the information of the court's action was conveyed to Kuehnle. Subsequently both Kuehnle and Zeller told a reporter that they were fully appreciative of the action of the court, although they had hoped that full pardons instead of commutation of sentence would be granted. It was the desire of both men that when their terms expire they might be permitted to return to their homes with as little demonstration and publicity as possible.

The other commutations granted by the court were to Estel D. Rightmier, former county engineer of Atlantic, and former freeholders John Unsworth and Frank Enderlin, who were jointly indicted on a charge of conspiracy involving the alleged withholding of payment for a road contract in Atlantic county pending the payment of a bonus by a contractor.

LOAN SHARK'S AUTO HITS NUN

Sister of Charity Knocked Down by Tolman Car—Child Escapes.

Montclair, N. J., April 15.—Sister Mary Eleanor of the Boys' Orphan home of Kearny was struck by an automobile owned by Daniel H. Tolman, the loan shark, in Bloomfield avenue, near the Town hall.

The sister of charity, who was accompanied by a twelve-year-old girl, Josephine Shepheard, was in front of a garage as the automobile in charge of Tolman's chauffeur, Frederick Schwartz, turned to enter the place.

The nun was knocked to the ground. The child escaped.

Chief of Police Harry Gallagher, who witnessed the accident, put the nun into the Tolman automobile. Schwartz drove her to the Mountainside hospital. It was found that she had no broken bones, but suffered from shock and probable internal injuries.

NEW PRUDENTIAL $1,000,000.

State Inspector Finds Insurance Company Is Richer Than It Thought.

Newark, N. J., April 15.—Property of the Prudential Insurance company here is worth $1,000,000 more than the amount the company carries on the books, according to Henry McAlpin, an inspector of the state department of banking and insurance.

He gives $19,638,122 as the total of the real estate owned here by the Prudential company. The buildings occupied by the company are worth $19,439,772. Mr. McAlpin so testified before appraisers who are arranging the report preliminary to the mutualization of the Prudential.

More Revenue For Jersey.

Trenton, N. J., April 15.—Under the new Egan law, approved by Governor Fielder, it will be illegal after Jan. 1, 1915, for any person at any time to hunt or fish in New Jersey without a license. Licenses will be issued for $1.15 to residents of the state for at least a year, to nonresidents for both hunting and fishing for $10.95, and to nonresidents for fishing only for $1.15.

John H. Polhemus Dead.

Whippany, N. J., April 15.—John H. Polhemus, for thirty-five years a merchant here and for many years postmaster, died suddenly at his home here. He was seated in a chair in his dining room. His wife went to another room and when she returned found him dead. Besides his wife he is survived by two sons and seven daughters.

NOSE AND HEAD STOPPED UP FROM COLD OR CATARRH, OPEN AT ONCE

My Cleansing, Healing Balm Instantly Clears Nose, Head and Throat—Stops Nasty Catarrhal Discharges—Dull Headache Goes.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it. Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.—Adv.

BASEBALL NOTES

The Cleveland Naps have shipped Pitcher Walker, the former Appalachian leaguer, to New Orleans for more seasoning.

Fred Clarke, who was tagged to quit five years ago, is now in his fifteenth year as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

A younger brother of "Stuffy" McInnis, the first sacker of the world's champions, is working out with the Athletics.

The Nashville Southern League team has two fine hitters and infielders in King and Sloan. The latter was turned back by the St. Louis Browns.

Walter Clarkson, one of Harvard's greatest pitchers and later in the American League, will essay the comeback stunt with Topsy Hartsel's Toledo team.

Manager Dooin, of the Phillies, is sweet on the second base playing of Bobby Byrne. Dooin says Bobby will make the Philly fans forget about Otto Knabe.

According to "Kid" Gleason, the White Sox tutor, Third Baseman Harry Lord is going in midseason form and so far has had no trouble with his throwing arm.

The new Colonial League is to open its season May 15. Five days later the Pennsylvania and West Virginia League, formerly the O. and P., will get under way.

Seven former Boston players have joined the Federal forces. They are Rariden, Campbell, Smith, Quinn and Myers, of the Braves, and Moseley and Anderson, of the Red Sox.

Hal Chase busted into print the other day with a choice panning for Frank Chance, whom he terms only a shine manager. But at last accounts Frank was still on the job with the Yankees.

Pitcher Casey Hagerman, who was tried out by the Boston Red Sox two or three years ago, is showing regular big league article with the St. Louis Cardinals. As a member of the Denver team Hagerman led the Western League pitchers last season.

Pitcher Toney, the former Cub now with Louisville, always can be depended upon to pitch a swell game against his former team mates. Pitching for the Cubs, Toney wouldn't do, put pitching against them he is a wonder.

FLIPPED COIN FOR OFFICE.

Harry (Mush) Sullivan who was elected yesterday to captain the Erasmus Hall High School baseball team for the coming season, was chosen in a novel way. Bill Sykes, the big pitcher, who is well known to P. H. S. ball players whom he has opposed many times, was also a candidate for the position, and as both are popular with their teammates the faculty athletic committee was left in a quandary over who to appoint. The toss of a coin was decided on and Sullivan proved the lucky one. Sykes is a cripple.

GAFFNEY BRINGS SUIT.

Baltimore, Md., April 15.—A duplicate of a suit brought in New York by James F. Gaffney, president of the National League club, for $25,000 for the loss of Jack Quinn, whose right name is John Picus, was brought in the United States District Court here yesterday. Quinn Monday pitched the Baltimore club to victory over Buffalo in the opening game of the Federal League season. The suit is by titling for alleged conspiracy, but no statements of the facts relied on is given in the paper filed in court.

DREW AND KELLY REPORTED TO HAVE EQUALLED RECORDS

Reports of some remarkable running performances on the part of University of Southern California athletes were received in New York A. A. U. headquarters yesterday. In a letter to Secretary James E. Sullivan, Walter Christie, the Pacific coast trainer, states that Howard P. Drew and Fred W. Kelly between them tied three world's records on April 7.

At a set of games held at Los Angeles to defray the expenses of the U. S. C. team to the University of Pennsylvania relay meet Drew ran 50 yards in 5 2-5 seconds and 60 yards in 6 2-5 seconds. Kelly ran 60 yards over the high hurdles in 8 seconds flat. All these times equal the world's amateur records in their respective events.

It is not said whether these times were made under conditions that would admit of their being accepted by the record committee of the A. A. U. Information regarding weather, track and competitive conditions has been requested by the record committee.

ROD AND REEL

Shadines, a member of the succulent shad family, are in Raritan Bay, and about a bushel were caught in the Mundy and Hunt pound net off Morgan, Monday. The flounders are still in the mud down that way and eels are just sticking their heads out.

Reports circulated that shad were being caught in Sandy Hook Bay and the Delaware river were misleading, as none had been trapped up to a late hour Friday. Fishermen along the Delaware claim that the lateness of the present spring will hold the fish back for another week at least.

Interest in Senator Egan's bill to provide for a license fee to be paid by everybody for the privilege of fishing fresh water streams of the State attracted a number of anglers to the State capitol on the closing day of the session because of a hearing that had been announced on it before the Governor. The bill passed both houses of the Legislature before some of the members learned that their constituents were opposed to it and then they attempted to recall it from the Governor in order to amend or kill it. They were unsuccessful in this and then asked the Governor for a hearing which he granted, and appointed tomorrow morning as the time for all to be heard that wished to do so. In the meantime the members of the Board of Fish and Game Commissioners sent word to the officers of several prominent sportsmen's clubs and they will send representatives to oppose any attempt to defeat the measure.

The fish and game wardens are reporting that the trout streams, with the possible exception of those in the extreme northwest section of the State, are getting down to their normal level and that the fishermen are catching quite a number of trout.

Big ling and plenty of them are along the shore and the fishermen that visit the piers at Coney Island are expecting some good sport within the next few days. Sea flounders were also caught along there this time last year, but none has appeared so far this season.

One tipster came into town yesterday and said that he had been along the Musquapsink Brook and found it better than ever. This must be so as he caught all the law allowed in one day, with small worms that he dug close to the stream. He advises reaching this brook from Westwood, on the New Jersey and New York Railroad, a branch of the Erie, and walking back along the tracks to where the stream passes under.

Hockhockson Brook, down in Monmouth county, was one of the trout streams that we mentioned in the series prior to the opening of the season on April 1, and up to date some good catches have been reported.

Pohatcong Creek, in that section of the country along the Pohatcong Mountain valley, is one of the finest of trout streams.

WITH THE BOXERS

Answer—The earth's sensible atmosphere is generally supposed to extend some forty miles in heighth, probably further, but becoming at only a few miles from the surface of too great tenuity to support life. The condition and motions of this aerial ocean play a most important part in the determination of climate, modifying, by absorbing, the otherwise intense heat of the sun, and, when laden with clouds, hindering the earth from radiating its required heat into space.

FINAL EFFORT TO SAVE LEO FRANK

Attorneys for the Convicted Man to Make Last Plea Today.

Atlanta, Ga., April 15.—With the date fixed for the execution of Leo M. Frank but two days off, the public interest in the case has reached fever heat. The attorneys for the convicted young man will play their final card tomorrow, when they will appear before the State supreme court and present an extraordinary motion for a new trial. It is expected that the new evidence gathered by William J. Burns, and which the famous detective claims is of so important a character that it cannot be ignored by the court, will then be disclosed for the first time.

Whatever may be the strength and character of the new evidence upon which the plea for a new trial will be based, there is a general feeling in Atlanta today that Frank will not be executed Friday. Furthermore, the opinion is widespread that he will never go to the gallows. The basis for this opinion is probably due almost wholly to the campaign of publicity that has been waged in behalf of the young man. In the entire history of American courts there have been few if any cases in which a more vigorous effort has been made to save a person convicted of murder.

Not the least interesting feature of the Frank case is the remarkable turnabout that public sentiment has undergone in regards to the case. When, on August 25 last, the jury returned a verdict finding Frank guilty of the murder of little Mary Phagan, the large crowd that had assembled outside the courthouse received the news with noisy demonstrations. The verdict was greeted with cheering loud and long. Mounted policemen rode through the crowd in an effort to disperse it, but the demonstrations continued unabated.

So far as the general public is aware there has been no new or important development in the Frank case since the verdict of guilty was returned. The evidence upon which the young man was convicted has not been upset in any important particular. Yet public sentiment seems to have undergone a complete change and there is little doubt that any announcement of court action favorable to the convicted man would now be greeted with as much enthusiasm as that displayed when the verdict of guilty was announced eight months ago.

It will be one year on the twenty-seventh of this month since the body of fourteen-year-old Mary Phagan was found in the basement of the pencil factory where she was employed. Frank was the superintendent of the factory. Up to the time of the tragedy he had enjoyed an excellent reputation. His home originally was in Brooklyn, where his parents still reside. Prior to coming to Atlanta he had been employed for a time in Boston. He was a member of several leading Jewish societies and was looked upon by his friends as a capable young man of business.

Crimes against women had been alarmingly frequent in Atlanta and vicinity for a considerable period prior to the murder of the Phagan girl. When her body was found bearing evidence that she had been attacked public feeling reached a high pitch. The police department naturally came in for severe criticism and this is one of the facts upon which emphasis is laid by those who are endeavoring to free Frank. The allegation is made that the police felt bound to take some immediate action in order to avoid criticism and that Frank was arrested in consequence. Charges have been openly made, moreover, that his conviction was brought about by framed-up testimony.

The only direct testimony against him was given by James Conley, a negro employed about the pencil factory. Conley swore that he had stood guard outside the factory office while Frank was alone with the Phagan girl and later helped Frank carry the body to the basement where it was found. The negro also charged Frank with degeneracy. Late in the trial the defendant made a statement denying all knowledge of the crime.

TRUST POLICY INTO ONE BILL

Combined Features Are Introduced In House.

WILSON ADVOCATES PLAN

The Prohibition Against Interlocking Boards Made Drastic — Chairman Clayton Completes Draft of the Administration Measure—More Leeway For Holding Companies.

Washington, April 15.—Important changes in the administration's program of anti-trust legislation are proposed in a bill introduced in the house by Representative Clayton, chairman of the committee on the judiciary.

By direction of President Wilson the anti-trust program, heretofore made up of four tentative bills, is embodied in one measure. It is the opinion of the administration's leaders that it will be easier to pass one anti-trust bill than a series of four.

The revised program softens the restrictive features of the original bills in some respects. This is notably the case in the provisions dealing with holding companies. Other features of the revised program are more drastic than those provided in the first instance This is true in the matter of the prohibitions against interlocking directorates. In the anti-trust bills as originally presented subsidiary concerns representing the legitimate growth of corporations were prohibited. Under the revised program the holding company prohibition does not apply to subsidiaries of this character. The provisions relating to interlocking directorates are broadened so as to prohibit relations of this character between private banks and trust companies in all cities with a population of over 100,000. It is understood this provision was adopted with a view of breaking up relations of big bankers, particularly in New York. Another amendment to the chapter dealing with interlocking directorates is that restricting the law to banks with resources of more than $2,500,000 instead of to all banks and other financial concerns without regard to resources.

Oppose Exempting Unions.

The feature of the new anti-trust program that is expected to cause a lot of trouble in a political way is to be found in the provisions dealing with labor. The bill offered has the approval of President Wilson. In this measure organized labor will find formal notice from the president that he is opposed to exempting unions and voluntary associations of farmers from prosecution under the anti-trust laws.

Work on the Clayton bill will be begun before the house judiciary committee tomorrow. It is expected that a report on the measure will be made to the house within the next two weeks President Wilson expects this bill to be passed before congress adjourns. There will be no difficulty in putting the bill through the house, but if action is to be had in the senate the session will be prolonged until early in the fall. Despite this the president is determined upon action.

HARRY THAW GETS WRIT.

Will Not Be Discharged Until Appeal Is Taken to Supreme Court.

Concord, N. H., April 15.—Harry K Thaw was granted a writ of habeas corpus by Judge Edgar Aldrich of the United States district court here, but the judge practically suspended the operation of the writ by announcing that he will not order the discharge of Thaw from custody until appeal is taken to the United States supreme court.

The effect of the decision is that Thaw wins the legal battle against ex tradition to New York state, but cannot obtain his liberty until the supreme court of the United States has given a final decision.

Even when the order for Thaw's discharge from custody is to be given by Judge Aldrich, after the appeal to the supreme court is perfected, the judge says "the discharge will be suspended by some appropriate order pending the appeal."

NEW TRIAL FOR JOHNSON.

Appeals Court Reverses Decision on White Slave Charges.

Chicago, April 15.—Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, was granted a new trial on the Mann act charges under which the negro was sentenced to a year in the penitentiary and $1,000 fine.

The United States court of appeals reversed the decision of the lower court on certain of the counts in Johnson's indictment.

BONNIE BURN PATIENTS ENJOY FINE CONCERT

Under the direction of the freeholders' committee of Bonnie Burn Sanitorium, an excellent concert was given at that place, last night. The artists included William Childs, a tenor from New Hampshire, who was accompanied by William N. Runyon, and Mrs. Joseph Watts, of Westfield, who gave readings from Dickens.

There were about eighty people present, chiefly patients at the sanitorium, and all thoroughly enjoyed the affair. Dr. J. F. Runnells, superintendent, arranged the program.

DR. ALEXANDER MAY HEAD PRESBYTERIANS

Pittsburgh, April 15—Rev. Dr. Maitland Alexander, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, this city, has been elected a commissioner to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church, which will be held in Chicago the third week in May. As Dr. Alexander heads the delegation, his friends feel certain that he will be the next moderator. He has been deluged with letters and telegrams from all parts of the country, telling him to consent to be nominated for the moderatorship, which is the highest office in the Presbyterian denomination. He demurred until now.

ADDRESSED TAXPAYERS ON NEW COUNTY IDEA

The proposed new "Washington County" idea was presented, last night, to the Piscataway Township Taxpayers' Association at the New Market schoolhouse, former Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, being the principal speaker of the occasion. He outlined his views on the question, showing how the new county would mean a large saving in taxes for Plainfield and the smaller towns and communities in the immediate vicinity. The seventy-five representative men who had gathered to hear the speaker were greatly impressed and showed great interest in the movement.

William A. Coddington, also of this city, was present at the gathering and gave a most instructive talk on "Taxation," referring briefly to the possible effects of the new county on the present existing conditions in the township.

"THE LION AND THE MOUSE."

"The Lion and the Mouse" will be shown in motion pictures at Proctor's today. This is taken from the famous play of that name by Charles Klein. FATHER LOCATES HIS RUNAWAY SON

Youth for Whom New York Police Were Searching is Found Near Here.

William Reeville, a fifteen-year-old New York boy, who disappeared from his home last Friday, and for whom the metropolitan police were searching, was located yesterday on the Hoagland farm at Locust Grove. A postal card sent to one of his chums gave the clue that brought his father to this city and with the aid of Michael Higgins and his taxi cab, the place he mentioned was quickly found. The boy was being instructed in the art of milking a cow when the parent surprised him.

Young Reeville had never been out of New York city and he told his father on the way back to Plainfield he was tired of its "humdrum." He wanted to see what farming was like and by answering an advertisement got in touch with the Hoagland place, better known to local people as the Little farm. He hired out as a farm boy, telling Mr. Hoagland he was made homeless by the death of his mother. As a matter of fact, his mother and several brothers and sisters are living and were distracted over his absence.

The senior Reeville, who is a contractor, said his son had everything a boy could wish for, but recently became possessed of a longing for the simple life. The runaway was loath to give up his job and vowed he would come back as soon as he could persuade his parents to let him.

CONGREGATIONAL MEN'S CLUB ANNUAL MEETING

The Men's Club of the Congregational church met in annual session at the parish house, last night, when reports were read and officers elected. Plans were made for the enlargement of the scope of the work during the coming year. Plans for a "Ladies Night" to be held May 11, were made. A lecture on historical Scotland and England will be given.

A challenge was received from the boys of the Sunday-school to play a game of baseball on May 2 and immediately accepted. The officers elected were as follows: President, Andrew E. Neilson; vice-president, W. L. Marshall; secretary, J. C. Evans; treasurer, R. G. Ehinehart.

LINCOLN DIED 49 YEARS AGO.

Washington, D. C., April 15—Forty-nine years ago, on April 15, 1865, President Lincoln died as a result of the wounds inflicted by the assassin J. Wilkes Booth, at Ford's Theater, the evening preceding. Today the American flag was displayed at half mast from the window of the house where the martyr President breathed his last. The house, which stands opposite the old theatre building where the tragedy occurred, has long been maintained as a museum for the display of Lincoln relics. Tentative plans already under way for an appropriate observance a year hence of the semi-centennis' anniversary of Lincoln's death.

FOR DE GRASSE MONUMENT.

Washington, D. C., April 15.—The triennial convention of the National Society of the Sons of the Revolution met in this city today and before it adjourns it is expected another link will be forged in the chain of friendship binding together France and the United States. The society has undertaken to sponsor a movement for the erection of a suitable monument to Admiral de Grasse, commander of the French fleet whose aid made possible Washingtons final victory at Yorktown, thus ending the Revolutionary War. It is proposed to erect the memorial either in this city or at Yorktown.

MINNESOTA SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

Winona, Minn., April 15.—Enthusiasm formed the keynote at the opening here today of the annual convention of the Minnesota State Sunday School association. Hundreds of delegates and visitors from all parts of the State are in attendance. Mrs. Mary Foster Bryner, of Chicago; W. C. Pearce, of Chicago; Dr. Andrew Gillies, of Minneapolis, and several other leaders of international note, are to address the convention during the four days' sessions.

EMPIRE TEACHERS' MEETING.

Spokans, Wash., April 15—Many leading educators of Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Washington, were present here today at the opening of the annual convention of the Inland Empire Teachers' Association. The business management of schools is the chief topic scheduled for discussion during the three days sessions. Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education, will address the teachers.

WELL KNOWN COUPLE WED IN NEW YORK

C. William Bingeman Took Miss Mary Henry for His Bride Last Night.

Miss Mary Henry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry of New York city, was married to C. William Bingeman of this city, in the West Twenty-third Street church, New York city, last night, the Rev. H. G. Mendenhall officiating. Many friends of the couple from this city attended th ceremony. The edifice wa selaborately decorated for the occasion and a reception followed in the home of the bride. Following a short honeymoon trip the couple will reside in their furnished apartments in the New Madison apartments.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Bingeman are well known to a wide circle of acquaintances in this city where each has been identified prominently with social work. Miss Henry is a noted singer and has appeared in a number of recitals held here. Mr. Bingeman has been for five years the head of the Y. M. C. A. boys department and numbers among his acquaintances nearly every member of the younger set in the city. He is the assistant camp director of the New Jersey State Y. M. C. A. camp at Lake Wawayanda during the summer months and takes a prominent part in conference work for boys. He is a graduate of the Springfield Training School in the class of 1906 and was formerly connected with the Y. M. C. A. at Kingston, N. Y.

CONGRESS WILL TRY TO MAKE NATION 'DRY'

Leaders Say Prohibition Amendment Will Be Passed.

Washington, April 15.—Present indications are that the house committee on the judiciary will report favorably the pending resolutions proposing an amendment to the constitution providing for nationwide prohibition of the liquor traffic.

Much to the surprise of the leaders prohibition loomed up prominently as an issue with the probabilities that it will be presented to the house at an early date. It had been assumed by most members that the prohibition amendment would be sidetracked.

A test vote taken in the judiciary committee foreshadows early action by that body on the proposed constitutional amendment. A motion was made by Representative Carlin of Virginia providing that a date should be fixed for a vote on the pending resolution. It was defeated by a vote of 8 to 8.

Members who were present say that the discussion indicated that when the time comes to vote on the prohibition amendment on its merits that it will be passed by a comfortable majority.

Leaders say that if the resolution is reported to the house, as now seems assured, that it will undoubtedly be passed. This would put the issue up to the senate. Just what action that body would take is a matter of lively speculation among both the "wets" and the "drys" in congress.

Consideration also was given by the judiciary committee to the proposed constitutional amendment providing for woman suffrage. It seems to be agreed that this measure will go over until the next session.

Of the two proposed reforms the prohibition amendment has the stronger support. In a Democratic caucus held early in the year a large majority voted to postpone action on the suffrage amendment. This will influenbe the Democratic members to vote it down when it is called up in committee.

JOHN PIERSON TAKES POISON BY MISTAKE

Prompt medical treatment saved the life of two-year-old John Pierson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Pierson, of Manson place, this morning, after the little fellow had swallowed a quantity of bleaching powder that was left lying on a kitchen table.

The boy was playing about the house and mistook the powder for sugar. He swallowed a large portion and was soon seized with severe pains. His parents rushed him to the office of Dr. Raphael Yood, and antidotes were administered. He is now well on the road to recovery.

APPENDICITIS VICTIM.

Mrs. Clifford McGee, of Willow avenue, was taken seriously ill last night, with what later proved to be appendicitis. She was hurried to Muhlenberg Hospital where an emergency operation was performed by Dr. Endicott, assisted by Dr. A. H. Dundon. Late this afternoon she was reported to be resting easily.

By order of the Common Council.

JAMES T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., April 6, 1914.

AN ORDINANCE

For the Laying Out and Opening of East Fourth Street from a point 388.6 feet northeast of the center of Washington Street to the southwesterly side line of Richmond Street.

WHEREAS, the Common Council have judged and do hereby judge that the public good requires that East Fourth Street should be laid out and opened between the points named in the title to this ordinance, therefore

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That a public street, to be known as East Fourth Street, be and the same is hereby ordered laid out and opened in said city as hereinafter specified, that is to say:

The centre line of said street shall be in all its course parallel in the centre line of East Fourth Street, said point being distant in a northeasterly direction 388.6 feet along said centre line from the centre line of Washington Street, as said streets are now laid out and opened, and running from said point in a northeasterly direction parallel with and distant 67 feet in a southeasterly direction from the centre line of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, a distance of 1,[illegible] feet to a point in the centre line of Richmond Street and there to end. Said street shall be 35 feet in width, that is to say, 17.5 feet on each side of said center line and the roadway shall be 25 feet in width extending along the northwesterly side of said street. Said center line, and also the side and curb lines of said street are delineated on a certain map filed with the City Clerk April 6, 1914, entitled "Map Showing proposed Laying Out and Opening of East Fourth Street, from a point 388.6 feet east of Washington Street to Richmond Street, City of Plainfield, N. J., 1914," to which said reference is hereby made for greater certainty.

The lands, real estate and appurtenances to be taken for the laying out and opening of said East Fourth Street (the larger part of said street having already been dedicated to the public), include that part of the property now or formerly of the Estate of John Rafferty and Ernest White described as follows: Beginning at a point where the southeasterly side line of East Fourth Street as formerly laid out and opened is intersected by the southeasterly side line of East Fourth Street as herein laid out and opened, and running from said point in a northeasterly direction along said line as formerly laid out and opened a distance of 61.45 feet to a point in the northeasterly line of said property now or formerly of the Estate of John Rafferty; thence along said line in a southeasterly direction a distance of 21.62 feet to the southeasterly side line of East Fourth Street as herein laid out and opened; thence along said line in a southwesterly direction a distance of 55.42 feet to the place of beginning.

The lands, real estate and appurtenances to be taken and the lines of the proposed street as the same is hereinbefore ordered to be laid out and opened are shown on said map on file with the City Clerk, hereinbefore referred to and made a part hereof.

J. T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., April 6, 1914.

AN ORDINANCE

To Provide for the Construction of a Further Addition to the System of Sewerage Already Constructed in the City of Plainfield.

WHEREAS, There has been constructed in said city a system of sewerage, which action in relation thereto has from time to time been taken, as is set forth in the preamble to the ordinance of said city, entitled "An ordinance to provide for the construction of an addition to the system of sewerage already constructed in the city of Plainfield," approved November 6, 1897, to which preamble reference is hereby made for greater certainty; and

WHEREAS, In the opinion of the Common Council the public good requires that further additions, as herein described, to the system of sewerage already constructed, should be now constructed in and for said city under the provisions of the Act in said preamble referred to, and the Common Council has so determined and does hereby so determine; therefore

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the Common Council doth hereby direct and order that a further addition to the system of sewerage already constructed under said Act and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental hereto, be constructed in and for said city under the provisions of the Act of the Legislature above referred to, with all the appurtenances necessary to complete the same, and of such dimension and material and according to such plans as the said Common Council may hereafter direct, in and through the following described streets, avenues, property lands and rights of way described, mentioned and referred to in this ordinance to wit:

NEEDLEWORK

By

MARGARET LAWRENCE

CONVENTIONAL BORDER DESIGN FOR BATTENBURG BRAID.

Dainty bed-room curtains may be made of scrim, dotted swiss, cross-barred muslin or net and embroidered, stenciled or braided.

This border, 14356, illustrated on a curtain, is particularly suitable for braiding curtains, table-covers and pillows. It is 5¼ inches wide and 2¼ yards of border with two corners are contained in the pattern.

When using a transfer pattern on net, do not attempt to stamp it, but paste the pattern to the under side of the material and work over the design. The pattern gives a foundation to sew on and can be torn away when the work is finished.

Pattern No. 14356 will be supplied to readers for 15 cents.

Some Cookery Suggestions

COOKING CANNED CORN.

THERE are so many ways of using corn that it is one of the most popular of canned vegetables. Almost any way in which fresh corn cut from the cob may be used may be adopted with canned corn.

Browned For the Table.

Corn Dumplings.—Mix the contents of a can of corn chopped fine with one-half pint of milk, six level tablespoonfuls butter, two eggs, one-quarter teaspoonful pepper, one-half teaspoonful salt, one-half pint flour or enough to make a dough that is easily handled, a teaspoonful of baking powder. If corn is juicy drain, tear off small pieces of dough the size of a butternut and roll between the palms of hands, drop into smoking hot fat and cook until nicely browned. Serve with tomato or brown sauce. These can be dropped into hot soup and cooked as any dumpling.

Corn In Tomato Cups.—Scoop out the inside of some large tomatoes of uniform shape, leaving a firm wall. Mix the scooped out pulp with some canned sweet corn in any proportion preferred. Season with pepper and salt and fill the tomato cups. Sprinkle the tops with powdered breadcrumbs. Add a bit of butter to each and bake them.

Piquant Fare.

Baked Peppers and Corn.—Take a pint of corn. Open two sweet green peppers, remove seeds and white veins and shave very fine. Put corn and peppers in a buttered baking dish, seasoning with salt. Pour over the top a cupful of thin cream with which has been mixed one beaten egg and two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Bake for forty minutes in a quick oven.

Corn Timbales.—Beat three eggs, season with salt and paprika or cayenne, add a gill of milk, one-half gill of cream and one-half pint of canned corn. Fill up some well buttered timbale molds and stand them in a saute pan of boiling water, cover with buttered paper and bake for about twenty minutes. Turn out on to a hot dish and serve with hot bechamel sauce enriched with a little cream containing a little lemon juice and some finely chopped parsley and chervil.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Brownie's Trip to Dr. Brownie.

"What, my tooth out already!" he cried.

GOING to the dentist's always frightened Evelyn. Jack always went along with her, as it helped a great deal to have some one near by. But now Evelyn knew she must go again, and she was dreading it so much.

"So my little girl has to go to the dentist's tomorrow?" said daddy.

"Yes," answered Evelyn sorrowfully, "and I am sure I won't sleep tonight just thinking about it. He says he must pull it, and, oh, I can't bear the thought of having my tooth pulled!"

"Dear me," said daddy; "I think I will have to tell you about the brownie's trip to the dentist, for I think his case was very similar to yours.

"This little brownie had had a toothache which had bothered him for some time, but he dreaded to go to the dentist's, just the way you do.

"The other brownies told him he'd better go before it became worse, but he kept putting it off and putting it off.

"One day, though, it got awfully painful, and he felt he could stand it no longer. The pain was so dreadful he wanted something done to the tooth right away, and he didn't much care what was done if only his toothache went away.

"'That's what we were afraid of,' said the other brownies.

"'Well, there's one thing about it,' said the little brownie with the toothache; 'now it hurts so badly I don't care a scrap if the dentist pulls it or not.'

"He wasted no more time. He went right off to see the brownie dentist. He was a very clever dentist and very kind and gentle.

"He sighed when he saw the little brownie with the toothache. 'I am sorry you've let it go so far,' said he. 'That's the trouble—people, brownies, everything and everyone will always wait until they can stand the pain no longer before they go to the dentist's, and that is why we're considered such dreadful people to go to. Well, your tooth will be out in a jiffy.'

"Whereupon he got a pair of pullers, and after a moment or two Dr. Brownie said:

"'Well, here's the old toothache.'

"'What, my tooth already out?' said the little brownie. And to think of all I've suffered before I came to you.'

"'And I am quite gentle, then, you think?'

"'Oh, you're wonderful, and it is such a relief to think that that awful tooth is out.'"

"Daddy," said Evelyn, "that story has helped a lot, for now I'll go before my toothache gets too painful, and I feel quite sure now that I won't be hurt any more than the little brownie was."

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

The Madison Equal Suffrage League, of which Mrs. Francis V. Tuttle is president, will hold an outdoor rally on May 2, in Waverly Square, a central gathering place in the village.

The Anti-Suffrage Society of Trenton has requested the Suffrage League of Trenton to provide suffrage speakers for a debate they wish to hold on Thursday evening, April 16. John A. Matthews and Miss Price are to speak for the Anti-Suffragists, the Trenton Civics and Suffrage Club, Mrs. Tittensor, president, will have for their side of the debate Dr. Stephen N. Wise and Mrs. Helen Hoy Greely.

The Trenton Civics and Suffrage Club will hold a bazaar on May 2 and will give the play "How the Vote Was Won." Members of the league will also edit a page of the Trenton Times on that day.

The Trenton Men's League for Woman Suffrage, of which Hon. James C. Hammond is president, will hold street meetings at night.

Mrs. George G. Scott, of Montclair, will speak at a public meeting of the Bound Brook League on Tuesday afternoon, April 14.

Mrs. E. F. Feickert, president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, will be the speaker at a suffrage meeting at the Friends' First Day School in Camden on the evening of April 24.

The De Hart Equal Suffrage League will hold a meeting on Friday, April 17, at 8 p. m. in the Masonic Lodge rooms on Pacific avenue, corner of Maple street, in the Lafayette section of Jersey City. Mrs. George G. Scott, of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, will tell "Why Working Women Need the Vote." Miss Oschrin will give a monologue.

The National American Woman Suffrage Association will hold a campaign rally for the benefit of the Seven Campaign States and New Jersey at the Y. M. C. A. Hall in Paterson on Saturday, April 18th, 8 p. m. The speakers will be Mrs. Desha Breckinridge, Mrs. Stanley McCormick, Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett, Mrs. Edward F. Feickert, Mr. and Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw and George Creel, of Denver. The seats are on sale at room 604 Colt building and the Y. M. C. A. in Paterson. Miss Jennie Pierce, 385 Ellison street, Paterson, receives mail orders. The De Hart League, of Jersey City, will send a delegation to this rally. This rally will be preceded by a conference of Passaic county suffrage workers to be held in the headquarters of Paterson Equal Suffrage League. The Board of Education of Paterson refused an offer from the Suffrage League of prizes for the best essays on Woman Suffrage by pupils in the grammar grades of the public schools; the chief reason given for this refusal was that politics should not be brought into school work.

The league will open a store on one of Paterson's principal streets one week preceding May 2, in which they will sell suffrage literature, candy, crackers and pencils. The Voiceless speech will be at work and there will be Rainbow flyers for free distribution. On May second there will be an outdoor celebration, near the City Hall.

VINCENT ASTOR ILL.

Suffering From Acute Congestion of Lungs at Country Home.

New York, April 15.—That Mr. Vincent Astor has acute congestion of one lung and slight congestion of the other and is in a very critical condition at the country home of Mr. and Mrs Robert P. Huntington, parents of Miss Helen Huntington, his fiancee, was announced by William A. Dobbyn, his secretary. Mr. Astor and Miss Huntington were to be married April 30, but this may be prevented by the serious illness of Mr. Astor.

Mr. Huntington said that physicians still regarded his condition as serious, although there was such a marked improvement that they hoped the crisis had been passed.

He added that it might be necessary to postpone the wedding, but said they were hoping for the best.

The Huntington place is at Staatsburg, N. Y., near the Astor country home at Rhinebeck. Mr. Astor will remain there until he recovers. In addition to local physicians two physicians from New York were summoned.

Weather Forecast.

Rain today, colder at night in the interior; tomorrow, rain, with increasing east to northeast winds.

The STORY of WAITSTILL BAXTER

Copyright, 1913, by Kate Douglas Wiggin

BY KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN

Author of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm"

PROLOGUE.

Strength and interest of quiet lives in the New England of three-quarters of a century ago provide the framework of "The Story of Waitstill Baxter." That is the skeleton. The flesh and blood of human beings, living and loving and moving in a world of their own that is a miniature picture of the greater world outside, are also there. The story is a cross section of life as seen and described by a woman who has been well called "America's greatest living woman novelist."

Amid the hills of New England are many men and women like Waitstill and Patience Baxter and their father, Ivory Boynton and his afflicted mother and funny Cephas Cole, who woos hopefully, but with small chance of success. They find their way into books but seldom, for it takes a master hand to describe faithfully the doings of real people. And that is the reason why "The Story of Waitstill Baxter" has won highest praise from critics who know a good book when they see one.

CHAPTER I.

The Sisters.

FAR, far up in the bosom of New Hampshire's granite hills the Saco has its birth. As the mountain rill gathers strength it takes

Through Bartlett's vales its tuneful way,
Or hides in Conway's fragrant brakes
Retreating from the glare of day

Now it leaves the mountains and flows through "green Fryeburg's woods and farms." In the course of its frequent turns and twists and bends it meets with many another stream and sends it, fuller and stronger, along its rejoicing way. When it has journeyed more than 100 miles and is nearing the ocean it greets the Great Ossipee river and accepts its crystal tribute. Then in its turn the Little Ossipee joins forces and the river, now a splendid stream, flows onward to Bonny Eagle, to Moderation and to Salmon falls, where it dashes over the dam like a young Niagara and hurtles in a foamy torrent through the ragged defile cut between lofty banks of solid rock.

Widening out placidly for a moment's rest in the sunny reaches near Pleasant point it gathers itself for a new plunge at Union falls, after which it speedily merges itself in the bay and is fresh water no more.

The river has seen strange sights in its time, though the history of these two tiny villages is quite unknown to the great world outside. They have been born, waxed strong and fallen almost to decay while Saco water has tumbled over the rocks and spent itself in its impetuous journey to the sea.

It remembers the yellow moccasined Sokokis as they issued from the Indian Cellar and carried their birchen canoes along the wooded shore. It was in those years that the silver skinned salmon leaped in its crystal depths, the otter and the beaver crept with sleek wet skins upon its shore and the brown deer came down to quench his thirst at its brink, while at twilight the stealthy forms of bear and panther and wolf were mirrored in its glassy surface.

Time sped. Men chained the river's turbulent forces and ordered it to grind at the mill. Then houses and barns appeared along its banks, bridges were built, orchards planted, forests changed into farms, white painted meeting houses gleamed through the trees, and distant bells rang from their steeples on quiet Sunday mornings.

All at once myriads of great hewn logs vexed its downward course, slender logs linked together in long rafts and huge logs drifting down singly or in pairs. Men appeared, running hither and thither like ants and going through mysterious operations the reason for which the river could never guess. But the mill wheels turned, the great saws buzzed, the smoke from tavern chimneys rose in the air, and the rattle and clatter of stagecoaches resounded along the road.

Now children paddled with bare feet in the river's sandy coves and shallows, and lovers sat on its alder shaded banks and exchanged their vows just where the shuffling bear was wont to come down and drink.

The Saco could remember the "cold year," when there was a black frost every month of the twelve, and, though almost all the corn along its shores shriveled on the stalk, there were two farms where the vapor from the river saved the crops, and all the seed for the next season came from the favored spot, to be known as "Egypt" from that day henceforward.

Strange, complex things now began to happen, and the river played its own part in some of these, for there were disastrous freshets, the sudden breaking up of great jams of logs and the drowning of men who were engulfed in the dark whirlpool below the rapids.

Caravans, with menageries of wild beasts, crossed the bridge now every year. An infuriated elephant lifted the side of the old Edgewood tavern barn, and the wild laughter of the roistering rum drinkers who were tantalizing the animals floated down to the river's edge. The roar of a lion, tearing and chewing the arm of one of the bystanders, and the cheers of the throng when a plucky captain of the local militia thrust a stake down the beast's throat—these sounds displaced the former warwhoop of the Indians and the ring of the ax in the virgin forests along the shores.

There were days and moonlight nights, too, when strange sights and sounds of quite another nature could have been noted by the river as it flowed under the bridge that united the two little villages.

Issuing from the door of the Riverboro townhouse and winding down the hill through the long row of teams and carriages that lined the roadside, came a procession of singing men and singing women. Convinced of sin, but entranced with promised pardon, spiritually intoxicated by the glowing eloquence of the latter day prophet they were worshiping, the band of "Cochranites" marched down the dusty road and across the bridge, dancing, swaying, waving handkerchiefs and shouting hosannas.

God watched and listened, knowing that there would be other prophets, true and false, in the days to come, and other processions following them. And the river watched and listened, too, as it hurried on toward the sea with its story of the present that was some time to be the history of the past.

When Jacob Cochrane was leading his overwrought, ecstatic band across the river, Waitstill Baxter, then a child was watching the strange, noisy company from the window of a little brick dwelling on the top of the Town House hill.

Her stepmother stood beside her with a young baby in her arms, but when she saw what held the gaze of the child she drew her away, saying, "We mustn't look, Waitstill; your father don't like it."

"Who was the big man at the head, mother?"

"His name is Jacob Cochrane, but you mustn't think or talk about him. He is very wicked."

"He doesn't look any wickeder than the others," said the child. "Who was the man that fell down in the road, mother, and the woman that knelt and prayed over him? Why did he fall, and why did she pray, mother?"

"That was Master Aaron Boynton, the schoolmaster, and his wife. He only made believe to fall down, as the Cochranites do; the way they carry on is a disgrace to the village, and that's the reason your father won't let us look at them."

"I played with a nice boy over to Boynton's," mused the child.

"That was Ivory, their only child. He is a good little fellow, but his mother and father will spoil him with their crazy ways."

"I hope nothing will happen to him, for I love him," said the child gravely. "He showed me a humming bird's nest, the first I ever saw, and the littlest!"

"Don't talk about loving him," chided the woman. "If your father should hear you he'd send you to bed without your porridge."

"Father couldn't hear me, for I never speak when he's at home," said grave little Waitstill. "And I'm used to going to bed without my porridge."

* * * * * * *

The river was still running under the bridge, but the current of time had swept Jacob Cochrane out of sight, though not out of mind, for he had left here and there a disciple to preach his strange and uncertain doctrine. Waitstill, the child who never spoke in her father's presence, was a young woman now, the mistress of the house; the stepmother was dead and the baby a girl of seventeen.

The brick cottage on the hilltop had grown only a little shabbier. Deacon Foxwell Baxter still slammed its door behind him every morning at 7 o'clock and, without any such cheerful conventions as goodbys to his girls, walked down to the bridge to open his store.

The day, properly speaking, had opened when Waitstill and Patience had left their beds at dawn, built the fire, fed the hens and turkeys and prepared the breakfast, while the deacon was graining the horse and milking the cows. Such minor "chores" as carrying water from the well, splitting kindling, chopping pine or bringing wood into the kitchen were left to Waitstill, who had a strong back or if she had not had never been unwise enough to mention the fact in her father's presence. The almanac day, however, which opened with sunrise, had nothing to do with the real human day, which always began when Mr. Baxter slammed the door behind him and reached its high noon of delight when he disappeared from view.

"He's opening the store shutters!" chanted Patience from the heights of a kitchen chair by the window. "Now he's taken his cane and beaten off the Boynton puppy that was sitting on the steps as usual. I don't mean Ivory's dog" (here the girl gave a quick glance at her sister), "but Rodman's little yellow cur. Rodman must have come down to the bridge on some errand for Ivory. Isn't it odd when that dog has all the other store steps to sit upon he should choose father's when every bone in his body must tell him how father hates him and the whole Boynton family?"

"Father has no real cause that I ever heard of. But some dogs never know when they've had enough beating nor some people either," said Waitstill, speaking from the pantry.

"Don't be gloomy when it's my birthday, sis. Now he's opened the door and kicked the cat. All is ready for business at the Baxter store."

"I wish you weren't quite so free with your tongue, Patty."

"Somebody must talk," retorted the girl, jumping down from the chair and shaking back her mop of red gold curls. "I'll put this hateful, childish, round comb in and out just once more, then it will disappear forever. This very afternoon up goes my hair!"

"You know it will be of no use unless you braid it very plainly and neatly. Father will take notice and make you smooth it down."

"Father hasn't looked me square in the face for years, besides my hair won't braid and nothing can make it quite plain and neat, thank goodness! Let us be thankful for small mercies, as Jed Morrill said when the lightning struck his mother-in-law and skipped his wife."

"Patty, I will not permit you to repeat those tavern stories, they are not seemly on the lips of a girl!" And Waitstill came out of the pantry with a shadow of disapproval in her eyes and in her voice.

Patty flung her arms around her sister tempestuously and pulled out the waves of her hair so that it softened her face. "I'll be good," she said, "and oh, Waity, let's invent some sort of cheap happiness for today! I shall never be seventeen again and we have so many troubles. Let's put one of the cows in the horse's stall and see what will happen! Or let's spread up our beds with the head at the foot and put the chest of drawers on the other side of the room, or let's make candy! Do you think father would miss the molasses if we only use a cupful? Couldn't we strain the milk, but leave the churning and the dishes for an hour or two, just once? If you say 'yes' I can think of something wonderful to do!"

"He's opening the store shutters."

"What is it?" asked Waitstill, relenting at the sight of the girl's eager, roguish face.

"Pierce my ears!" cried Patty. "Say you will!"

"Oh! Patty, Patty, I am afraid you are given over to vanity! I daren't let you wear eardrops without father's permission."

"Why not? Lots of church members wear them, so it can't be a mortal sin. Father is against all adornments, but that's because he doesn't want to buy them. You've always said I should have your mother's coral pendants when I was old enough. Here I am, seventeen today, and Dr. Perry says I am already a well favored young woman. I can pull my hair over my ears for a few days, and when the holes are all made and healed even father cannot make me fill them up again. Besides, I'll never wear the earrings at home!"

"Oh, my dear, my dear!" sighed Waitstill, with a half sob in her voice. "If only I was wise enough to know how we could keep from these little deceits, yet have any liberty or comfort in life!"

"We can't! The Lord couldn't expect us to bear all we bear," exclaimed Patty, "without our trying once in a while to have a good time in our own way. We never do a thing that we are

"We can't! The Lord couldn't expect us to bear all that we bear."

ashamed of or that other girls don't do every day in the week; only our pleasures always have to be taken behind father's back. It's only me that's ever wrong, anyway, for you are always an angel. It's a burning shame, and you only twenty-one yourself. I'll pierce your ears if you say so and let you wear your own coral drops!"

"No, Patty! I've outgrown those longings years ago. When your mother died and left father and you and the house to me my girlhood died, too, though I was only fourteen."

"It was only your inside girlhood that died," insisted Patty stoutly. "The outside is as fresh as the paint on Uncle Barty's new ell. You've got the loveliest eyes and hair in Riverboro, and you know it; besides, Ivory Boynton would tell you so if you didn't. Come and bore my ears, there's a darling!"

"Ivory Boynton never speaks a word of my looks, nor a word that father and all the world mightn't hear." And Waitstill flushed.

"Then it's because he's shy and silent and has so many troubles of his own that he doesn't dare say anything. When my hair is once up and the coral pendants are swinging in my ears I shall expect to hear something about my looks, I can tell you. Waity, after all, though we never have what we want to eat and never a decent dress to our backs, nor a young man to cross the threshold, I wouldn't change places with Ivory Boynton, would you?" Here Patty swept the hearth vigorously with a turkey wing and added a few corncobs to the fire.

Waitstill paused a moment in her task of bread kneading. "Well," she answered critically, "at least we know where our father is."

"We do indeed. We also know that he is thoroughly alive."

"And, though people do talk about him, they can't say the things they say of Master Aaron Boynton. I don't believe father would ever run away and desert us."

"I fear not," said Patty. "I wish the angels would put the idea into his head, though, of course, it wouldn't be the angels. They'd be above it. It would have to be the 'old driver,' as Jed Morrill calls the evil one. But whoever did it the result would be the same—we should be deserted and live happily ever after. Oh, to be deserted and left with you alone on this hilltop, what joy it would be!"

RECREATION PARK FOR SCOUTCRAFT

Six Acre Tract of Land Donated for a Central Headquarters for Troops.

PLAN DEPARTMENTS

Many Big Features will be Added to the Present Scope of Work—Center Made Possible by John King—Activities Among Various Patrols.

Through the generosity of John King, who owns part of the Quinn tract and controls the remainder at the end of Prospect avenue just over the city line, a six acre recreation center for all the Boy Scout troops of Plainfield has been provided. During the summer months this tract will be laid out as the Plainfield Boy Scout headquarters. It will be marked off into scout "farms" for the agricultural division of the scout movement, into an engineering department for the surveying and craftsmanship squads, a log cabin will be constructed by the engineering division in which to house the wireless telegraph equipment and sixty foot aerials will be erected by the boys from which the antennae will be stretched for an equipment sufficiently powerful to cover a great many miles.

The tract is entirely isolated from habitations, to all intents and purposes. It is a deeply wooded, dry piece of ground, ravined and offers all the advantages that the scout officials of the city could hope for as a means of furthering the scout activities this summer. Funds, however, are needed with which to purchase some equipment, and especially for a workable field wireless set which will cost about $70. This field set will be for the use of all the Boy Scouts in the city and if there are persons in Plainfield sufficiently interested in the vocational guidance of the boys of this city to contribute toward the acquisition of this needed equipment, gifts will be received and acknowledged if sent to Deputy Commissioner A. V. Searing, Jr., 23 5East Sixth street.

Announcement is also made that Lion Patrol, of Troop No. 7, the colored branch of the local Boy Scout movement, Joseph Garner, Scoutmaster, was the winner of the anti-tuberculosis literature distributing campaign on Washington's Birthday. The award had been made to Raven Patrol of Troop 5, but a revision of the scores turned in by the patrol leaders by the court of honor at its last meeting, showed that Lion Patrol made the best record with a score of .05 minutes per circular distributed with Beaver Patrol, Troop 5, next with a score of .06. Nearly all the other records were close, Stag Patrol of Troop 11, A. E. Sprowl, Scoutmaster, and Ravens of Troop 5 being awarded honorary mention for closeness of score and general efficiency.

At the meeing of Troop 5 at the First Presbyterian church, Tuesday night, the baseball scores for all the big league games were received by the boys in session over the wireless telegraph now regularly used as part of the scout work of that troop.

All the Boy Scout troops in Plainfield are invited to attend the union scout meeting on Tuesday evening, April 28, at the winter scout headquarters, chapel of the First Presbyterian church, at which time the rules and regulations for participation in the summer scout recreation center will be announced. The anti-tuberculosis pennant also will be awarded to Lion Patrol. An exhibition of Red Cross work and pyramid building will be given at that time. Baseball scores of the day will be flashed into the meeting by the Boy Scout wireless.

Raven Patrol, the Musician's Patrol and part of Champion Wolf Patrol will take part in an entertainment to be given some time this month for the benefit of the new Sunday-school building fund of the First Presbyterian church. Raven Patrol will have a special sketch to present, but the offering of Wolf Patrol is being kept a profound secret. A silver offering will be taken.

Eighteen merit badge examinations have been passed on and approved by the court of honor for Plainfield scouts. The honor men are Fourth Assistant Scoutmaster W. W. Thompson, of Troop 56; Thomas P. Fitch, leader Ravens; Charles E. Rice, leaded Eagles of Troop 5; Colin Millard, Eagle 5, and Alfred T. Seal, Troop 9. As soon as the registration of the court of honor has been affected the honor men may make application for their badges. The members of the court of honor are Commissioner Allen E. Beals, Deputy Commissioner A. V. Searing, Jr., A. E. Sproul, scoutmaster, Troop 11, secretary; Third Assistant Scoutmaster E. W. Pioneer; Fourth Assistant Scoutmaster W. W. Thompson; Charles R.

WILL DISCUSS PUBLIC SCHOOL QUESTION

Federation of Men's Church Clubs Plan for a Big Gathering.

Under the auspices of the Federation of Men's Church Clubs of the city and borough, a social and entertainment will be given in the parish house of Grace church Tuesday night, April 28, at 8:15 o'clock and all members of these clubs are invited. The quartet from Grace church choir will sing a number of selections and the Dutch Arms Band of Trinity Reformed church will play.

In addition, Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of public schools, will make an informal address on the public schools of Plainfield, following which there will be an open discussion of the subject, in which all present will have an opportunity to give their opinions regarding the school system in this city.

Following the musical program and open parliament, refreshments consisting of sandwiches and coffee will be served by the committee in charge. This will be the first meeting of this kind arranged by the federation and it is hoped that it will be a success.

DISCUSS QUESTION OF PERMANENT PAVE

Councilmanic Street Committee Confers With Experts on Road Work.

The Councilmanic street committee wishing to secure all the information possible regarding street improvements held a conference last night at which Mayor Percy H. Stewart, State Supervisor of Roads R. A. Meeker, Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, of this city, and Street Commissioner Clark, of Westfield, were present. Permanent street and road improvements were discussed at length, pavements and macadam being the principal question considered.

The street is convinced that something should be done toward laying a permanent pavement, so that a great deal of annual expense for repairs can be eliminated. Commissioner Clark explained the method employed in Westfield, that of laying the pavement from curb to curb with a concrete gutter, property-owners sharing in the expense.

Mr. Meeker gave the committee the benefit of his experience in State road work, explaining the various preparations used and telling of the success and failure of different pavements used. He offered a number of valuable suggestions which should aid the committee very much. While the committee has not actually decided to use what is known as the "Dollar-Way" pavement, until further investigation is made, a pavement similar to it will be used. The idea is, as stated in the Daily Press a few days ago, to issue bonds covering a period of ten years, lay a permanent pavement, dividing the expense with property-owners and allowing the latter ten years to pay for the same.

The committee is agreed that it is useless to appropriate large sums each year for only temporary repairs on streets, believing that it is a pure waste of money. For that reason it has been decided to adopt a plan whereby permanent pavements can be laid, the kind that will stand hard wear for several years. The idea of contracting the work out has also received favorable consideration and will be probably be tried as an economic measure.

ANNUAL MEETING POSTPONED.

The annual meeting of Trinity Reformed church, which was scheduled to have been held last evening, was postponed owing to the inclement weather. The meeting will be held next Wednesday evening, at which time officers will be elected.

MISSIONARY MEETING.

The monthly meeting of the Missionary and Aid Society, of Warren chapel, will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock to plan for the annual picnic to be held in June. A full attendance is desired. The executive committee meeting will be omitted.

WELLSELEY GRADUATES TO GIVE BENEFIT

"Les Miserables" Will Be Presented in Motion Pictures at Plainfield Theatre.

Wellesley College suffered the largest loss by fire in its history on March 17 last, the total aggregating a million dollars. The fire occured in the night and the two hundred and fifty inmates distinguished themselves by their coolness and bravery by walking out of the burning building as if it were an every day fire drill. As a result of the loss, Wellesley graduates all over the country are rallying to the support of the college.

The twenty-five graduates in Plainfield were among the first to respond. Before the ruins were cold they issued a call for a meeting at the home of Miss Harriet Goddard, where it was resolved to give an entertainment for the benefit of the college. As a result the Plainfield Theatre has been taken for Friday and Saturday, April 24 and 25, for the presentation of the world's most famous motion picture, Hugos "Les Miserables." There will be a matinee both days.

The help of the Wellesley graduates from Bound Brook to Elizabeth has been secured. The graduates living in Plainfield are the following: Mrs. E. J. Paterson, Miss Tessie Munger, Mrs. A. B. Meredith, the Misses Miller, the Misses Goddard, Miss Eva Brown, Miss Helen Browne, Mrs. William H. Murray, Mrs. Charles L. Goodrich, Mrs. J. S. Zelie, Mrs. Maxon, Miss S. L. Bass, Miss Katherine Ball, Miss Louise Curtis, Mrs. Warren, Miss Maybelle Phillips, Miss Langhorne, Miss de Zerega, Miss H. Besler, Miss E. Wells, Miss H. Joy and Mrs. Albert Kennelly, who has recently moved to Cranford.

DECISION WAS NOT FINAL IN CARNEY CASE

Vice Chancellor Backes Will Read Briefs Before Final Settlement of Estate.

Through a misunderstanding of the story as reported by persons present at the hearing, the Daily Press last night stated that Vice Chancellor Backes had sustained every contention made by William A. Coddington in the Carney will case, and had affirmed the appointment of Jacob Shurts, of Somerville, as made by Judge Beekman as the administrator of the estate. Mr. Angleman did not lose the appeal, neither did he win it. Instead the Vice Chancellor reserved final decision in the matter, and pending that decision renamed Mr. Shurts to conduct the estate, pending the filing of briefs by W. A. Coddington and Mr. Angleman. Mr. Shurts was also directed not to sell the assets without notice to the court and Mr. Angleman.

In speaking about the matter this morning Mr. Angleman said:

"The Court reserved decision on the Carney appeal and asked for briefs. In order to have some one to look after the interests of the estate pending the decision and especially to settle the loss to the estate by the recent fire the Court appointed Jacob Shurts as temporary administrator pending the decision, but directed that there was to be no sale of the assets without notice to me and an order from the court."

MASQUE BALL TO BE GIVEN AT PARK CLUB

Arrangements are complete for the masque dance to be given at the Park Club, Friday night, under the same committee that had charge of the New Year's Eve dance. No invitations have been issued for the affair, and the same arrangements that prevailed at the mid-winter dance will be adopted. The music for the dance will be furnished by Brooks and Denton and will include a company of colored musicians.

The dancers will remain masked until 12 o'clock. Supper will be served almost continuously during the evening. The committee in charge comprises J. Hartley Mellick, chairman; W. P. Smith, Jr., A. W. Andrews, Donald A. McGee and C. Ames Brooks.

INCREASE LICENSE FEE.

The license fee of William J. Simmonds, of East Millstone, was increased at the opening session of the Somerset County Court, at Somerville, on Tuesday, from $150 to $225, it being explained that the town had formerly contained two hotels, one of which has since ceased business, thus warranting the court in increasing the fee.

CHRIST CHURCH IS DISBANDED

Classis of Newark Votes to Sever All Fellowship and Relation.

ORDERS DISREGARDED

Rev. Percival H. Barker Permitted to Remain as Pastor After Forbidden to Do so—Church May Appeal.

The Classis of Newark at a special meeting in the Reformed church at Montclair Heights, yesterday, voted to disband Christ Reformed church, of Newark, and sever it from all fellowship and relation with the Reformed church in America. This action was taken following the report of the special committee of which Rev. J. Y. Broek, of Trinity Reformed church, this city, is chairman, in which such a step was recommended.

The report of the committee set forth that the consistory and church of Christ Reformed church have been and are guilty of continued and wilful insubordination to the demands of the Classis and the constitution of the Reformed Church in America in the matter of permitting Percival H. Barker to occupy the pulpit of the church, after having been forbidden to do so by action of the Classis.

The committee incorporated in its report a copy of the resolution adopted by the Presbytery of Neosho, Kansas, on January 20 last, which is as follows:

"Resolved That we, the Presbytery of Neosho express our disapproval of the conduct of the Rev. Percival H. Barker in his treatment of the sentence of suspension imposed upon him by us, said suspension to run for one year from January 14, 1913, and that we do now depose the said Rev. Percival H. Barker from the ministry of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A., in acordance with the provisions of the Book of Discipline, chapter (5), section (10)."

The special committee then presented these resolutions which were adopted:

"Therefore be it resolved, that the Classis of Newark hereby disbands Christ Reformed church, of Newark, for continued and wilful insubordination to the demands of Classis and the constitution of the Reformed Church in America, in the matter of Percival H. Barker as herein before recited.

"Resolved, That the clerk of the Classis be hereby instructed to remove the name of the church and representative elder from the roll of the Classis, and to notify the consistory and congregation of Christ Reformed church of this action.

"Resolved, That the clerk of the Classis notify the Board of Domestic Missions, of the Reformed Church in America, that Christ Reformed church has been disbanded and request said board to take the necessary legal steps to secure to the denomination its rights in the property of Christ Reformed church."

Christ Reformed church has the right of appeal from this action to the Particular Synod of New Brunswick and then to the General Synod, but it is the belief that in view of the facts in the case and the action taken yesterday by the Classis of Newark that the higher church bodies will not reverse the decision.

Rev. J. Y. Broek and Elder H. E. Gayle represented Trinity Reformed church at yesterday's meeting, while Horace J. Martin represented the Netherwood Reformed church, Rev. George Hauser and Philip Giese the German Reformed church, and Rev. J. Tucker Lansdale and William Neidlinger Marconnier Reformed church.

PROMINENT DEMOCRATS WILL ATTEND CLUB DANCE

The first ball and reception of the Jefferson Democratic Club will be held in Sebring's Auditorium this evening, and judging from the response it promises to be very alrgely attended. It is expected that a number of prominent Democrats from Elizabeth and other parts of the county will also be present. The music for the dancing will be furnished by Halbfoster's Tango Band, of Elizabeth, and bag-pipers, which will be a feature.

During the evening there will be a prize waltz, the winner to receive a gold piece. Richard Scott is chairman of the committee in charge of the dance, and the officers of the club will assist.

FUNERAL OF F. FLANNERY.

The funeral of the late Francis Flannery, of Scotch Plains, was held yesterday afternoon from the home of his sister, Mrs. George H. Johnston, of Westfield avenue. Rev. Charles M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, this city, officiated. Interment was made at Hillside cemetery.

ALLEGES ASSAILANT WAS INTOXICATED

John Rafferty's Story of the Assault at Lincoln Tuesday Night.

According to a story related to a Daily Press reporter this morning by John Rafferty, the young man who was attacked by Clifford Brokaw in Lincoln, Tuesday night, the assailant's action was without provocation and Rafferty was taken completely unawares. He claims that Brokaw attacked him while coming out of a store near Lincoln and that the pistol shots were fired without words or warning of any kind.

Rafferty alleges that Brokaw fired four shots at him and one into the air, but none of the bullets took effect. He claims that a couple of the leaden missles passed close enough to his ears so as to enable him to hear them "whiz" by. Information received from the New Brunswick police yesterday was to the effect that the fight followed a brawl in a Lincoln roadhouse, but this, Rafferty claims is incorrect, further stating that he has never been inside of a roadhouse or saloon. Rafferty alleges that his assailant was intoxicated.

Residents of Lincoln who live in the vicinity of Brokaw's home claim that he is mentally deficient and has a mania for shooting. He is an excellent target shot and had it not been for his unsteady aim some one of the shots taken at young Rafferty would have probably proven fatal. The assailant is now a prisoner in the New Brunswick jail and will be held for the Middlesex county Grand Jury on a charge of atrocious assault and battery with intent to kill.

SOCIETY ATTENDS CHARMING RECEPTION

Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers and Mrs. W. M. Stillman Entertain at Park Club.

One of the most brilliant and charming social functions of the early spring is the reception and musicale being given at the Park Club this afternoon, by Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers and Mrs. William M. Stillman, of this city, for a large number of friends. The clubhouse never looked more attractive in its elaborate floral decorations, the flowers coming from the conservatories of Charles W. McCutchen. They comprised lilies, azaleas, roses, palms, etc., all banked on the stage, while there was also pleasing decorations about the auditorium. The arrangement was made by Hugo Klotz, who has charge of Mr. McCutchen's conservatories, and was the admiration of all present.

One of the many delightful features of the afternoon will be the appearance of Mrs. Minnie Marshall-Smith, who will give readings with music accompaniment, Frank J. Smith being at the piano. Mrs. Smith is a favorite among Plainfielders, as is also her husband, who was a former organist at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Myers and Mrs. Stillman will be assisted by the following well-known society women of the city and borough: Mrs. Frederick Goodhue Mead, Mrs. Francis de Lacey Hyde, Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman, Miss Weber, Mrs. Chapman Fisk, Mrs. J. M. Charles, Mrs. Abbott Winter, Miss Tweedy, Mrs. Augustus V. Heely, Mrs. D. G. Atwood, Mrs. Allen Cowperthwait, Mrs. James R. Joy, Mrs. Edward H. Ladd, Jr., Mrs. Henry C. Irons, Mrs. Henry D. Hibbard, Mrs. Martin I. Cooley, Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mrs. Eugene H. Hatch, Mrs. James R. Blake, of this city and borough; Mrs. Benjamin A. Hegeman, Jr., Baroness Podmaniczky and Mrs. William E. Lowe, of New York city.

These young women will also assist: The Misses Margaret Mead, Frederica Mead, Ellen Burke, Harriet Goddard, Margaret McCutchen, Barbara Fleming, Helen Joy, Elizabeth McGee, Eva Browne, VanVliet, Dorothy Fisk and Helen Hyde.

WILL ADMITTED TO PROBATE.

The will of the late John H. Kitchen, former proprietor of the Hotel Kensington on North avenue, was offered for probate in Elizabeth yesterday. William Kitchen, a son, who manages the hotel in this city, is made sole heir and executor. William G. DeMeza, of this city, is the attorney.

INITIAL DANCE AT ELKS CLUB.

The first formal dance in the Elks' new clubhouse on Watchung avenue will be given by Plainfield lodge tonight. Card playing and refreshments will be included. The affair is by invitation only and is limited to the members of the order and their women friends.

REFORMATORY WILL TAKE GARDNER CASE

Young Man Held a Prisoner at Police Headquarters to Be Taken to Rahway.

Ruttledge Gardner, aged twenty-three years, a newspaper reporter, who is held a prisoner in the local police headquarters under suspicion of having been implicated in the burglarizing of several houses in the residential section of this city, will probably be turned over to the authorities of the New Jersey Reformatory at Rahway tomorrow morning.

Since his apprehension by Chief Kiely, Gardner has related several different stories to the police and as a result a number of the crimes for which he has never been prosecuted have been revealed. Efforts to fix some blame for the robberies in this city on him, however, have proven futile and he will be taken to Rahway tomorrow, where he is wanted for breaking parole from the State Reformatory.

COMMITTEES FOR HOSPITAL DANCE

Men and Women Prominent in Charity and Social Work Will Have Charge.

So that the men who attend the dance to be given under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary of Muhlenberg Hospital, April 24, at Columbus Hall, may have a comfortable place to smoke, the Columbus Club has thrown open the entire lower floor of the club building. The various committees whose membership is announced today for the first time are not leaving a thing undone which will make for the ecomfort of the hundreds whom they expect to be present at the affair.

Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Jr., has charge of the hall and music, and has engaged Muellers orchestra as the latter attraction. Mrs. Charles A. Reed is chairman of the ticket committee and all of the members of the auxiliary are assisting her, while the advertising is being looked after by Mrs. R Story Rowland, Mrs. Walter L. Righter and Mrs. Frederick W. Goddard. The floor committee will consist of Mrs. Henry C. Irons, chairman; Mrs. J. C. Gilbert, Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Jr., Mrs. C. D. Borrowe, E. H. Ladd, Jr., S. D. Lounsbery, J. Hartley Mellick, R. S. Rowland, Walter L. Righter, A. L. Otterson, George L. Babcock and Thomas M. Day.

The refreshments, which will not be included in the price of the admission ticket will be sold by a committee of which Mrs. C. E. Lipscomb is the chairman, and she will be assisted by Miss S. R. DuBois, Mrs. Sherman B. Joost, Mrs. J. Hartley Mellick and Mrs. J. Whitney Baker, and a subcommittee in charge of the lemonade will be as follows: Miss Juliet Weber, Mrs. William M. Wherry, Jr., Mrs. Frank C. Ard, Mrs. C. B. Tyler and Mrs. T. M. Day. Mrs. Isaac Schwed will take charge of the sale of cigarettes and cigars

The dance will be a community affair, and every one will be welcomed. Tickets can be secured from any of the women on the various committees.

MANY AMUSING SITUATIONS IN COMEDY CLUB SHOW

The Comedy Club of Plainfield will present "The Arrival of Kitty" in the Plainfield theatre on Thursday and Friday evenings, April 30, and May 1. It is said to be by far the most laugh-provoking play the club has yet given, alive with wit and abounding in amusing situations. Those few persons outside the cast who have watched even the early rehearsals have been kept laughing throughout; perhaps especially at Donald A. McGee in the part of the colored waiter-porter, and Roswell G. Rolston as college student bell-boy of the Halcyon House. The others in the cast are Miss Elizabeth McGee, Miss Eva G. Brown, Mrs. A. M. Abbott, Miss Monica Sharretts, Brown Rolston, Fred Goddard and A. M. Abbott.

"The Arrival of Kitty" was never before produced by amateurs. It has only just been taken off the road after a long series of successful performances. In fact it was only through unusual good luck that the Comedy Club not only heard of the possibility of giving it but were able to get its author, Norman Swartout, to act as director.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 38 degrees; 11 a. m., 40 degrees; 1 p. m., 42 degrees.

ENLARGE STAFF OF MUHLENBERG

Neighboring Physicians Are Made Auxiliary Members of Board.

INCREASED PATRONAGE

New Equipment Attracts Patients from Nearby Towns—Building Committee Reports Settlement of Payments.

The fact that the by-laws governing Muhlenberg Hospital were changed to provide a broader scope of usefulness for the hospital activities was discussed at the meeting of the Board of Governors at its meeting this week. By this change it was made possible for physicians in the nieghboring communities to become associated with the hospital by appointment to the auxiliary staff.

The building committee reported the final completion and settlement of payments on all the new work undertaken at the hospital, and the board was much gratified at the thorough, careful and painstaking way in which the building committee had done its work. The responsibility was great and the details of construction were tremendously burdensome, and the way in which the building committee handled the mass of work that devolved upon them deserves the commendation and gratitude, not only of the Board of Governors, but of every citizen of Plainfield who ought to have pride in seeing work undertaken by its institutions well done.

The hospital authorities, in building the new buildings, felt that they were building for the future, but the way that the rooms in this building are now being used, it would seem that in the course of a year or so the present facilities will not be large enough to accommodate those who desire to use them.

J. M. Smith, who has been appointed superintendent to succeed Mr. Harrison, has entered on the duties of his office. Mr. Smith is qualified for the position by a long hospital experience. He was connected with the Jefferson Hospital of Philadelphia, a very large institution, as assistant steward and steward and later as superintendent of the Columbus, Ohio, hospital.

Having completed this work the Board of Governors is now contemplating the carrying out of the improvements that have been contemplated for some time in the old administration building. These improvements contemplate the making of the building more secure against fire, the construction of a children's ward, the improvement and repairing of the conditions in the general wards, the bettering and enlarging of the kitchen facilities, and the putting of the rooms used for the clinics into a good condition of repair. It is the desire of the board to proceed with this new work as rapidly as circumstances will permit.

R. F. R. HUNTSMAN ELECTED OFFICER OF SPHINX CLUB

The Sphinx Club, New York's famous banquetting organization of advertising wizards, magazine owners, newspaper proprietors and national advertisers, held its annual meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, Tuesday night. R. F. R. Huntsman, of this city, was again elected treasurer and the master of ceremonies of the banquets, an office he has filled for many years.

REVOLVER AND CLOTHING CONFISCATED BY BURGLAR

Andrew Marinnack, of 333 John street, reported to the police this morning that his place had been burglarized sometime during the night. Investigation revealed the fact that entrance had been gained through an outside cellar door that had been left opened.

According to the owner the thief got away with a revolver, two suits of clothes and a quantity of bed clothing. The local police are working on the case but no clue has been found that will lead to the apprehension of the crook.

"Ring Out Wild Bells"

A burrowing statistician would probably find it a difficult task to ascertain the exact number of loving couples who will be united in "holy harmony" during the next two months.

The mating season is upon us, the male of the species sees under every flowery bonnet the face of his "soulmate" and running true to form, he tries to express what bubbles beneath his manly vest in strident cravats and shrieking shirts.

The Rothberg Store is a favorite with the young men who want to know the correct things to wear at the "big event."

They find our selection of "Most Things Men Wear" not only complete but exceedingly reasonable in price.

The Shop for Misses

Quite frequently we hear women say they prefer our misses' wear to that of specialty shops. Why? We are exact about giving the "specialty shop individualism" at Bamberger STORE prices. The difference is only in the outlay, hardly the quality. Well-made clothing, stylish but never over-drawn, moderately, honestly priced—these are rapidly giving our junior and misses' department the rank it deserves.

MISSES' "COUNTRY CLUB" SUITS.
Exclusive With Bamberger's.

Full of candor, these swagger little "sacky" suits of London Tango check—blue, green, tan. Characteristically box plaited coat; patch pocketed skirts. Every line of these brilliant little garments speaks wholesomeness. Other clever adaptations of this piquant style, in shepherd check.

Bamberger's beautiful moire and taffeta trimmed serge suits, $17.98, are strikingly low priced for their quality, style and exclusiveness.

LURE OF MISSES' MILLINERY.

"Precieuse"—French mothers would say of Bamberger types. Clearly the happy medium is reached in these tenderly dainty styles for misses.

THIRD FLOOR, HALSEY STREET.

NEWER COATS AND CAPES.

Among them the "feminized" Balmacaan. Many have been waiting for a modification of this extremely stylish garment. Chic little types of "toned down" Balmacaans, English tweeds and mixtures, yoked front, open seam back, strikingly button trimmed. A departure from Balmacaan severity, but strictly smart. Bamberger's brand-new line from $10.98 upward is sparkling and very low priced for an innovation.

The "Spanish Capa" looms mighty these days. Weeks ago Europe has accepted the charming style with open arms, and America quickly followed suit. Girlish styles, full of flowing lines, in handsome woolen checks, semi-lined with first quality wearing satin. Attractively priced, $22.98 upward.

THIRD FLOOR, MARKET STREET.

THE "NEWER" MISSES' SUITS.

Paquin's copy model of fine French serge, shows the underskirt of Roman stripe. An exquisitely tailored bodice coat has effective garnishings of brilliant Roman silks—collar, girdle. This is a faithful replica of the suit that has created "talk" at the Ritz-Carlton. Reasonably priced—$32.98.

"Mexico is not engaged in controversy with anybody, still less with the great American people.

"The Tampico incident is of no importance.

"This is my reply to your message.

"VICTORIANO HUERTA."

Washington, April 16.—All the big ports of Mexico will be blockaded by the Atlantic fleet if Huerta persists in his refusal to salute the American flag.

President Wilson is determined to take drastic action if Admiral Mayo's demand has not been granted by next Tuesday, when the fleet is due at Tampico.

The blockade will affect both the eastern and western coasts of the southern republic.

The president announced that no drastic action would be taken without consulting congress. Washington officials agree, however, that a blockade and the landing of United States troops could be effected without congressional sanction.

Mr. Wilson outlined the entire situation to the ranking members of the congressional committees on foreign affairs. All gave him the most complete assurance of support.

The president explained that several other serious insults had been offered to the American government and the fact that this government had been singled out by General Huerta caused the order to the fleet.

Eight warships representing the first division of Admiral Badger's fleet sailed from Hampton Roads. The other vessels will follow immediately.

To Blockade Ports.

Washington, April 16.—The powerful Atlantic fleet which sailed for Mexican waters will blockade and seize the ports of Tampico and Vera Cruz unless President Huerta yields to the demands of the United States and offers reparation for the recent insult to the American flag.

This campaign on the eastern coast of Mexico will be supported by the blockading and seizure of all the important ports on the western coast.

This supplementary movement against the western coast was disclosed when it was announced that three cruisers, one transport and two colliers in Pacific waters had been ordered to sail as soon as possible for Mexican ports. These war vessels will carry about 1,000 marines and will re-enforce a fleet of four cruisers and one gunboat already stationed in Mexican waters to the west.

The torpedo flotilla at San Pedro, Cal., also has been ordered to stand ready to sail on short notice.

While the blockading and seizure of the Mexican ports in the event of Huerta's continued refusal to salute the American colors will not in itself constitute a declaration of war, it is almost certain to be followed by open hostilities and will at least mark the beginning of a forceful intervention in the southern republic.

With the disclosure of the real purpose of dispatching this formidable array of fighting vessels to Mexican waters came the authoritative explanation also that the United States is not seeking satisfaction for one insult alone. It was disclosed that a mail orderly from an American battleship off Vera Cruz, wearing a full uniform and bearing a United States mail sack on his back had been arrested and, further, that an official dispatch from the state department to Charge O'Shaughnessy at Mexico City had been held up by a federal telegraph censor.

A high administration authority denied that President Wilson has considered moving troops across the Mexican border or in transports to Mexican gulf ports.

This denial was made in answer to a report said to have come from the senate that the administration would proceed to occupy Mexico regardless of the outcome of the Tampico imbroglio.

Secretary Bryan announced that through the ministers of the United States abroad statements were issued concerning the ordering of the fleet to Tampico and as to the present attitude of the United States toward Mexico.

Squadron Leaves.

Washington, April 16.—The actual beginning of the naval operations designed to enforce the United States demand for a salute to the stars and stripes at Tampico was made when seven warships steamed out of Hampton Roads and headed for the gulf. At the same time orders were being issued to three cruisers, one transport and two colliers to proceed as speedily as possible to the west coast of Mexico and re-enforce the six vessels of the Pacific fleet already there. News of the departure of the first division of the ships of the Atlantic fleet ordered to Mexico was received by Secretary Daniels in a radiogram from Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger, commander in chief of the fleet. Admiral Badger's message follows:

"Secretary of the Navy: Arkansas, Vermont, New Jersey, New Hampshire, Kansas, [illegible] Rio [illegible] pico. The [illegible] non, will follow shortly."

Secretary Daniels expressed gratification at the speed with which the vessels had started on their mission.

The ships ordered to the west coast of Mexico are the armored cruisers Maryland and Cleveland and the Pittsburgh, which will bear a regiment of marines, the transport Buffalo and the colliers Jupiter and Saturn.

The torpedo flotilla of the Pacific fleet, consisting of five destroyers and a tender at San Pedro, was ordered to stand by to sail at the direction of Rear Admiral Thomas B. Howard, commander in chief of the fleet. The flotilla is commanded by Lieutenant Commander Edward H. Dodge.

The ships at ports on the west coast already are: Cruisers California, flagship of Admiral Howard; Raleigh, New Orleans, Yorktown and the gunboat Annapolis and the supply ship Glacier.

O'SHAUGHNESSY AT REVIEW.

American Charge d'Affaires Attends as Guest of Huerta.

Mexico City, April 16.—American Charge d'Affaires and Mrs. O'Shaughnessy were in a party which included President Huerta, Minister of the Interior Alcocer and Minister of Communications Lozano and other government officials on the way to a review of the mounted police at the barracks in this city. All were apparently in the highest spirits. They chatted and joked in very cordial fashion.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy had tea with President Huerta at El Globo restaurant in the evening.

Historical Coincidence.

Washington, April 16.—Historical coincidence was discovered here in that the Atlantic fleet is due to reach Tampico on the sixteenth anniversary of the declaration of war between Spain and the United States on April 21, 1898.

The Spanish war was actually declared by passage of a joint resolution in congress on April 23, but the declaration was antedated to be in effect on April 21, congress declaring that war had existed since the 21st, when President McKinley's ultimatum to Spain was rejected.

It was also noted that the revolutionary war was begun on April 19, the Mexican war on April 24 and the civil war on April 14.

CREW IN PERIL OFF SEABRIGHT

Life Savers Send Lines to Stranded Vessel.

CROWDS RUSH TO SHORE

When Rockets Were Raised Over Roaring Waters Seacoast Villages Were Seething With Excitement—Wealthy Residents Take Up Strange Pursuit of Spectacle In Autos.

Seabright, N. J., April 16.—In the pitch dark desperate attempts were being made to swing to safety on a breeches buoy the crew of a schooner wrecked off here.

With a seventy mile gale and a terrific sea raging the Monmouth Beach life savers managed to shoot a line across the bows of the vessel after many attempts. The East End life savers were standing by.

The schooner, the name of which had not been learned, first struck on the shoals directly off Seabright. Rockets began to rise through the darkness over the roaring waters and instantly the seacoast villages were seething with excitement.

Crowds rushed for the shore. The schooner heaved off the shoal and ground her dangerous way down toward Galilee, with the crowds following along the shore. Some of the wealthy residents took up the strange pursuit of the spectacle in automobiles.

Rockets continued to blaze over the doomed craft. Monmouth Beach and East End boats were battling their way to her when she finally struck and held fast, and the struggle to get a line aboard began.

There was no other way of reaching the vessel, as Captain Green and Captain Van Vrunt of the two crews agreed by signal. Seldom has such a sea lashed the coast, and the small boats of the life savers were dipping deep and springing high as the crews tried to shoot the rescue bolt true to the mark.

The Monmouth crew succeeded first and within a few minutes the line was fast to the schooner.

The schooner is a three master.

BABY THOMPSON A YANKEE.

Custom Laws Suspended to Oblige Patriotic Milwaukee Mother.

Hoboken, N. J., April 16.—Dr. and Mrs. Elmer H. Thompson of Milwaukee, who arrived by the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie, were permitted to leave the pier without the formality of baggage examination because of the anxiety of Mrs. Thompson to have her baby born on American soil.

An ambulance rushed her and her [illegible] troduced to his son. The liner was delayed half a day by bad weather.

4 DEAD AS TRAIN HITS AUTO.

Two Others Injured In Smashup at Crossing In Texas.

Georgetown, Tex., April 16.—Four men were instantly killed and two seriously injured here when a passenger train struck an automobile which attempted to cross the track directly in front of the approaching train.

The party in the auto was returning to the town of Florence, after having spent the evening here. The accident occurred within the city limits.

ABSCONDER GETS FIVE YEARS

Court Regrets Passing Such Heavy Sentence on Former Bank Cashier.

Trenton, N. J., April 16.—J. Frank Best, formerly cashier of the Netcong National bank, was sentenced to five years in the state prison by Judge Haight in the United States district court for misapplying funds of the bank to the extent of $5,000.

Judge Haight expressed regret that under the federal statute, passed in 1864, he was unable to impose a lighter sentence. He promised Best that in the event of continued good behavior while in prison for a period of two years he would recommend to President Wilson the granting of a pardon.

BRIEF STATE NOTES.

Mayor Mark M. Fagan of Jersey City issued a proclamation fixing the two weeks beginning on May 4 as a time for "city house cleaning."

The police are investigating the case of George J. Gard, a barber, of Newark, who was beaten and robbed of $200 in his shop early Tuesday morning.

The state economy and efficiency commission announced that it would resume its investigation of the various departments, commissions and boards.

Gustave Engasser, thirty years old, of West Hoboken, was helping to unload steel rails from a flat car when one of them slipped and fell on him. His skull was crushed, and he died instantly.

The trial of Harry Gordon, William Harms and John O'Leary for the murder of James Hoffman in Hoboken on the night of July 4, 1913, as the result of a gang fued, was begun in the common pleas court in Jersey City.

Adjutant General Sadler appointed a general court martial to convene at the Second Regiment armory in Trenton next Wednesday to try charges preferred against Lieutenant Harry Schneider of Company I, Third infantry, Atlantic City.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color. Gloss and Thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Adv.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We Eat too Much Meat Which Clogs Kidneys, Then the Back Hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble.

MILLIONS FOR FARMERS.

The voting of millions of dollars by Congress to farm extension for the spreading of good farming principles throughout the nation by taking direct to the farmers everywhere the demonstration work now confined to agricultural colleges and work on a small scale in certain States, is the first actually practical step taken by Uncle Sam to really aid the man behind the plow. The idea must be carried to its utmost possibilities. Rural credits and other aids, marked by direction of attention to farm home economics, the rural schools and the rural churches, are following in the great modern non-partisan project in rural betterment.

Heretofore Uncle Sam has been content to teach efficiency without being himself efficient in doing it. His efforts on behalf of farmers has been more or less impractical. These efforts have gone so far and stopped there. Countless pamphlets have been prepared and mailed broadcast under the government frank. These have lacked the punch. The plan has brought farm extension nowhere. Seeds have been mailed to flat-dwellers as well as to farmers and have done one as much good as the other. Unlimited appropriations have been asked and expended on investigations but nothing on demonstrations which take the result of investigations to the farmer for whom they have been conducted.

By voting millions for farm extension by demonstrations direct to the farmers, Congress is speeding the good day when demonstrations by the National and State governments—and even by the counties and cities with their soil directors—will "send home" to every farmer, his neighbor, their wives and their children, the practical teachings of public agricultural colleges departments and surveys. Pamphlets and books with their learned treatises fall as chaff, while demonstrations "soak in" and take root. Thorough cultivation can only be taught by thoroughly cultivating the idea. Good seed selection cannot be obtained by promiscuously sowing the seed idea.

Every cent spent practically in demonstrating to the farmers of the country by direct contact will do more and go farther than dollars used with demonstrations to encourage better farming; then broaden the idea to take demonstrations to other industries and the problems of city and town life. Uncle Sam must get close to the people if he would help them and he can do it thoroughly and satisfactorily by demonstrations only.

Recent developments in the Mexican situation lead to the belief that President Wilson has been doing some mighty careful "watchful waiting." The President has the support of every red-blooded American citizen, and all of the jingoists in the country have been unable to make him move. An insult to the flag is a different matter, and Mr. Huerta will undoubtedly regret very much his refusal to salute the flag in reparation. What Villa has been doing to him up to the present time would be but a flea-bite compared what would happen if the United States does have to start after the Mexican Federals.

After having spent a pleasant winter as keeper of the gate at the State's Prison, Louis Kuehnle, convicted political boss of Atlantic City, has now been conveniently paroled by the Court of Pardons to take effect June first, just in time to return to the shore resort for a pleasant and profitable summer. But what has happened to hundreds of poor fellows who were not politicians, and who did something not half so bad as did Kuehnle?

The sheriff and Jury Commissioner Russ certainly made careful and thorough selections in drawing the men who are to serve on the grand jury panel for the coming year. The Plainfield list contains a group of representative citizens of the city, and if the example set is to be followed, it can safely be said that the new jury reform law is a great success.

Saturday's contributed editorial will be somewhat different from any that have been printed since this feature was started over two years ago. It tells a bit of history about the Civil War, and of the great and chivalrous work done by men and women of Philadelphia during those "times that tried men's souls."

CONFERENCE OF CHARITIES

Thirteenth Annual Meeting of State Society to Be Held at Asbury Park.

THREE DAYS' SESSION

Hugh F. Fox, H. L. DeForest, Mrs. P. H. Stewart, Mrs. F. deL. Hyde, Dr. H. M. Maxson and C. L. Riley Will Attend.

The thirteenth annual meeting of the New Jersey Conference of Charities and Correction will be held in the Casino, Asbury Park, N. J., Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of next week, April 19-21. The general topic will be the "Government and the Governed." In addition to the president's address, Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, formerly of the Bureau of Chemistry, Washington, will address the conference on Sunday afternoon. In the evening Alexander Johnson, former secretary of the National Conference of Charities and Correction, will speak on "Feeble-minded;" Col. E. A. Stevens will speak of the work being done on State roads by prisoners; Dr. Britton D. Evans, of Morris Plains, will speak on the "Insane," and Miss May Caughey, superintendent Reformatory for Women at Clinton, will tell of what is being done there.

Monday morning from 9:30 to 11 o'clock there will be three section meetings in the nature of round table discussions, one on "Probation and Courts" one on "Health Problems," and one on "Charity Organization Work." At the general session beginning at 11 o'clock, "State Problems" will be considered with addresses by Joseph P. Byers, commissioner of charities, Trenton, and Hon. Charles O'Connor Hennessey, senator from Bergen county.

Monday afternoon the topic will be "County Problems." An address will be given by Winston Paul, of Jersey City, on "Financial Budgets and the County As a Unit;" "Social Reform and the Short Ballot," by H. S. Gilbertson, secretary National Short Ballot Organization, N. Y.; "Widows' Pensions," Mrs. C. B. Alexander. The discussion will be on whether the city, county or State should take care of prisoners.

Monday evening the topic will be "Municipal Problems," with Mrs. Lewis S. Thompson, of Red Bank, as chairman. Harris R. Cooley, director of Public Welfare, Cleveland, will speak on "Economic Value of Waste Material;" F. H. Tracy, sheriff of Washington county, Montpelier, Vt., will speak on "The Boys."

Tuesday morning from 9:30 to 11 there will be two section meetings, one to be conference of overseers of the poor, at which the general topic will be the "Municipal Treatment of the Common Drunk," and the other to be a section meeting on "Child Welfare Problems." The discussion will be rounded up by William H. Slingerland, Ph. D., special agent of the Russell Sage Foundation. At the general session from 11 to 12:30 o'clock the topic will be "Settlements, Interpreters of Democracy," with addresses by Dr. Henry Moskowitz, Miss Lillian D. Wald, and Rev. Gaylord S. White, settlement workers in New York city. On Tuesday afternoon, under "Coast and South Jersey Problems," Alexander Johnson will give an address on immigration under the title of "Some Thoughts About the Melting Pot;" Edward E. Read, Jr. secretary of State Committee on Provision for Mental Defectives, will speak on "Some Results of Research," and Miss Elizabeth C. White, of New Lisbon, will speak on "The Appeal of the Colony to a Dweller in the Pines."

A reception will be given to delegates by Mrs. Lewis S. Thompson, chairman local committee, on Monday afternoon from 5 to 6:30 at the Metropolitan Hotel. The exhibits will attempt to show the relation of State, county and municipal agencies and will be open daily from 9 a. m.

In addition to the regular meeting of the conference, a number of groups of workers are planning special meetings during the conference. The overseers of the poor are to have a dinner on Monday evening; health officers and those interested in health subjects will consider at the Monday morning section the formation of an organization to promote health; settlement workers have planned their regular monthly meeting to be held in connection with the conference.

BAPTISTS HAVE SUCCESSFUL YEAR

All the Societies Present Encouraging Reports at Annual Meeting.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Voted to Hold Parish and Church Meetings Second Wednesday in April—Social Hour With Refreshments Enjoyed.

The annual parish and church meeting of the First Baptist church was held, last night, and despite the stormy weather nearly 125 members were present. For the past ninety-five years it has been customary to hold the parish and church meetings separate, but through a recent change in the church rules, the two were brought together and last night it was voted to hold the two meetings on the second Wednesday in April instead of the second Tuesday as was done last year.

The parish meeting was held first when L. V. F. Randolph and Oliver B. Leonard were re-elected trustees for three years and William A. Conner was elected trustee to fill out the unexpired term of S. St. John McCutchen. Thomas S. Armstrong was chairman of this meeting.

The church meeting followed when deacons were elected and reports presented for the past year, which showed the organization to be in an excellent financial condition. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor, presided. George H. Batchelor and George F. Brown were re-elected deacons for the full term of five years; Wilbur F. Randolph was elected deacon to succeed the late Robert W. Barnes while Charles Conover was made a new members of the board of deacons for a full term of five years, there having been one vacancy existing for some time.

John G. MacLaughlin, church treasurer, reported total receipts for the year of $7,863.36, and in addition to that the beneficience committee raised $8,761.47, and there was also subscribed a large sum of money for extensive repairs made to the church edifice during the year, which included the rebuilding of the tower, redecorating the interior, laying a new floor covering, and other improvements.

The Women's Foreign Mission Society raised $666.10 during the year, and the Women's Home Missionary Society raised $575, while the Young Women's Mission Society reported having raised $454 and the Temple Builders received $100.

Frank Bach, treasurer of the Bible School, reported total receipts of $1,195.67 for the year, while there was raised by the Deacon's Fellowship fund $837. The present membership of the church is 836. Twelve persons were received for baptism at last night's meeting.

After the two meetings there was a social hour during which refreshments were served. This was in charge of the women of the church, Mrs. Harold Serrell being in charge assisted by a large committee.

REPORTS ON CHURCH WORK ENCOURAGING

Annual Meeting and Election of Officers Held in Congregational Parish House.

Reports submitted at the annual meeting held in the Parish House of the Congregational church, last night, showed that marked progress has been made during the past year in every branch of ecclesiastical endeavor and the various organizations and societies connected with the church are in a flourishing condition. The treasurer's report showed that all bills had been paid and that the treasury was now in an encouraging condition.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich, the pastor, made his annual report, showing a complete resume of the work accomplished by the church and its workers and followed the presentation of the same with a few words of comment. He complimented the congregation on the new features that have been added during the year, particularly the erection of the new parish house and discussed the various new uses to which the addition could be put during the next year. Alexander Millar was the presiding officer at last night's session and in his introductory remarks commented on the work of the various societies and urged continued co-operation on the part of the workers.

E. L. Suffern was elected as a deacon for a term of one year and Alonzo Weseman was re-elected to serve in the same capacity for the coming year. The following members were selected for the official board: Alexander Millar, J. S. Powlison, James McClymont and A. N. Neilson. The latter acted as clerk for the church and various societies. The board of trustees were elected as follows: C. A. Rise, Dr. H. V. Hubbard, P. S. Suffern and Dr. Frank T. Clawson, the latter succeeding Morris Van Arsdale. The election of officers to the board of trustees resulted as follows: President, T. A. Weeks; secretary, E. L. Morgan; treasurer, C. A. Stevens. A meeting of the latter board will be held in four weeks.

PLEASING BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR MRS. SARAH E. AYERS

SAYS LEGISLATORS WERE NOT POLITE

Mrs. E. F. Feickert Declares They Didn't Even Offer Seats.

Summit, April 16—With 20,000 active advocates of woman suffrage in this State and the endorsement by 100,000 men of the proposition and with the State Suffrage Association membership increasing at the rate of 1,000 monthly, Mrs. Edward C. Feickert, of Plainfield, in an address before a gathering of local women here yesterday saw only success for the movement at the election in 1915.

In relating her experience in advocating legislation favorable to the suffrage cause, the president of the State organization told of the reception of herself and Mrs. Champlin L. Riley, president of the Plainfield Suffrage Association, in Trenton by the Union county Assemblymen last year. On one occasion Mrs. Feickert said she and Mrs. Riley had waited in the State House a long time to gain an audience with Assemblymen Griffen and Leonard, and when finally the interview was granted, Assemblyman Griffin told the suffrage organization officials that one reason why he did not favor woman suffrage was that he feared women wouldn't be treated politely at the polls.

"Since we had been left standing for hours hanging on a railing in the House of Assembly without being offered a seat, I confess I wasn't quite sure that we would be treated politely at the polls, but I realized that if we had controlled votes at that time, we wouldn't be forced to stand," said Mrs. Feickert.

On another occasion the speaker said, the efforts of herself and other women to speak with the Union county assemblymen proved unavailing, because these members insisted that they must remain in their seats to vote on an important bill. "That bill," said Mrs. Feickert "we learned was the bill requiring the licensing of cats, and I suppose the Union county delegation just said among themselves, 'we have no time for those other cats.'"

Assemblyman Griffin was charged by the speaker with having stated that he opposed the referendum because few voters took the trouble to inform themselves on the question voted on, and therefore the proposition submitted is usually carried. Despite this declaration Mr. Griffin was a most energetic supporter of the referendum on the jury reform bill, Mrs. Feickert asserted.

From a majority of 1,140 which he received in 1912, Assemblyman Leonard was elected last year by only seventy votes over his opponent, the speaker said. While the Union county women advocates of equal suffrage did not assume the credit for Mr. Leonard's decreased vote, the assemblyman charged his cutting to their influence, said Mrs. Feickert.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will conduct the service at the Rescue Mission tonight.

Women's Spring Coats at $7.98!

FOR COATS INTENDED TO SELL UP TO $12

A special purchase from one of the leading coat makers of the country accounts for this offering. It comprises a selected lot of odd coats in a wonderful variety of fabrics—season's best styles—and newest colorings.

Too many styles to mention—for values up to $12—at $7.98.

Tailored Suits at $19.98

New man-tailored suits, made from broaded faille—and one of the cleverest models of the year. The coat is short and decidedly jaunty—with a large, rolling collar and a lace top collar. It has the French back and a fancy silk ornament—lined with peau de cygne. The skirt has one graduated tier, splendid value at $19.98

New Spring Coats--$12.98

Women's black brocaded faille coats—made full 36 inches long—with velvet down the front. They have plaited collars—double ruffle around the coat—graduated kimono sleeves—and finished with a neat ruffle. Splendidly lined with a fine quality of peau de cygne.

Mothers Bring Their Daughters Here for Hats

And we cater just as carefully to the young lady as we do to her mother. Big hats, little hats, hats for big girls and hats for the young miss. For school, dress and play.

The greater part of our collection are cleverly adapted hats from foreign models—especially those of Jeanne Lanvin.

Prices begin at $3 and on up to $10 for the young lady of sixteen or seventeen.

Plenty of Untrimmed Hats, of hemp, dainty models, at $1.25 and $1.50.

Our People Enthusiastic About the $5 Millinery

Because the new hats are so smart, chic and different. No other store in town can boast of moderately priced hats such as ours. And their real beauty is the result of careful choosing of lines and trimmings. Each model is distinctive—becoming, of course, and original with us.

Some have a bit of trimming, others a pompon, a flower, a cluster of fruit, or perhaps a feather, giving that bit of charm every woman admires.

And not only at $5, but at prices up to $50, are shown in hatdom. The very air of Paris seems to have been caught!

CHARITY WORKERS GUESTS AT PARTY

Those Who Assisted in Planning for Annual Ball May Form Permanent Society.

Father B. M. Bogan, of St. Mary's church, was the host for the members of the Holy Name Society committee in charge of the arrangements for the second annual ball held in Columbus Auditorium, Monday night, at a social gathering in St. Mary's Hall last night. About sixty guests attended the gathering which was one of the most successful and enjoyable ever held in that hall.

The affair was an informal one arranged on the spur of the moment, and although the weather was decidedly inclement a majority of the committee members were present. The first part of the evening was devoted to card playing, euchre and "500" being enjoyed at a number of tables. Dancing followed and refreshments were served at midnight.

So marked was the success of the occasion that those present held a short business meeting and formed tentative plans for the permanent organization of a social club, the charter members of which will be composed of the committee workers. A meeting will be held in the near future at which time plans for a May basket party will be discussed. This latter event will be held sometime during the first part of May.

HURRY WORK ON WARSHIPS AT BOSTON

Boston, April 16.—Work is being hurried on the cleaning of the battleships Virginia, Nebraska, Rhode Island and Georgia, at the Navy Yard here in view of the announcement from Washington that these vessels of the third division of the Atlantic fleet are to be sent to Mexico. The Virginia, flagship of Rear Admiral Frank E. Baetty commanding the division, left the drydock yesterday and it was arranged to dock the Georgia today.

Some of the guns on the Georgia are to be replaced and large supplies of stores are being taken on board all four vessels. Rear Admiral Beatty was expected to arrive from Washington today. Nearly half of the crews are on shore leave and some of them are visiting their homes in New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

During the recent engagement of Kibble & Martin's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at Havelin's Theatre in St. Louis, an old gray-haired darkey was noticed one evening enjoying the performance to his heart's content, his facial expressions being amusing indeed. When the curtain ascended revealing the cotton picking scene, the old fellow could stand the strain no longer. Rising to his feet he shouted "Lawdy, but dat am natural." The "Uncle Tom's Cabin" revival which wil lbe seen at the Plainfield Theatre Saturday, is said to be the most expensive in America. The company numbers over fifty members, while the scenic equipment is of such variety that two special seventy-foot cars are required for its transportation.

Comedy of the better sort, music that has more charm than to merely soothe the savage beast, comedians who understand their business and high grade vaudeville specialties, contributed by real headliners, are promised in the revised edition of "McFadden's Flats," the foremost of all comedy productions," which will be seen at the Plainfield theatre on Tuesday, April 21. From all accounts there is not a dull moment in the entire offering, which without doubt is one of the most up-to-date and enduring entertainments on the boards today. The production has been augmented with an enlarged chorus of thirty bewitching and clever young ladies who know how to wear stunning gowns in befitting style and grace, new scenery, elaborate stage and electrical effects and song hits of the tuneful, catchy variety.

PROCTOR'S PROGRAM.

"The Resurrection of Caleb Worth," an Edison feature drama; Biograph's "A Friend of the District Attorney," "A Happy Coercion," and many other interesting subjects are listed on Proctor's program of motion pictures for this afternoon and evening. Friday and Saturday a five-part motion picture of "Brewster's Millions" will be shown. In addition to this feature, film the Vitagraph's special production, "Memories That Haunt," introducing one of the most realistic shipwrecks ever shown in pictures will be put on the screen.

"THE VILLAGE POSTOFFICE."

The old time "Village Postoffice" will come into it's own tomorrow night, when the playlet will be repeated at the Trinity Reformed church. The Dutch Arms Band will be present and give incidental numbers. The proceeds will be divided between the band and the athletic association of the Sunday-school.

TROOPS FIRE VOLLEY TO STOP HORSE RACE

Militia Bullets Whistle Over Jockeys' Heads.

Tulsa, Okla., April 16.—Disregarding a restraining order issued by Judge M. A. Breckenridge of the superior court, state troops took possession of the Tulsa fair grounds, which had been proclaimed under martial law by Governor Lee Cruce, and when an attempt was made to run the races carded for the afternoon, fired a volley over the heads of the jockeys as the horses were dashing down the stretch.

With this show of force and the declaration of Frank M. Canton, adjutant general, who was in personal command of the troops, that if another race were started the militiamen would fire to kill the horses, officials of the Tulsa Jockey club ordered the spring race meeting, which began Monday, abandoned, at least temporarily.

The action was the culmination over the right of bookmakers to operate at the track. Open betting was permitted on Monday and an application was filed by county officials before District Judge L. M. Poe, asking that an injunction be issued prohibiting the placing of wagers. A report was made to the governor on Tuesday that violation of the state's anti-gambling laws continued and the proclamation declaring the track under martial law was issued.

The next move will be the hearing of habeas corpus proceedings instituted in behalf of several men arrested by the state troops. Application for the writs was filed before the court of commonwealth appeals in Oklahoma City.

Two companies of militia were employed in stopping the races. First the stands were cleared of spectators and the races ordered discontinued. Ten horses entered in the first race, however, were sent to the post. The starter lost no time in dropping the barrier. As the horses entered the stretch the militiamen fired over the heads of the jockeys.

THOMAS COPENHAVEN RELEASED FROM TOMBS

Exonerated From Blame Over Disappearance of Ruth Naylor.

Thomas Copenhaven, of Sunbury, Pa., was released from the Tombs Prison, this afternoon, where he has been confined since the day following the mysterious disappearance of Ruth Naylor from the premises of the Stillman Grammar School in this city. Copenhaven was arrested on a complaint sworn out by John Naylor, father of the girl, who alleged that he had something to do with her abduction.

Since the arrest of Lynus Walpole, however, and the return of the girl the case has taken a different turn and the confessions of the other two exonerate Copenhaven from all blame in the matter. He was an admirer of the Naylor girl and was alleged to be her abductor by the father. Detective Flynn went to New York last Saturday for the purpose of having him released but was told that he would have to get a written order from Prosecutor Albert A. Stein of Union county. The necessary papers were made out this afternoon and Naylor went to New York to secure the young man's release from a cell.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS FOR "ANTIS" MEETING

Miss Lucy Price and John A. Matthews Will Address Gathering.

The Plainfield Branch of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage has arranged for a meeting to be held at the Y. M. C. A., Monday night at 8:15 o'clock, to be addressed by prominent speakers. Rev. Frank Goodwin, pastor of the Congregational church, Westfield, will preside, introduce the speakers and conduct the open discussion following the addresses.

The speakers will be Miss Lucy Price, of Cleveland, Ohio, who was one of those who addressed the Congressional hearing in Washington, opposing suffrage. She is said to be a brilliant and entertaining talker. The other speaker will be former Assemblyman John A. Matthews, an earnest advocate of the anti-suffrage movement. In arranging for an open discussion of the subject, the local branch believes that much interest will be added to the meeting. This discussion will be open to those who favor suffrage as well as those who are opposed. The local branch will hold a special meeting tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Sherman B. Joost, 630 Belvidere avenue.

LIFE SAVERS BATTLE HOURS TO GIVE AID

Carried into the raging surf on Long Branch early today when the masts to which they were tied were snapped by waves of tremendous height and strength, seven men and a woman, the latter the wife of the captain, were drowned following the grounding of the lumber laden three-masted schooner Charles K. Buckley. Life-savers managed to save the eighth man of the crew, a strapping fellow named Martinson, who was dragged through the surf at the end of a line to the beach. He is in the Monmouth Memorial Hospital in a critical condition.

Life-savers made a desparate but futile effort to reach the crew and the woman by lifeboats. Finding this impossible because of the waves, which threw their boats back on the beach every time they were launched, they resorted to shooting lines to the doomed vessel in the hope of rigging up a breeches buoy.

The terrific gale, accompanied by a downpour which swept the Jersey coast, carried the vessel ashore and the crew to death after the sails of the schooner had been torn to shreds while she was striving to reach Elizabethport. The anchor was dropped a mile off the Long Branch shore, but the cable either parted or the implement would not hold, because the schooner rapidly drifted toward the Long Branch shore.

MRS. E. H. PENNOYER DIES AT NIECE'S HOME

Mrs. E. H. Pennoyer, formerly of this city, but late of Rahway, died at the home of her niece, Mrs. E. W. Cook, in that place, yesterday afternoon. She was 84 years of age and had been failing for some time past. Mrs. Pennoyer is survived by two sons, Harry H., of this city, and Frank E., of Newark. The funeral will be held at the home of her niece in Rahway, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

SCOOP IS THE MIND CHAMPION OF THE WORLD

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

HARNEY BACK FROM SOUTH, MANAGERS ON HIS TRAIL

Pitcher Percy Harney, of Bound Brook, has returned from the South, where he has been with a Southern league club. His services as pitcher are much in demand. He has received five offers to pitch from three league teams. He has not signed any contract as yet.

He states that insufficient warming of the arm was the complaint of most of those pitchers who were released.

ROD AND REEL

The rain of yesterday will help along the flounder fishing, according to several boat owners over on Jamaica Bay, who sent us word to that effect last evening. They say that, while the air was cold, the rain was warm and the few hardy fishermen that went out for a few minutes found plenty of flounders biting.

The return of the cold weather put a damper on trout fishing, as well as deep sea fishing, for a few days, as no one wants to get wet through with the temperature at 4 degrees. The rain also added to the height of the water in the streams and the wind kicked up a sea that tumbled large coastwise vessels about like egg shells.

The garden worms kept under cover for the last few days as a forerunner of the cold spell. Any time they draw their holes in with them you can look out for cold weather, and when they come out then look for trout. Butterflies make another good trout sign, as when they fly high in the air the trout bite poorly and when they fly low it is just the reverse with the trout fishing.

The new anglers' license law will not be enforced in New Jersey tide waters, which have not been stocked by the Fish and Game Commission, the commission announced yesterday. The commission says, owing to the joint jurisdiction of New Jersey and Pennsylvania over the Delaware river the license law will not be applicable to that stream. The law becomes effective January 1 next.

A bill has been passed by both Houses which prohibits rod and reel fishing on Sundays in New York State. It is now before the Governor for his signature. The Tarrytown Rod and Reel Club has mailed a letter requesting a hearing on this bill before it is signed, and if the 200,000 or more fishermen in Greater New York get busy quickly they may be able to save the day yet.

ENGLISH MILERS ARRIVE.

The best consignment of English distance runners ever shipped in one package arrived on the Olpympic yesterday. The arrivals comprised the Oxford University team which is booked to run at the University of Pennsylvania relay carnival at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, April 25. One of the quartet was Arnold N. S. Jackson, who established himself as the best miler of the day by winning the 1,500 meter race at Stockholm and taking the Olympic crown from such sterling American runners as John Paul Jones, Norman Faber and Abel Kiviat.

WILSON ACCEPTS.

At the last meeting of the executive committee of the American Olympic Committee a resolution was submitted and adopted authorizing Colonel Robert M. Thompson, of the American committee to extend to President Wilson an invitation to accept the honorary presidency of the American Olympic Committee for the sixth Olympiad in Berlin. James E. Sullivan yesterday received from the White House a letter from President Wilson accepting the honorary office.

BASEBALL NOTES

Pitcher Ruth, the youngster who has been beating big league teams so handily for Jack Dunn's Baltimore Orioles, is just out of college.

The reinstatement of "Doc" Scanlan, who refused to report to the Quakers last season, will strengthen Charley Dooin's wobbly pitching corps.

The New York Yankees pulled considerable first division stuff in the practice games and it is now up to the Chance clan to continue the good work.

Jack Bentley, the Washington heaver, gets credit for the first no-hit, no-run game of the spring season, the University of Vermont team being the victim.

Walsh, Cicotte, Russell, Benz and Scott will comprise the White Sox first string pitching staff. Not a bad lot, that bunch of twirlers.

Doc Johnston, of the Cleveland Naps, is a brother of Jimmy Johnston, the speeedy outfielder of the Chicago Cubs. Both boys are graduates of the Southern League.

Another schoolboy ball player has joined the Athletics. This time Connie Mack has gone to his old home, Brookfield, Mass., and signed John Daniels, a High School player.

Several clubs in the American Association would like to annex Scott and Regh, the former A. A. players with the Boston Red Sox. "Not a chance," declares Manager Bill Carrigan.

Manager Stallings is particularly sweet on Wilson Collins' ball playing and if Collins can improve in batting he doubtless will become a fixture in the Braves' outfield.

The ante-season games between National and American League teams resulted in very near an even break. Neither outfit was able to put it over on the other to any considerable extent.

Fred Clarke, the Pirates' leader, has invented an automatic arrangement by which fielders using sun glasses may drop them over their eyes from a metal cap visor by simply touching a spring.

Miner Brown, the boss of the St. Louis Federals, steps up to the plate and says as how he has the best team in St. Louis. If the Browns and Cardinals are as bad as that there is no hope for St. Loo.

WITH THE BOXERS

The lid will be taken off boxing in Pittsburgh on April 24, when Gus Christie and Buck Crouse meet in that city.

Freddie Welsh, the English lightweight champion, is doing some real work in training for his bout with Leach Cross.

There is little prospect of another meeting between Georges Carpentier and Joe Jeannette as Jeannette refuses to make weight for any boxer.

Some of the London papers are panning the American and Australian boxers for introducing fake bouts in England and South Africa.

Ad Wolgast has been offered a match with Red Watson, the bout to take place in San Francisco. Watson recently held Gilbert Gallant to a 20-round draw.

HERE'S A QUERY FOR THE BLEACHERITES.

Why is a follower or enthusiast of the great national game called a fan? The answer:

F-ederals
A-mericans
N-ationals

Sincerely yours,
CASEY AT THE BAT.

WILL HAVE FAST TEAM.

The New Brunswick High School will be represented by one of the fastest track teams that ever represented the school this year. The students at the institution are taking more interest in the cinder path game than ever before. The large number of candidates are all anxious to land a berth on the relay team which will represent the school in the coming meets. The men are holding their daily practices at Neilson field and are showing great form.

WILL GIANT STARS JUMP?

Philadelphia, April 16—None of the Giants would discuss the story which emanated from Chicago last night quoting President Gilmore, of the Federal League, as saying that when he was in Baltimore on Monday three of the New York Nationals had approached him and asked for terms. The men involved were said here to be Merkle, Doyle and Tesreau, although naturally they refused to say anything regarding the rumor.

BONUSES FOR PLAYERS.

St. Louis, April 16.—Though it is not incorporated in the contracts, President Britton, of the Cardinals, has agreed to give his players a bonus amounting to one-tenth of their salaries if the team finishes fifth; 15 per cent. if they finish fourth, and 20 per cent. if they are one, two, three in the pennant race. This inducement is calculated to prevent raids by the Federals.

GAME CALLED OFF.

The contest scheduled for Hyde Field this afternoon between the North Plainfield and Kearney High School baseball teams has been indefinitely postponed by the manager of the latter aggregation.

RAIN INTERVENES.

Owing to the wet condition of the field the Leal School baseball team's trip to Summit has been called off. The locals were to have met Summit Academy at that place this afternoon.

PLANNING HILL CLIMB.

The Plainfield Motorcycle Club is planning a picture run to be held next Sunday. A slow hill climb will be conducted in connection with the run.

MOTORISTS WILL MEET

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—How many languages are there in the world?—L. S. T.

Answer—According to a recent announcement there are 2,750 different languages spoken (not including baseball lingo).

Sporting Editor:

Query—How many combinations can be made out of twenty-four teams, six teams in a combination, six days and a different combination each day, with none of the combinations duplicated?—X. Y. Z.

Answer—There are 134,596 combinations possible of twenty-four things taken six at a time without duplicating any combination.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Please tell me the different ways of placing stamps on envelopes and their meanings?—C. N. D.

Answer—The proper and only place to put a stamp is on the upper right-hand corner. The postal authorities have indicated that position and for purposes of speedy handling of the mails have requested that everybody conform with the rules. If you have any sentiments to express put them inside the envelope.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where can I find a New York city directory in Plainfield?—C. N. D.

Answer—There is one in the Plainfield Public Library.

Sporting Editor:

Query—I have had three fingers on my right hand amputated. Would this bar me from taking an examination for the postal service?—N. D. O.

Answer—If you can write you can take the examination but the matter of your appointment rests largely with the appointing officer.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where can I get a copy of the fish and game laws of New Jersey?—F. D.

Answer—Write to the Fish and Game Commission, Trenton, N. J.

LOCAL TROLLEYMEN AFTER STATE TITLE

P. S. C. Baseball Players Will Enter Central-Southern Division of League.

Local employes of the Public Service Railway Company having their headquarters at the Dunellen car barns have organized a baseball team for the coming season and will be one of the contenders in the Public Service Railway Baseball League during the coming season. The league will be composed of three divisions this season, Central-Southern, Essex-Passaic and Hudson-Bergen. The locals are entered in the Central-Southern division in which are Elizabeth, New Brunswick, Riverside and Cranford. Riverside, Camden and Plainfield are newly organized teams and the trio expects to make a strong bid for the championship.

In order to be the champions of the State, the winners of each division will meet in a series of games, playing each other twice. Gold watches will be donated by President Thomas M. McCarter to the baseballers annexing high honors and silver awards probably will be made to the runners-up in each case. A meeting of the managers of each aggregation will be held in the Public Service building, Newark, tomorrow afternoon.

The Dunellen car barn representatives expect to put a speedy team in the field and will meet during the next few days to select a captain and manager. Plainfield has a wealth of good material to devote to this league and it is expected that the locals will finish near the top of the Central-Southern division during the first season of competition.

ALUMNI ATHLETES WHO WILL LINEUP AGAINST N. P. H. S.

North Plainfield High School will lineup against the Alumni baseball nine on Hyde Oval tomorrow afternoon. The graduates will present the following array of talent: Conover, p; Pierson Bailey, c; Smith, 1b; Spencer, 2b; Percy Bailey, ss-p; Demier, 3b; Krewson, Bodin, Krewson and LaPorte, fielders.

TRIBUTE ON HIS DEPARTURE FOR BERNARDSVILLE PRIEST

Bernardsville, April 16.—Rev. Joseph A. Ryan, who has been rector of the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help for sixteen years, left yesterday for his new charge in Millville, cheered by the memories of a tribute paid to him Tuesday night at Bernards Inn.

The participants included non Catholics, both in the audience and among the speakers. Two purses of gold were given, one from residents of Bernardsville and the other from those of Far Hills where Father Ryan had founded a church now an independent parish.

John McGuinness, of this place, presided. He was chairman of the committee that arranged the affair, the others members being Michael Doherty and Postmaster John J. Foley.

The speakers included Rev. Thomas A. Conover, rector of the Episcopal parish in Bernardsville; Rev. Louis Guzzardi, assistant to Father Ryan and in charge of the Church of the Sacred Heart in the Italian section of the town; Mr. Foley, Township Assessor Joseph Kronenberg, William J. Kearns and Edward M. Waldron, of Newark, summer residents here; Rev. John Sheedy, of Brown's Mills; Dr. Josiah Meigh and Rev. Joseph J. Antliff, of Orange Valley, who presented the purses.

APRIL TERM COMMENCES IN HUNTERDON COUNTY COURT

Flemington, April 16—The April term of the Hunterdon county court opened here Tuesday with Supreme Court Justice Trenchard and Judges Nelson Y. Dungan and Paul A. Queen upon the bench. The Grand Jury was sworn in with John S. Wilson, of Stockton, as foreman. In charging the jury Justice Trenchard said there was nothing of an unusual character to be brought before the body which required special instruction.

The following licenses were granted by the court: Theodore Grey and William C. Quick, Frenchtown, each $200; Jordan Haney and Arthur Jeffries, Milford, each $125; Samuel H. Lafferty and James Shay, Alexandria, each $100; N. B. Gano and Edward B. Emery, Tewksbury, each $100; Albert J. Johnson, Readington, $150; Jacob Smith and Edmund E. Backer, Lebanon, $100 and $150, respectively; Jacob K. Wilson, Delaware, $100; Enos Weiss, Clement B. Emery and Joseph L. Chamberlin, Flemington, each $275; Godfrey & Poole, Union, $100; Hiram S. Opdycke, Franklin, $100; Jacob R. Smith, Hampton borough, $125; Charles E. Salter, East Amwell, $125; Walter E. Pence, Bloomsbury, $125; Lincoln Burnham, Clinton, $125.

There are but few cases to be tried at the present term of court and the session is likely to be a brief one.

RAHWAY RECTOR TO WED.

Rahway, April 16—The engagemetn of Miss Marguerite Limond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Limond, of 759 Carroll street, Brooklyn, to Rev. H. S. Linwood Sadtler, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, here, was announced Tuesday. Miss Limond is a graduate of Berkeley and the Adelphi Normal College.

LOCALS IN NEW YORK.

CRANFORD MAN SEEKS DIVORCE.

Elizabeth, April 16—That she had not been on friendly terms with her husband for twelve years, although she had lived in the same house with him most of that time, was the testimony given Tuesday by Mrs. Annie Winans, of Cranford, who is being sued for divorce by Isaac Winans. The hearing in the action was resumed yesterday in the County Court beforme former Chancellor William J. Magie as advisory master.

ADMITS PERJURY TO SAVE GUNMEN

Caught In Trap, Recants All His Testimony.

WILL TRY BECKER MAY 6

Change of Counsel Is Still a Mystery. Former Lieutenant Stood In Same Spot Where He Received Death Sentence—Wife Attends Hearing.

New York, April 16.—Carl Dresner, twenty-nine years old, one of the witnesses who testified at the hearing before Justice Goff on Saturday last on the application for a new trial for the four gunmen who slew Herman Rosenthal, was locked in the Tombs a confessed perjurer. His arrest and subsequent imprisonment followed a dramatic interview which he had with District Attorney Whitman and Assistant District Attorneys Groehl and Minton. The case, it is believed, ultimately will reveal startling methods employed in the defense of the four gunmen and of former Lieutenant Charles Becker.

The testimony of this witness, had it been corroborated, would have won a new trial for the four gunmen and would have sent Sam Schepps to the electric chair. The witness, who now admits that he tried to involve Schepps and others so that the gunmen might be saved, is in peril of imprisonment of ten years for his offense.

Former Lieutenant Charles Becker was arraigned at the bar in the criminal branch of the supreme court, when the date of his second trial was fixed to begin on May 6 by Justice Seabury.

The last time that Becker stood in the same spot, Oct. 30, 1912, he heard the sentence of death pronounced upon him by Justice Goff, before whom he had been found guilty on Oct. 24, 1912, of murder in the first degree for instigating the plot to kill Herman Rosenthal, the "squealing" gambler.

Becker walked to the railing with a firm, confident step. The prison pallor bore evidence of his long confinement, including fifteen months in the death house at Sing Sing. But he possessed his characteristic smile and vise like grip in shaking hands.

Mrs. Becker In Court.

In the rear of the courtroom sat Mrs. Becker, the prisoner's plucky little wife, who has fought valiantly for the freedom and vindication of her husband. Mrs. Becker was clad entirely in black. Beside her was Becker's brother Jackson.

The old head of the strong arm squad waited in the detention pen at the rear of the courtroom for nearly half an hour before being brought in. As Clerk William Penney called out in dramatic voice, "Charles Becker to the bar!" a thrill ran through the crowded courtroom. Every eye was trained on the door at the rear through which Becker was to emerge in response to the summons. Suddenly the door swung open, and Becker was framed in striking contrast against the dark background of the steel barred pen.

District Attorney Whitman immediately arose and requested that Justice Seabury fix May 6 as the date for the retrial of the defendant. Joseph A. Shay, counsel for Becker, who Tuesday publicly announced his withdrawal from the case, left his seat beside Martin T. Manton, his successor as the legal representative of Becker, and said:

Announces Change of Counsel.

"Your honor, there will be a change of counsel in this case within the next few days. The proper substitution will be made on the papers. I think that more than three weeks will be required for the new counsel to familiarize himself with the records and the facts. Consequently I respectfully suggest that your honor fix a later date."

Justice Seabury did not agree with counsel and declared firmly that May 6 was definitely fixed.

J. P. WHITNEY PLEADS GUILTY

Pays Fine of $2,500 For Violation of Mann Act.

San Francisco, April 16.—J. Parker Whitney of New York and San Francisco withdrew his plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty to a charge of violating the Mann white slave act in transporting Miss Genevieve Hanna from one state to another for immoral purposes.

He was fined $2,500, which he immediately paid and was set free. It is understood Whitney changed his plea so that Federal Judge Dooling would not impose a prison term.

STOP MILITANT IN GERMANY.

Miss Sylvia Pankhurst Finds Police Won't Let Her Talk.

Berlin, April 16.—Germany hung the "verboten" sign on the proposed suffrage campaign of Sylvia Pankhurst. The English suffragette had planned to open her campaign in Dresden, but the police issued an order prohibiting her speaking.

It is expected that the police of Berlin will also forbid the appearance of Miss Pankhurst.

Weather Forecast.

Some Cookery Suggestions

DRIED FRUIT PUDDINGS.

ALMOST all dried fruits, if fresh and of good quality, may be used in dessert making. Dried apricots, peaches, raisins, currants, cherries and prunes are the fruits most often utilized for the purpose.

Steamed Fruit Pudding.—Take one pint of flour and one pint of milk made into a batter; then add one pint of suet, one pint of cut dried peaches, one pint of raisins and one pint of currants. Steam three hours. Serve hot with pudding sauce or cream.

A Rich Dessert.

Raisin Pudding.—Take one-half pound of suet chopped fine, two cupfuls of flour, five eggs, one quart of milk, half a teaspoonful of salt and one and one-half cupfuls of raisins. Beat the eggs very light; then add the milk and salt. Add suet and flour, in which the raisins are mixed. Steam three hours. Serve hot with pudding sauce.

Economy Pudding.—Take one cupful of sour milk, half a cupful of New Orleans molasses, two cupfuls of flour, half a teaspoonful of soda, half a teaspoonful of salt and half a cupful of chopped dried fruit. For the dried fruit stewed prunes, apricots, figs, dates, raisins or whatever happens to be on hand may be used. Steam the pudding two hours and serve with a hot pudding sauce.

A Rolled Pudding.

Fruit Mold.—Take one-half pound of stewed prunes, apricots or figs. Cut the fruit into quarters and add half a cupful of sugar. Make a baking powder biscuit dough. Roll so that dough is twice as long as it is wide. Spread the fruit over this, keeping within an inch of the edges. Roll like jelly cake, pressing the edges firmly, so that the fruit cannot fall out. Place the roll in one side of a pan, pour over and around it half a cupful of sugar, two cupfuls of hot water and a tablespoonful of butter. Bake, basting frequently and watching closely to prevent burning. If the sirup boils away add more water, a little at a time as needed. Serve with the sirup in the pan and cream if desired.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How the Bunny Rabbit Fooled The Dog

JACK and Evelyn reminded daddy that he hadn't told them a story for ever so long about a bunny rabbit.

"And we're sure you know just heaps of them, don't you, daddy?"

"Yes. Now that I think of it," said daddy, "I have an especially funny one to tell you.

"There was once a little rabbit named Spot. He was a little gray rabbit. You see, over one eye he had a little round white spot, which was the only part of him not gray, so that when he was a wee bunny he had been given the name of Spot by his family.

"Now, Spot was a great traveler. His sisters and brothers had moved to other parts of the country, and he was all by himself.

"He was very fond of travel, so he did a great deal of it. He would go from one wood to another.

"One time he struck a very unfortunate neighborhood. From outward appearances it was most delightful. Alas, though, he did not know that there was near by a dog. This dog had the reputation of being very fond of chasing rabbits.

"Spot felt quite certain that he had picked out a place where there were no dogs for miles around, and yet there was one less than a quarter of a mile away.

"It didn't take the dog long to find out that Spot had moved to the neighborhood.

"The next morning, bright and early, the dog was up. However, Spot was up still earlier. He had climbed to the top of a hill where he had seen some very fine clover sprouting above the ground.

"Suddenly Spot saw the dog starting to run up the hill. Near by Spot saw a muddy mound. He rushed for it, and before the dog had time to get up the hill, for it was a long, steep one, Spot had burrowed into the mud and patted the part over with his paw where he had got through it, and there he was safe and sound inside the mud ball.

"When the dog got to the top of the hill he could see no sign of the rabbit. He looked everywhere. Of course it was slightly hot inside the mud ball, but the rabbit had one very tiny air hole. And he felt safe too. The dog thought he smelt something like a bunny near the muddy mound, but he saw no sign of the rabbit. The little Spot, who had traveled so much, was too clever for the dog, and after the dog wandered away, disgusted and disappointed, little Spot got out of his hiding place, through which even the dog couldn't sniff at him, and laughed hard all by himself. But that night Spot started off for a new home, as he didn't want to run any risks."

MOTHERS' WORK

Conducted by the Plainfield Mothers' Association. Every Thursday

Contributing Staff.

Mrs. H. E. Parker, chairman; Mrs. Joseph Smith and Mrs. J. L. Evans.

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mother's Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

The union meeting of the Parent-Teacher Associations of Plainfield and North Plainfield, which was to have been held in May, has been indefinitely postponed on account of the delayed work on the High School auditorium. It is a great disappointment to all concerned, for some very eminent speakers had been engaged for the occasion. Mrs. Schoff, the national president of the Mothers' Association, the State president of the Home and School League of Pennsylvania, and our own State president were booked for addresses, and the High School orchestra expected to furnish music.

There will be a meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association in the High School library next Tuesday night, which will probably be the last one of the school year, so we hope for a large attendance. Mrs. G. Stewart Simons, who has been president of the association for the past year, has, by her unflagging energy, and with the assistance of her committees made the High School Parent-Teacher Association a splendid and most helpful organization.

Those wishing to attend the International Congress on the Welfare of the Child at Washington, D. C., will remember the date, April 22-27. Some women will go from Plainfield. Rooms may be had as low as $1 a day. A great many vital questions relative to Child Welfare will be discussed, important among them being, "The State's Recognition of the Value of Mothers Above Institutions By Enactment of Mothers' Allowance or Mothers' Pension Laws," "National Marriage and Divorce Laws," "National Law for Abolition of Manufacture and Sale of Liquor."

What spirit or mood is it that prompts women to keep on their hats after being requested to remove them, when they know they absolutely shut off the view of the persons back of them? Is it a spirit of selfishness, a not caring for the "other fellow," or what? In a vast assemblage recently, the speaker remarked that if the women would remove their hats the audience could see much better. A few complied, the majority did not, hence there were complaints heard from the rear of the building in regard to "not being able to see anything but the towering foliage on women's hats." One man said he caught an occasional glimpse through the lower branches.

It looks like pure selfishness, doesn't it, yet, like every great question, there are two sides to it. It takes a master-stroke to get a woman's hat on right, and after it is once in position and the numerous hat-pins thrust through it, holding it taut, it takes the courage of a Daniel to remove it and run the risk of getting it on again; and besides, her hair is mussed and she thinks she looks a fright. Yet, even in the face of these calamities, we affirm that it is her duty as a law-abiding and conscientious citizen to take off her hat when requested to do so. Though the sacrifice be great, the silent blessing of those back of her will be greater.

In Colorado, humane education is a function of the State. All public schools must give regular lessons in that subject. Such a law should be national, for when it is optional, the importance of it is too often overlooked.

Mr. Cottrell, superintendent of the Detective Association of America, who has been an officer twenty-five years, says: "It has become a matter of statistics that humane education lowers the criminal record. Very few criminals are found who have been taught to love animals, and in searching for the cause of crime we find that a lack of humane education is the principle one.

"Out of nearly 7,000 children carefully taught kindness to animals in a Scotch public school, it has been found that not one has ever been charged with a criminal offense in any court. Out of about 2,000 convicts in our prisons, questioned on the subject, only twelve had any pet animal during childhood." The last two statements were made by Georgiand Kendall in "Wisdom."

Dr. William Riley Callicotte, State superintendent of Moral and Humane Education, says: "The child should be taught that all animals have rights and that those rights should be known and respected by all. We should be taught that an injury to another is an injury to himself; that an injury to himself is an injury to his family, his friends and to the State, for he is part of the State. No education will be complete as a moral factor until it recognizes the rights of the lesser animals. He who ignores the wants, necessities, joy and sorrows of the lesser creatures, is very immoral. An injury to the lesser animal is an injury to ourselves, is a principle that should be taught to children and others. We are losing more than half the value of the horse because of our unkind treatment of him."

Why is Plainfield without drinking fountains for horses? Are the rights of the lesser animals recognized when the one solitary drinking fountain is closed? Is it humane to put a horse to work in the morning, then at noon feed him out of a tight unsanitary nose-bag, and put him to work again without a drink of water; keep him at it till evening, and then at last when he is almost famished for water give him a drink? It is a moral crime. Let us have that drinking fountain opened and others installed.

Practical Fashion Hints

The straight, simply cut dress with few "frills" is still popular and may be made highly attractive by the individual touches that the home-dressmaker can add. A bit of hand-work on the collar and cuffs, an original belt or sash, go far to make a plain little dress effective.

7820 is a model that would make up well in serge, ratine or wash materials. It closes in front and may be made with or without the square collar. Just a bit of fullness at the back of the skirt is brought about by the arrangement of tucks. There is a set-in sleeve, which may be long or short, as preferred; a stitched belt and trimming band.

This dress may be made in size 36 with 5¼ yards of 36 inch material.

The pattern is cut in 5 sizes; 34 to 42.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

The STORY of WAITSTILL BAXTER

Copyright, 1913, by Kate Douglas Wiggin

BY KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN

Author of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm"

CHAPTER II.

Deacon Baxter's Wives.

WAITSTILL frowned, but did not interfere further with Patty's intemperate speech. She knew that she was simply serving as an escape valve and that after the steam was "let off" she would be more rational.

"Of course we are motherless," continued Patty wistfully, "but poor Ivory is worse than motherless."

"No, not worse, Patty," said Waitstill, taking the bread board and moving toward the closet. "Ivory loves his mother, and she loves him with all the mind she has left. She has the best blood of New England flowing in her veins, and I suppose it was a great comedown for her to marry Aaron Boynton, clever and gifted though he was. Now Ivory has to protect her—poor, daft, innocent creature—and hide her away from the gossip of the village. He is surely the best of sons, Ivory Boynton."

"She is a terrible care for him and like to spoil his life," said Patty.

"There are cares that swell the heart and make it bigger and warmer, Patty, just as there are cares that shrivel it and leave it tired and cold. Love lightens Ivory's afflictions, but that is something you and I have to do without, so it seems."

"I suppose little Rodman is some comfort to the Boyntons, even if he is only ten?" Patty suggested.

"No doubt. He's a good little fellow, and, though it's rather hard for Ivory to be burdened for these last five years with the support of a child who's no nearer kin than a cousin, still he's of use, minding Mrs. Boynton and the house when Ivory's away.

The schoolteacher says he is wonderful at his books and likely to be a great credit to the Boyntons some day or other."

"You've forgot to name our one great blessing, Waity, and I believe, anyway, you're talking to keep my mind off the earrings!"

"You mean we've each other? No, Patty, I never forget that, day or night. 'Tis that makes me willing to bear any burden father chooses to put upon us. Now the bread is set, but I don't believe I have the courage to put a needle into your tender flesh, Patty, I really don't."

"Nonsense! I've got the waxed silk all ready and chosen the right sized needle, and I'll promise not to jump or screech more than I can help. We'll make a tiny lead pencil dot right in the middle of the lobe, then you place the needle on it, shut your eyes and jab hard! I expect to faint, but when I 'come to' we can decide which of us will pull the needle through to the other side. Probably it will be you. I'm such a coward. If it hurts dreadfully I'll have only one pierced today and take the other tomorrow, and if it hurts very dreadfully perhaps I'll go through life with one earring. Aunt Abby Cole will say it's just odd enough to suit me!"

"You'll never go through life with one tongue at the rate you use it now," chided Waitstill, "for it will never last you. Come, we'll take the workbasket and go out in the barn where no one will see or hear us."

"Goody, goody! Come along!" and Patty clapped her hands in triumph. "Have you got the pencil and the needle and the waxed silk? Then bring the camphor bottle to revive me, and the coral pendants, too, just to give me courage. Hurry up! It's 10 o'clock. I was born at sunrise, so I'm 'going on' eighteen and can't waste any time!"

* * * * * * *

Foxwell Baxter was ordinarily called "Old Foxy" by the boys of the district and also, it is to be feared, by the men gathered for evening conference at the various taverns, or at one of the rival village stores.

He had a small farm of fifteen or twenty acres, with a pasture, a wood lot and a hayfield, but the principal source of his income came from trading. His sign bore the usual legend, "West India Goods and Groceries," and probably the most profitable articles in his stock were rum, molasses, sugar and tobacco, but there were chests of rice, tea, coffee and spices, barrels of pork in brine, as well as piles of cotton and woolen cloth on the shelves above the counter. His shop window, seldom dusted or set in order, held a few clay pipes, some glass jars of peppermint or sassafras lozenges, black licorice, stick candy and sugar gooseberries. These dainties were seldom renewed, for it was only a very bold child or one with an ungovernable appetite for sweets who would have spent his penny at Foxy Baxter's store.

He was thought a sharp and shrewd trader, but his honesty was never questioned, indeed, the only trait in his character that ever came up for general discussion was his extraordinary, unbelievable, colossal meanness. This so eclipsed every other passion in the man and loomed so bulkily and insistently in the foreground that had he cherished a second vice no one would have observed it, and if he really did possess a casual virtue it could scarcely have reared its head in such ugly company.

It might be said, to defend the fair fame of the church, that Mr. Baxter's deaconhood did not include very active service in the courts of the Lord. He had "experienced religion" at fifteen and made profession of his faith, but all well brought up boys and girls did the same in those days—their parents saw to that! If change of conviction or backsliding occurred later on that was not their business! At the ripe age of twenty-five he was selected to fill a vacancy and became a deacon, thinking it might be good for trade, as it was, for some years. He was very active at the time of the "Cochrane crazé," since any defense of the creed that included lively detective work and incessant spying on his neighbors was particularly in his line, but for many years now, though he had been regular in attendance at church, he had never officiated at communion and his deaconal services had gradually lapsed into the passing of the contribution box, a task of which he never wearied, it was such a keen pleasure to make other people yield their pennies for a good cause without adding his own!

Deacon Baxter had now been a widower for nine years, and the community had almost relinquished the idea of his seeking a fourth wife. This was a matter of some regret, for there was a general feeling that it would be a good thing for the Baxter girls to have some one to help with the housework and act as a buffer between them and their grim and irascible parent. As for the women of the village, they were mortified that the Deacon had been able to secure three wives and refused to believe that the universe held anywhere a creature benighted enough to become his fourth.

The first, be it said, was a mere ignorant girl, and be a beardless youth of twenty, who may not have shown his true qualities so early in life. She bore him two sons, and it was a matter of comment at the time that she called them, respectively, Job and Moses, hoping that the endurance and meekness connected with these names might somehow help them in their future relations with their father. Pneumonia, coupled with profound discouragement, carried her off in a few years to make room for the second wife, Waitstill's mother, who was of different fiber and greatly his superior. She was a fine, handsome girl, the orphan daughter of up country gentlefolks who had died when she was eighteen, leaving her alone in the world and penniless.

Baxter, after a few days' acquaintance, drove into the dooryard of the house where she was a visitor and, showing her his two curly headed boys, suddenly asked her to come and be their stepmother. She assented, partly because she had nothing else to do with her existence so far as she could see, and also because she fell in love with the children at first sight and forgot, as girls will, that it was their father whom she was marrying.

She was as plucky and clever and spirited as she was handsome, and she made a brave fight of it with Foxy, long enough to bring a daughter into the world, to name her Waitstill and start her a little way on her life journey—then she, too, gave up the struggle and died. Typhoid fever it was, combined with complete loss of illusions and a kind of despairing rage at having made so complete a failure of her existence.

The next year Mr. Baxter, being unusually busy, offered a man a good young heifer if he would jog about the country a little and pick him up a housekeeper, a likely woman who would if she proved energetic, economical and amiable be eventually raised to the proud position of his wife. If she was young, healthy, smart, tidy, capable and a good manager, able to milk the cows, harness the horse and make good butter he would give a dollar and a half a week. The woman was found, and, incredible as it may seem, she said "Yes" when the deacon, whose ardor was kindled at having paid three months' wages, proposed a speedy marriage. The two boys by this time had reached the age of discretion, and one of them evinced the fact by promptly running away to parts unknown, never to be heard from afterward; while the other, a reckless and unhappy lad, was drowned while running on the logs in the river. Old Foxy showed little outward sign of his loss.

His third wife, the one originally secured for a housekeeper, bore him a girl, very much to his disgust, a girl named Patience, and great was Waitstill's delight at this addition to the dull household. The mother was a timid, colorless, docile creature, but Patience nevertheless was a sparkling, bright eyed baby, who speedily became the very center of the universe to the older child. So the months and years wore on drearily enough until when Patience was eight the third Mrs. Baxter succumbed after the manner of her predecessors and slipped away from a life that had grown intolerable. The trouble was diagnosed as "liver complaint," but scarcity of proper food, no new frocks or kind words, hard work and continual bullying may possibly have been contributory causes. Dr. Perry thought so, for he had witnessed three most contented deaths in the Baxter house. The ladies were all members of the church and had presumably made their peace with God, but the good doctor fancied that their pleasure in joining the angels was mild compared with their relief at parting with the deacon.

"I know I hadn't ought to put the care on you, Waitstill, and you only fourteen," poor Mrs. Baxter sighed, as the young girl was watching with her one night when the end seemed drawing near. "I've made out to live till now when Patience is old enough to dress herself and help round, but I'm all beat out and can't try any more."

"Do you mean I'm to take your place, be a mother to Patience and keep house and everything?" asked Waitstill quaveringly.

"I don't see but you'll have to, unless your father marries again. He'll never hire help, you know that!"

"I won't have another mother in this house," flashed the girl. "There's been three here and that's enough! If he brings anybody home I'll take Patience and run away, as Job did, or if he leaves me alone I'll wash and iron and scrub and cook till Patience grows up, and then we'll go off together and hide somewhere. I'm fourteen. Oh, mother, how soon could I be married and take Patience to live with me? Do you think anybody will ever want me?"

"Don't marry for a home, Waitstill! Your own mother did that, and so did I, and we were both punished for it! You've been a great help, and I've had a sight of comfort out of the baby, but I wouldn't go through it again, not even for her! You're real smart and capable for your age, and you've done your full share of the work every day, even when you were at school. You can get along all right."

"I don't know how I'm going to do everything alone," said the girl, forcing back her tears. "You've always made the brown bread, and mine will never suit father. I suppose I can wash, but I don't know how to iron starched clothes, nor make pickles, and oh! I can never kill a rooster, mother, it's no use to ask me to! I'm not big enough to be the head of the family."

Mrs. Baxter turned her pale, tired face away from Waitstill's appealing eyes.

"I know," she said faintly. "I hate to leave you to bear the brunt alone, but I must! * * * Take good care of Patience and don't let her get into trouble. * * * You won't, will you?"

"I'll be careful," promised Waitstill, sobbing quietly. "I'll do my best."

"You've got more courage than ever I had; don't you s'pose you can stiffen up and defend yourself a little mite? Your father'd ought to be opposed, for his own good, but I've never seen anybody that dared do it." Then, after a pause, she said with a flash of spirit, "Anyhow, Waitstill, he's your father after all. He's no blood relation of mine, and I can't stand him another day; that's the reason I'm willing to die."

* * * * * * *

Ivory Boynton lifted the bars that divided his land from the highroad and walked slowly toward the house. It was April, but there were still patches of snow here and there, fast melting under a drizzling rain. It was a gray world, a bleak, black and brown world, above and below. The sky was leaden; the road and the footpath were deep in a muddy ooze flecked with white. The tree trunks, black, with bare branches, were outlined against the gray sky; nevertheless, spring had been on the way for a week, and a few sunny days would bring the yearly miracle for which all hearts were longing.

Ivory was season wise, and his quick eye had caught many a sign as he walked through the woods from his schoolhouse. A new and different color haunted the tree tops, and one had only to look closely at the elm buds to see that they were beginning to swell. Some fat robins had been bouncing about in the schoolyard at noon, and the sparrows had been chirping and twittering on the fence rails. Yes, the winter was over, and Ivory was glad, for it had meant no coasting and skating and sleighing for him, but long walks in deep snow or slush, long evenings, good for study, but short days and greater loneliness for his mother. He could see her now as he neared the house, standing in the open doorway, her hand shading her eyes, watching, always watching, for some one who never came.

"Spring is on the way, mother, but it isn't here yet, so don't stand there in the rain," he called. "Look at the nosegay I gathered for you as I came through the woods. Here are pussy willows and red maple blossoms and mayflowers, would you believe it?"

Lois Boynton took the handful of budding things and sniffed their fragrance.

"You're late tonight, Ivory," she said. "Rod wanted his supper early so that he could go off to singing school, but I kept something warm for you, and I'll make you a fresh cup of tea."

CLASSIS OF NEWARK APPROVES THE CALL

Favors Action of Netherwood Reformed Church in Selection of a Pastor.

While the call of the Netherwood Reformed church of this city, extended to the Rev. Edward S. Ralston, of Pieremont, N. Y., two weeks ago, has not been accepted as yet, the Newark Classis of the Reformed church, approved the call at the session of that body held at Montclair, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Ralston was pastor of the Second Reformed church, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., for several years, and is well known in the metropolitan district as an able preacher. The local church expects his decision on the matter within the course of a few days.

The pulpit of the Netherwood church has been vacant since the first of last September, when Rev. Royal A. Stout left the local charge to accept a call to the Green Hill Presbyterian church, of Philadelphia. Rev. C. W. F. Attlee, of this city, has been acting as stated supply of the church, and will continue in such capacity until such time as the new pastor arrives.

MRS. TOMLINSON'S BROTHER DIES IN MONTA VISTA, COL.

Word was received yesterday by Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, of East Seventh street, of the death of her brother, Henry C. Davis, of Monta Vista, Colorado, which occurred Wednesday morning. Mr. Davis was a veteran of the Civil War, having served from the beginning to the close of the war, having enlisted with the Wisconsin Thirteenth.

His service was mostly in Kansas, Tennessee and Texas. Mr. Davis was a native of Dunellen, and for a short time lived in this city, where he is survived by several relatives and friends. He was seventy-eight years of age.

SUFFRAGETTES BURN HOUSE IN LONDONDERRY

Londonderry, Ireland, April 16.—Militant suffragettes made their first onslaught on this city today, when an "arson squad" set fire to and burned to the ground a large residence. A paper bearing the words, "Fair play for women. Apply for damages to Sir Edward Carson. Stop the torture of women," was found on the premises.

POULTRY SHOW WILL BE HELD IN NEWARK

The N. J. Association for Poultry Improvement held a very interesting and profitable meeting last evening at Exempt Firemen's Hall, when they were addressed by Prof A. R. Lewis, of the New Jersey Experimental Station at New Brunswick. The lecture was one of great interest to chicken fanciers, the topic being "Growing Poultry."

During the business session, the executive board presented several recommendations, the most important of which was that the annual poultry show, which has been held in Plainfield for the past two years, will this year be held at Newark during the second week of December. This suggestion was adopted.

PARK AVENUE BAPTISTS RAISE OVER $6,000

The annual meeting of the parish of the Park Avenue Baptist church was held last night, the pastor, Rev. G. R. Maguire, presiding. The reports of the church treasurer showed that a very successful year has been experienced. The church offerings for the year amounted to $6,090.90. The disbursements, including contributions to the Y. M. C. A. and the East N. J. Baptist Association amounts to $5,863.89, leaving a cash balance of $227.01.

Five trustees were elected as follows: George E. Hall, A. D. Thompson, Sr., W. M. Maxim, E. F. Vail and Alfred Spangenberg. A budget calling for $5,000 was adopted.

PROPOSALS FOR COAL.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, N. J., at a meeting held April 1914, notice is hereby given that the Board of Education will meet on Tuesday April 21, 1914, at 8 p. m., at the Board room in the High School building corner Ninth Street and Arlington Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place the said Board of Education will receive sealed proposals for furnishing 900 tons, more or less, of the best anthracite coal for steaming and hot-air purposes; in the different sizes as follows

Pea coal	340 tons
Egg coal	150 tons
Stove coal	10 tons
Buckwheat coal	400 tons

Parties bidding will be required to specify in their bids the name of the coal and shippers of same.

All coal to be non-clinking, thoroughly screened over a seive fine enough to take out all dust and small particles of coal and to be of quality acceptable to the Board of Education or their agent.

All coal to be placed in the coal bins within the public school buildings without any extra expense to the Board for handling or trimming the coal in the bins and to be delivered at such time as the Board may direct.

Bids to specify whether long or short tons are to be delivered.

Payment by the Board after July 1 1914.

All proposals to be sealed and endorsed "Proposals for Coal," and addressed to the Clerk of the Board.

No proposals will be opened prior to 8 p. m. Tuesday, April 21, and none will be received later than that hour.

Bidders may attend at the meeting of the Board on April 21st, and submit their bids in persons, but in writing, if desired.

The Board of Education reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

MANY MEN TO AID OPEN AIR SCHOOL

Prominent Citizens on Committee to Make Benefit Circus Successful.

WOMEN ALSO ARE BUSY

Ringmaster, Clowns, Performers, Ticket Sellers and Takers All Will be Local People, with Splendid Professional Acts.

"Circus Day" for the season of 1914 is but a little over two weeks off, and the first big posters announcing the show will soon be seen about town. A big committee, consisting of the leading men of the city has been formed to help make the show to be given for the benefit of the Open Air School a rousing success and on the list are those prominent in every civic movement in the city. Doctors, lawyers, commuters, store owners, and in fact, every kind of business is represented on the membership of the committee which will take over the active work of making it a circus which will long be remembered in Plainfield.

Prominent men will sell and take tickets, act as barkers at the side show, ring masters, and do all sorts of stunts which are out of the line of their regular work. A number of young men of the city have agreed to act as clowns, and others will perform stunts in the ring which will be new to Plainfield audiences. Well-known young people will sell lemonade and peanuts, and act as ushers. In fact, the show will be a local affair in every feature except that some of the finest circus acts in the country will be presented by professionals. There will be all sorts of aerial performers, trained elephants and horses, tumblers, strobats and a score of clowns.

The men's committee will consist of Ernest R. Ackerman, Alson M. Abbott, Marion R. Ackerman, Hyman Adelberg, Geo. L. Babcock, J. Whitney Baker, F. O. Ball, Allen E. Beals, W. G. Besler, Elias H. WILL REGULATE GARBAGE DISPOSAL

Improved Service is Promised by Committee on Public Affairs.

The Councilmanic public affairs committee, to whom was referred the matter of inquiring into a system for the collection and disposal of garbage and ashes, is preparing a report which will be presented at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, Monday night Councilman Richard A. Claybrook is the chairman of this committee and both he and other members of the committee have been making a thorough investigation into the subject. The committee will hold a meeting tonight to put the finishing touches on the report to be presented the Council.

The committee would like to recommend a municipal system of collection but finds that the expense would be too great at the present time in view of the many demands made by other departments for money this year. While the idea of a municipal system will probably have to be given up this year the committee proposes to recommend a change in the present system providing rules and regulations which will greatly improve the service furnished householders.

It is the idea of the committee to establish an approved system of regulation for those now engaged in collecting and disposing ashes and garbage and it is quite likely that the city will be divided into sections for this purpose and those engaged in this work will be obliged to cover a certain territory.

Householders have frequently complained that they have experienced trouble in securing regular service that is they would engage a man to collect ashes and garbage but he would suit his own convenience about the work calling at the house if he felt like it, and in this way the service has been far from satisfactory. These reports have come to the committee.

There seems to be a belief that the city has plenty of authority to adopt rules to govern the business so that an improved service will be made possible and the committee's report aims to do that very thing.

PROCLAMATION ISSUED BY GOVERNOR

Calls a Special Session of the Senate for Next Friday, April 24.

Trenton, April 17—Governor Fielder issued a proclamation today calling a special session of the Senate to meet next Friday at noon to receive and act upon nominations for members of the new Board of Prison Inspectors, the new Prison Labor Commission and the new Board of Trustees of the State Home for Girls.

The real necessity for the special Senate session is caused by the new prison reform bills. Discussing his proclamation Governor Fielder said that the session would be confined strictly to receiving and acting upon his nominations and that no other business would be considered. "The session should be all over in one hour," said the Governor.

FIRST ANNUAL BALL ATTENDED BY MANY

Jefferson Democratic Club Entertained 600 Guests at Reception Last Night.

One of the most successful receptions ever conducted under the auspices of a local political organization in this city was held in Sebring's Auditorium, last night, by the members of the Jefferson Democratic Club, fully six hundred guests accepting the hospitality of the Plainfield politicians. The auditorium had been transformed into a scene of gayety by an enterprising committee before the guests arrived and soon after the doors were opened the two spacious dance halls on the second and third floors were packed to their capacity.

Included in the assemblage wearing guest badges that had been especially provided for the occasion, were many prominent Democrats from various parts of Union county, several coming here from Elizabeth to attend the affair. Dancing was the main feature on the program of entertainment and excellent orchestral music was furnished for twenty-four dances and encores by Holbfoerster's Tango Band, of Elizabeth.

The work of the committee in charge was the subject for much favorable comment on every hand and one of the interesting novelties provided for the guests was a uniquely arranged program. Each of the dance numbers was accompanied by a topical song hit dedicated to a prominent local politician, among which were the following:

"If I Had Someone Like You at Home," John T. Caulfield; "Twentieth Century Rag," James E. Martine; "When You Said the Rosary to Me," John J. Gaffney; "Some Baby," John P. Owens; "While They Were Dancing Around," Thomas J. Hughes; "I Miss You Most of All," Frank J. Shattle; "Rebecca of Sunybrook Farm," David L. Coleman; "Down in Chattanooga," LeRoy J. Ellis; 'The Song that Stole My Heart Away," P. J. Reville; "Do You Take This Woman for Your Lawful Wife?" Peter Flynn; "All Aboard for Dixie Land," R. A. Claybrook; "You Broke My Heart to Pass the Time Away," Alvin E. Hoagland; "You and the Moon and a Ragtime Tune,' General D. F. Collins; "Down Georgia Way," Fred Endress; "When the Maple Leaves Were Falling," W. A. Coddington; "Off with the Old Love, on with the New," John J. Kenney; "You're the Most Wonderful Girl," Miss Democracy; "My Love and the Desert and You," D. J. Courain; "At that Rubin Tango, Huskin Bee," Barton K. Davis; "Oh, Mr. Railroad Man," James E. Prindle; "If They'd Only Move Old Ireland Over Here," President Edward Strappe; "And Then," W. E. Tuttle; "Don't Stop," Mayor Percy H. Stewart, and "If I had My Way," Councilman Theodore A. Martin.

The uance committee included Richard D. Scott, chairman; Robert F. Scott, David L. Coleman, Fred Lannon, William McClinton, Michael Griffin, Elwood Groblewski, Joseph Morley, William Sutton, Caesar Groblewski, James McNeil, Joseph Smith, Frank McElhone, Patrick Driscoll, Peter McCloskey and Maurice Fitzgerald. The officers of the club are: President, Edward Strappe; firse vice-president, Patrick Culliney; second vice-president, James McNeil; financial secretary, William Sutton; recording secretary, Frank Laskoski; treasurer, Peter McCloskey; sergeant-at-arms, Fred Lanon.

During the evening Doyle and McDonough, Irish pipers, rendered a number of selections, all of which were well received. A prize waltz was participated in by twelve couples in a fifteen minute preliminary "heat," and a final "heat" was ordered and the prize awarded to Mrs. Angleman and Albert Jaeger. A gold watch, offered by the club to the young woman selling the greatest number of tickets was given to Miss Catherine McNulty, who disposed of 110, her nearest competitor having 80. The judges of the prize waltz were P. J. Reville, John T. Caulfield and Samuel Bowden, of this city; Charles Beardsley, of Fanwood, and Louis Cabby, of Elizabeth.

MAYOR MITCHELL ESCAPES BULLET

New York, April 17.—Mayor John Purroy Mitchell, of this city, escaped assassination this afternoon, when a bullet intended for him, and fired by an elderly man, just missed the executive, who was walking through Park Row accompanied by Corporation Counsel Polk and Police Commissioner Woods The mayor dodged when he saw the man raise the gun, and the bullet hit Mr. Polk in the jaw, but it was said at the hospital where the latter was taken that his wound would not prove fatal. The assailant was immediately overpowered by bystanders, and the gun taken away from him, after which he was turned over to the police, who are attempting to learn his identity. The man is thought to be mentally deranged.

MRS. W. D. MURRAY VICTIM OF A PECULIAR ACCIDENT

Mrs. William D. Murray, of West Ninth street, is confined to her home by severe burns, the result of an odd accident at the annual tea of the Y. M. C. A. Women's Auxiliary. The affair was held at the home of Mrs. M. L. Clawson, of Park avenue, and Mrs. Murray assisted in serving. While she was in the act of pouring, the bottom dropped out of the teapot, spilling the steaming contents in her lap. She was badly scalded about her limbs and suffered great pain.

Mrs. Murray was taken to her home, where she has since been under the care of a physician and nurse. No serious results are anticipated.

DEFECTIVE CHIMNEY FIRE DISCOVERED IN OLD HOUSE

Fire, started by a defective chimney in the home of Davis Stinesman, 314 Plainfield avenue, late yesterday afternoon, did damage estimated to reach $50. The blaze had evidently been smoldering for some time and broke out about 5:30 o'clock.

A call was sent in from box 81 and when the firemen arrived the fire had assumed considerable headway. The chimney is one that was constructed before Plainfield had a building ordinance and is not built down to the ground. Consequently when a fire was started in the fireplace the flames ate their way through the ceiling. The firemen confined the damage to one small spot in the ceiling.

MARSHAL POPE IS ROUNDING UP DELINQUENT TAXPAYERS

The collection of delinquent poll taxes in the borough has been given a boost since Marshal Pope was delegated to "round up" those who seem to be of the opinion that it is not necessary to pay this money into the treasury. Collector George F. Brown stated this morning that the marshal had been successful in collecting a considerable portion of the taxes that are in the delinquent class.

The officer is now taking a rest of a week to allow those who have not paid up to date to do so, ample warning having been given to them to make good their promise to settle this indebtedness to the borough. If payments are not made within the week, a fee of fifty cents for collection will be placed on the bills and the law will take its course as provided by the statutes.

EVERGREEN AVENUE PROTEST TO HAVE HEARING TUESDAY

That their protests may be given full consideration, the Board of Education has decided to invite the people who signed the petition against the Evergreen avenue school to meet with them next Tuesday night, when a special session of the school body will be held in the High School building. As has been told, a tract of land has been purchased at the corner of Edgewood and Evergreen avenues, upon which it is planned to erect a graded school to care for the children of the south end of the city. The lot was selected in place of one which had previously been purchased on Kensington avenue, and which was sold by the Board of Education a few weeks ago to a syndicate of citizens living nearby. Thirty-nine residents near the Evergreen avenue lot then protested against the school being built, and it is in response to that protest that this meeting has been called.

HAPPY PARENTS.

Mr. and Mrs. Noel G. Evans, of 816 Third place, are receiving the congratulations of their many friends in this city upon the arrival of a daughter at their home yesterday.

INFORMAL RECEPTION TENDERED BY LODGE

Elks Entertained Its Women Friends With Dance in New Club House.

Members of the Elks' lodge in this city and their friends were present at an informal reception held in the new clubhouse on Watchung avenue, last night, the affair being the first of a series of similar ones that have been arranged for the families of the members. The interior of the handsome structure was elaborately decorated with palms and cut flowers, the work being done under the direction of Charles L. Stanley and John Brower, members of the lodge.

The evening's entertainment was planned especially for the women and the attendance was made up largely of the fair sex. Elaborate refreshments were provided during the intermissions in the dancing and the entire clubhouse was turned over to the guests. Music for the dancing was furnished by VanEppa Brothers.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of the following members: H. B. MacDonald, Clarence E. Teel, William R. Townsend, George W. Pope, Dr. Charles Davis and Laurens H. VanBuren.

PLUMBERS ADJUST QUESTION OF WAGES

Conference of Union Men of Somerville and Vicinity Ends Harmoniously.

The difficulties between the master plumbers organization and their employes, of Somerville, Bound Brook and Raritan, have been adjusted and the men have all agreed to return to work. This was brought about at a meeting between representatives of the bosses and employes on Wednesday night, at which an organizer for the plumbers' union was present. The settlement was a compromise on both sides of the controversy. The employers granted half of the advance of wages demanded by the men, to take effect on July 1, and this scale is to continue until April 1, 1915, when the full demand will be granted. This contract is to continue until 1917.

The wages will be $3.75 per day until April, 1915, and after that date $4 per day. The men are also required to be at their places of work at 8 o'clock, which is a concession on their part, and was a point of difference between the employers and the men. They have been appearing at the shops at 8 o'clock and not on the job until some time later, although the time charged to the customer was from the time they left the shop. Other details were also adjusted to the mutual satisfaction of both sides.

The settlement of the strike comes at an opportune time, as work has not been very plentiful all winter, but was beginning to pick up, and a number of important contracts have been held up awaiting an outcome of the differences between the men and their employers, which in time might have threatened other trades.

FREDERICK W. GODDARD TO APPEAR IN "ARRIVAL OF KITTY"

"The Arrival of Kitty," to be presented by the Comedy Club, of Plainfield, on the evenings of April 30 and May 1, brings one actor who has many times delighted Plainfield audiences back to the amateur stage. Among the most popular figures in the Comedy Club plays of ten years or so ago was Frederick W. Goddard. He took leading parts in "His Excellency the Governor," "The Private Secretary," "A Night Off," "The Shades of Night" and others. In fact, no cast seemed complete without him, in the old days. He was at his very best in humorous parts, such as the one he now takes in 'The Arrival of Kitty." He is "Benjamin Moore," the old bachelor, who Kitty (Miss Eva Browne) was to marry according to her father's will, or lose a large bequeth. Mr. Goddard shines in this part. The management of the club is delighted at his re-appearance; and so will be some of those hundreds of Plainfield's older residents who remember his brilliant playing in the past.

—Neuman Brothers will offer a splendid line of fresh fruits and vegetables for the Sunday table at their Watchung avenue grocery tomorrow, including fresh asparagus, green and wax beans, green peas, Boston head lettuce, fancy tomatoes, new cucumbers, celery, radishes, water cress, spinach and fancy strawberries.—Adv. ***

BLAUVELT MUST SERVE THIRTY DAYS

Judge Beekman Sustains Sentence Imposed by Justice Charles Hughes.

Somerville, April 17.—Bradford Blauvelt, the seventeen-year-old Plainfield youth, who, on February 13, 1913, while driving an automobile owned by Andrew McCardell, by whom he was employed, ran into two rigs, injured four people and nearly killed a horse, will now have to serve thirty days in the county jail, Judge Daniel H. Beekman, today, sustaining the sentence of Justices Charles Hughes, before whom the young man was arraigned shortly after the accidents.

J. Henry Crane, of Plainfield, who was counsel for Blauvelt, made a strong plea in behalf of his client, but Judge Beekman thought that an example should be made of the young man. He did not think the present sentence of thirty days too severe, on account of the seriousness of the offense. Blauvelt has an excellent position in New York, where he has been employed now for some time.

Blauvelt was employed by Mr. McCardell at the time of the accidents. He had left his employer at the Waldorf Hotel on the evening of February 13, and without the latter's consent and in company with William Jones, colored, took a joy ride to Warrenville. On the return trip, Blauvelt ran the car recklessly, colliding with two rigs, in one of which was a woman and a child, both of whom were injured, and the other was occupied by Miss Carrar and Charles Drake. They were also injured as was Mr. Drake's horse.

Blauvelt was apprehended the following morning while he was on his way to the police station to give himself up. The young man was subsequently arraigned in the Union county court on a charge of taking Mr. McCardell's machine on the eventful trip without the owner's permission. Mr. Crane succeeded in securing a suspended sentence for Blauvelt at that time, and then he took an appeal from the decision of Justice Hughes, who sentenced the reckless autoist to thirty days in the county jail.

MRS. SMITH LANE DIES, AGED 74 YEARS

Well Known Resident of Dunellen Succumbs to Long Illness.

Mrs. Smith Lane, aged seventy-four years, for many years a well-known resident of Dunellen, died at 8:30 o'clock this morning at the home of John A. Kriney, 316 Evona avenue, where she had been living for the past five weeks. Death was due to pneumonia. Mrs. Lane had been in poor health since a year ago last October when she underwent an operation for a serious trouble.

For a time prior to January 1 last, Mrs. Lane lived with the late Mrs. Lawrence Saunders at Dunellen, and following the latter's death she made her home for a month with Mrs. James Touzeaux, on Front street, Dunellen. She then underwent treatment at Muhlenberg Hospital for three weeks, after which she went to Mr. Kriney's home.

Mrs. Lane divided up most of her time for seven years prior to her last illness with relatives in Dunellen, Red Bank and Brooklyn. She lived at Dunellen for twenty-three years, it being at that place that her husband died on August 5, 1894. Mr. Lane was widely known throughout the State. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. George VanNest, of Mariners place, and a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Isaac Lane, of Red Bank.

The funeral will be held at the home of Mr. Kriney, Monday afternoon, the hour to be announced later. Rev. E. R. Brown, of the Dunellen Presbyterian church, will officiate and the burial will be in Hillside cemetery, this city.

"Brewster's Millions," with Edward Abeles in the original role of Monte Brewster, and supported by the same star cast that helped to make this play a hit on Broadway, will be presented in motion pictures at Proctor's today and tomorrow. The pictorial version of this laughing success is in five reels and the scenes are about the most elaborate ever shown on the screen. Other features today will include "Memories That Haunt," introducing a shipwreck. "In Remembrance," Edison's newest comedy, "A Night Out" will be among the other features for tomorrow.

Belief that Present License Cannot be Renewed—Councilmanic Committee Meets Tonight to Consider the Matter—Opposition Expected.

Councilman Charles C. Graves, chairman of the license committee, has arranged a meeting of his committee for tonight for the purpose of taking some action regarding the license which was formerly held by the late John C. Clark, who conducted a saloon at Liberty and West Third streets. This place being outside of the Tyler saloon "zone," according to the provisions of the ordinance, when the proprietor of a licensed place dies the license cannot be continued at the same place.

It is understood that efforts will be made to have the administrator or executor of the Clark estate continue the saloon business for the rest of the year, and it is said that a petition to that effect will be presented to the license committee by William Newcorn, who is the attorney for the estate.

There seems to be no doubt in the minds of those who have looked into the matter as to the purpose and intent of the ordinance and especially that feature about saloons conducted outside of the "zone" district, but it is admitted that there are members of the Council who do not favor that provision of the ordinance. In fact, one member said today, that he thought it would be a mistake to "cut out" the Clark saloon for the reason that it has been established there so long and seems to serve a particular class of people.

While the question as to whether the saloon or the Mt. Olive Baptist church was the first to be located at that point is a mooted one, the church people claim to have statistics to prove that the church was there ahead of the saloon and in consequence under the ordinance the saloon could not legally be licensed so near to that house of worship.

Two years ago at a mass meeting held in the Plainfield High School, Reuben Knox, representing the Mt. Olive Baptist church, made a strong protest against renewing the Clark license, and went so far as to appear previously before the license committee and present statistics and evidence to show that it would be prejudicial to the best interests of the neighborhood, as well as the church to have the saloon continued at that point.

There are others who claim that it would not be fair for the Clark estate to lose a part of the license fee of $1,200 paid at the first of the year and they believe that some arrangement should be made to continue the place or else reimburse the estate accordingly. The license committee will consider the matter thoroughly tonight, so that it will be able to take some action at the adjourned session of the Council, Monday night It is expected that the Council will be guided entirely by the advice of Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed, who has already been consulted on the subject, and who, it is said, has given the license committee his interpretation of the ordinance.

ADMITS SERVING BEER; GETS OFF WITH WARNING

Walter Watercamp, who was arrested on Sunday evening last by Marshal H. C. Smith on the charge of treating some parties from Westfield with beer in his lunch wagon on North avenue, Dunellen, was tried before Judge Rene P. von Minden in the borough hall, Dunellen, this morning. Watercamp admitted treating the parties from Westfield, whom he claimed to be intimate friends, with beer and in explaining his act he said that he thought he had as much right to do that as one would have in treating a friend in his own home.

In citing the New Jersey liquor statutes, Judge von Minden said that while it was true that one had a perfect right to treat a friend to beer, wine or any other liquor at will it was, however, a criminal offense to treat promiscuously in a public place. In addressing the defendant the judge said, "while you have come very close to the line in this case I am going to give you the benefit of the doubt and let you off with a warning."

EASTER SERVICES.

The Easter services of the Bible School of the Park Avenue Baptist church, postponed from last week, will be held Sunday night, at the conclusion of wich Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire will baptize several candidates. He will preach in the morning on the topic of "Faith."

Dunellen & Vicinity

Contractors Russell and Hill were busily engaged yesterday afternoon and this morning with a team of horses in uprooting two maple trees, which were standing on ground upon which the addition to the Lincoln School is to be erected. After the trees were uprooted they were transplanted just within the westerly property line of the school grounds.

Miss Matilda Muller, of Lincoln avenue, has been entertaining Miss Louise Kern, of Bayonne, since Easter.

Miss Edna Jennings, of Front street, spent yesterday with her sister, Mrs. Joel D. DeGroff, of Westfield.

Mrs. Frances Harrison and daughter, Gladys, have returned from a lengthy visit with Mr. and Mrs. John Silvers, at East Annandale.

Joseph Vroom and family were moved, yesterday, by Isaac V. Smalley from the Harry Giddes house on Dunellen avenue, to Bound Brook.

Philip and William Thompson, of Prospect avenue, are spending their Easter vacation with relatives in Upper New York State.

William Van Pelt and family were moved yesterday, by Charles DeHart, Jr., from the Brokaw farm on Greenbrook road to the David T. King house, on North avenue, recently vacated by H. C. Smith.

Arthur O'Leary, of Whittier avenue, returned yesterday from a visit since Friday of last week, with his aunts, the Misses Carberry, at Greenpoint, L. I.

Tonight is amateur night in the local theatre.

Mrs. Smith Lane, a former resident of this place, is critically ill with pneumonia at the home of Mrs. W. R. Kriney, of Clinton avenue, Plainfield.

Miss Lizzie Schneiderwind, of Prospect avenue, has accepted a position in the motion picture factory of Pathe Freres at Bound Brook.

Constable C. Wesley Blaine was in New Brunswick, yesterday, attending to court duties.

Miss Carrie Hill has moved from the house on Front street, occupied by her for sometime, to the flat over the new store of Louis Feldman.

Contractor J. F. G. Kinney is busily engaged in redecorating the interior of the Methodist parsonage.

Miss Mayola Smalley, who has been ill for sometime past with typhoid fever, had two hemorrhages yesterday, and her present condition is alarming.

Miss Bessie Longbothum and Miss Rebecca Jones, of Fort Salonger, L. I., who have been visiting their respective brother and cousin, Dr. J. T. Longbothum, during the past two weeks, have returned home.

Lawrence O'Leary, of Whittier avenue, who had his ankle broken by a fall on a slippery pavement two months ago, was taken to the Muhlenberg Hospital in a taxi yesterday, and had the casting removed from the fracture. Mr. O'Leary will, however, hardly be able to return to his duties as foreman at the structural plant of the Levering & Garrigues Co. before the expiration of another month.

Miss Helen Shively, daughter of Councilman and Mrs. William Shively, who has been confined to her bed for the past two weeks, suffering with a severe attack of quinsy sore throat and tonsilitis, was able to be up and about her home for the first time yesterday.

Barney Hagan, the genial and popular gate-tender at the Washington avenue crossing of the Central Railroad, was obliged to leave his post on account of illness at noon yesterday.

The first evening of the Junior fair, which is being held in the Junior Hall under the auspices of the William G. Holton Council, proved a big success. The old fashioned New England supper which had been so widely advertised, attracted a large crowd of hungry boroughites and resulted in the serving of over 100 suppers and the avidity with which the various plates were cleared bespoke volumes for the tastiness of the spread. The upper floor of the hall had been prepared for dancing, being handsomely decorated with festoons of red, white and blue bunting and on the further side of the hall a well stocked booth of articles, contributed by local and outside merchants, offered an excellent opportunity for persons seeking bargains on fancy goods and other lines. The booth was in charge of Mrs. Fred Vail. The dancing attracted a large crowd of young folks, who glided over the floor until a late hour to the tune of dreamy and charming music by Naylor's orchestra. The fair is to be held both tonight and tomorrow evening. There will be dancing on both of these evenings and the well stocked booth will continue to hold out its many inducements for purchasers. Chairman O. M. Weber, Edward Herlich and Albert Garry, of the committee on arrangements, deserve great credit for the manner in which the fair is being conducted.

Beginning on Tuesday a new schedule of hours was introduced for all grades below the sixth. This is made necessary by the remodelling of Lincoln School, and the transfer of three grades to Whittier, where three class rooms are being used by six classes. The schedule is as follows, assuming A and B to represent any two different classes: 8:30-10:30, Class A; 10:30-12:30, Class B; 12:30-2:30, Class A; 2:30-4:30, Class B. The same arrangement prevails with two classes remaining in Lincoln School, now using one room. Explaining the change Superintendent G. H. Rentschler says:

"This schedule has caused some protest from parents for which reason I wish to state the motives that prompted its recommendation.

"The school law of the State requires a pupil to do four hours of actual school work in order that such may be counted a full day in apportioning school money. The only other schedule that would comply with the law is one continuous session of four hours in the morning for one class, and the same in the afternoon for another class. This was the schedule formerly used in Lincoln School with two classes. The objection found is that four hours is too long a period for children from five to twelve years of age to remain at continuous mental work, without a break in excess of the usual recess.

"Modern school systems are being so regulated as to permit school work to be done under conditions that are consistent with recognized laws of healthful living. Dividing the four hours into two sessions of two hours each, with an intermission of two hours during which the children go home, provides time for the children's instruction under conditions subject to much less strain and fatigue. This is the real motive that prompted my recommendation of the two hour plan to the Board of Education, which was adopted by the Board on those considerations. I consulted with several superintendents of large systems who told me their experience with four-hour sessions had likewise been unsatisfactory for the above reasons, and had caused them to adopt the two-hour plan.

"It was not overlooked that some inconvenience would be caused in the homes at the noon hour. We are all working under extra difficulties at present. Discontinuing the use of one building and transferring these children to another subjects us all to inconvenience, and it is hoped the parents will share some of this in order to be co-operative for the remaining two months of this school year. Of course were the children here for one four-hour session the matter would be over with for the day; but this is hardly true educational spirit.

"In Plainfield the children attending the Irving, Bryant, Franklin and Lincoln Schools are on part time and the schedule of hours is exactly the same as the one we have adopted the two-hour plan. Superintendent Maxson, of that city, told me that in his judgment the two-hour plan was far superior to the four-hour schedule for the health of the children and efficient school work. He knew the schedule to be used in some of the schools in New York city where part time work is done continually. So the plan is not an untried arrangement.

"It is hoped the parents will not criticize us hastily in this matter. Consider the motives are entirely in the interest of the best educational conditions for the children. The schedule is new only in Dunellen. If you will assist us it is believed the arrangement will adjust itself to better satisfaction as we progress."

Somerville

At a meeting of the Somerset county Board of Freeholders, yesterday morning, at Somerville, bids were received for the improvement of the road leading from Finderne to the Johns-Manville plant in Hillsborough township. The improvement includes an extension to the present Raritan river bridge of a concrete arch roadway thirty feet in width and three hundred feet in length, which will extend across the lowlands. An unusual number of contractors were present at the meeting, and lively interest was manifested in the bids, which ranged from $28,973.23 to $42,492.87. The contract was awarded to Schneider, Stelle & Company, of New Brunswick, the lowest bidders.

Among real estate changes recently made are the following: Mrs. Annie E. Doty has sold her house and lot on Second street to D. N. Messler; Den. Cieri has purchased a property on Second street, and he will make extensive improvements to the same; L. Sacks has sold his house and lot on Hamilton street to Emile Robiole, of Hoboken, who formerly resided on North Gaston avenue, and he will reside there after making some improvements to his new purchase.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hunter and daughter, Marion, have returned from visiting their son, Frederick Hunter, of Newark.

The members of the Fanwood Fire Company will meet in the firehouse Tuesday for the regular monthly meeting.

The likelihood of building a school in the township near the Westfield line has led to some investigation as to the children living in the "Big Woods" section who will attend the school. It has resulted in showing conditions that closely resemble the mountainous regions of West Virginia and Tennessee. The colored and whites live together, sometimes even in the same little shanty. Pigs, chickens and other live stock are kept among the people with absolutely no regard to health conditions. It is a common sight to see grown people, and even children, of that section crippled with rheumatism so that they cannot walk. They seldom leave the shelter of the woods, in fact, it is said that at times men wanted for breaking the law are in various ways conceal themselves in the swamps with which that part of the county abound and from which they have never been taken. Intrusion by outsiders does not seem to be looked upon with favor by these people. The "Big Woods" covers an area of about ten miles, parts of it being in Fanwood township, Westfield township and New Providence township.

Warrenville.

A meeting of the voters of Warren township was held at Fairview Hall, Tuesday afternoon, to discuss the advisability of purchasing a portable stone crusher for use in improving the roads. Judge Andrew Hay acted as chairman, and Joel Codington as secretary. The representative of the Acme roadbuilder was heard as to the economy of townships owning their own crusher and following his talk a general discussion was held It was unanimously decided to endorse the contemplated purchase of a machine of this kind by the Township Committee.

W. Channing Peck, photographer, of Plainfield, took a picture of the school yesterday. Forty-six out of a possible forty-six pupils were present.

BIBLICAL PICTURE ATTRACTS MANY TO Y. M. C. A. HALL

The Biblical motion picture masterpiece, "From the Manger to the Cross," was shown yesterday for the first time in this city, at the Y. M. C. A. Those who saw it agreed that it is a most impressive portrayal of the earthly life of Christ. Made entirely in the authentic location in Palestine and embodying the very latest development in animated photography, the picture affords a very effective means of religious education.

It is a picture that should be seen by great numbers of Sunday-school teachers as well as Sunday-school children. Exhibitions of this picture will be given today and tomorrow afternoon and evening, afternoons 2 and 4 o'clock; evenings at 7 and 9 o'clock.

SUFFRAGISTS TAKE STEPS TO PREVENT ANY "FLUKE"

Trenton, April 17—There will be no repitition this year of the fluke which last year interfered with the proper publication of the woman suffrage resolution, and, thereby, delayed action on the question for a year. Last years failure was due to the fact that the resolution was not filed with the Secretary of State after its passage.

All three of the concurrent resolutions passed this year, providing for amendments to the Constitution, have already been filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and the proper record of them made there. The resolutions provide for giving women the ballot; for the election of Assemblymen by districts, and for proposing amendments to the Constitution every year, if desired, instead of only once every five years, as the Constitution now provides.

KING'S DAUGHTERS' SALE.

The Charity Circle of King's Daughters will hold a sale of a great variety of novel and unusual household utensils at the home of Mrs. John Peters Stevens 985 Hillside avenue on Monday afternoon, April 26, from 3 to 6. A silver offering will be received at the door. This circle has a membership of forty active, thirteen associate and two honorary members.

THE TANGO.

Tango parties have taken the country by storm. Everywhere by everybody is this dance now attempted. The dancing pump was dressy; it was also light, and, therefore, not tiresome to the feet, and so the most practical dancing shoe. Now this dancing pump was found to be very slippery on highly polished dance floors and so was practically worthless in dancing the tango. However, the PACKARD people have overcome this feature by equipping the soles of the

Packard

with 3 rubber discs, thus eliminating the slipping, but still maintaining the light dressy evening pump for dancing.

WIRELESS SYSTEM OF TELEGRAPHY INSTALLED ON MOVING TRAINS

Will Make Railroad Travel Safer In Future.

Experiments In Sending of Messages Very Successful.

WIRELESS telegraphy for the moving train promises to make railroad travel safer in the future. The beginning of this service was started but the other day on the Buffalo limited of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad.

There are plenty of examples of what the wireless has done for ocean going shipping in the way of spreading news, in giving helpful warnings and in calling succor from afar to injured ships. Its application to railroading will be for a somewhat different purpose.

The block signal system now commonly adopted in combination with track contacts has done wonders in reducing the risk of accidents. The towermen are stationed every few miles, and unless something goes wrong inside the block the train must clear each zone within a certain time. When it does not do so the watchman at the far end of the block knows that something is amiss. But what? The answer may be one of a score of things, and the towermen are necessarily ignorant until some one from the block ahead brings the news. Then, and only then, the railroad people at distant points can be reached by telegraph and the proper steps taken to meet the emergency.

The train, in carrying the message to the block tower, may have to cover a distance of a couple of miles. This is not so bad in daylight and in good weather, but what of the situation when there is a driving snowstorm or ice covers the ground? To reach the tower to call for assistance then becomes a desperately long struggle and the cause of delay that may imperil many lives.

Again, it happens every now and then that an engineer fails to see cautionary signals which should make him slacken speed or bring his train to a standstill. The result may be a collision, with loss of life.

It will therefore be seen how desirable it is that each train should have its own means of creating about it a cautionary zone quite independently of the fixed track and block signals, this zone to be communicable to other trains directly, in this fashion producing a safety system within a safety system and one that would be immediately available at every point along the line.

This is not in theory a novelty, but practical accomplishment has had to contend with many obstacles. Something akin to this was evolved years ago in the form of a signal telegraph which made use of track contacts at frequent points or of magnetic impulses aroused at stated intervals, but the arch enemy was the weather and especially snow and ice. The apparatus worked well experimentally until these foes to efficiency intervened, and then the whole technically beautiful installation failed to operate. Wireless telegraphy promises to do the needed work.

Wireless telegraphy, as every one knows, usually calls for tall masts or towers from which the aerials or antennae can be spread, and this element of height and length of dispatches and intercepting filaments influences directly the efficiency of the apparatus, both in creating Hertzian waves and in being sensitive to the ether vibrations having their source elsewhere. How, then, were these requirements to be met upon a swiftly moving train?

As a matter of fact, the clearance between the roofs of the coaches and the tops of the bridges and tunnels is a matter of only a few inches. Would aerials as low as this answer? Only experimenting would solve the question and the electrical experts set about doing it in this way:

A single line of wire arranged like a rectangle is strung from four low stanchions placed at each corner of the car ends, actually below the crest of the roof. By doing this upon four cars, giving a total length of aerials of something like 550 feet, an arrangement has been reached which works admirably and incidentally subscribes to the physical limitations of height imposed by structures along the roadway.

But, while this placing of the wires sufficed when running over open country, there was still a doubt about what would happen when the train skirted along winding valleys, with mountains bestrewn in the view and seemingly offering an obstacle to the sending and the receiving of wireless impulses. It is along parts of the road of this character that the wireless telegraph would be of the greatest service, because the sinuous path of the track makes it impossible for the towerman to see trains for more than a short distance and block signals worked by track contacts are similarly obscured by bends in the route. Would the wireless waves rise out of the depth of the valleys and get beyond to receiving stations, or would the vibrations started from distant points get over the mountains and down into the winding passes?

In anticipation of probable difficulties in this department of the work the Lackawanna railroad erected at Scranton and at Binghamton tall wireless towers, and these were expected to offset the lowness of the aerials upon the train. Whether these tall towers are actually necessary for the immediate work cut out for them is not of present concern, they may be a necessary part of the system when ultimately elaborated. For so far as we know it has developed the messages leaving the moving train are unquestionably able to get past intervening mountains and to climb from the meandering valleys and find their way to the antennae of the towers at Scranton and Binghamton.

According to the experts, the Hertzian waves don't do this by climbing the hills, but by actually going through them. This is because the earth is a great magnet, and the wireless waves virtually wade along, partly through the ground and partly through the air.

The Marconi outfit has been especially developed for railroad service. Space and weight had to be drawn upon economically, and the whole system is just about one-quarter the size of an ordinary installation. This naturally has imposed refinements and made it necessary to take great care in offsetting the jarring vibrations of a speeding train. Again the electrical engineers have done well, because even upon the first run the apparatus functioned encouragingly.

Of course there are yet obstacles to be surmounted, because there are refinements of adjustment that radically affect perfect working. The principal one of these has been that of regulating the wave lengths and in setting the insciliation upon the moving train tuned to the distant stations.

The wave lengths generated by the train equipment are about 300 meters long, or in the neighborhood of half a mile, and these have permitted of the maintenance of wireless communication for a distance just short of thirty five miles. So far the operator aboard the train has been more successful in dispatching than in receiving messages, and the immediate efforts will be directed toward putting him upon an equality with his fellows at the fixed stations.

Upon the trial run the conductor of the Buffalo limited was taken ill, and when thirty odd miles from Scranton a wireless call was dispatched for a relief conductor. The substitute was on hand when the train pulled into that station.

Again, there were more passengers than seats, and in the same way an extra coach was ordered and made ready by the time the limited pulled into Binghamton. Upon a later run news items were received aboard the train and bulletins posted from time to time for the edification of the passengers. In time it will be possible, it is believed, for passengers to send and receive messages at any moment of the day or night while the trains are speeding along at their highest rate.

SCORPION STINGS.

They Kill Thousands of Persons Yearly In Mexico.

QUICK WORK OF THE POISON.

The Venom of the Deadly Species, Unless Prompt Treatment Follows the Bite, Will End the Life of the Victim In Twelve or Fourteen Hours.

Four thousand persons are reported to die each year in Mexico from the stings of scorpions.

There are several varieties of scorpions in Mexico, some of them exceedingly venomous and others little feared. In the neighborhood of Tepic the virulent Centuris gracilis abounds, but it is little known about the more northern state of Sonora. It is one of the most venomous creatures in the world.

In the small city of Durango scorpions are perhaps more plentiful and more dangerous than anywhere else in the republic. Here the climate is humid and torrid—it is in the "tierra caliente"—and it is estimated that more than 150,000 scorpions are killed each year, with no appreciable effect on their numbers.

A scorpion resembles a diminutive lobster. Some specimens are eight inches long, though the average length is from two to four inches. The claws closely resemble a lobster's; with them the scorpion crushes its prey after disabling it by means of a sting.

The body of a scorpion consists of several segmented joints, the last five or more narrowing down to form the tail, which curls up forward over the body and terminates in the sting. This businesslike appendage is a horny, sharp spine containing two little openings which connect with the venom gland within the shell of the last segment. In striking the scorpion gives the tail a rapid lashing motion forward in advance of the body and literally administers a hypodermic injection of poison, or rather several injections, for it usually stings repeatedly when it does strike.

In color scorpions vary according to environment. One ordinarily colorless or translucent will assume a brown or blackish shade in dark surroundings. Scorpions live in the cracks of the sun baked clay, under stones, in the chinks of the adobe huts and in the cracks in the plaster of old frame houses. They prey upon spiders and other night marauding insects. A spider stung by a scorpion may be observed undergoing convulsions before death just as animals or human beings do.

Unless sleeping cots are well screened and the supports immersed in cans of kerosene or carbolic acid—water evaporates too rapidly—the prowling scorpion may find its way beneath the bed covers and sting the restless child. By nature it is a nocturnal pest. In Mexico every one takes a peep in the toe of his shoe before dressing in the morning to assure himself that no undesirable citizen is hiding there.

Contrary to common belief scorpions never commit suicide by stinging themselves to death—at least not in Mexico. In fact, they seem immune to their own venom. Two well matched specimens will battle to death if confined in a jar, stinging each other repeatedly, yet the victor does not die. He tears his antagonist into small pieces with his claws and voraciously devours every trace of the vanquished foe. And the cannibal thrives on the diet.

Some scorpion bites cause little more than burning pain and numbness in the part affected for a few days. But the more poisonous varieties cause death, and that speedily, especially when they sting young children or debilitated old people. The lower classes of people suffer more than the well to do because of their custom of going about half naked most of the time.

In serious cases the local numbness and pain or burning extend over the body in a few hours. Then follows a feeling as of a ball in the throat, the victim clutching his throat as though choking on a foreign body. Prompt treatment at this stage will usually save life.

If not treated the mouth soon begins to froth and the eyes become reddened and hypersensitive to light. Within an hour or two the breathing grows shorter and more difficult, the body turns blue, the pulse fails and convulsions set in. The convulsions recur frequently during several hours, but complete relaxation usually ushers in the end.

Fortunately unconsciousness develops early, so that the victim does not suffer the tortures of one dying from lockjaw. The average time required for a scorpion sting to cause death is twelve or fourteen hours.

The treatment of scorpion sting consists of a free incision of the part to promote copious bleeding, then vigorous massage toward the bleeding center for half an hour or more. Stimulants—meaning drugs and not that pseudo stimulant, alcohol—are also necessary.

In villages where physicians are wanting the treatment is applied by "practicantes"—ignorant, self constituted healers, and many a peon carries horrible scars from the practicante's crude surgery. Their reckless use of carbolic acid, iodine and similar poisons also accounts for many otherwise avoidable fatalities among victims of scorpion stings.—New York Sun.

Difficulties may surround our path, but if the difficulties be not in ourselves they may generally be overcome.—Jowett.

A WROD FROM NEW BRUNSWICK

When J. David Stern retired this week as editor and owner of the New Brunswick Times, his "swan song" in part was as follows:

All my entire criticism may be summed up in a sentence—the people of New Brunswick do not appreciate their own city!

When I came here it was the native New Brunswickers who took occasion to tell me how backward the city was, how hard it would be for a stranger to succeed in it; how unappreciative I would find the people.

I found that just the opposite was the case. This is a great little city. It welcomes strangers, appreciates enterprise, and its business men are open minded in their attitude towards any new project. I am speaking with experience of many years spent at newspaper work in the cities of the Pacific Coast, as well as the East.

I think the fact that the people of New Brunswick do not appreciate their own city is its worst handicap. What the reason for this lack of appreciation is I cannot say. Perhaps it is that you are so near New York. But I think the correct explanation of it may be that some of you have contracted a bad habit.

Down in the bottom of your hearts you love your city, and you have more than a fair share of public-spirited citizens.

It is just a bad habit which makes so many of you talk about your city as though its future was not as bright and rosy as that of any city of its size in the United States. You remind of the parents who are blessed with beautiful children, and yet make it a practice to talk disparagingly of these children whenever a stranger praises them. After a while the children begin to lose confidence in themselves. They heard their own parents telling strangers that they are not as bright as other children.

How true everything Mr. Stern says is of many people in Plainfield. There are hundreds of men and women in this city who continually find something to knock about, who are always telling what should be done to "make Plainfield what it ought to be," and who never seem to think of the benefits to be derived from a residence in this, the finest, most orderly and cleanest city in the State of New Jersey, morally, physically and in every other way. Where are there better schools, finer homes, pleasanter surroundings of all sorts, more congenial neighbors, better health conditions and a thousand and one other things, than those found in the Queen City? Using "Plainfield" wherever Mr. Stern says "New Brunswick" hits the local situation exactly. The retiring New Brunswick editor tells just what is the trouble with the people of nearly every city and town in the vicinity of New York.

An appeal is being made for the Open Air School on Muhlenberg place, in a manner unique to Plainfield. Every person in the city who wishes to do so can aid in the movement to help along the work, and at the same time get full value for the money given. Arrrangements have been made, as has been told in the news columns, for the performance of one of the best known circuses in the country, at which the receipts will be shared for the work of the school. Tickets are being sold by the public spirited women who form the school committee, and there has been no advance in the price which admits to everything which it has admitted to before. The Robbins circus has been in Plainfield many times, and has always left with the good wishes of those who have patronized it. Our people can be amused at the same time that they help a worthy charity, and without the feeling that they have been "held up."

Mayor Robert Clark, of the borough, says that he is not a candidate for Congress and had no thought of it until he read about it in a local paper. There are some people in the Fourth district who are seeking the nomination on the Republican ticket who have not the ability of the borough mayor, and who would not be nearly so good a representative. If more men like Mayor Clark were candidates for the big places, there would be more men of ability occupying the jobs, for the people see to it that men of his calibre are elected when the chance is given to vote for them.

The contributing editor for tomorrow will be Major W. D. W. Miller, a veteran of the Civil War, who will tell a bit of history that will prove interesting to all.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Dr. Frank W. French, of this city, will address the members in the Association parlors tonight on "The care of teeth."

Tomorrow afternoon the Camp Fire girls of the Y. W. C. A. will hold a picnic in the mountains.

Saturday night the members of the Association have been granted the use of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium where they will rehearse their drills to be given in connection with the New York meet next week.

Miss Jessie Munger will speak to the members at the weekly Sunday afternoon meeting. Next Thursday night the members of the Association having birthdays in March and April will be entertained at a party. Following this event the members will hold a costume party.

HAND AND MOUTH.

Tests Two Managers Used to Get the Right Kind of Employees.

"How do you pick out your stenographers? By their clothes or for their looks?" asked the sales manager of the correspondence man.

"By neither. Just by their hands. I look at those much more carefully than I do at their faces. A combination of rings and ink stains, or rings and carelessly kept nails, means that the girl cannot have the job.

"It is simple enough when you come to think of it. The girl who takes pains to keep her hands immaculate and her nails trimmed will turn out letters that are just as carefully neat. If she has a white, clean, well kept hand she will be a good employee, and you are welcome to the information. It took me some years to discover it for myself. How do you pick out your salesmen?"

"Not by their hands," laughed the sales manager, "but by another physical characteristic. I pick them out by their mouths.

"Every man who applies has recommendations. I never read them. If a man's jaws close with a snap when he talks that man has opinions that are strong and can put up a good argument. He will put up a good argument with our customers and a convincing one.

"On the other hand, if he closes his mouth loosely or his jaws wabble when he finishes a sentence he will put up a lame and uncertain line of argument with an obstinate customer, and obstinate customers are the ones we are after. Take a look at the jaws of the men who have been great vote getters and politicians, and you will see what I mean. It's a simple thing after all, isn't it?"—New York Sun.

A Fable, Partly.

A fox met a monkey. "Why is it," said the fox, "that human beings like you and don't like me? We are both thieves by nature—and yet they hunt me with dogs, but make a pet of you."

"The answer is easy," answered the monkey. "True, we are both thieves, and you are wiser than I am, but I make 'em laugh, and they don't care whether I steal or not, and they don't care whether I am a fool or not."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Inside Information.

SENATOR PIERCE TO SPEAK AT CIVIC ASSOCIATION DINNER

Members of the West End Civic Association are looking forward to their first dinner, which will be held next Tuesday night at the Waldorf Hotel. Senator Carlton B. Pierce has been secured as the principal speaker, and he will talk on taxation, telling about the new bank tax law which was passed at the recent session of the Legislature. Mayor Percy H. Stewart, of Plainfield and Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of North Plainfield, will also make addresses, and former Mayor William L. Saunders, whose skill and wit at a toastmaster are well known will occupy the center seat at the head of the table. The dinner promises to be one of the pleasantest affairs of the present season, as the committee, headed by Barton K. Davis, is sparing no efforts to make it a success.

MISS WICHT SURPRISED.

A surprise party was tendered Miss Sophie Wicht, of West Front street, last night, in honor of her birthday. About twenty friends from this city and Elizabeth were present. Games and dancing occupied the major portion of the evening, while humorous stories told by Rudolph Heinold filled a prominent part in the evening's enjoyment. Miss Elizabeth Egan presided at the piano during the dances.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING.

The Parents-Teacher Association of the Plainfield High School will meet next Tuesday evening in annual session. The discussion of the evening will be on the new and modified courses of study in the High School being planned for next year. Lindsey Best, principal of the High School, will be the speaker of the occasion. This meeting is of special importance in planning pupils' courses for next year.

L. A. UNDERWOOD INJURED.

Lewis A. Underwood, of Netherwood, who is employed at the Vitaphone Company, was injured at that plant yesterday afternoon, his arm being slightly crushed. Mr. Underwood was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital. After having the wounds dressed, he was discharged from the institution, to report from time to time for further treatment.

"FARMERS' HOME" DANCE.

A hundred and fifty young people dressed up in farmers' costume attended the "Farmers' Home" dance last evening, at Debele's Auditorium. The decorations of the hall were arranged by Daniel McCormack and "Doc" Doyle, who were in charge of the event. Refreshments were served. Dunn's orchestra, of Jersey City, furnished the music of the evening.

CARNIVAL OF FLOWERS.

Fifty-five children will present a concert under the title, "Carnival of Flowers," at Hope chapel, under the auspices of the Girls' Monday Club. The costumes for the occasion have been carefully prepared by the members of the organization. It will take place Monday night.

MUSICAL SERVICE.

At Trinity Reformed church next Sunday evening, the choir will repeat the Easter Sunday morning service entire, including the celebrated Easter cantata entitled "Death and Life," by Harry Rowe Shelley. The choir will be assisted by Mrs. Nelson A. Miller, pianist.

SENATOR LODGE.

Declares a Return Salute to Huerta Is Ridiculous.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, one of the leading international experts in congress, declared that for this government to return the proposed salute of Huerta would be ridiculous and would amount to a recognition of the Huerta government. "A salute to the flag is symbolical," said Senator Lodge. "A government cannot apologize as an individual can, and this is the form of apology by a government which is accepted in international law. The moment we return the salute it becomes only an exchange of courtesies. If we return the proposed salute of Huerta to our flag we will simply make ourselves ridiculous; in any case, we would recognize his government. I cannot conceive of the government doing it."

ILLNESS OF ASTOR POSTPONES WEDDING

Indefinite Change of Date From April 30.

Staatsburg, N. Y., April 17.—Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Huntington announced that the wedding of their daughter, Miss Helen Dinsmore Huntington, and Vincent Astor would be postponed indefinitely. No invitations will be sent out until after Mr. Astor, who is at the Huntington home, has fully recovered from his illness. The wedding had been set for April 30.

The physicians attending Mr. Astor announced that they believed he had passed the crisis. He is still very ill, however, and every precaution is being taken to prevent complications. Dr. Herridan of Staatsburg continues to spend each night at the bedside.

The engagement of Mr. Astor and Miss Huntington was announced on Nov. 8 last. It was one of the most notable in years and was of wide interest in Europe and this country. Mr. Astor's engagement had often been reported and as often denied previous to that time.

Hopeland House, the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Huntington, adjoins that which Mr. Astor inherited from his father, Colonel John Jacob Astor, who perished two years ago Wednesday in the Titanic wreck. He and Miss Huntington have known each other since childhood. Miss Huntington was introduced to New York society about two years ago. She is twenty years old. Mr. Astor is in his twenty-third year.

NEW JERSEY CONFERENCE OF SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTISTS

The New Jersey Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists will be well represented at the biennial session of the Columbia Union Conference of that denomination, which will be held in Baltimore, Maryland, April 28 to May 10. Elder A. R. Sandborn, of Trenton, president of the conference, will head the New Jersey delegation which will be composed of practically all of the clergymen and Bible teachers in its employ.

Among others who will attend from this State are J. F. Gerhardt, G. W. Spies, M. C. Whitemarsh, J. O. Miller, W. C. Moffett, G. A. Sandborn, Paul Matula, A. O. Lundard, O. Rounning and others. Among the cities that will be represented are: Trenton, Hasbrouck Heights, Bridgeton, Camden, Newark, Jersey City, Atlantic City, Paterson, and other places.

MINSTREL REHEARSAL.

There will be a rehearsal for the Elks' minstrels at the clubhouse on Watchung avenue tonight. A full attendance of the members is desired.

WILL HOLD A HARVEST HOME FESTIVAL AT WATCHUNG

Preparations for the annual harvest home festival at Watchung to be held late in August, were made last night, when the Watchung Harvest Home committee held the first meeting of the season. The affair will be held under the joint auspices of the Watchung Chemical Engine Company and the North Plainfield Township Improvement Society.

It is possible that the committee will vary from their previous policy this year and accept exhibits from Warren Township. These festivals have been most unique in their line, combining nature's most perfect and numerous educational features.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE.

An illustrated lecture will be delivered at the Washington School before the Dunbar Social Club this evening. Mlle. Dutoit will be the speaker, and will be assisted by John Tarrmann, using about one hundred and fifty slides, showing those who played prominent parts in the history of the European Republic, as well as the interesting historical spots of the country.

PICTURES FAITHFULLY PORTRAY GREAT STORY

Plainfielders Will Recall Clever Adaptation Given by Comedy Club.

The motion picture which the Plainfield Wellesley College Club will present at the Plainfield Theatre, Friday and Saturday, April 24-25, contains one of the most famous scenes in literature. Jean Valjean, the well-known hero of Hugo's "Les Miserables," escaped from prison, must beg from house to house. He is taken in by the kind-hearted parish priest, Myriel. Hardened by the indierence of the world towards him, Jean in an evil moment yields to temptation, robs his benefactor of some silverware and departs.

Two gendarmes meet him and take him back to the parsonage before the good father. To the great surprise of Jean the priest tells the police that he gave Jean the candlesticks and bids them go. The action of the priest touches Valjean to the heart and he repents bitterly of his wrongful act.

Many Plainfielders well remember with pleasure the adaptation of this story as given by the members of the Park Comedy Club, last December. Henry Crofut White as the bishop, Mrs. F. E. DuDois as the bishop's sister and Miss DeVillars as the maid and Rosewell Rolston as Jean Valjean gave "The Bishop's Candlesticks with remarkable simplicity and pathos.

LOYAL DAUGHTER'S CIRCLE CONDUCTING RUMMAGE SALE

Loyal Daughters' Circle of King's Daughters opened their rummage sale yesterday afternoon, and is being continued today at Park avenue and East Fourth street. Many contributions were made to the sale by local people and are greatly appreciated by those interested in the work.

The proceeds of the sale will be used to carry on the work of the organization and the Day Nursery. The committee in charge is composed of Mrs. John A. Peterkin, president; Mrs. Harry B. Smith, vice-president; Mrs. P. V. Martin, secretary; Mrs. Walter Cahoone, treasurer.

MR. AND MRS. H. ADELBERG GIVEN PLEASANT SURPRISE

Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Adelberg, of East Second street, who were quietly celebrating the twenty-first anniversary of their marriage yesterday, were given a surprise at the session of the Klein Bowling Club, last evening. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Adelberg were presented with a three foot punch bowl by the members of the organization.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dreier, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Abrams, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Drellich, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fass Mr. and Mrs. S. Schwartz, Mr. and Mrs. B. Klein, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Schwartz, of Brooklyn, and Mr. and Mrs. Adelberg.

PARK CLUB EASTER DANCE ENJOYABLE AFFAIR

The Easter dance given at the Park Club, Wednesday evening under the auspices of the entertainment committee proved to be one of the most delightful of the closing social season. More than two hundred and fifty members and friends of the club attended the affair and thoroughly enjoyed the popular program of dance music furnished by Muller. The clubhouse was attractively decorated for the occasion by Henry Johnson, the steward, there being more than one hundred branches of spring flowers arranged about the stage and throughout the large hall.

During an intermission about midnight refreshments were served. The patronesses for the aair were Mrs. W. W. Coriell, Mrs. George M. Holstein, Mrs. Donald A. McGee, Mrs. John Constable Moore, Mrs. Augustus V. Heely, Mrs. Townsend Rushmore, Mrs. T. Eckford Rhoads and Mrs. Hary Williams.

SOUNDED LIKE A MURDER.

Patrolman Martin Flatley, while patroling his beat on Central avenue, last night, was attracted by cries of "murder" and "police" issuing from a house near Third street. He went to the place and found Mrs. Katherine Stites in a state of nervous collapse. She claimed to have been assaulted by James Filmore and when sought by Flatley the assailant had fled, leaving no clue behind him.

ROGER MURRAY HOME.

Former Assemblyman Roger F. Murray, who has been at Muhlenberg Hospital for the past three weeks following an operation for appendicitis, was removed to his home on Madison avenue, yesterday. He is recovering rapidly and will shortly be able to be about.

CREDIT ASSOCIATION FILES ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION

The Business Men's Credit Association, of this city, filed papers of incorporation in Elizabeth, this morning, with County Clerk James C. Calvert. The organization has its headquarters in the Frost building, this city, and its principal object is to promote the policy of home trade.

The incorporators are John J. Varley, Joseph W. Gavett, Samuel Rothberg, Kenneth Stuart and Soloman Mann. All of the latter are local business men who are active in the work of the association.

HUERTA MAY NOT SALUTE FLAG IN SPITE OF PLAN TO DO SO

Washington, April 17.—There is much doubt here today as to just what action President Huerta will take in the matter of saluting the American flag, as was reported this morning that he would do. It is said now in unofficial circles that he had changed his attitude, and will refuse to fire the desired salute unless the American battleships salute his flag, thus recognizing him as the lawful ruler of Mexico. President Wilson's attitude of not recognizing the Huerta government will be continued, and it may be necessary to send the battleship fleet to Mexican waters, as originally planned.

LOCAL MILER ENTERS N. Y. U. "PREP" MEET

Among the 300 schoolboys from high school and preparatory schools in all parts of the country who will be entertained by the students of the New York University tonight, will be Alfred Day, of the Plainfield High School, who will take the trip for the purpose of competing in the athletic meet in the afternoon. Several of Day's schoolmates will accompany him on the trip to the big city. Many of the boys will arrive from various parts of the country tomorrow afternoon and register in the Young Men's Christian Association for tonight. Supper will be served in the Commons and at the various fraternity houses.

Immediately after the supper there will be an evening concert on the steps of the library, at which the Chancellor will address the youngsters. The regular games will then be held in the college gymnasium. The juniors and seniors will appear in their annual prep school night basketball game. After the game members of the freshman and sophomore classes will engage in their annual cane spree. Following the games there will be receptions in the various fraternity houses. Tomorrow morning the annual game between the Violet and Hamilton will be played and in the afternoon the annual track meet will be run off.

RELAY TRIALS SATURDAY.

The trials for places on the Rutgers varsity relay team which will run at the University of Pennsylvania games in Philadelphia on April 25, will take place on Neilson Field, New Brunswick, tomorrow morning. The most promising candidates are Charles Reed, of New Brunswick; William Bowles, of Elizabeth; Mahlon Harker, of Denver, and Edward Crane, of Rahway. All of these men were members of the team last spring.

ELKS' BOWLING LEAGUE.

BOYS' CLUB PLANNING TO PUT TEAM IN THE FIELD

The regular meeting of the Tuskabatchee Club will be held in the Y. M. C. A. parlors tonight, when F. E. Smith will deliver an address on the "Grocery Business." Messrs. Tomlinson and Updyke are the members of the social committee in charge of tonight's program and they have arranged a number of interesting features for the occasion.

A team representing the club will take part in a debate with Westfield, May 7. The members of the debating team are Donald Updyke, Harold Tomlinson and Carter Goodrich. The baseball team will hold a practice on Randolph Field tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. A game has been arranged with the Men's Club and will be played in the near future. Tennis and track athletics are also being promoted and teams will be turned out in each of these departments.

WITH THE BOXERS

Jack Blackburn must feel pretty confident of his ability to "come back" when he is willing to swap punches with Bat Levinsky.

Jimmy Clabby, who has been promised $25,000 for three bouts in Australia, expects to be home again in four months.

Willie Ritchie has informed the Milwaukee promoters that he would welcome another opportunity to meet Ad Wolgast in their city.

Promoter Dick Burge, of England, offers a $25,000 purse for a Gunboat Smith-Georges Carpentier bout to take place in London next July.

In order to get a return match with Champion Kilbane, Abe Attell says he is willing to meet several good boys just to show that he is still there.

LOCAL BALL TOSSERS ENTER STATE LEAGUE

Public Service Corporation Employes Will Open Season Tomorrow.

Employes of the Public Service in this city have reorganized their baseball team which made such a formidable showing in the Manufacturers' League two years ago and will start the ball rolling tomorrow afternoon, with a game against the Trinity Sunday-school League ball chasers. A wealth of excellent material has made its appearance in the Public Service camp and the Sunday-school boys will have to go the limit to make the curtain raiser a victory.

Included in the array of material trying for positions on the gas company outfit are a majority of the stars of two years ago with a number of brilliant additions to the roster. Every position in the infield and outfield has become a source of keen competition and the leader will have his hands full trying to single out the best man for the nine jobs.

In the event of the reorganization of a City League this season the Public Service athletes will be ready to file a franchise claim and if such a thing is made a reality present indications are that the gas department youngsters will be the class of the league. An effort is being made to form a State League among Public Service departments and Plainfield is being considered as a possible contender for the State title. It is understood that Montclair and Elizabeth have also signified their intention of falling in line and New Brunswick and the Oranges would also be on deck for such a stunt.

JERSEY CITY WILL KEEP LOCAL PLAYER

Carl Johnson to Be Retained by Manager Hulswitt—Laid up With 'Charlie Horse.'

Carl Johnson, the former local school teacher who resigned his position with the Plainfield Board of Education to play professional baseball this season, is laid up in Jersey City with a severe attack of "Charlie Horse" and will not be able to get back in the game for some time to come. As a result of Johnson's enforced retirement, Manager Rudy Hulswitt is negotiating with W. H. Pearce, a catcher, in Indianapolis, and he will report in Jersey City next Monday. He has had a lot of experience, having played with Cincinnati and in the coast league. He was in the hotel business a part of last season at Masselin, Ohio, but is anxious to get back in the game, and is considered a valuable addition to the Skeeters' backstop department. Wells, another catcher on the regular staff, is also laid up and at the present time the team is pretty badly crippled.

Manager Hulswitt announced today that he would retain Johnson, but had released Catcher Egan and Flanagan, an infielder. They have been with the club ever since Johnson reported but failed to show the form hoped for by President Fogarty. Several other members fell victims to the first weeding out process yesterday afternoon.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL OPPONENTS.

The Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school baseball team will meet the team from the First Baptist church on the Parker Field diamond tomorrow afternoon at 3:30.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—What lines of work would offer the best advantages for a lady stenographer with a knowledge of three different languages?—C. N. D.

Answer—Some of the large importing houses in New York city would be those where a knowledge of different languages would be a special recommendation to a stenographer, and advertisements in some of the metropolitan newspapers might help you to find a position.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Please inform me what is light? How fast does it travel?—C. B. H.

Answer—Light is some form of electricity which is apparently the force by which the Supreme Creator has chosen to rule the physical universe. The velocity of light is about 190,000 miles per second.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Who are the Nationalists? Are they for or opposed to Home Rule in Ireland? Who are the Loyalists? Are they against Home Rule? Who are the Unionists? What is the total population of Ireland? How many Protestants, how many Catholics?—J. R. P.

Answer—The Irish Nationalists are those who demand Home Rule. The Ulster party, which opposes it, used to call themselves the Loyalists. They can scarcely do so now that they are threatening to revolt against the government. The English Unionists opposed Home Rule; they are not very actively in evidence now. The population of Ireland by the census of 1911 is 4,390,615. We cannot tell the proportions of the population of religious affiliations. But of the thirty-three members whom Ulster sends to the imperial parliament seventeen are Nationalists and sixteen are Unionists.

Sporting Editor:

Query—I have been defrauded through the mails by losing money. Please give me the address of the one I am to apply to in this matter.—J. H.

Answer—You had better consult the local postmaster at the Plainfield postoffice. At the present time the postmaster is Elias H. Bird.

Sporting Editor:

Query—How far is the earth from Mars? Is Mars really inhabited?—H. R.

Answer—The earth's mean distance from the sun is over ninety-two millions of miles and Mars is more than one hundred and forty millions of miles from it. That makes a mean distance of over fifty millions of miles from the earth to Mars. Their actual distance from each other, sometimes over and sometimes less than that, depends on the place in its own orbit that each holds at that particular time. Not having been to Mars I cannot tell you whether it is inhabited or not. Scientists cannot ascertain this fact. Some astronomers think it is from an appearance like canals observed through powerful telescopes.

DUNN WILL RELEASE LIDGATE TO BUSHERS

Thinks Fanwood Youth Needs Further Seasoning Before Playing With Orioles.

Manager Johnny Dunn, of the Baltimore Orioles, is scouting around major league circles for an experienced backstop to take the place of Eugene Lidgate, the Fanwood boy, whom Dunn contemplates returning to the "bushes" for further seasoning. He has sent the "S. O. S." signal to several big league clubs in an effort to land a good man and is willing to pay a big price for the right player.

Connie Mack promised the Oriole manager a backstop and had one in view in McAvoy, a promising youngster Connie picked up last year, who was slated to go to Baltimore, but the shrewd leader of the world's champions failed to get waivers on him. So with McAvoy lost Dunn must scout elsewhere for the right man. Although he has failed to get help from John McGraw and Frank Chance, Dunn still holds out hopes of landing a mitt artist to act as assistant to Captain Ben Egan. In a statement, yesterday, Dunn said he would use Lidgate in an emergency, but the youngster needs considerable more experience, in his opinion.

PITCHER SUED FOR $25,000.

Kansas City, Mo., April 17—Earl Hamilton, pitcher, who jumped from the St. Louis American League baseball team to the Kansas City Federals and then rejoined the St. Louis team, was made the defendant in a damage suit for $25,000, filed in the Circuit Court here yesterday by the local Federal club.

GIANTS WILL NOT "JUMP."

Philadelphia, April 17—Money won't tempt any members of the Giants to desert McGraw. Every one of the National League champions denied emphatically today that he had ever considered going to the Federals. The report of three Giants willing to "jump" is looked upon as a free advertising scheme for the new league. Larry McLean is the only member of the New York club who was "approached," and he declined to consider any offers.

SCHENCK WILL PERFORM IN RUTGERS FIRST HOME GAME

The baseball game scheduled for Wednesday afternoon between Rutgers and Hamilton was postponed because of the inclement weather. The first home game of the season for the New Brunswick college will be staged on Neilson Field tomorrow, when Rennsalaer Polytechnic Institute, of Troy, N. Y., will attempt to lower the colors of the scarlet team. It is expected that a record crowd will attend the contest.

Rutgers received another setback this week when it was announced that Wainwright Twing, the star first baseman and heaviest hitter, is ineligible because of scholastic deficiencies. This will necessitate another shift and will make the infield an entirely new one. Dudley Browning, who gave such promise in the catching department, will be shifted to first, and Ronald Acken, of Rahway, regular catcher last season, will receive Jennings.

Either George Wales, of Elizabeth, or Mahlon Harker, of Denver, Col., will cover the middle sack, while Charles Hurby, of Elizabeth, is the logical candidate for third base. The outfield will be composed of Harold Schenck, of Plainfield; Ralph Seiler, of Elizabeth, and Lawrence Gillam, of Mt. Holly.

SCHOOLBOY GOLF MEET DATE.

Scarsdale will be the scene of the annual championship tournament of the Eastern Interscholastic Golf Association this year. The dates are May 18, 19 and 20. Anouncement to this effect was made yesterday by Philip V. G. Carter, of Pawling, the president of the association.

N. P. H. S. vs. ALUMNI.

The North Plainfield High School baseball nine will meet the Alumni aggregation on Hyde Oval tomorrow afternoon.

ALBIN CARLSTROM MAKING GOOD DESPITE THE RUMORS

Despite the rumors set afloat some days ago to the effect that Manager "Kitty" Bransfield was scouting for a first baseman to replace Albin Carlstrom, the local flash continues to work the first turn for Montreal in all their games, and it is more than likely that he will be up and doing business when the Royals take the field against the Skeeters at Jersey City in the opening game of the International League season next Tuesday.

In practice games to date Montreal has beaten the Winston-Salem club twice by scores of 2-2 and 4-3, following with a 5-2 win over the Charlotte club. The game scheduled with the Lawrence club for Saturday has been called off, giving Carlstrom an opportunity to visit his folks here before proceeding to Bridgeport, where the Montreal team will play Sunday. Monday the Canuks will pastime at Springfield, Mass., and then return to Jersey City for the opener.

MURPHY AND RITCHIE READY.

San Francisco, Cal., April 17—Reports from the training camps of Willie Ritchie, champion lightweight of the world, and the challenger, Harlem Tommy Murphy, who will battle for the title tonight, are to the effect that both men are in perfect condition. Ritchie is a heavy favorite.

After Walter Johnson had trimmed the Boston Braves in the first game of the pre-season series, the Braves yelled that the umpire had defeated them. Maybe that's one of them there alibis, but with the Senators' star going like a windmill the Braves appear to have been stricken with the hitch and the stitch.

LOCAL KNIGHTS SET UP TOTAL OF 2,496

Competed Last Night in Eastern Championships in New York City.

Local Watchung Council pinners competing in the tournament being conducted on Thum's alleys, in New York city, last night, for the Eastern championship, turned in an aggregate score of 2,496. Although McInerney and Kiely were a trifle off form in the first two games they came back strong in the final contest and the team turned in a mark of 901 against figures that hovered around 700 in the opening matches.

Blatz did the most consistent rolling for the Plainfielders, setting up totals of 203, 196 and 176 during the evening. McInerney captured the best individual score with a 212 in the curtain setto.

The scores:

Blatz	203	196	176
McInerney	140	145	212

ROD AND REEL

Too bad shad don't bite on a hook, as they are now coming into Raritan Bay and the nets are catching them. The people down that way buy all that are caught, as they know the value of a shad taken from the salt water.

There is a fear among the fishing boat owners that the storm will drive the codfish further to the north before calm weather will permit fishing in safety. One day last week three men caught thirty codfish from a Sheepshead Bay boat, the catch being more than they could carry home. The blackfish will take their place, however, and that is some consolation.

Some of the anglers claim that their rain checks will entitle them to a doubleheader when the weather clears up. It will take several days of good, hot sun to dry up the banks of the streams so that a person can fish without waders. The rain has also added to the height of the streams and made them boil again. It has also put a damper on flounder fishing for a few days, as the northeast winds kicked up the bottom and shoved enough food up to feed the flounders for a week.

Governor Fielder evidently knows something about fishing, as he has disapproved of two bills that provided for the catching of pickerel through the ice from January 1 to January 20. We have always opposed this kind of fishing, as it opens the way for the catching of black bass also. There is no question but what hundreds of bass were illegally taken when fishing through the ice was permitted, and many stories even told the writer about how a fisherman would cut a dozen holes in the ice of Lake Hopatcong and place a line with three hooks in each hole, and then skate back and forth from hole to hole—and all was his that he caught. The bass were hidden in case a game warden came around, which was not a hard job, considering that one warden tried to cover the entire county day and night. Game fish are too scarce in this State to permit fishing through the ice at any time.

Legislators of the State of New York have taken it upon themselves to pass a bill prohibiting fishing for pleasure on Sunday, and it is now before the Governor for his approval or veto. Of all the innocent sports, fishing is it, and hundreds of thousands of workingmen in that great State stand a chance of being deprived of an opportunity to get a breath of fresh air and a few hours of harmless recreation. There was a time when fishing parties were in part booze parties, but that day has long since passed, as there is very little drinking done on the water these days. What the State expects to gain by such a measure is beyond comprehension. In the first place they will make criminals of many men who will fish, law or no law, and the State can't afford to hire enough wardens to prevent them. In the second place, the man who can't afford to lose a day's pay from his envelop will carry a sore spot in his heart for those who passed the bill, and that sore will spread until the man becomes a protestor against the government, and he will seek solace in the saloon and its environments. The organized fishing clubs of New York are up in arms against the bill, and don't make any pretense of hiding their anger. If the Governor signs the bill, making it a law, the anglers of New York will turn to New Jersey, and staring them in the face will be a license fee of $2.50, as they are non-residents. Who knows but what next year the New Jersey Legislature will pass just such a law, and then the angler seeking a few hours of harmless recreation will find that right taken from him. Pennsylvania prohibits Sunday fishing, but are her people any better for it? The liquor returns say not, and her prison record still maintains its standard. We are the last person in the world to sanction the desecration of the Sabbath, but we fish on Sunday because circumstances forces us to work six days a week like many friends, and still we are convinced that it is not a hypocritical act to attend church and worship the Maker.

BASEBALL NOTES

How would you like to be an umpire and have to announce Mr. Oeschger, of the Phillies, as the pitcher of a battery?

The early work of Ralph Comstock, the former Minneapolis twirler, stamps him as strong enough to hold down a regular job with the Detroit Tigers.

The rule limiting the major league clubs to 25 men after May 15 has been tossed into the discard. The activity of the Feds is probably the answer.

The Kansas City and Indianapolis teams in the Federal League look to be stronger than the American Association teams in the same cities.

Marsans, the Cuban who is with the Cincinnati Reds, is a highly sensitive player and Charley Herzog will find plenty to do in handling him.

Manager Rickey, of the Browns, says he is going to stick to the bench this season and allow his players to do the coaching during the game.

All concerned in the Killifer case seem as well pleased with the decision as if they had won out. You can't beat a baseball magnate.

Fred Clarke expresses a hope that he may win one more National League pennant and perhaps a world's championship before he retires as leader of the Pirates.

Manager Clark Griffith has placed a combination death, injury and sick policy upon each of the Washington regulars. Some insurance that.

Jake Daubert, the Superbas' first baseball, will back a semi-pro team in Brooklyn this summer as a side-line. Jake will pilot the team himself on Sundays when the Robins are at home.

President Lannin says he will cut out the barnstorming next spring and keep the Red Sox in the South until a day or two before the opening of the regular season. This is McGraw's idea of real training and it seems to have worked well in the case of the Giants.

MOTORISTS REPORT AND PLAN FOR RUN

"Picture Run" Will Be Held Next Sunday With a Slow Hill Climb.

At a meeting of the Plainfield Motorcycle Club held in Depot Park, last evening, twenty-two members were present. A report from the dance committee by Chairman Bowlby showed that the affair was very successful and the profit derived makes the new clubhouse almost an assured fact. Two applications for membership were received and a number of monograms and designs were shown but none were accepted nor will be until the next meeting, which will be held the first Thursday in May.

The picture run which will be held on April 19 was changed from Bernardsville to Flemington, as hotel accommodations were found to be better at the latter place at this time of the year. Members will assemble at 8:30 o'clock at 33 Somerset street, April 19, run starting promptly at 9. The slow hill climb takes place on the return of the club from Flemington on one of the numerous hills in that section. It is expected that the fair sex will be well represented on this run.

One of the strange happenings at this meeting was the appearance of "Al" Herlick, of New Market, apparently in the best of health and the club in general had given up hopes of ever seeing "Al" again. Among the prominent members present were "Goodrich" Conway, "Windy" Hampson, "Napoleon" Dresseit, "Plug" Higgins, "Dutch" Dickhurdt, "Needle Valve" Moore, "Two Speed" Bird, "Tuner" Groff, "Pierce" Johnson, "Indian" Scarlett, "Speedo" Renninger, "Hurry Up" Herlick and "Chairman" Bowlby.

After the regular business was disposed of the entertainment committee provided a satisfying lunch. This committee was composed of "Saddle" Alberts, "Electric" Cooper, "Speedo" Renninger.

After a few remarks by President "Auerbach" "Designer" Gowdy and "Bad" Irwin the meeting adjourned.

WIDER WAR ON GERMS.

Public Health Service Has Big Program For Current Year.

The public health service is looking forward to the biggest year's work it has ever undertaken. From the mountains of Kentucky, where two field hospitals and dispensaries are teaching the mountain people how to combat pellagra, to the water fronts of San Francisco and Seattle, where federal experts are helping state authorities to prevent the carrying of plague germs by rats and squirrels, the service has pushed its activities into many unusual fields.

Much of the research work of the health service is done in the hygienic laboratory in Washington. In the search for the means by which infantile paralysis is transmitted experts there succeeded during the last year in carrying germs from one monkey to another by the bite of a stable fly. But where this succeeded once it failed on all other attempts. The public health service is still working on the problem.

Practically every phase of sanitation is being studied and taught by officials as fast as funds permit.

WANTS MEN STENOGRAPHERS.

Government Can't Get Them at From $840 to $900 a Year.

The United States government is in urgent need of competent male stenographers and typewriters. The demand far exceeds the supply.

The civil service commission will hold examinations in the larger cities of the country Jan. 27. Salaries for shorthand writers are small, ranging from $840 to $900 a year, but opportunities for promotion are reasonably rapid, it is stated.

Thirty-one and Wed Seven Times.

L. B. Maynard, thirty-one years old, of East Lynn, W. Va., has just taken a seventh wife. She was Rebecca Wilson of Huntington, W. Va. Maynard divorced three of his wives and three died. He says each of the last three had proved an ideal helpmate.

Not a home in this city but has its quota of discarded furniture, rugs, stoves perhaps, a wheelbarrow maybe.

A few cents for a Press want ad and some one who needs the very article that lies rotting in your garret will call and pay you for it.

You are better off—new owner is pleased—and the article itself is contributing to the reduction of the high cost of living.

Why do these markets give the highest quality of meats for less money than other markets? The answer—They have no high rentals, no expensive delivery service, no losses through book accounts, no expensive bookkeeping system to maintain.

In justice to yourself can you afford to pay for these things along with the price of your meat? Why are the patrons of these markets better satisfied than others?

The answer—They not only save 10 per cent. to 20 per cent. but see exactly what they want and get it.

A trial will convince you that these are facts.

German Valley. and Chester

The entertainment of the Young People's Society of the Chester Congregational church will be given Wednesday in Day's Music Hall.

The Chester Literary Circle will meet this afternoon at the Chester clubhouse. The committee includes Mrs. Edward P. Gardner, Mrs. Daniel H. Skellenger and Mrs. Elias C. Drake.

Elmer Mower, of New York, is spending several weeks with Mr. and Mrs. William O. Robinson, of Chester.

Garret Van Rooijen, of Chester, is in Newark.

The Young People's Society of the Chester Congregational church netted $20 from its recent delicatessen sale.

There is a slight improvement in the condition of Jonathan Barkman, of Chester, who has been seriously ill for more than a year.

Mrs. Alvah Barker and daughters, of Chester, have concluded a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hawkins, of Califon.

A meeting of the business men of Chester was held in the Van Gaasbeek building recently to formulate plans to ask the Board of Public Utility Commissioners at its meeting in Newark today if the Central Railroad cannot be compelled to furnish daily service to the village.

After conducting the mercantile business in German Valley more than thirty years, Lyman Kice has retired and disposed of his business to his son-in-law, George N. McLean.

The condition of Theodore F. Van Nest, of German Valley, who was stricken with paralysis about a week ago, remains serious.

Chester Grange, No. 198, Patrons of Husbandry, will hold a special meeting in its hall tonight.

Miss Nellie Tredway, of Park Ridge, is spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Tredway, of Chester.

Hunterdon County.

Miss Belle Tunison, of High Bridge, is in Glen Gardner.

Work which was discontinued for the winter will be re-commenced on the new public school building in Glen Gardner. It is said the building will be completed by fall.

About fifteen members of Camp No. 134, P. O. S. of A., of Clinton, went to Glen Gardner last night to attend a banquet given by Camp No. 40 of that place.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal church of Glen Gardner will hold a fair and supper in the basement of the church tomorrow night.

DECISION IS RESERVED IN SAMUEL SCHLEIMER CASE

Trenton, April 17—Decision was reserved by the Supreme Court yesterday on the rule to show cause why Samuel Schleimer, an attorney, of New Brunswick and Elizabeth, should not be disbarred or disciplined for his alleged failure to prosecute a writ of error which he sued out in the interest of Raffaele Longo, of Elizabeth, convicted of the murder of "Tony" Migiore. Longo is now in the death house at the State Prison awaiting electrocution the week beginning May 25, the writ of error having been dismissed at the last term of court for what was declared to be lack of prosecution.

Former Governor Voorhees, who appeared for Schleimer, told the court that his client was under the impression, after a tacit agreement with the prosecutor, that an additional extension of time would be granted to him to have the case printed and to prosecute the writ. Mr. Voorhees also informed the court that Mr. Schleimer, on the return day of the writ, was trying another case in New Brunswick and thought his interests in the writ were protected because of the understanding he had with the prosecutor.

Mr. Schleimer, who was allowed to address the court, repeated the remarks of Governor Voorhees, to the effect that he was busy on the return day of the writ. At this juncture Chief Justice Gummere asked Mr. Schleimer whether he was pursuing the proper course when he practically ignored his client whose life was at stake to look after his own pecuniary interests. To this Mr. Schleimer replied that he was sincere in the belief that his interests were protected because of the understading he had with the prosecutor.

The court at the conclusion of the argument said that the matter would be decided after a conference.

CHOATE SENDS NOTE FOR REPEAL

Says Treaty Provided Only One Exemption.

THEN IN CASE OF WAR.

Equality Was the Main Theme of the Treaty and Asserts United States Has No Moral Right to Exempt Any of Its Vessels.

Washington, April 17.—The most interesting development of the hearing before the senate committee on interoceanic canals on the Panama tolls repeal bill was the reading of a letter from Joseph H. Choate, who was ambassador to Great Britain during the negotiations of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

Mr. Choate went squarely to the front in favor of the repeal of the exemption clause. He expressed regret that the condition of his health would not permit him to appear personally before the committee.

The ex-ambassador sent to the committee copies of correspondence which had passed between himself and the late John Hay, secretary of state while the negotiations were on. Mr. Choate expressed the opinion that the United States had no moral right under the treaty to exempt any of its vessels from tolls. In his letter Mr. Choate said:

"I wrote to Senator O'Gorman, inclosing to him, with permission of the secretary of state, copies of my letters to Secretary Hay between Aug. 3 and Oct. 12, 1901. To my mind they establish beyond question the intent of the parties engaged in the negotiations, that the treaty should mean exactly what it says, and it excludes the possibility of any exemption of any kind on vessels of the United States.

"Equality between Great Britain and the United States is the constant theme, and especially in my last letter of Oct. 2, 1901, when I speak of Lord Lansdowne's part in the matter and say, 'He has shown an earnest desire to bring to an amicable settlement, honorable alike to both parties, this long and important controversy between the two nations. In substance he abrogates the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, gives us an American canal, ours to build as and when we like, to arm, control and govern on the sole condition of its being always neutral and free for the passage of the ships of all nations on equal terms, except that if we get into a war with any nation we can shut its ships out and take care of ourselves."

Taft's Contention.

There was also incorporated in the record of the hearings an extract from a speech by former President Taft in Ottawa last January, in which he said that in his opinion the tolls matter would either have to be arbitrated or the tolls exemption clause repealed. Senator Simmons of North Carolina produced this contribution and had it incorporated in the record.

Dr. Ernest Richard of New York, a professor in Columbia university and president of the German-American Peace society, was a witness before the committee in favor of repeal. Questioned as to what particular interest he represented, Dr. Richard said that he appeared expressly to represent the North American Gymnastic union. He explained that Theodore Stuempfel of Indianapolis was the president of the organization and that Stuempfel had said that "repeal was peremptory as a matter of honor, justice and fair dealing."

He declared that the organization he represented had 40,000 members throughout the country and that they were a unit in favor of repeal.

He declared that it was not fair to insinuate as the advocates of free tolls have done that President Wilson was moved by considerations suggestive of cowardice.

"I do not think this is a good time to make the eagle scream and get a few Irish votes and possibly a few German ones in the wake," said he.

INQUIRY INTO FOLSOM DEATHS

Sacramento Grand Jury Investigates Killing of Convicts.

Sacramento, Cal., April 17.—The Sacramento county grand jury began a secret investigation of the killing of four convicts at Folsom prison in the attempted jail deliver, ten days ago.

This action comes after a recommendation by the Sacramento chamber of commerce that an inquiry be made into charges that the four convicts were shot down in cold blood in the cell corridor without sufficient cause and after the guards had had an hour in which to summon aid to prevent the outbreak.

The fifth convict shot, C. J. Barnes, is not expected to live. The grand jury inquiry was undertaken of its own volition, independent of the action taken by the chamber of commerce. The grand jury decided to examine many convicts as well as guards and other officials at Folsom.

Germany Won't Run Haiti.

Berlin, April 17.—The foreign office denounces as highly absurd the report from Kingston, Jamaica, that the German minister to Haiti told President Zamor that Germany was prepared to assume an active part in running the administration of that country in order to help it out of its present financial troubles.

LEO M. FRANK.

Condemned to Die, but Again Escapes Noose.

The hanging of Leo M. Frank, the young factory superintendent, sentenced for the murder of Mary Phagan, fourteen years old, was put off for the second time. Attorneys filed two motions in an effort to save the life of the defendant. One asks for an annulment of the verdict on the ground that the trial judge erred in permitting Frank to be absent from the courtroom when the verdict was announced.

FRANK GETS ANOTHER CHANCE FOR HIS LIFE

Court Grants a Stay on the New Motion.

Atlanta, Ga., April 17.—Possible basis for appeal of the case of Leo M. Frank of Brooklyn, under death sentence for the murder of Mary Phagan, a factory girl, to the supreme court of the United States was made in a motion for annulment of his sentence filed in the superior court here. The motion charges that the presiding judge at Frank's trial, L. S. Roan, advised counsel for the defense that in the event their client was found guilty it would be unsafe for him to be in court when the verdict was announced and that such action was in violation of the federal constitution.

The motion, which stays the hanging, set for today, was filed by a local law firm hitherto not connected with the case, and attorneys who have been in charge of Frank's defense said the action was taken without their knowledge, they having completed preparations, they said, for filing within a few hours an extraordinary motion for a new trial on ground of newly discovered evidence. Notice of the intention of counsel to file such an extraordinary motion was given in court on March 27, when a copy of the proposed motion was submitted.

It is anticipated that in the event of a denial of the motion for annulment appeal will be taken to the supreme court of Georgia, which probably would delay consummation of the case several months.

The supreme court already has confirmed the young factory superintendent's conviction, but the point raised by the motion was not brought before that tribunal. Neither was it included in the copy of the extraordinary motion previously filed.

NEEDLEWORK

By MARGARET LAWRENCE

DESIGN FOR A CENTERPIECE IN LARGE EYELETS.

Dainty linen adds greatly to the appearance of a table, and a bit of hand embroidery lends interest to it. Centerpieces made of white round-thread linen are attractive when embroidered in a simple design, such as 14400. This pattern is twenty-two inches in diameter and should be embroidered in eyelet work. White mercerized cotton is best for developing these eyelets, the edges of which must be carefully padded with running stitches so that they will hold their shapes when laundered. If desired, this design may be worked in heavily padded solid work.

Guaranteed hot-iron transfer patterns will be supplied to readers upon receipt of price, 15 cents.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

It is not always easy to find good models for children's school frocks. They must not be elaborate; they must be comfortable and they must be becoming or the child will be ill at ease and unhappy.

No. 7756 meets every requirement for a practical and pleasing little school frock. Cashmere, serge, wool crepe or velveteen are all suitable fabrics. There are many plaid serges in warm, bright colorings that are quite ideal for school girls.

One of these plaids with the collar and sash of a plain material that repeats the predominant color of the plaid would be most satisfactory. The V-shaped opening at the throat may be filled in with a small chemisette of tucked batiste or a shield may be made of the material.

These long-waisted garments are quite the most sensible designs that have been evolved for growing children for some time; the weight falls straight from the shoulder and there is nothing to prevent deep breathing and healthful activity.

To make this dress for a child of 10 it requires 3 yards of 36 inch material with 1 yard of contrasting goods for collar, cuffs and girdle.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes; 8 to 14.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to state right size, passing the tape around the fullest part of the breast well up under the arms.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Some Cookery Suggestions

SPRING RHUBARB.

DINNER MENU.
Vermicelli Soup.
Lamb Chops.
Parisian Potatoes.
Rhubarb Tapioca.
Coffee Jelly.
Chocolate Cake.
Coffee.

PIEPLANT, or rhubarb, is in the market and relieves the housewife of many problems in regard to desserts. Here are some nice ways of serving it:

Rhubarb Snow. After preparing the rhubarb stew it and to a pint of the clear juice sweetened and flavored to taste add a little more than a half ounce of gelatin. When it is cold and partly set mix in the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs.

Custard as For Pies.

Rhubarb Custard.—Make a custard, using the beaten yolks of two eggs, a pint of sweet milk and sugar to taste. Line a deep pudding dish with light crust and place in it a layer of chopped rhubarb covered with a cup of sugar. Pour the custard over this and bake. Beat the whites of the eggs with two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and a little lemon juice or cream of tartar. When the pie is done and cool heap the meringue on top. Brown slightly in the oven.

Light and Nutritious.

Rhubarb Tapioca.—Take a quart of rhubarb, cut in inch pieces, put in a double boiler with two cupfuls of sugar and stew until tender. Then take out the pulp and put it into a pudding dish. Add enough water to the sirup in the boiler to make a quart and when boiling add two-thirds cupful of pearl tapioca which has been previously soaked in cold water and drained. Cook until clear, add a tablespoonful of butter and pour over the rhubarb. Cover with a meringue made of the whites of two eggs beaten with two tablespoonfuls of sugar, and brown. Serve cold with cream.

Batter Instead of Crust.

Rhubarb Cobbler.—Butter a deep earthenware pie dish and fill with rhubarb unpeeled, but thoroughly washed, and cut into pieces half an inch long. Add sugar to sweeten; then cover with a rich puff paste. If preferred use a fritter batter of eggs, flour, milk and salt, allowing a large tablespoonful of flour to each egg, a teaspoonful of baking powder to each cupful of flour used and milk to make the right consistency. Pour over the rhubarb, which should be slightly heaped in the center, and bake until light and brown.

The Mud Palaces Were Beautiful.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Fairies' Mudpie Party For The Mud Turtles.

MUD pie making had certainly been very popular of late. Daddy had noticed it, and so he spoke in the evening to Jack and Evelyn about it.

"Have you been making mud pies lately?" he asked.

"Yes, indeed, we have!" said Evelyn. "My dolls say that there is nothing they enjoy so much in the spring as a good mud pie. Do fairies ever make mud pies?"

"Oh, yes," said daddy; "they certainly do! The fairies never miss any games or parties or good times, you know. And they enjoy everything. They had a real mud pie party the other day."

"Did they have any other guests or just themselves?" asked Jack.

"It was a very big party, really," said daddy. "They gave it in the first place for the mud turtles. But they invited the frogs, the toads and some of the lizard family as well."

"My, it must have been a big party!" said Evelyn.

"Yes," continued daddy; "it was a very big party. The fairies hadn't had a very big party for some time, and they thought it would be lots of fun to have this one.

"They also thought it would be nice to give it for the mud turtles. They thought the mud turtles were very quaint and interesting. Besides that, they had never heard of a party being given in honor of the mud turtles, and they were sure it would please them.

"Everything was in readiness for the party before the guests arrived. The party was given near a swamp, so there was just loads of mud.

"They had delicious looking mud pies made up in the center of the swamp, one for each guest, and with a little present attached.

"But what pleased the guests more than anything else were the wonderful decorations the fairies had made.

"There were palaces, castles, gardens with terraces and parks. There were forts with soldiers and ships with sailors on board. And all these things were made out of mud. Really they were very marvelous, and all the turtles and toads and lizards thought the fairies certainly could make the most wonderful fairyland, no matter whether they made it with green moss and flowers or with plain, ordinary mud, for really the mud palaces were the most gorgeous you can imagine.

"And the fairies felt their party had been a success because the mud turtles were satisfied with the party given in their honor and were really, if the truth were told, just as proud as peacocks that the fairies had done so much for them."

The STORY of WAITSTILL BAXTER

BY KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN

CHAPTER III.

Something of a Hero.

IVORY went into the little shed room off the kitchen, changed his muddy boots for slippers and made himself generally tidy, then he came back to the living room bringing a pine knot which he flung on the fire, waking it to a brilliant flame.

"We can be as lavish as we like with the stumps now, mother, for spring is coming," he said, as he sat down to his meal.

"I've been looking out more than usual this afternoon," she replied. "There's hardly any snow left, and though the walking is so bad I've been rather expecting your father before night. You remember he said when he went away in January that he should be back before the mayflowers bloomed?"

It did not do any good to say: "Yes, mother, but the mayflowers have bloomed ten times since father went away." He had tried that, gently and persistently when first her mind began to be confused, from long grief and hurt love, stricken pride and sick suspense.

"I've been looking out more than usual this afternoon."

Instead of that Ivory turned the subject cheerily, saying, "Well, we're sure of a good season, I think. There's been a grand snowfall and that, they say, is the poor man's manure. Rod and I will put in more corn and potatoes this year. I shan't have to work single handed very long, for he is growing to be quite a farmer."

"Your father was very fond of green corn, but he never cared for potatoes," Mrs. Boynton said, vaguely, taking up her knitting. "I always had great pride in my cooking, but I could never get your father to relish my potatoes."

"Well, his son does, anyway," Ivory replied, helping himself plentifully from a dish that held one of his mother's best concoctions, potatoes minced fine and put together into the spider with thin bits of pork and all browned together.

"I saw the Baxter girls today, mother," he continued not because he hoped she would give any heed to what he said, but from the sheer longing for companionship. "The deacon drove off with Lawyer Wilson, who wanted him to give testimony in some case or other down in Milltown. The minute Patty saw him going up Saco hill she harnessed the old starved Baxter mare, and the girls started over to the Lower Corner to see some friends. It seems it's Patty's birthday, and they were celebrating. I met them just as they were coming back and helped them lift the rickety wagon out of the mud. They were stuck in it up to the hubs of the wheels. I advised them to walk up the Town House hill if they ever expected to get the horse home."

"Town House hill!" said Ivory's mother, dropping her knitting. "That was where we had such wonderful meetings. Truly the Lord was present in our midst. And oh, Ivory, the visions we saw in that place when Jacob Cochrane first unfolded his gospel to us! Was ever such a man!"

"Probably not, mother," remarked Ivory drily.

"You were speaking of the Baxters. I remember their home and the little girl who used to stand in the gateway and watch when we came out of meeting. There was a baby too. Isn't there a Baxter baby, Ivory?"

"She didn't stay a baby. She is seventeen years old today, mother."

"You surprise me, but children do grow very fast. She had a strange name, but I cannot recall it."

"Her name is Patience, but nobody but her father calls her anything but Patty, which suits her much better."

"No; the name wasn't Patience, not the one I mean."

"The older sister is Waitstill. Perhaps you mean her." And Ivory sat down by the fire, with his book and his pipe.

"Waitstill! Waitstill! That is it! Such a beautiful name!"

"She's a beautiful girl."

"Waitstill! 'They also serve who only stand and wait.' 'Wait, I say, on the Lord and he will give thee the desires of thy heart.' Those were wonderful days, when we were caught up out of the body and mingled freely in the spirit world." Mrs. Boynton was now fully started on the topic that absorbed her mind, and Ivory could no nothing but let her tell the story that she had told him a hundred times.

"I remember when first we heard Jacob Cochrane speak." (This was her usual way of beginning.) "Your father was a preacher, as you know, Ivory, but you will never know what a wonderful preacher he was. My grandfather, being a fine gentleman and a governor, would not give his consent to my marriage, but I never regretted it, never! Your father saw Elder Cochrane at a revival meeting of the Free Will Baptists in Scarboro and was much impressed with him. A few days later he went to the funeral of a child in the same neighborhood. No one who was there could ever forget it. The minister had made his long prayer when a man suddenly entered the room, came toward the coffin and placed his hand on the child's forehead. The room in an instant was as still as the death that had called us together. The stranger was tall and of commanding presence; his eyes pierced our very hearts, and his marvelous voice penetrated to depths in our souls that had never been reached before."

"Was he a better speaker than my father?" asked Ivory, who dreaded his mother's hours of complete silence even more than her periods of reminiscence.

"He spoke as if the Lord of Hosts had given him inspiration; as if the angels were pouring words into his mouth just for him to utter," replied Mrs. Boynton. "Your father was spellbound, and I only less so. When he ceased speaking the child's mother crossed the room and, swaying to and fro, fell at his feet sobbing and wailing and imploring God to forgive her sins. They carried her upstairs, and when we looked about after the confusion and excitement the stranger had vanished. But we found him again! As Elder Cochran said: 'The prophet of the Lord can never be hid; no darkness is thick enough to cover him!' There was a six weeks' revival meeting in North Saco, where 300 souls were converted, and your father and I were among them. We had fancied ourselves true believers for years, but Jacob Cochrane unstopped our ears so that we could hear the truths revealed to him by the Almighty! It was all so simple and easy at the beginning, but it grew hard and grievous afterward; hard to keep the path, I mean. I never quite knew whether God was angry with me for backsliding at the end, but I could not always accept the revelations that Elder Cochrane and your father had!"

Lois Boynton's hands were now quietly folded over the knitting that lay forgotten in her lap, but her low, thrilling voice had a note in it that did not belong wholly to earth.

There was a long silence; one of many long silences at the Boynton fireside, broken only by the ticking of the clock, the purring of the cat and the clicking of Mrs. Boynton's needles, as, her paroxysm of reminiscence over, she knitted ceaselessly, with her eyes on the window or the door.

"It's about time for Rod to be coming back, isn't it?" asked Ivory.

"He ought to be here soon, but perhaps he is gone for good. It may be that he thinks he has made us a long enough visit. I don't know whether your father will like the boy when he comes home. He never did fancy company in the house."

Ivory looked up in astonishment from his Greek grammar. This was an entirely new turn of his mother's mind. Often when she was more than usually confused he would try to clear the cobwebs from her brain by gently questioning her until she brought herself back to a clearer understanding of her own thought. Thus far her vagaries had never made her unjust to any human creature. She was uniformly sweet and gentle in speech and demeanor.

"Why do you talk of Rod's visiting us when he is one of the family?" Ivory asked quietly.

"Is he one of the family? I didn't know it," replied his mother absently.

"Look at me, mother, straight in the eye. That's right. Now listen, dear, to what I say."

Mrs. Boynton's hair, that had been in her youth like an aureole of corn silk, was now a strange yellow white, and her blue eyes looked out from her pale face with a helpless appeal.

"You and I were living alone here after father went away," Ivory began. "I was a little boy, you know. You and father had saved something, there was the farm, you worked like a slave, I helped, and we lived somehow, do you remember?"

"I do indeed. It was cold, and the neighbors were cruel. Jacob Cochrane had gone away, and his disciples were not always true to him. When the magnetism of his presence was withdrawn they could not follow all his revelations, and they forgot how he had awakened their spiritual life at the first of his preaching. Your father was always a stanch believer, but when he started on his mission and went to Parsonsfield to help Elder Cochrane in his meetings the neighbors began to criticise him. They doubted him. You were too young to realize it, but I did, and it almost broke my heart."

"I was nearly twelve years old. Do you think I escaped all the gossip mother?"

"You never spoke of it to me, Ivory."

"No, there is much that I never spoke of to you, mother, but some time when you grow stronger and your memory is better we will talk together. Do you remember the winter, long after father went away, that Parson Lane sent me to Fairfield academy to get enough Greek and Latin to make me a schoolmaster?"

"Yes," she answered uncertainly.

"Don't you remember I got a free ride downriver one Friday and came home for Sunday, just to surprise you? And when I got here I found you ill in bed, with Mrs. Mason and Dr. Perry taking care of you. You could not speak, you were so ill, but they told me you had been up in New Hampshire to see your sister, that she had died, and that you had brought back her boy, who was only four years old. That was Rod. I took him into bed with me that night, poor, homesick little fellow, and, as you know, mother he's never left us since."

"I didn't remember I had a sister. Is she dead, Ivory?" asked Mrs. Boynton vaguely.

"If she were not dead do you suppose you would have kept Rodman with us when we hadn't bread enough for our own two mouths, mother?" questioned Ivory patiently.

"No, of course not. I can't think how I can be so forgetful. It's worse sometimes than others. It's worse today because I knew the mayflowers were blooming, and that reminded me it was time for your father to come home. You must forgive me, dear, and will you excuse me if I sit in the kitchen awhile? The window by the side door looks out toward the road, and if I put a candle on the sill it shines quite a distance. The lane is such a long one, and your father was always a sad stumbler in the dark! I shouldn't like him to think I wasn't looking for him when he's been gone since January."

Ivory's pipe went out, and his book slipped from his knee unnoticed.

His mother was more confused than usual, but she always was when spring came to remind her of her husband's promise. Somehow, well used as he was to her mental wanderings, they made him uneasy tonight. His father had left home on a fancied mission, a duty he believed to be a revelation given by God through Jacob Cochrane. The farm did not miss him much at first. Ivory reflected bitterly, for since his fanatical espousal of Cochranism his father's interest in such mundane matters as household expenses had diminished month by month until they had no meaning for him at all. Letters to wife and boy had come at first, but after six months, during which he had written from many places, continually deferring the date of his return, they had ceased altogether. The rest was silence. Rumors of his presence here or there came from time to time; but, though Parson Lane and Dr. Perry did their best, none of them were ever substantiated.

Where had those years of wandering been passed, and had they all been given even to an imaginary and fantastic service of God? Was his father dead? If he were alive, what could keep him from writing? Nothing but a very strong reason or a very wrong one, so his son thought at times.

Since Ivory had grown to man's estate he understood that in the later days of Cochrane's preaching his "visions," "inspirations" and "revelations" concerning the marriage bond were a trifle startling from the old fashioned, orthodox point of view. His most advanced disciples were to hold themselves in readiness to renounce their former vows and seek "spiritual consorts," sometimes according to his advice, sometimes as their inclinations prompted.

Had Aaron Boynton forsaken willingly the wife of his youth, the mother of his boy? If so he must have realized to what straits he was subjecting them. Ivory had not forgotten those first few years of grinding poverty, anxiety and suspense. His mother's mind had stood the strain bravely, but it gave way at last; not, however, until that fatal winter journey to New Hampshire, when cold, exposure and fatigue did their worst for her weak body. Religious enthusiast, exalted and impressionable, a natural mystic, she had probably always been, far more so in temperament, indeed, than her husband; but, although she left home on that journey a frail and heartsick woman, she returned a different creature altogether, blurred and confused in mind, with clouded memory and irrational fancies.

She must have given up hope just then, Ivory thought, and her love was so deep that when it was uprooted the soil came with it. Now hope had returned because the cruel memory had faded altogether. She sat by the kitchen window in gentle expectation, watching, always watching.

And this is the way many of Ivory Boynton's evenings were spent, while the heart of him, the five-and-twenty-year-old heart of him, was longing to feel the beat of another heart, a girl's heart only a mile or more away. The ice in Saco water had broken up and the white blocks sailed majestically down toward the sea. Sap was mounting and the elm trees were budding; the trailing arbutus was blossoming in the woods; the robins had come—everything was announcing the spring, yet Ivory saw no changing seasons in his future; nothing but winter, eternal winter there!

MAKE YOURS A PUBLIC SERVICE STORE

This is the age of service. The rewards of today go to the men who give the most in return.

Translated for you, Mr. Merchant, this means that the customers are certain to patronize the store that will give them what they want when they want it.

Cut prices may bring some trade, but better service will bring more.

This is the age when people are reading the advertising in their daily newspapers because they are finding it a distinct part of the service they expect their newspapers to give.

When a nationally distributed article of merit is advertised in the newspapers a demand for it sets in right away.

People want to see it and, if satisfied, want to buy it.

They are going to turn to the store that lets them know it has the article. That store will be giving them the service they want at that particular moment.

If it is a good article they are going to remember the store where they got it and will come back to that store again.

Co-operate with the manufacturers who come into the newspapers of your town to exploit their goods and you will be building business for yourself.

The Daily Press will be glad to have its attention called to any misleading or untrue statement, if such should appear at any time in an advertisement in its columns.

Readers are requested to assist in protecting themselves and legitimate advertisers.

RETURN OF SALUTE IS CUSTOMARY

U. S. Again Will Wait and Watch.

MAY RECALL THE FLEET

Washington Regards the Incident as Closed.

CEREMONIES OF SALUTE.

Mexican Gunboat Will Fly United States Flag While Firing the Twenty-one Guns.

RETURN SALUTE IS CUSTOMARY.

Washington, April 17.—The navy department issued this statement:

"If a national salute is fired as an 'amende honorable' it is invariably returned, gun for gun, by a vessel of war of the power whose flag has thus been saluted. This is in accordance with international comity, and there are many precedents to establish the custom.

"In Admiral Mayo's written communication to the Mexican General Zaragosa at Tampico on April 9 was the original demand made for a salute of the flag. In this communication General Zaragosa was informed by Admiral Mayo that the salute would be returned by the Dolphin."

Washington, April 17.—The ceremonies of interchanging the national salute in the event of the promised reparation by Huerta will be simple. Whether the salute will be fired from a Mexican gunboat or from one of the Mexican military fortifications at Tampico will depend on whether Huerta's gunboats return in time. The ceremony will be as follows:

The Mexicans will run up the stars and stripes to the mainmasthead of one of their gunboats, or, in the event the gunboats are not present, to the flagstaff of the fort. A salute of twenty-one guns will then be fired by the Mexican saluting battery.

As the last shot booms the stars and stripes will be hauled down, and at the mainmast of the United States dispatch boat Dolphin the national standard of Mexico will be broken out. The Dolphin's saluting gun will then repeat the twenty-one gun salute of the Mexicans in acknowledgment of the apology. During the ceremony the officers of both services will stand at attention.

Playing of the "Star Spangled Banner" and the Mexican national anthem will be dispensed with.

Huerta will yield to the demands of the United States and order a salute of twenty-one guns to the American flag by way of reparation for the Tampico insult.

Fleet Continues.

That is the interpretation which administration officials have put on a dispatch received from Nelson O'Shaughnessy, charge d'affaires in Mexico City. The incident is now regarded as closed except for the arrangement of formal details and the actual firing of the twenty-one guns.

In the meantime, however, the powerful Atlantic fleet will continue on its way toward Tampico, and preparations will go forward for the movement of war vessels on the Pacific coast.

Not until the usual reparation has been rendered will the administration stay its hand or change its plans for the blockade and seizure of Mexican ports on both coasts. If Huerta has given satisfaction before the arrival of the American war vessels in Mexican gulf waters they probably will be recalled or diverted from their course.

Huerta Fickle.

The one man who may cause a hitch is Huerta. It is admitted that he has changed front once or twice a day ever since this last crisis arose, and officials here say they will not believe the incident is at an end until the salute has actually been fired.

A report accredited in high circles is that the amelioration of the Mexican defiance was brought about in part through the good offices of the French and German governments.

Color was lent to this report by the fact that the German ambassador, Count Von Bernstorff, had a long conference with Secretary of State Bryan, after which he indicated approval by his government of the United States' position.

Immediately after this conference Mr. Bryan hurried to the White House with a beaming smile on his face.

President Wilson confirmed the statement of Secretary Bryan that the Mexican situation is "very encouraging."

BILLARD HEADS ARE READY TO TESTIFY

Will Tell All About the New Haven Funds.

Washington, April 17.—H. W. Whipple, treasurer of the Billard company; Edward S. Field, a former official of the company, and Samuel Morehouse an attorney; all of New Haven, facing the prospect of an indictment by the federal grand jury here for refusal to testify before the interstate commerce commission in regard to the transactions of the Billard company with the New Haven railroad, have agreed to appear before the commission and tell all they know. This was the statement of Henry L. Stoddart, their attorney, in a letter to Chief Counsel Folk of the interstate commerce commission.

It is expected that Samuel Hemingway, another former official of the company, will also agree to testify and furnish full information.

Homer Cummins of New Haven, representing Hemingway and John L. Billard, the organizer of the Billard company, asked for additional time to consult with his clients and intimated strongly that Hemingway would now testify, and Billard also, when formally called upon. Billard was not placed on the stand last week after the refusal of the others to testify.

Mr. Folk, notwithstanding the surrender of Whipple, Morehouse and Field and the imminent surrender of Hemingway, is nevertheless proceeding with his case before the grand jury so that the record will be complete for the voting of an indictment if the men do not testify freely and unreservedly and completely.

Treasurer May and Secretary Clark of the New Haven system testified before the grand jury as to the relations of the Billard company and the New Haven and, it is understood, said that something like $14,000,000 had been transferred to the Billard company in one form or another, according to the books of the New Haven.

WILSON WAITED TOO LONG.

Penrose Comments on President's Action Toward Mexico.

Philadelphia, April 17.—Senator Penrose, commenting upon the activity of the Wilson administration in demanding satisfaction of Mexico for the affront put upon the American flag, observed:

"It is to be regretted that President Wilson waited so long and has taken advantage of a seemingly trivial incident. He allowed murder and assaults to pass unnoticed.

"One battleship," declared the senator, "sent to Mexico six months ago would have been as effective as a fleet today. Undoubtedly something should be done to protect American interests."

GATES NEVER CLOSED.

Texas Honor Roll Convicts Need No Watching, Day or Night.

Rusk, Tex., April 17.—As a result of the placing of the eighty-six prisoners of the Rusk penitentiary on the honor roll the gates of the prison are no longer closed, day or night. The only officers employed are a warden, night sergeant, steward and two guards to protect prison property from outside marauders. Fifteen other guards have been discharged. The prisoners work on the state farm, a mile from the prison.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a Glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers You.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

Women's Spring Coats at $9.98

Style, individuality, dependability and fairness of prices are the four important factors which we believe are, in a great measure, responsible for the remarkable expansion of business in the Women's Apparel Section during the past few months. Even during the Easter rush, the briskness in trade conditions was much greater than we anticipated. And striving as we do, to give the best values possible for the price, our business is destined to grow even larger.

Tomorrow, these thoroughly up-to-date items will be attractively featured:

WOMEN'S COATS AT $9.98.

Women's Brocaded Faille Coats in the loose back effect and cutaway front style. The coats fasten with ornaments and have kimono style sleeves, and a standing plaited ruche around the neck. They are lined throughout with Peau de Cygne. Compare these with any $12.98 value found elsewhere.

PARTY AND EVENING DRESSES AT $10

Made in pastel shades of fine quality taffeta. The waist is formed of net, cut low and finished with small rosebud trimmings. There is a girdle at the waist line. The skirt has graceful lines, with two ruffles of net, and is piped in taffeta. Dresses that would ordinarily sell for $15, special at.....$10.00

WOMEN'S DRESSES AT $19.98.

Women's Dresses of Silk Crepon in Pussy Willow effects—one of the season's favorites. The waist has kimono sleeves, new yoke and band. The skirt has a graduated ruffle, forming the pannier effect. Dresses valued at $25; special at.....$19.98

WOMEN'S MAN-TAILORED SUITS $12.98

Of serge, with short jaunty coats, French backs, cutaway front and silk collars. They are trimmed with small buttons and lined with Peau de Cygne. The skirt has the one-tier pannier effect. Compare these suits with $19.98 values.

Second Floor.

Distinctive Millinery at $5.00 and $7.50

Hats are so different, individual and charming this season. The small and medium shapes predominate—some turbans, low in front, high in back or the other way about. Others in round shapes of snug-fitting styles with soft, flexible (anti-hatpin) crowns. And then, too, there are Sailor Hats of medium size, with crown shot through the rim (bandeau style).

The colors, too, are as rich as the styles—white seems to be a favorite; tete de negre and tango, chartreuse, lime, lettuce and the new peppermint greens; gendarme blue and plain rose shades most prominent.

Prices are most moderate throughout our entire stock of millinery. You can pay as much as $50 for a foreign model, or secure one of the most popular hats in Newark for $5 or $7.50. Truly the trimmings are not elaborate—but there's enough chic and smartness in them to please every woman who looks at them.

MOVIES SHOW FIRE OF BIG FILM PLANT

Describes Lack of Water Pressure at Fort Lee.

MAYOR'S COUNCIL THERE.

Hisses Greet Picture Which Showed Boy Holding Big Nozzle Out of Which Came Stream of Water Not Three Feet Above Lad's Head—Another Picture Shows Comparison.

Hackensack, N. J., April 17.—Moving pictures showing the lack of water pressure that was blamed for the $500,000 loss at the Eclair Film company movie plant at Fort Lee recently were shown at Englewood at a meeting of the Eastern Bergen County Improvement association. The meeting was attended by the mayors and councilmen of fifteen municipalities on the eastern side of this county, who for months have been engaged in active war on the Hackensack Water company for better supply and lower rates.

Mayor White of Fort Lee invited those at the meeting to a nearby movie house where the pictures taken by an operator of the Eclair company were shown. Hisses greeted the picture which showed a small boy holding a big nozzle out of which came a stream of water not three feet above the boy's head.

Mayor White was present when the picture was taken and vouched for it. Another picture taken with water on at full pressure was shown as a comparison. The association voted to take the pictures to Trenton when the association's committee and the representatives of the county board of freeholders go before the commission to state their double grievance.

A remarkable condition of affairs in the borough of Harrington Park was exposed by Mayor Taylor. He said that about three years ago the water company agreed to install mains for a guaranteed sum of $1,600 per year, payable in advance.

A subscription was started, and $1,100 was raised, the borough government contributing the balance of $500 with the understanding that thirty-three hydrants would be installed. The individual subscriptions ranged from $12 to $150. The mains were laid and the service installed, since which time the original subscribers have been compelled to pay each year the amount of their subscription or have their water service shut off despite the fact that the prevailing rate for new subscribers is now $10 per year. Besides this, only twenty-three of the thirty-three hydrants contracted for have been installed, although the water company is charging for the full number and allowed no rebate.

Montclair Women Plan Dormitory For Those Seeking Work.

Montclair, N. J., April 17.—At the annual session here of the Montclair Federation of Woman's Organizations it was announced that Montclair women purpose establishing a dormitory for foreign girls who seek employment.

Mrs. William T. Ropes presided. At the morning session reports were read and the Rev. E. S. Wiers, pastor of Unity church, and Miss Marion Tilden Burrett made addresses.

At the afternoon session addresses were delivered by the Rev. H. E. Fordick, pastor of the First Baptist church, on "Woman's Problems In Montclair;" Walter B. Dickinson, assistant secretary of the Playground and Recreation Association of America, on "Systematized Recreation," and F. C. Henderschott, assistant secretary and treasurer of the National Association of Corporation Schools, on "Industrial Efficiency as a National Asset."

They ask $70,000 damages for the death of their father, killed when a train hit an automobile in which he was riding at a grade crossing.

STATE NOTES.

Montclair suffragists are preparing for an open air meeting on May 2 in celebration of national suffrage day.

The safe in the postoffice in the Hilton section of South Orange township was blown open by yeggmen, and $400 in stamps and cash was taken.

Prosecutor Robert S. Hudspeth of Jersey City was elected trustee of the Furst company, the department store which was forced into bankruptcy recently.

Because he believed that Hardystone township was not in a position to pay his $2,000 a year salary D. Fred Aungst, supervising principal of schools, has resigned.

The board of works in Newark agreed on a new lighting contract with representatives of the Public Service Electric company that will mean a saving of $35,000 to the city within the next five years.

Joseph Vigler, who was convicted of setting fire to six tenement houses in Hoboken, was sentenced by County Judge Sullivan, sitting in Jersey City, to a term of three and a half to seven years in state prison.

FRUITS AND NUTS IN FOREIGN TRADE

More Than Half Billion Dollars' Worth Exported and Imported.

Washington, April 17.—More than half a billion dollars' worth of fruits and nuts passed into and out of domestic ports during the last decade, 365 million being imports and 220 million exports. The trade in each direction has about doubled in the last decade, imports having risen from 24½ to 48¾ million dollars and exports from 19¾ to 33¾ million dollars in the period from 1903 to 1913.

The opening months of 1914 show, according to statistics compiled by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, increased imports and diminished exports of fruits and nuts as compared with January and February of last year. Imports during the first two months of this year aggregated over 6 million dollars' value, or 20 per cent. more than those for a like period of 1913, while exports amounted to 4 million dollars, or about 30 per cent. less than a year ago. The sharp decrease in exports reflects the shortage in crops during 1913 on the Pacific coast, where, it is reported, stocks of all kinds of dried fruits on hand at the present time are at the lowest point ever recorded.

Our domestic food supply was supplemented last year by 32 million dollars' worth of fruits and 16 million dollars' worth of nuts from foreign countries and, in addition, over 4 million dollars' worth of fruits and nuts from Hawaii and 3½ million dollars' worth from Porto Rico.

A comparatively small number of countries supply most of the fruits and nuts, other than those of domestic production, consumed in the United States. Bananas are exclusively from American countries, chiefly the British West Indies and Central America; last year's imports were valued at 15 million dollars, or almost double the figures of 1903. Sicily supplied most of the 6½ million dollars' worth of lemons imported. We now import over 40 million pounds of dates annually, chiefly from Asiatic Turkey. Currants come principally from Greece, from which country we import from 30 to 40 million pounds annually. Most of the 20 million pounds of figs imported annually come from a strip of land near Smyrna about 90 miles long and less than 1 mile wide, this being the world's chief dried-fig district. We also import from 1 to 2 million cubic feet of grapes, nearly all from Spain. Spain rivals Asiatic Turkey as a source for our imported raisins and exceeds Greece and Italy in shipments of olives to the United States, though Italy still supplies most of our imported olive oil. The domestic orange has almost entirely supplanted the imported fruit, the few oranges still being imported coming chiefly from Jamaica. Mexican oranges are no longer imported, having been excluded by plant-quarantine order. In Hawaii the pineapple is becoming an important industry, that island having sent us last year 4 million dollars' worth, or forty times as much as in 1903. Cuba is also an important source, while pineapples are received from Porto Rico in rapidly increasing quantities.

The so-called English walnut is almost exclusively the product of France, from which country we import from 15 to 25 million pounds annually. Our imported almonds are mostly from Spain and Italy; our filberts from Italy and Spain; cream nuts from Brazil; coconuts in the shell, from Central American and the West Indies; coconut meat, or copra, from the Philippines and other oriental islands; and peanuts, from Japan, Spain, China, and in lesser quantities from various countries in Europe, Asia, and North America.

While domestic consumption still absorbs our rapidly growing production of fruits, the exports of that class are distributed in all parts of the world. Europe is the principal customer for all of our exported fruits except oranges, lemons, and raisins. Germany takes about one-half of the dried apples and the United Kingdom a like proportion of the green apples exported. Nearly one-half of the apricots went last year to France, Germany, and the Netherlands, while the United Kingdom alone took one-third of the total. Nearly all of the oranges, over three-fourths of the lemons, and over one-half of the raisins exported went to Canada. Germany and Canada each take about one-third of the dried peaches exported, the remainder going to about 50 different countries. Out of 94 million pounds of prunes exported last year, 34 million went to Germany, 14 million to France, 11 million to the United Kingdom, and 12 million to Canada.

Fruits and nuts exported last year included: Apples, green or ripe, 7½ million dollars; dried apples, 2¾ million; prunes, 5½ million; oranges, 2 2-3 million; apricots, 2 1-3 million; pears, 1½ million; raisins, 1 million; berries, two-thirds of a million; and peanuts, lemons, and peaches, each one-third million.

RECORD WANTS TO FILE NEW BRIEF IN GAS RATE WAR

Trenton, April 17.—George L. Record, counsel for the city of Passaic in the Passaic gas rate case, applied to the Court of Errors and Appeals yesterday to file a supplemental brief upholding his contention that the Board of Public Utility Commissioners, in fixing a ninety-cent rate, had placed too high a valuation upon the property of the Public Service Gas Company. The court announced that the application would be considered in conference.

As a reason for granting his request, Mr. Record said he wished to discuss in his additional brief several points involved in an opinion of the New York Court of Appeals in a recent rate case.

Chief Justice Gummere asked Mr. Record if he thought it would be necessary to use a magnifying glass to determine the principle laid down in the New York decision. Mr. Record replied in the negative, but added that he would like an opportunity to call the court's attention specifically to some of the questions involved in the New York case.

The opinion in question was in a Brooklyn gas case, in which the court held the Public Service Commission had erred in not allowing "going value" as a part of the valuation of the company's property.

Frank Bergen, representing the Public Service Gas Company, said he had no objection to the granting of Mr. Record's request, but remarked that if another brief were filed, he would like opportunity to present another supplemental brief in reply. A similar request was made by Grover C. Richman, as assistant counsel of the Board of Public Utility Commissioners.

ROCKHILL TO SERVE CHINA.

Ex-Ambassador Is Offered a High Civil Post by Yuan Shih Kai.

Mr. William W. Rockhill, who served as United States minister to China from 1905 to 1909 and who later was ambassador to Russia and to Turkey, has been offered an appointment as general adviser to the Chinese president by Yuan Shih Kai. Mr. Rockhill has been making a tour of observation of political conditions along the Russo-Chinese frontier, which included an investigation of the political upheavals in Mongolia and Tibet which resulted in these two countries declaring their independence of China.

The appointment offered to Mr. Rockhill of a government position in China shows that Yuan Shih Kai is alive to the value of American ideas in general and to the remarkable qualities of Mr. Rockhill in particular. His wide experience and mature judgment will undoubtedly be drawn upon to help steer the Chinese ship of state into smoother and less turbulent waters.

Interest is added to this appointment by the announcement of a contract entered into between the Chinese government and the Standard Oil company whereby the latter will have the right to search for petroleum deposits over a term of years and exploit them for the joint profit of China and the company. This opens a great vista of public expansion in the Celestial Kingdom and means that American enterprise has gained a foothold in China which, if followed up in other directions, will make the United States a power in the development of the vast resources of the far east.

LIPTON LAUDS AMERICANS.

Irish Baronet Makes the Address of Welcome at Banquet In Ceylon.

Sir Thomas Lipton made the address of welcome at a banquet tendered the American baseball players on a tour of the world when at Colombo, Ceylon. During the afternoon the Giants and White Sox played an exhibition game which was attended by thousands. In his speech Sir Thomas declared that the Americans were the greatest sportsmen in the world. He is visiting his tea plantation in Ceylon. Meanwhile the Shamrock IV., the new challenger for the America's cup, is being constructed in England. She will be the first yacht built in that country under the American rule measurement. It is expected that she will be launched in April and that she will be ready to begin sailing trials in May.

Speaking of the boat and its chances, Sir Thomas Lipton said:

"Both the challenger and defender under the conditions which have been agreed upon will be better types of useful yachts than the freaks which one was formerly compelled to send across the Atlantic, and I can say without any hesitation that I have a better chance of winning the cup than I ever had before. I would just like to add that I have often heard people talk about American sportsmanship, but no one living has had more experience of them than I have had, and I can say honestly that no man could receive fairer and kinder treatment than I have. I never want to meet any better sportsmen than my American friends."

OPENS UP NOSTRILS, CLEARS HEAD, ENDS COLD OR CATARRH AT ONCE

Instantly Relieves Swollen, Inflamed Nose, Head, Throat—You Breathe Freely—Dull Headache Goes—Nasty Discharge Stops.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it. Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat. clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight strugling for breath, with head stuffed, nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.—Adv

MASONS PLAN CEREMONY FOR LONG BRANCH FEDERAL FLAG

Long Branch, April 17.—Co-operation was promised the Masonic cornerstone committee by the Board of Commissioners at its meeting Wednesday morning, when Chairman R. H. Hughes, of the committee, explained what was being done to get the Most Warshipful Grand Lodge to come to Long Branch and perform the ceremony at the new federal building. The contractor has promised to have the building advanced ar enough to lay the corner-stone. The date for the corner-stone laying has been set for Memorial Day.

The local committee will visit Trenton next Thursday and endeavor to get the consent of the new grand master, Charles P. Russ, of Elizabeth, to come here Memorial Day and perform the ceremony. The committee feels sure that the Masonic Grand Lodge of New Jersey will hear its request. Corson Commandery, No. 15, Knights Templar, of Asbury Park, agreed to turn out in uniform and act as escort to the grand lodge.

RACE SUICIDE DANGER IN FEMINISM, SAYS PROFESSOR

Princeton, April 17.—That the feminist movement may result in race suicide was the warning sounded by Professor Edwin Grant Conklin, of Princeton, in a lecture on "Eugenics and Ethics" here.

"The feminist movement may inaugurate a greater freedom of thought, but if it also brings freedom from marriage and its responsibilities, it is suicidal," he said.

"Race preservation is the first law of nature, and the races which use their freedom wrongly will perish. Eugenics can do a great deal to improve the race, and the new religion of humanity should be improved by heredity.

"The judicious use of the will is the greatest faculty of men, and our schools and colleges make a great mistake when they provide an environment so refined, luxurious and easy as to deaden rather than call forth the will."

PROPOSALS FOR COAL.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, N. J., at a meeting held April 1914, notice is hereby given that the Board of Education will meet on Tuesday, April 21, 1914, at 8 p. m., at the Board room in the High School building, corner Ninth Street and Arlington Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place the said Board of Education will receive sealed proposals for furnishing 900 tons, more or less, of the best anthracite coal for steaming and hot-air purposes; in the different sizes as follows:

Pea coal	340 tons
Egg coal	150 tons
Stove coal	10 tons
Buckwheat coal	400 tons

Parties bidding will be required to specify in their bids the name of the coal and shippers of same.

All coal to be non-clinking, thoroughly screened over a seive fine enough to take out all dust and small particles of coal, and to be of quality acceptable to the Board of Education or their agent.

All coal to be placed in the coal bins within the public school buildings without any extra expense to the Board for handling or trimming the coal in the bins, and to be delivered at such time as the Board may direct.

Bids to specify whether long or short tons are to be delivered.

Payment by the Board after July 1, 1914.

All proposals to be sealed and endorsed "Proposals for Coal," and addressed to the Clerk of the Board.

No proposals will be opened prior to 8 p. m. Tuesday, April 21, and none will be received later than that hour.

Bidders may attend at the meeting of the Board on April 21st, and submit their bids in persons, but in writing, if desired.

The Board of Education reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

EXECUTOR MAY CONTINUE SALOON

License Committee Advised He May Do So in Clark Case.

COUNCIL TO CONSIDER

Matter Will Be Brought up in Executive Session of City Fathers Monday Night—Late Closing Hour Will Also Be Acted Upon.

The Councilmanic license committee met last night and discussed at length the probable action concerning the saloon license formerly held by the late John C. Clark at Liberty and West Third streets, and then decided to bring the matter before the whole Council in executive session Monday night prior to the adjourned meeting of that body. It is understood that Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed has informed the committee that he can see no reason why the Council could not allow an administrator or executor of the Clark estate to take over the business and continue it for the rest of the license year, but at the end of that time, according to the present ordinance, that place could not be licensed again

There is a feeling on the part of some of the Councilmen that the Clark estate should not be compelled to lose the proportionate share of the $1,200 license fee paid when the license was granted, and yet there appears to be no legal right for the Council to reimburse the estate in case the business is not continued. It is said that Joseph Clark, a brother of the late John C. Clark, would like to continue to business and no doubt the Council would permit an executor or some legal representative of the estate to run the place for the balance of the license year.

As stated yesterday, there are some of the members of the Council who favor a licensed place in that section of the city and would probably vote in favor of an application presented by a reliable party, while others are of the opinion that such a place is not needed there and would welcome the opportunity to abolish another saloon. When the matter comes up for final decision there will no doubt be a lively discussion for it is known that the Council is divided on the question.

The committee also discussed the petition of Peter J. Floersch, for permission to extend the hour of closing at night from 11 to 11:30 o'clock, in return for which concession he would be willing to open an hour later in the morning. It is understood that the committee would like to favor Mr. Floersch in this respect, but cannot see its way clear to make any distinction. If Mr. Floersch's request was granted, other hotels and possibly the saloons might want the same concession, although it is said that the saloon keepers are more in favor of the early opening hour as that is the time when they get considerable trade. This matter will also be considered in executive session by the Council, Monday night.

Mr. Floerschs request seemed to be a reasonable one, for he wishes to accommodate his patrons, including theatre parties and others who find the 11 o'clock closing hour early to suit their convenience. The public affairs committee also met last night and discussed the garbage question, a report on which will be made Monday night.

MRS. G. B. LINDAUER.

Bound Brook, April 18.—Mrs. George B. Lindauer died this morning at her home in South Bound Brook, following a long illness. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Frank Miller and Mrs. William Vossler.

SPECIAL MUSIC.

The Easter service rendered last Sunday morning by the First Baptist choir will be repeated tomorrow evening at 7:45. The program includes the "Hallelujah" chorus from Handel's "Messiah."

CREDITORS WILL MEET WITH CONTRACTORS

J. D. Loizeaux Issues Call for a Conference at High School on Monday.

Realizing that co-operation among the creditors of the P. J. Exner Co., the general contractors for the Plainfield High School addition, is necessary if their losses by reason of the contractor's failure are to be kept within reasonable limits, the J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Co., of this city, sent out today a letter to the creditors, inviting them to attend a meeting at 3 p. m. Monday, April 20, at the Board of Education rooms at the High School, which at their request have been placed at the disposal of the Exner creditors by the Board.

The Loizeaux company is one of the largest creditors and stands to lose a considerable sum if the work is not completed promptly; and the delay obliges the Board of Education to call in the bondsman to finish the building. Up to the present time the Board has taken no official action in the matter in order to protect so far as possible the local creditors, but in justice to the public who are interested in having the school finished promptly must act at once if the creditors do not get together.

In their letter the Loizeaux company calls attention to the fact that if the matter is not adjusted by Tuesday night, the Board of Education will probably call in the bondsmen to complete the job, and says that the writers are convinced that if the creditors can take up the work immediately and complete it promptly a saving of from $4,000 to $8,000 will be effected," and the building done under the contract as it now exists. A full statement of the situation will be made at the meeting, and an opportunity given for all creditors to act together in presenting an application to the Board to be allowed to reduce their loss by finishing the building.

LOCAL PHYSICIANS ATTEND CONFERENCE AT BONNIE BURN

The consulting staff of Bonnie Burn visited the Sanatorium yesterday, on the invitation of the medical members of the board of managers, to discuss the treatment of patients, and many valuable suggestions were offered. The staff visited all parts of the sanatorium, and expressed themselves well pleased with the general arrangements and care of the patients. Dr. Henry J. Spencer, formerly of the New York Hospital, has been appointed assistant physician.

MISS DOUGLAS HOSTESS AT HOME RECEPTION

Miss Lucy Douglas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Douglas, of Grove streetfi, entertained about thirty-five of her friends at her home last evening. Dancing was enjoyed throughout the evening and various games were played. Music for the dancing was furnished by Miss Helen Spencer. A feature of the evening was candy making by all of the guests. Refreshments were served during the evening.

Those who were present were the Misses Elizabeth Hilpot, Ethel Hilpot, Marjorie Burtis, Margaret E. Ewart, Gertrude King, Anna Hull, Amelia Brizzie, Edith Dalley, Lillian Spencer, Lucy Douglas, Mabel Douglas, Jubilee Rowley, Edna Green, Dorothy Martin, Madeline Blair, and James Goodwin, Ralph Smalley, Russell Lee, Ronold Conroy, Hoyt Tomkinson, Dey Love, Ashley Burner, Lester Chandler, Franklin Lowe, Charles Beckman, Warren Townley, Roscoe VanCamp, Philip Schuyler and Frank Dunning. Miss Warn and George and Hary Jesperson were present from Fanwood.

HOST PLANNED MANY UNIQUE SURPRISES

George E. Hall Entertained Park Ave. Baptist Church People Last Night.

George E. Hall was the host for the members of the Park Avenue Baptist church at a unique social held in the parlors of the edifice, last night, a large attendance being present at the affair. Many novel forms of entertainment were introduced during the evening, including several original games never before tried. The programmed events were run on a time schedule, new features being introduced at regular intervals, all being in the nature of surprises to everyone but Mr. Hall.

During the evening several bouquets of flowers were presented, one to Mrs. William N. Runyon by Mr. Hall; one to Mrs. Gabriel Reid Maguire by Judge William N. Runyon on behalf of the Agoga Bible Class, and one to Dr. Magnire by George E. Place for the board of trustees. Emil Cross, a Swiss bell ringer, pantomimist, impersonator and monologist, rendered a program of musical numbers, and Professor McKay gave a number of impersonations. The interior of the church was tastefully and appropriately decorated for the occasion by Laggren & Greene.

The committees in charge of the affair were: Chairman, Howard S. Mason, William Doane, Charles B. Hellyer, George Place, Jr., Howard Palmer, Henry G. Thompson, Francis Mortimer, Carl L. Wilson, Charles A. Gaskill, Fred V. Mills and Walter Weber; reception, the Misses Edith Lowry, Lyle Smith, Madeline Moy, Jean Guttridge and Ethel Neal; entertainment, the Misses Betty Mills, Elanore Stutsman, Marie Kling, Ruth Maguire, Edna Groff and Edith Bush. Following the entertainment refreshments were served.

MAJOR W. D. W. MILLER SERIOUSLY ILL AT HOME

Major W. D. W. Miller, a widely-known veteran of the Civil War, is quite ill at his home on East Seventh street, being under the care of a physician and trained nurses. He was in New York on Easter Sunday and again the following day, and on Monday night he was taken suddenly ill with what appeared to be a paralyetic condition and since then has been helpless.

Major Miller, who will be 79 years of age on May 2, has been particularly active and in fine spirit of late, attending to business regularly. He was reported today as resting quite comfortably and his physician thinks there is no immediate danger. Today's contributed editorial in the Daily Press is from the pen of Major Miller and will doubtless be read with unusual interest. This article was prepared two weeks ago and recalls incidents of the Civil War in which he performed valiant service.

MISS AMY R. HAYNES BRIDE OF WALTER FOWLER

Miss Amy Rose Haynes, daughter of John Haynes, of Dunellen avenue, Dunellen, and Walter Fowler, of New York, were married at 8:30 o'clock this morning at St. Paul's Episcopal church, New York city. The couple sailed on the Arcadian at 10:30 o'clock for Bermuda. Upon their return they will visit Washington. The couple will live in New York.

Mrs. Fowler is well known both here and in Dunellen, where she has many friends. She is the sister of Miss Jessie Haynes, contralto soloist, of the First Baptist church, this city. Only the immediate relatives attended the wedding.

FELL THROUGH WINDOW.

William Conger, of 955 South Second street, while returning home on a Main Line trolley last night, fell and smashed his head through one of the car windows. He was taken to the office of Dr. Albert Pittis where the cuts he sustained were bandaged up and he was later able to go to his home. According to the police the victim was intoxicated.

MUST PAY FOR GLASS.

Edward Fitzgerald, who fell through a show case in front of the Sebring building Thursday night, while in an intoxicated condition, was instructed to pay $7 to the owner for the glass by City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court, this morning.

FUNERAL OF MRS. LAING.

The funeral of Mrs. Smith Laing will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of John A. Kriney, 361 Evona avenue. The burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

MANY ATTRACTIONS PLANNED FOR SALE

Charity Circle of King's Daughters Will Hold Unique Affair.

Charity Circle of King's Daughters will hold a unique sale at the home of Mrs. John Peters Stevens, 985 Hillside avenue, on Monday, April 20. The forty members have taken great pains and pleasure in planning this sale, and are to have a large variety of novel and useful household articles.

Garden and flower baskets will be for sale, and little folding tables, candle-sticks and candles and many novel as well as useful things for the home will be found. Tea will be served by associate members of the circle who will have charge of the dining room.

The officers of the circle are: President, Mrs. William C. Hubbard; secretary, Miss Halloway; treasurer, Miss Moore. The proceeds will be used for carrying on the work of the Day Nursery.

ANTI-SUFFRAGISTS TO HOLD MEETING MONDAY

Brilliant Speakers Will Address Gathering at Y. M. C. A. Hall.

Much interest is being manifested by the members of the local Anti-Suffrage League in the meeting which they have aranged for Monday night at the Y. M. C. A. Hall. They are expecting a large attendance of people on both sides of the question, and following the talks by the principal speakers, an open discussion will be a feature.

Rev. Frank Goodwin, D. D., of Westfield, will act as the presiding officer, and the speakers of the evening will be Miss Lucy Price, of Cleveland, Ohio, who was one of the speakers before the Congressional committee at the hearing a few months ago on Woman Suffrage, and former Assemblyman John A. Matthews, of Essex county, an earnest advocate of the anti-suffrage side. Miss Price and Mr. Matthews are both brilliant talkers, and all who attend are assured an interesting evening's discussion. The meeting will begin at 8:15.

GIFFORD PINCHOT MAY BE FEATURE OF SUFFRAGE WEEK

Mrs. Henry C. Wells will decorate the store which will be used by the Plainfield Suffrage League for the sale which it plans to hold during the week beginning April 27. The committee in charge have secured for the sale, the store formerly used by W. L. Smalley and Company, for a butcher shop at the corner of Fourth street and Park avenue, and they are making great preparations for the sale. On Monday useful household articles will be disposed of; on Tuesday, candy; on Wednesday, cake, and on Thursday, fancy articles and things suitable for use on the porch during the summer months. The store will remain closed Friday, and on Saturday all the Suffragists will devote their time to getting out an edition of the Daily Press, and to a number of open-air meetings in the city park, Eighth street and Arlington avenue. All these activities will be conducted by the women.

Thursday night the men's branch of the league will hold an open meeting in co-operation with the Forum, and it is expected that Gifford Pinchot will be the speaker.

MOBUS BROTHERS AND A. E. SMITH GET CONTRACTS

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders met on Thursday at Somerville and awarded the contract for making improvements on the Manville road in Hillsborough township to Frank Mobus and Arthur E. Smith, of this city. The bids of the local contractors was $29,618.14.

Among the other bidders were: Richard & Gaston, $34,058.20; J. L. LaComb, $41,458.98; John McNabb, $42,492.87; Whitaker & Diehl, $24,533.96, and F. W. Swears, $37,727.87.

Next Thursday the contracts for the Greenbrook road bridge and North Plainfield township structure will be awarded.

APPLICATION REFUSED.

Yesterday in the Somerset County Courts, at Somerville, Judge Beekman refused a hotel license to Clementina Colosso, who wished a license for the Mt. Bethel Hotel, which had been formerly conducted by Alfred E. Binz.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE FACING A CRISIS

Entertainment to Be Given Here by Grads Will Help Building Fund.

Wellesley College alumnae of Plainfield and vicinity are doing their part to help in raising $2,000,000 to replace College Hall, which was destroyed by fire, and are presenting "Les Miserables' in moving pictures at the Plainfield theatre next Friday and Saturday.

The little band of twenty to thirty loyal Wellesley alumnae in securing the films have done so at considerable expense, since they are considered examples of the best in moving pictures. To those who rank "Les Miserables" among their favorite books, the films will be a special delight and to those who have not read their Victor Hugo for many years they bring again the same breathless interest that the book does.

It is a spirit of hopefulness and undaunted courage in the fact of the disaster which wiped out the central life of the college which is inspiring the alumnae to work to raise the large sum which is needed for rebuilding, but in doing so they realize that they must have the help of all those who know what Wellesley has stood for in the higher education of women and who want to do their share in restoring what has been destroyed by the fire.

UNITED ASSOCIATION HELD ITS FIRST ANNUAL DANCE

The first annual ball of the United Association of Drop Forgers, Die Sinkers and Trimmer Makers, was held in Sebring's Auditorium, last night, a large number of guests taking advantage of the excellent program of dance music afforded.

The local members of the organization had charge of the arrangements for the affair and conducted the entertainment. Several officers of the association were also present last night.

BORO SCHOOL BOARD WILL NAME VOSSLER'S SUCCESSOR

Members of the teachers committee of the North Plainfield Board of Education met at the home of Chairman F. L. Sill, on Myrtle avenue, last night, and conferred with candidates for the position of supervising principal to succeed Arthur B. Vossler, who will resign at the end of the present term. Many applications have been received for the office and all are being considered by the board.

Nothing definite was decided upon at last night's meeting, but it is understood that the members of the committee have selected the names of the most likely applicants who will be turned over to the board at the next meeting.

PROGRESSIVE GAME PARTY GIVEN BY MISS GEORGE

Seven couples enjoyed a party of progressive games given by Miss Helen George, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. George, at her home on Duer street, last evening. There were three tables used and various games were played. Miss Grace Winnie won the first prize of the ladies, and William Demler took the men's high honors.

Music was also a feature of the evening. Refreshments were served at a late hour and the party broke up shortly after midnight. Those who were present are the Misses Grace Winnie, Ruth Day, Katherine Day, Annette Steiner, Lucile Ewart, Clara Runyon, Helen George, and Frank Webster, Duclos VanMater, Carlton Smith, Percy Bailey, Pierson Bailey, William Demler and Douglas Demler.

RAHWAY BOY MISSING.

FOUR ITALIANS ARE HELD ON SUSPICION

Believed to Be Implicated in Fire Which Destroyed the Glaser Property.

Four Italians were arrested at Samptown, yesterday afternoon, on suspicion of being implicated with the burning of a large quantity of lumber on the farm where the Glaser Fertilizer company is erecting a new plant, on the night of February 22 last. Mr. Glaser engaged detectives to work on the case, and one of the men, an Italian, lived with a number of countrymen at South Plainfield for several weeks.

In this way sufficient evidence was obtained, it is said, to warrant the arrest of four of the Italians. They were taken to New Brunswick, where they have been held for the grand jury. There has been considerable opposition to the Glaser plant at South Plainfield, especially on the part of Italians and it is said that they have made their threats that the owner would never operate the plant.

Mr. Glaser during the past few years has suffered several very heavy losses from fire, twice when his plant was located at Alton, and since his removal to Sampton he has been annoyed considerably not only by fires, but petty thieving.

ROCKELLER BOY SENT TO JAMESBURG SCHOOL

Raymond Rockefeller, of Prescott place, the fourteen-year-old boy who has been giving the local police considerable trouble during the past two months, has been committed to the State Home for Boys at Jamesburg by order of Judge James C. Connolly in the Union County Court of Quarter Sessions, at Elizabeth, yesterday. He is incorrigible and when arraigned for the third time inside of two weeks before Judge DeMeza the latter held him for the Court of Quarter Sessions.

The parents of the youth accompanied him to Elizabeth and the mother made a pathetic scene in the courtroom when sentence was pronounced. Efforts to reform the boy by the local authorities have proven futile and his mania for riding coal trains has given the police and his parents much trouble.

LOCAL GIRLS WILL TAKE PART IN BIG EXHIBITION

All members of the gymnastic squad of the local Y. W. C. A. who are to take part in the monster exhibition on April 28 in New York, are urged to be present at the Y. M. C. A. tonight to rehearse the drills with Miss Mabelle Ford, physical director of the Recreation Center, New York city. Miss Ford is to be the leader of the exhibition and is coming here tonight to perfect the local girls in their part of the program. The exhibition will be held in the Seventy-first Regiment Armory and 400 participants from ten different associations will take part.

The entertainment will consist of folk dances and club swinging. Many features have been placed on the program. The local association will be represented by twenty-five girls and in order to make their showing as good as possible the leader has consented to come out and help them.

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM FOR CLUB'S ENTERTAINMENT

The annual entertainment of the Monday Afternoon Club will be held Thursday evening, April 23, at 8:30 in the Hartridge Auditorium. After the reception of members and guests, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Anderson, of New York, will present in costume the "Evolution of the Dance." Max Jacobs, violinist, and Miss Virginia Holmes, pianist, will interpret the rhythmical characteristics of the various types of the dance as it has come down to us from by-gone generations. Mr. Jacobs will also render several selections between the dance numbers.

Mrs. Frank C. Ard, chairman of the entertainment committee, will be at Hartridge Auditorium, Monday afternoon, April 20, from 2:30 to 5:30 to supply the demand for extra guest tickets as provided for by the rules of the club.

EASTER SERVICES.

The Easter program of the Park Avenue Baptist Bible school is to be given tomorow evening at 7:45 o'clock. This service was postponed one week in order to give more time to Prof Stout, Easter Sunday night, which was his last day in Plainfield. At the close of the service tomorrow evening the ordinance of baptism is to be administered to several candidates.

P. S. C. APPEALS FROM DECISION

Institutes Certiorari Proceedings to Review Order of Utility Commission.

AS TO FREE LIGHTS

Company Contends That State Board Is Without Jurisdiction to Make the Order and That Contract Was Abrogated by Law of 1911.

Trenton, April 18.—The Public Service Electric Company has instituted certiorari proceedings in the Supreme Court to review an order of the Board of Public Utility Commissioners compelling the company to furnish to the city of Plainfield electricity free of charge to certain of its municipal buildings, in accordance with an agreement entered into with the city.

The Public Service contends that the Board is without jurisdiction to make the order and that the contract in question was abrogated by the law of 1911, creating the Board of Public Utility Commissioners, which expressly prohibited the company from doing what the order requires to be done. It is further alleged that the order of the Board is in violation of both the State and the United States constitutions.

The announcement that the Public Service Corporation has decided to appeal from the decision of the Public Utilities Commission, comes as a surprise, for it was understood that when arrangements were made to take the matter up with the State Utilities Commission, that the company as well as the city agreed to abide by the decision. Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed gave the company to understand that if the city was beaten, it would stand by the decision and in the future pay for all lighting. It was then understood that the company would stand by the verdict.

COMPLAINANT WAS MADE ONE OF THE DEFENDANTS

Arraigned before Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court, this morning, on a charge of disorderly conduct preferred by Mrs. Katherine Stites, of West Third street, James Filmore was given a suspended sentence of $25 fine or forty days in the county jail. Mrs. Stites, the complainant, was made defendant by the court on the same charge and given a suspended sentence of $20 fine or forty days in the county jail.

Filmore, who has been the star boarder in the Stites' home for some time, was alleged to have threatened the life of his boarding mistress. He appeared in court with a bandaged head due to cuts he claimed to have received at the hands of Mrs. Stites, who wielded a lead filled billie with telling effect on his cranium. The trouble started at 10:30 o'clock Thursday night when Patrolman Flatley was attracted to the Stites home by cries of "Murder" and Police!" Filmore was represented in court this morning by Robert Newton Crane.

"THE CARNIVAL OF FLOWERS" PRESENTED AT HOPE CHAPEL

A large audience greeted the children who presented the cantata concert at Hope chapel, last evening, the entertainment being presented under the title of "The Carnival of Flowers." The children showed evidences of being well trained by the committee from the Girls' Monday Club, under whose auspices the event was held. The costumes represented the products of nature in the realm of flowers. The committee in charge was composed of the Misses Eunice Eckert, Agnes Leighs, Jessie Duncan, Mrs. F. L. Greene, Mrs. Frank Rimmer and Mrs. William Baker.

THOMAS F. FINUCAN DIES AFTER A LONG ILLNESS

Thomas F. Finucan, of New York, died this morning, after a lingering illness, at the home of his mother, Mrs. Mary Conway, 24 Warren street, the borough. Mr. Finucan was thirty years of age and was a member of the Woodmen of the World, as well as the Pastime A. C., of New York.

Beside his mother, Mr. Finucan is survived by a wife and four children, all of New York and one brother, J. J. Conway, of this city. The funeral services will be held from his late residence, 640 Coster avenue, the Bronx, on Tuesday afternoon. Interment will be made at Calvary cemetery.

To the Public Utility Commission,

Dunellen & Vicinity

Borough Engineer Lewis T. Churchill yesterday visited his uncle, Mayor R. T. Churchill, of Cecaucus, who has been ill.

Mrs. A. E. Smalley, of Prospect avenue, attended the funeral of her cousin, James Astel, at Annandale, yesterday.

Benjamin Dodwell, of Jackson avenue, has been enjoying one week of his annual two weeks' vacation this week. He will take the remaining week at a later date. Mr. Dodwell is employed in the New York offices of the American Car and Foundry Company.

Schuyler VanderVeer, of Prospect avenue, is visiting his chum, Lloyd Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Smith, of Grove street, at New York University, where the young man is taking up a course in chemistry. Mr. VanderVeer will shake the dust of the intellectual mart off of his feet this evening and depart for Brooklyn at which place he will visit relatives over Sunday.

Miss Nellie Vail was able to leave her bed and sit up for the first time in four weeks, yesterday.

William Victorson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ascar Victorson, of First street, and Arthur O'Leary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence O'Leary, of Whittier avenue, played first base and second base respectively for Plainfield High School, yesterday afternoon, against the Central High, of Newark, and materially aided their team in scoring a splendid 2 to 0 victory.

The O. Z. T. Fraternity will meet with J. A. Bogardus, of New Market road, Monday evening.

George Martin, Russell Brakley, "Pud" Mauer, Leo Logan, Harry Giddes, Benjamin Cole and Arthur Barto have made arrangements to accompany Alfred Day, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Day, to New York city this evening, at which place he is to run in the one mile event of the Inter-scholastic meet at New York University. If the Dunellen flier fails to come home in the lead it will surely be no fault of his accompanying rooters.

Up to a late hour last evening no improvement had been noted in the condition of Miss Mayola Smaliey.

"Amateur Night" proved to be a big drawing card in the local theatre, last evening. Every seat in the house was taken early and there was no remaining standing room after 7:45. From the time James McNeil, of the "Mutt and Jeff," Plainfield team, made his appearance until the last, in the person of another Plainfielder had made his exit as "Old Black Joe" by the hook route, the house with rare intervals of silence was filled with hoots, yells, whistles, laughter and cries of "get the hook," "give him the hook," etc. The appearance of the "Pride of Dunellen" in the person of Goodwin Lawrence, was greeted with cries of derision, and although "Goody" as he is commonly called hereabouts, commenced at once to jig in a strenuous manner, the noise that his clogging must have been making was drowned by a regular bedlam and after five full minutes, every second of which must have tortured him. "Goody" was finally withdrawn with the hook. "Goody" was finally brought forth again and after the announcement had been made that he had jokes to unfold, "Goody" attempted to spring them but the hearing faculties of the house were rendered deaf to what he was saying and the moving of his lips was all that could be discerned. The two little mite daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fiddler, of Rock avenue, together sang "Maryland, My Maryland," in a manner which took with the house and they would surely have taken the first prize that was awarded by acclamation to Patrick Honan, of Clinton avenue, Plainfield, who played the harmonica, if they had been allowed to compete.

Stephen T. Kennedy, of Washington avenue, on acount of the prevailing dull times enjoying a slight respite from his duties at the plant of the Watson-Stillman Company, at Garwood.

Tonight will witness the windup of the successful three nights' fair of the W. G. Holton Council. The feature of the evening will be the awarding of the $75 diamond to the purchaser of the lucky ticket, a large number of which have been sold.

Barney Hogan, the genial head day gate-tender at the Washington avenue crossing of the Central Railroad, is back on the job again after two days' of enforced idleness on account of illness.

The Young Men's Bible Class of the Baptist church held their annual dinner in the Sunday-school room of the church last night. Dr. H. K. Carroll of the Methodist church gave a very instructive lecture to the boys and many outsiders who took advantage to hear him lecture. In reviewing the things done by the class during the past year it was noted that the attendance had been good. A considerable amount was also given to missions. The enrollment has nearly doubled, there now being fifty odd members.

The last game to be played by either of the Parish House basketball teams this year will be tonight, when the second team lines up against the "Canns,' a fast aggregation of local players. The first team is through for the season although three of the players, Ricketts, Dallas and Marston are playing on the All-Stars, composed of the best players in Plainfield and vicinity, which is scheduled to play one more game this season.

The weekly sale of the Fanwood Candy Kitchen is being held in the Fanwood Library this afternoon.

The members of the two local Boy Scout troop, Wolf and Hyene Patrol, held a rehearsal for the minstrel they will give in the Parish House on the evening of May 1. They will have the latest song hits and several of the boys will clog. The two troops will olsa do some drills and other Boy Scout maneuvres. The tickets are selling at fifteen cents apiece and may be obtained from any of the boys in either troop.

As is usual at this time of year forest fires are raging on the mountains in back of Scotch Plains, destroying hundreds of acres of woodland. They are for the most part incendiary being set by young boys. The local fire department is called out every year to extinguish fires which endanger property.

The local schools will reopen Monday for the spring term after being closed the past ten days for the annual Easter vacation. The school children are in the middle of a campaign to better the punctuality and attendance records and are succeeding. Among the fourten school disdistricts in the county not included in cities, Fanwood township stands third in punctuality and tenth in attendance, a jump of four places in the first and two in the latter. It is harder to maintain a god standard in this district as the pupils are scattered over a area of about ten miles, making it difficult to attend in bad weather.

Miss Margaret Allen has returned to her home in Park Hill, N. Y., after visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Meggy, of the borough.

William Cottell, of Tilliston road, has purchased a new 1914 Ford auto.

The bowling alleys at the Parish House have just been re-surfaced and oiled. They were badly warped as there is no cellar under them.

The New York Telephone Company completed yesterday the replacing of about twenty-five poles in the 'Plains and borough besides a number of new ones. The number of telephones in this place is rapidly increasing owing to the building and to meet this demand the company has been forced to establish a distributing station on North avenue, the borough. The borough now has some sixty old 'phones, while Scotch Plains has half that number.

THE TANGO.

Tango parties have taken the country by storm. Everywhere by everybody is this dance now attempted. The dancing pump was dressy; it was also light, and, therefore, not tiresome to the feet, and so the most practical dancing shoe. Now this dancing pump was found to be very slippery on highly polished dance floors and so was practically worthless in dancing the tango. However, the PACKARD people have overcome this feature by equipping the soles of the with 3 rubber discs, thus eliminating the slipping, but still maintaining the light dressy evening pump for dancing.

Studebaker

The Studebaker "FOUR" Touring Car, $1050

The Studebaker "SIX" Touring Car, $15.75

The Studebaker "FOUR" Touring Car is an electrically lighted and started five-passenger automobile. The $1050 price alone, however, does not begin to indicate the car's real value, for its mechanical qualities are quite as satisfying as the price.

From motor to rear axle the mechanical design, materials and construction of the Studebaker "FOUR" can be properly compared only with the same features in cars of much higher price. It is a trustworthy, service-giving car.

The "FOUR" motor is especially powerful, so that the car responds instantly to acceleration. For the same reason, and because of its light weight in proportion to its power, the "FOUR" is a very unusual hill climber. The long stroke motor is efficient at all speeds, silent, vibrationless and very economical in gasoline and oil consumption.

The rear axle is of the full floating type, with all parts completely accessible. There are nine Timken bearings in the transmission and drive unit, and two Timken bearings in the hub of each front wheel.

In appearance the new Studebaker "FOUR" fills the eye. It is a big, handsome car, with plenty of room for five passengers. The seats are deeply upholstered; the paint and finish exceedingly handsome and durable.

The excellent balance of the car, due to the proper distribution of its weight, and also to its splendid spring action, give it great "road-ability."

And best of all, the "FOUR" is equipped with a long tested and exceedingly efficient electric system. A push of your heel starts the motor; a touch of a button lights the lights. Central control and left hand drive add to the owner's convenience.

The equipment, as in all Studebaker cars, is thorough. The rims are demountable and detachable, with an extra rim carried on tire irons in the rear. Studebaker Jiffy curtains are provided, which can be quickly put in place from inside the car. The furnishings include robe rail, tool box, tools, electric horn, etc.

From every standpoint—comfort, durability, economy, appearance, efficiency—the Studebaker "FOUR" is a car to be sought for and purchased, because in its field it has no equal.

It is perhaps the greatest achievement among all those which stand to the credit of Studebaker factories that such a car as the electrically lighted and started, seven-passenger Studebaker "SIX" can be sold to the public completely equipped for $1575.

The time is past when anyone can well question the desirability of owning a "SIX." The mechanical advantage of a six-cylinder car can be easily demonstrated beyond the shadow of a doubt, both in theory and in actual experience; in fact, it is not too much to say that when you have gotten acquainted with such a car as the Studebaker "SIX" it will be impossible to persuade you that four-cylinder car of the same horsepower can equal it.

Let your mind dwell for a moment upon the striking fact that you can purchase the Studebaker "SIX" for $1575. Here is a car of unexcelled design, simple, accessible construction, highly efficient, skillfully designed, and honestly built. It is a seven-passenger car, with rich body upholstery, whose luxury is enhanced by the very unusually efficient electric starter and electric lighting system.

The remarkable nature of this achievement becomes clear when you realize that amongst comparable six-cylinder cars there is practically none to be found within $400 to $800 of its price.

There is also this additional advantage in the Studebaker "SIX:" That its light weight makes it very easy on tires, and exceptionally economical in the use of fuel.

The principle of the "SIX" motor produces continuous flow of power. There is no lag in the engine. For this reason the wear on the motor, as well as on the transmission and rear axle is much reduced.

The finish and equipment of the Studebaker "SIX" is superb. The long lines of the body are exceptionally handsome. The paint work is lustrous. The detail of the two disappearing seats, as a small example of careful work, is particularly good; they fold forward into a recess at the back of the front seat, leaving the tonneau clear when the auxiliary seats are not in use.

Measure against the Studebaker "SIX" any car which may be suggested to you, and the predominace of this "SIX" will force itself upon you convincingly.

THE BEAUTIFUL CITY OF MEXICO IN DANGER OF FURTHER DAMAGE

The Most Historic Spot on Our Continent.

May Soon Again Become a Battlefield.

"ON to the City of Mexico!" is the cry that is inspiring the Constitutional forces in Mexico, who are gradually drawing nearer to the goal of their desires. The eyes of the world are turning to this beautiful and historic city, which apparently is so soon to be plunged again into the horrors of civil strife. Already the foreign legations are making full preparations to deal with any emergency as well as possible, so far as the protection of foreign lives is concerned. Machine guns have been taken from a British cruiser and consigned to the British legation. All the legations are working in accord, although the United States embassy is not specifically included in either the plans or the organization. It is probable that some plan will be made by which Americans may assist in a noncombatant capacity. The measures are being carried out with extreme secrecy. The diplomats refuse to discuss the arrangements in any way, although they admit that they have taken such measures as they consider necessary for the protection of their nationals. It is generally known that rifles have been sent to the City of Mexico by the British, German, Spanish and other governments for police and defensive purposes.

In spite of Mexico's internal troubles, its capital still ranks as one of the most attractive cities of North America. Few cities of this western world compare in historical interest and beauty of setting with this ancient capital of the Aztecs.

In many respects the present City of Mexico, with its beautiful parks and asphalt streets, resembles Paris. It is an easy place to get around in, the center of the city's busy life and also of the fine electric street car system being the Zocalo or Plaza Major, a square surrounding or near which are the cathedral, thieves' market, municipal palace and large store and street booths. This park is an open space for the common people and was the heart of the fighting zone during the civil strife in the city.

FRONT OF THE CATHEDRAL.

The Alameda is in the center of the city, situated on a main street, once the causeway of the Spaniards. It was the Indian market place in the time of Montezuma and used by the Spaniards for their auto-da-fes. Today it is a beautiful grass and flower garden, named from the alamos, or poplars, which fill it.

The Paseo de la Reforma was planned by Empress Carlotta. It is nearly a block wide, three miles long and level as a floor. Along its side are auto paths, wide walks, hundreds of bronze figures of illustrious men, and it widens into circles in which are band stands and statues which rank among the world's works of art.

This is but the approach to the Hill of the Grasshopper, on which is Chapultepec castle, today a beautiful building with a famous outlook and the permanent quarters of the National Military school—the West Point of Mexico. Though the interior of the castle is interesting, with its relics of Cortes and Maximilian, it is outdoors that one lingers, for below lie the historic city and nearby numerous battlefields and shining lakes framed by snow white mountains.

One of the most interesting of the old buildings in the city is the Municipal palace, which overlooks the Zocalo, and, like most of the structures in this Atzec city, it has a history. The present building dates back to 1692, but before that Montezuma and Cortes had official houses there. It has a frontage of nearly 700 feet, is built around several courts, contains the state rooms of the president, senate chamber and official residences and is the headquarters of the army. Three entrances are guarded by soldiers, and it is necessary to obtain a permit to enter. It contains a famous hall of ambassadors, whose walls are hung with portraits of patriots, among them George Washington. It is here the president receives diplomats, and here the late President Madero was placed under arrest by General Huerta. Over the main gateway to the palace hangs the famous liberty bell of Mexico, which was rung in 1810 by the priest Hidalgo—called the savior of his country—to start his people to fight for liberty. The Independence monument is a beautiful structure, 130 feet in height, commemorating the throwing off of the Spanish yoke. The National museum is a fine building, rich in ancient treasures and Aztec specimens.

There is always variety in Mexico City. The street scenes are odd to Americans, as are the magnificent am-phitheaters erected for bullfights. Side by side stand the historic and the new, the ancient and modern in architecture. In the best residence section there are a few modern flat buildings, but the better class, as a rule, live in houses built around beautiful patios. The cathedral overlooks the Zocalo and is an ancient landmark and one of the historic and famous structures of the world.

This building was erected on the site of an Aztec temple in which human sacrifices were offered. Its construction began in 1573, and it is not yet finished. The outside walls are very thick, there is a wonderful façade, the towers are over 200 feet high, and the interior is grand and severe. There are many chapels besides the main church, in one of which Iturbide, "the liberator," the first emperor of Mexico, lies buried. The altars and choir are beautifully carved, and the latter is inclosed by a remarkable and handsome railing of tumbago, a composite metal of gold, silver and copper made in Spain. This same material is employed to embellish the inside of the city's most fashionable clubhouse, the Jockey club house, whose facade is incrusted with blue and white tiles imported from China and whose members are the most exclusive of Mexican society. The Americans, English, Spanish, Germans and French also have clubs, but none is as elegant as this. Many of the most beautiful and historic buildings were badly damaged in the battles between Diaz and Madero in the heart of the city.

There are many French, Germans, Spaniards and other nationalities besides Americans in Mexico City, which is a most interesting and magnificent capital. Its past is rich in history with its associations of Aztec, Spanish and successive Mexican regimes. What will its future be?

A good beginning is half the battle.
Perseverance is the other half.

AFRAID OF THE DENTIST?

Here Are Some Hints That May Help You Through Your Ordeal.

Everybody dreads the dentist. The bravest heart quails at the thought of the man with the forceps. One who has been through many trying experiences with the dentist and who has made a study of efficiency in all directions claims to have made some discoveries that ought to be helpful to all. Here are some of his suggestions. Your siege in the dentist chair will be greatly lightened if you will remember a few things:

Keep the throat moist by gargling from time to time as you sit in the chair with water mixed with some antiseptic preparation of an ordinary character such as every dentist has at hand.

It is not a bad idea before you go to a dentist to take a bit of chewing gum in the mouth to promote a free flow of saliva. If the gum has a flavor, that will be helpful and will check the tendency to dryness of the throat and the tickling sensation that follows.

Carry a large handkerchief with perfume or cologne on it, which you can hold in your hand and inhale the cologne whenever you have a moment's rest. You will find it very refreshing. While the dentist is at work the handkerchief will give your fingers something to clasp. This may help to divert your attention from the work on your teeth.

Relieve the strain upon your throat at every opportunity while the dentist is changing his instruments by lifting your head from the chair for even a single moment—and taking a deep breath. Shut your eyes and think of some problem, some particular friend or of some one in whom you are deeply interested. This will divert your thought from the dentist's work.

Remember that most of the pain we fear we can escape. In these days dentistry is less painful than ever before. It will probably never be entirely painless, yet much of the work of the dentist is now done without inflicting pain, though, of course, it is always unpleasant to have any one operating with steel instruments in your mouth.

If a painful moment comes while you are sitting in the chair you can relieve it instantly by taking a long breath. Try it and see.—Leslie's Weekly.

YACHTSMEN'S MAGIC EIGHT.

That Number of Letters Favored For Name of Vanderbilt Cup Racer.

Sentiment is taking hold in the matter of providing a name for the Vanderbilt syndicate cup yacht, designed by Nat Herreshoff, and it is a matter of public discussion about the Herreshoff boat shops at Bristol, R. I., that the new racer, yet in the initial stages of construction, will have a name of eight letters, conforming to a sentimental policy of long standing relative to cup yachts. A multitude of names has been suggested informally, but the naming of the yacht may not take place for weeks to come.

It is pointed out that the Reliance, Vigilant, Defender and Columbia, all successful cup yachts, had each only eight letters in their names, while the Constitution, a cup candidate in 1907, had several more letters in her name. She was not selected.

It is said that having eight letters in a yacht's name is a good omen.

Queered Herself.

"Do you permit old ladies to kiss your baby?" asked the one who was still trying to appear girlish.

"Oh, yes," replied the proud young mother. "Go ahead and give the little dear a smack."—Chicago Record Herald.

A BIT OF HISTORY—THE COOPER SHOP.

What was it? When was it? Where was it?

Lest we forget, I give this short story to my fellow townsfolk. The Cooper Shop was a building in Philadelphia formerly used for barrel making, but bought in May 1861 by some public spirited citizens of that city to be used as a refreshment saloon for soldiers hurrying from the north, east and west to active service in the south.

On the nineteenth of May, 1861, President Lincoln issued his first call for 75,000 troops, a call which was responded to by some 300,000 men from Maine to the Pacific coast. By such the Cooper Shop was used during the war of the Rebellion. It furnished refreshment for the hungry boys from the north. It also gave refreshment to some 15,000 refugees. The Presbyterians supplied the room with Bibles, prayer books and religious reading in abundance.

The newspaper at first printed glowing columns in description of favorite regiments, but as time wore on the eye and mind tired of the constant pageant. Through the hot summer days and nights the men and women in the kitchens and dining sheds of the "Union," many of them of advanced age, worked unceasingly. At this time the three months regiments were returning, adding greatly to the almost daily demands upon the volunteer committee and its workers.

Many famous regiments stopped at this eating house. The Eighth New York Volunteer Infantry, Colonel Blencker's sturdy German command; the Second and Ninth New Yorkers; the stunning Garabaldi regiment eleven hundred strong, clad in their picturesque Italian uniforms; the heavy ranks of the men from Maine, contrasting with Colonel Cameron's Seventy-ninth New York Highlanders, more than a thousand with their kilted legs swinging to the drone of the bag pipes. Those were gloriously inspiring days, and there was plenty of work in the old navy yard and outside, helping the soldiers who were on their way to help the nation.

All through June and July the troops poured through the city, infantry, cavalry and artillery, Hussars, Zouaves and voltiguers; whole brigades of less showy, but quite as resolute regiments in the plain blue of the citizen volunteers. In July, the "Union" fed 22,000 men, but that was light work compared with later on.

It was a typical November day when the regiment with which I was connected, marched from Elm Park down Broadway, embarking at the battery to a steamboat for South Amboy, where we started by the Camden and Amboy railroad for the front. Weary and quite tired out we reached the hospitable Cooper Shop and were well cared for by the generous men and women of Philadelphia before we again boarded the cars for Washington. Perhaps no better description of this shop can be found than in the following letter sent home by a soldier boy:

Washington, June 1, 1863.

"Dear Parents:—I will endeavor to give you a faint description of our reception in Philadelphia, but I know that my pen cannot half do justice to the subject, but I do know that the remembrance of it will live in the hearts of our brave artillery boys as long as they are able to train a gun or draw a sword in the defence of their country. As soon as we reached the city we marched to the dining saloon, about ten or fifteen rods from the ferry. As soon as we got there we entered the wash-room, a room large enough to accommodate sixty or seventy men to wash at a time. Then we marched into a splendid hall, with room enough to feed five hundred men at a time. There were gentlemen to wait on us, and they would come around and ask if we had plenty and urge us to eat more. We had nice white bread, beautiful butter, cold boiled ham, cheese, coffee, with plenty of milk and sugar.

"After we had eaten our fill, which was considerable, for we had eaten nothing since morning, we returned to the streets. Our knapsacks on the sidewalk were left without a guard, but they were almost covered with little children who were watching to see that no one disturbed them. One little fellow found a tin canister and he was hunting around from rank to rank until he found the owner. We were allowed a little time to rest, during which little girls in white went all around through the ranks giving the men flowers and saying kind things to them. It seemed that the people could not do us enough honor. One little girl, about ten years old, came up to me and gave me a half-blown rose, and stayed and talked with me until we started, and then she put her little face up for a kiss with as much confidence as she would to a brother.

"I never saw so many handsome girls in my life. We had nearly a mile and a half to march, and of all the sights I ever saw, that march beats them all. The sidewalks on each side were lined with old men and matrons, young men and maidens, girls and boys, and every one was trying to see who could shake the most soldiers by the hand. It was the very best class of people who were out to meet us. In some places the streets were completely blocked with them. It was like so many people bidding good-bye to their own sons and brothers, anyone who thinks there is any lack of support for the war has only to march through Philadelphia. FOSTER, Co. B."

WILLIAM D. W. MILLER.

WIFE DESERTER LET GO.

Sidney Judson, of Plainfield, who was arrested for deserting his wife and who was convicted in a trial before Judge James C. Connolly, last week, was released under a suspended sentence in the Court of Quarter Sessions, at Elizabeth, yesterday. Counsel for him said that his health was poor, that he had already spent considerable time in jail and that his wife had brought an action for divorce against him, all of which moved the court to leniency.

ENTERTAINED FRIENDS.

Mrs. Josephine Dentz entertained a party of friends last evening at her on Duer street. The home was prettily decorated in green and white. The evening was spent in playing games, dancing and singing. A solo was rendered by Oscar Philpott and was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Dentz. Friends were present from Brooklyn, Newark and this city. Refreshments were served.

"HUMANAPHONE" ENJOYED BY A LARGE AUDIENCE

The "Humanaphone," the latest in the musical instruments to be "invented," was presented to a large number of music lovers, last night, at the First M. E. church, under the auspices of the Epworth League. The new instrument is built on much the same lines as a pipe organ, but exceeds by far the usefulness of the latter as vocal and stringed instrument selections may be enjoyed from the one machine.

Fifteen of the young people of the church assisted in "operating" the machine, which proved to be very entertaining. The affair was arranged by Miss Helen Joy. A portion of the proceeds will be used in aiding the M. E. church at Kenilworth.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

William Burtis, '06, has presented the High School with a pennant representing the Navy. He is an ensign on the battleship New Jersey at the present time.

At a meeting of the senior class yesterday it was decided to have class day and commencement combined as was done last night. The committees have started work on the various features and the prophecy will be especially fine. The class flower was changed from the black-eyed susan to the American beauty. Plans will be started soon for the regular senior dance that comes during the last week of school.

The first copies of the senior essays were returned to the students yesterday, with corrections made by the English teacher. The final copies will be handed in next month.

Mr. Saunders, who was head of the manual training department nine years ago, made a visit to the school yesterday.

The showers that were installed in the new lavatory are now in working order and the ball players will be able to refresh themselves after practices and visiting teams will find this an added privilege.

The chorus for the commencement exercises will resume practice Monday and will sing three times at the graduation. Miss Utter has selected some excellent pieces.

APRIL 18TH IN HISTORY.

1817—George Henry Lewes, husband of "George Eliot," born. Died Nov. 30, 1878.
1835—Lord Melbourne became British premier for the second time.
1867—William E. Gladstone withdrew from the leadership of the Liberal party.
1874—Funeral of Dr. Livingstone in Westminster Abbey.
1887—Ex-Marshal Bazaine was stabbed in his house in Madrid by a Frenchman.
1906—A large section of San Francisco was destroyed by earthquake and fire.

REPEAT ENTERTAINMENT.

Under the auspices of the Athletic Association of the Trinity Reformed church and the Dutch Arms Band, the playlet, "The Village Postoffice," was repeated last evening, with a cast of thirty young people of the church. The band played several incidental selections during the program. A large audience was in attendance. Miss Etta Raybert was highly complimented for her excellent work in training the participants.

Old Glory Council, No. 62, D. of L., is scheduled to meet tonight at the Babcock building.

SOMETIMES THE "LAW OF MOSES" IS VERY SATISFYING

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

THRILLING CURTAIN RAISER ANNEXED BY PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL BALL TOSSERS

With three men on the cushions and two down in the ninth inning of the Central High School clash on Parker Field, yesterday afternoon, Donald Sminck, of the Plainfield High School nine, put a fitting finale on a masterful exhibition of the twirling art by making the batter entrusted with the task of driving a couple of tying runs across the platter, roll an easy one to the keystone territory. This ended a contest replete with thrills of every variety and gave the red and blue a 2 to 0 verdict in the curtain raising battle of the school's schedule. Sensational fielding and some timely bingling made the encounter an interesting one and the result of the game remained a toss-up until Victorson pocketed the final putout.

VanDeventer Leaned Against One For a Two Base Hit.

The schoolboys sporting the Queen City regalia supported Sminck in excellent style and cut off a number of rallies that looked exceedingly dangerous for the time being. While the local moundsman's support was of the Class A calibre his delivery was on a par with the rest of things that went to bring the victory to Plainfield and he displayed a form seldom seen in a high school heaver at this time of the spring. He had enough pounds of steam with him to keep the Newarkers ducking at regular intervals and his curves were breaking in a manner that spread terror in the visiting camp.

Sminck Was There With All Kinds of Steam.

The Plainfield combination was composed of only a small part of veteran material and around the small nucleus a sterling aggregation has been moulded. There was not a single weak spot in the Plainfielders' battle front and their hitting was hard and consistent. The opening struggle was waged against a team of unusual calibre and the locals had to face some gilt edged twirling during the greater part of the game. It was a pitching battle from start to finish with Sminck holding the upper hand because of his ability to deliver the goods in the pinches.

The Central lads outhit the home team five hits to four, but when the necessary bingle was needed it was not forthcoming. In the fifth Lehrhoff walked and went to third on a bad peg by Sminck only to be called out under the new ruling, Brokaw declaring he had been touch by "Beals" Becker, who was coaching at third. This killed a sure run, as Wagner, the next batter, singled to right. Wagner stole second but when trying to score on Lefkowitz's one timer to right was nipped at the plate by a great throw from Peacock. In the ninth there were three on base and two out when Lewis Lefkowitz stepped to the plate, but he ended the game by going out on a roller to Rosenson.

The Plainfielders scored once in the third and again in the fourth. Apgar and VenDeventer crossing the plate. The first count was made by Apgar when he beat Dubois' slow throw to the platter. It was a hard game for the Central pitchers to lose. "Digger' Smith started for the visitors and allowed but one hit in two innings and a part of the third when he was derricked by Coach Sargent to put "Sammy" Lehrhoff in. The latter twirled in great style allowing but three hits in six innings, striking out seven batters and not walking a lad. In the sixth inning he struck out the three batters that faced him.

FOR 14.1 BALKLINE TITLE.

New York, April 18—Something new in professional competitive billiards is about to be given a trial, in the form of a 14.1 balkline tournament to begin at the Hotel Astor next Monday night. There has been criticism of the 18.1 game that it is so difficult that even when the leading professionals are involved, the game drags and the spectators lost their interest. The new standard game has been adopted, therefore, as a sort of a compromise between the 18.2 and 18.1 balkline play. The competition will be 400 points, 14-inch balkline, one shot in balk and one in anchor, the spaces for which will be seven square. Half a dozen of the leading balkline artists of America and Koji Yamada, the trim little Japanese from Tokio, compose the field which will compete for the new championship title in next week's tournament. Of the American players Willie Hoppe and George Slosson are from New York, Harry P. Cline from Philadelphia, and Ora Morningstar from Pittsburgh. Chicago will be represented in the tournament by George Sutton, Calvin Demarest and possibly young Jacob Schaefer.

EIGHTY-TWO THOUSAND ATTEND FEDERAL DEBUT.

The attendance figures for Federal League opening games played this week show that 82,000 people have witnessed the debut of the invaders. The statistics for the four cities are as follows:

Baltimore	26,000
Pittsburgh	21,000
St. Louis	25,000
Indianapolis	10,000

WOODBRIDGE AT N. P. H. S.

The Woodbridge High School baseball team will appear on Hyde Oval Monday afternoon and play the boroughites. Last year the local team won with a ten run lead, but they will not have such a cinch this time. Wand, the tall pitcher that opposed the borough boys last season, will again be on the mound and has a strong set of men behind him.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—How can a person ascertain the age of another person over or under twenty-one?—C. B. J.

Answer—That depends on circumstances. If you can obtain from any official a sight of his birth record, or get the information from someone who has known him from infancy, those would seem to be the surest ways.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Kindly inform us through your paper which is the right way to express the following sentence: "Your outfit and material was shipped" or "Your outfit and material were shipped?"—V. F. T.

Answer—The last given sentence is the correct one. Two names connect the conjunction and require a plural verb.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is there such a paper as the Irish-American Weekly? If so, where can we secure it?—K. D. T.

Answer—We can locate no such paper.

Sporting Editor:

Query—When was the aquarium in New York opened? How many different kinds of fish does it contain? How many people have visited it since it was opened?—H. J. T.

Answer—The New York Aquarium was opened in December, 1896. It has 200 different kinds of fish. It is estimated that fully 2,400,000 people have visited it.

Sporting Editor:

Query—In a day's edition of the Daily Press would the paper weigh less if not printed?—G. R.

Answer—It takes a number of pounds of ink to print the paper, so you can see that the paper is lighter without the print.

JACK MARTIN PERFORMED WELL FOR BOSTON BRAVES

Jack Martin, the local ball player, was in the lineup of the Boston National League team, yesterday, and covered third base during the entire game with Brooklyn. He made three putouts and three assists and figured in a double play. Martin is taking the place of Deal who is out of the game with a "Charlie Horse," and if the local boy keeps up the good work that he has started he will have a fine chance of staying with the team. Brooklyn won 5 to 0.

GAME POSTPONED.

The basketball game that was to have been played between the local Y. W. C. A. girls and the Trenton team on the local court tonight has been called off.

DAVE DRISCOLL'S TEAM WILL OPEN NEXT WEEK

The New Brunswick baseball team will open the season next Sunday, when Joe Burns' fast going Abstainers, of Elizabeth, will appear at the place. The Brunswick aggregation is managed by Dave Driscoll, who played first base on the Plainfield team for two years and also captained it. He has a fine set of ball players this year and will make any team in these parts go the limit. He has signed up many of the players that have played on the Plainfield team for some years back and the names of Joe Harter, Eddie Stallings and Cosgrove will appear on the score-book.

Another familiar name is that of Jimmy Clinton, the pitcher that has given local teams so much trouble in previous years and he will probably be on the mound for Driscoll's nine. Jimmy has defeated the Plainfield team on a few occasions and also took the Abstainers into camp last season.

BATTIN H. S. TENNIS TEAM FACES HARD LIST OF GAMES

Richard Pery, manager of the tennis team of Battin High School, of Elizabeth, has just completed a very hard schedule that will make the team work during the whole season. Although there are only six matches booked the players will meet some of the fastest racquet wielders in the State. As yet the Battin-Pingry contest has not been arranged and it is doubtful whether these schools will meet on the court this year. The Plainfield High School team is on the list and the Battin team will appear on Parker Field, Monday, May 11.

The coaches of the teams are much pleased with the present outlook and expect a fast team. Both of last year's regulars will again play and there are a good number of new candidates who will report. The manager is trying to get the El Mora Country Club courts for all home games. Only two of the games on the schedule are away from home. The ecomplete schedule follows:

Tuesday, May 5—Kingsley School at Essex Falls.

Monday, May 11—Plainfield High School at Plainfield.

Monday, May 18—Roselle High School at Elizabeth.

Friday, May 22—The E. M. M. Club at Elizabeth.

Tuesday, May 26—Cranford High School at Elizabeth.

Wednesday, June 3—Dickinson High School at Elizabeth.

—It pays to use the advertising columns of The Press.

GAME POSTPONED.

The second game with the Roselle team that was to be played next Wednesday was postponed by Manager Beckman, of N. P. H. S., yesterday because of the final practice for the athleic association play on that date. The game will be played in Roselle on the following day.

N. P. H. S. A. A. READY FOR ANNUAL ENTERTAINMENT

Final arrangements for the annual play of the North Plainfield High School Athletic Association have been made and next week the final dress rehearsals will be held in the Park Club where the entertainment will be given on Friday evening, April 24. The play cast has been working for the past six weeks on Charles Townsend's comedy, "All Tangled Up," and under the skillful coaching of Miss Helen Ray, has it ready for presentation.

The play upholds its name from start to finish and many original lines have been added. After the entertainment there will be dancing till 2 o'clock, with Halbfoerster's orchestra. Those who will take part in the play are the Misses Lucille Ewart, Katherine Giddings and Mary Martin, and Atwood Giddings, Ashley Burner, Charles Beckman, Duclos Van Mater and Edson Day.

FIRE AT BOUND BROOK.

Bound Brook, April 18—The home of Archibald I. Coddington, on West Union avenue, was damaged this morning by fire to the extent of $1,500. The flames started on the third floor and consumed the entire roof. The furniture was saved. The entire department of the town responded to the alarm.

Women's Uncommonly Fine Spring Suits At $25 to $42.50

It would be impossible to list the great number of styles which we have gathered here at prices between $19.50 and $50. They include numberless adaptations of Paris styles, as well as conservative models for which American tailors are famous.

All these styles are chosen by the same fashion expert who selects the gowns in Paris. All the tailoring is done to meet the particular specifications of the Wanamaker Store.

Among them we shall have all sizes in a specially good silk and wool moire model at $25. This has a short coat with a square back tail. It fits well under the arms. It has the new ruffle collar. Brown, navy or Labrador blue.

At $32.50, an unusual suit of ripple cloth, with striped satin revers and lined with flowered crepe. The skirt has the new plaited tunic. Blue or black.

At $39.50, is the exact copy of a Jeanne Lanvin tailleur. The original model was one of our direct importations, and is one of the interesting mannish suits of the season. Built of fine navy blue or black men's wear serge, with white pique waistcoat, collar and cuffs.

At $42.50, smart black and white checked suits, embroidered with silk braid and trimmed with satin ruffle collars of blue or black. It has a double tunic on the skirt which permits of a slender silhouette.

Evening Gowns

They are as pretty as pictures—all roses and satins and old-fashioned taffetas, and they are only $25, $27.50 and $35.

Delightful sashes, puffs and draperies, sheer laces and colors that are lovely. We have just a hundred of them, all fresh from the workrooms.

Summer Frocks

300 of them—all fresh from the workrooms after weeks of planning.

At $5.75, flowered dimity, striped crepe, crinkled crepe. They have moire and taffeta sashes, sometimes silk collars and cuffs and pretty touches such as hemstitching and laces. Other styles at $7.50, $9.75, $10.75 and $12.75.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.—Adv.

Not a home in this city but has its quota of discarded furniture, rugs, stoves perhaps, a wheelbarrow maybe.

A few cents for a Press want ad and some one who needs the very article that lies rotting in your garret will call and pay you for it.

You are better off—new owner is pleased—and the article itself is contributing to the reduction of the high cost of living.

German Valley. and Chester

Mrs. Harold Wiley, of Philadelphia, is spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Franklin J. Wiley, of German Valley.

Miss Edna Horton, of German Valley, concluded Thursday a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Frank VanLiew, of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Horton, of Newark.

Mrs. Augustus M. Larrison, of Mendham, is visiting her mother, Mrs. James Thomas, of German Valley.

Mrs. Angeline Sharp, of German Valley, is seriously ill from heart disease.

There is no improvement in the condition of Theodore F. VanNest, of German Valley, who was stricken with paralysis about ten days ago.

Mrs. John Hamilton and daughter, of Far Hills, are spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. Emmett M. Hockenbury, of Chester.

Morris Chamberlain took possession of his recently purchased property in Main street, Chester, yesterday.

The Chester Township Committee is making repairs to the Bartley road, which had become impassable in places.

A special parish meeting will be held in the Congregational chapel in Chester this afternoon to discuss the question of disposing of the old schoolhouse property at Chester Crossroads. This property has not been used for school purposes for several years, but the township Board of Education has kept the building in repairs. The lot was given for school purposes, and when not used for those purposes to go to the Congregational church.

Mrs. Adaline George, of Schooley's Mountain, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Harriet Y. Redman, of Chester.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

"McFadden's Flats," the most successful and hilarious of all musical farce comedies, has been entirely rewritten. New songs, new features, up-to-date and sensational novelties, including the great Cabaret scene, introduced together with the best scenic production that well known piece has known, made the entertainment one of the real hits of the season. When the comedy comes to the Plainfield Theatre, Tuesday night, local theatregoers will have an opportunity to judge for themselves how excellent a show it really is. There is not a poor performer in the entire cast of fifty people, everyone having been engaged on their merits alone. Then there is a beauty chorus of thirty as pretty and stunningly gowned women as were ever gathered in any single organization. The humor is clean cut and infectious and without the least suggestion of horse play or vulgarity. Everything that is shown is done in a manner to appeal to the most blase and fastidious amusement seeker. The fun is fast and incessant, and there is not a dull moment in the entire comedy and the scenic adornment is said to be a triumph of the artist's brush.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is Sign You Have Been Eating Too Much Meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.

LABOR CHIEFS TO HAVE RE-HEARING

Celebrated Case of Gompers-Mitchell-Morrison up on Monday.

Washington, D. C., April 18.—The celebrated Gompers-Mitchell - Morrison contempt case is docketed for a complete rehearing before a full bench of the Supreme Court of the United States on Monday. It will be the third time the contempt case has been before the highest court. On the original hearing the court held that criminal sentences for contempt had been imposed on Messrs. Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison in a proceeding in equality, and the decision of the District Supreme Court was reversed. The District Court, the following day, instituted new proceedings, the result of which was the imposition of the same sentences set aside in the original proceedings.

Mr. Gompers is president, Mr. Morrison secretary and Mr. Mitchell one of the vice presidents of the American Federation of Labor. In the original action the three labor leaders were charged by Justice Wright, of the District Supreme Court, with contempt in that they were charged with continued publication, in the "We do not patronize" list of the American Federationist, of the name of the Buck's Stove and Range Company, of St. Louis, after the court had issued an injunction to restrain them from such publication.

A sentence of one year's imprisonment was originally imposed on President Gompers, with nine months in jail for Vice President Mitchell and six months for Secretary Morrison. The District Court of Appeals reduced these sentences to thirty days.

When the action was last before the Supreme Court of the United States Justice Lurton was absent from the bench. The action of the highest tribunal in restoring the case to the docket for rehearing has led to the assumption that the court is divided on the knotty problem and desires to have the whole matter gone over again with Justice Lurton present.

The three labor leaders now contend that further proceedings against them are barred by the statute of limitations, while the District Supreme Court seeks to have its sentences stand as imposed.

PARIS TO WELCOME GEORGE AND MARY

Royalty Will Return the Visit of President Poincaire.

Paris, April 18.—King George and Queen Mary are coming to Paris next week to return the visit of President Poincare. The visit will be the first that their Majesties have paid to France since they came to the throne and naturally it has aroused the liveliest interest throughout the country. While no important changes in political relations are expected, the hope of the public is that the visit will tend to draw even closer the two friendly countries.

Elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the King and Queen are well advanced. They will receive the highest honors that the President, the Government, the municipality and the general public can accord. Already the Place de l'Opera and the boulevards are being lined by huge columns bearing the arms of England and of the City of Paris, with electrical devices on a scale of magnificence not seen here in many years.

An interesting phase of the royal visit is the solicitude of the municipal authorities over the possibility that something might occur to shock Queen Mary's sense of propriety during her stay in the capital. There has been a general clean-up of the Montmontre resorts and all the Paris music halls have been ordered to cut out the raw stuff during the week of the royal visit. These precautionary measures are somewhat amusing in view of the fact that there is not the remotest possibility of Queen Mary attending a music hall performance or taking even a glimpse at naughty Montmontre.

The royal party will be quartered at the Foreign Office, living in the same luxurious apartments that have been occupied by King Alfonso and other royalties who have visited Paris in recent years. The program of entertainment has not been completed in all its details, but the leading features have been decided upon. These will include a gala performance at the Opera, military manoeuvres at Chalons, a big military review at Vincennes and visits to the Invalides, the Pantheon, to St. Cyr and Versailles and other places of interest. In addition there will be dinners at the Elysee Palace, at the British Embassy and elsewhere, which will serve to bring out expressions of the friendly relations existing between France and Great Britain.

General Pancho Villa Coins Own Currency, Issues Paper Money

GENERAL PANCHO VILLA, upon whom the eyes of the world have been focused of late, though undoubtedly a bandit and probably a murderer, is still a man who seems to be equal to any emergency and who meets it, whether he fully appreciates it or not, after his own peculiar fashion—in fact, in a way, it may be said that he makes the emergency meet him.

Finding the currency exceedingly scarce in the state of Chihuahua, a territory twice as big as New York state, which he overran and conquered in a month's campaign, he set to work to make currency of his own. He immediately issued $100,000 in paper currency, signed with his own name and secured by $100,000 worth of confiscated property. Finding the prices for food very high, he proceeded to fix the price of beef at 15 cents a pound, milk at 7 cents a quart and bread at 2 cents a loaf. The acceptance of the new money was made compulsory, and storekeepers were forbidden to advance prices on that account by the most severe penalties.

Villa's currency was valueless in American banks. Mexican silver fell to 45 cents, and the bills of the National bank, the Bank of Sonora, the Banco Minero and even the Bank of London and Mexico dropped to 32 cents on the dollar. But still this comparatively good money refused to be lured from its many hiding places. So Villa boldly issued a proclamation stating that after a certain date all the good money would be absolutely without value. It must be exchanged before that time at the state treasury for Villa money and after that date would not be accepted even there.

And yet, strange to relate, no panic has befallen the state of Chihuahua.

Photos by American Press Association.

GENERAL PANCHO VILLA AND SAMPLES OF THE MONEY HE MAKES.

In Chihuahua City the market is now thronged every morning with buyers and sellers. There are practically no destitute people in the streets, and the banks of El Paso quote Villa currency at 45 cents.

More lately he has taken to issuing copper coins as well as paper money. The amount of copper available for his mint is only limited by the amount of electric light, trolley and other copper wires in the state. The coin shown in the illustration is a two centavo piece, 2 cents in Mexican and approximately one-quarter of a cent in the United States. It is intended for general circulation, but the number stamped out is very small.

This coin was made out of five miles of copper wire belonging to the Parral Electric Light and Power company, an American corporation controlled by William W. Stewart, an American. When Villa went into Chihuahua and swept down to Parral he appropriated the copper wire, informing Mr. Stewart first that he would pay for everything the stern necessity of war would require him to take and, further, that he wanted Mr. Stewart to continue the operation of his plant. Mr. Stewart arose to inquire how he was going to transmit light or power without wires, but that was a detail with which General Villa did not bother himself. He did pay for the wire, it is reported. He sent Mr. Stewart just forty of the new two centavo pieces with his compliments, which broke the price of copper somewhat. Coin collectors of the United States, hearing of the new issue, are now besieging El Paso for early samples of the new mint, and they are selling at a premium.

When Villa first entered the city of Chihuahua in triumph his first act was to seize the authority in Chihuahua and proclaim himself military governor of the state. Then he set about securing order.

But Villa soon found he needed money, and needed it badly, for the purchase of ammunition and arms and other necessaries and to pay his soldiers. But there was no money in sight. Those who had possessed any had buried it in the ground, and so Villa met this emergency by proceeding to make money in his own arbitrary fashion.

News of Interest in Building World

CONTRACTORS ARE MORE OPTIMISTIC

Building Trades Get Another Boost Toward Normal Conditions.

OUTLOOK IS HOPEFUL

Ten Permits Granted by Building Inspector T. O. Doane During the Week Aggregating a Total Expenditure of $24,715.00.

Building trades received another boost this week in their endeavor to regain normal condition. While the conditions are not yet what they might be, a vast difference is noted in the feeling which was so prevalent less than two weeks ago. Contractors today are somewhat optimistic as against the pessimistic attitude which was keeping prospective builders under cover for several months. From present indications, the building industry in Plainfield and vicinity should enjoy a prosperous season. No doubt the industrial conditions in other lines of work has held up considerable work in the construction world, but the time has now, or is about to come, when improvements must come, and building will, of a necessity, come into its own. Prosperity as has been known in this city is not only a thing of the past, but of the future as well, if the estimates for which local contractors are being asked are to be taken into consideration.

During the past week, ten permits have been granted by Building Inspector T. O. Doane, five calling for the erection of six houses, three calling for garages, and two for alterations. The cost of the dwellings will be $22,350; the garages $1,165; and the alterations $1200, making a total expenditure of $24,715. Of this amount, $20,850 will be spent in the First ward.

The permits as issued during the past week by Inspector Doane are as noted below.

First Ward.

The permit issued to Andrew Olsen calls for the erection of two dwellings on East Second street, just off Hillcrest avenue. The structures will be two and a half stories high, frame in structure, and heated with steam. The foundations will be of concrete and the roof shingled. They will cost $3,000 each. The contract has been awarded to Oscar Peterson, of Dunellen.

The frame dwelling to be erected by Russel Doeringer on East Front street will be two and a half stories high and will cost in the neighborhood of $4,700. Hot water will furnish heat. George N. Nolte is the architect and carpenter, while Howard D. Huff is the contracting mason.

Salvatore Parrette will erect a terra cotta block dwelling at a cost of $2,700. The structure will be two stories in height, and will have a concrete foundation and a shingled roof. W. H. Clum is the architect and Aubrey Lambert the carpenter. Mr. Parrette will do the masonry work.

Mrs. Caroline Dougherty, of Jersey City, has been granted two permits, one for a dwelling and the other for a garage at 42 Leland avenue. The former will be a two and a half story frame structure, heated with hot water. The foundation is to be of concrete and the roof shingled. The cost will amount to $6,950. The garage will be a 20 by 26 foot frame building with a concrete foundation and cement floors. The cost will be $500. John Simpson is the architect of both buildings. The contracts have been awarded to Howard Huff, mason, and George W. Nolte, carpenter.

Third Ward.

Orra S. Rogers will erect a one story frame garage at 645 West Seventh street at a cost of $425. The building will be 20x22 feet, will have a concrete foundation and a shingle roof. L. F. C. Beck has the contract.

Mrs. Bertha LaRue will erect a two story frame dwelling of the semi-bungalow type at 426 Spruce street at the cost of $2,000. Fred L. Lancaster is the architect, J. S. Kerwin the mason and Walter S. Scriven the carpenter.

Dudley S. Miller will construct a one story frame garage at 929 Union street at a cost of $240. The masonry work will be done by James Gunn, while the carpentry will be accomplished by H. H. Bohl.

W. H. Rogers is to add an extension to the rear of his dwelling at 990 Central avenue at a cost of $1,000. The work will include the enclosing of the rear porch to enlarge the butler's pantry and building a new porch. The addition will be 11x7 feet.

Fourth Ward.

The only permit in this ward has been granted to Mrs. Thomas Caleen to construct a 12x12 extension to the dwelling at 436 Orchard place at a cost of $200. The contracts have been awarded to John Hubbard and S. M. Titus.

IN THE SUBURBS

Clarence M. Haight has sold 10.65 acres at Maltby and Sherman avenues, New Market, to Edward Bialla.

The work on the addition to the Whittier School, Dunellen, was started this week and is expected to be finished in sufficient time to be furnished for the next fall term.

William H. Hill, of New York, has purchased several plots at Garwood through the New York Suburban Land Company.

C. D. Nonemaker, of Dunellen, has erected a garage in the rear of his residence on Dunellen avenue.

GREAT PROSPERITY WAVE FOR EAST

Statistician Edward J. Cattell, of Philadelphia, Makes a Prediction.

Rochester, N.Y., April 18—A great wave of prosperity within eighteen months was predicted Wednesday night by Edward J. Cattell, statistician, of Philadelphia, in an address at the annual dinner of the Clearing House Association. Mr. Cattell took a strongly optimistic ground regarding the future, declaring the original thirteen States would receive the larger portion of the business boom. Mr. Cattell said, in part:

"I can see nothing but prosperity for the old thirteen States, and I believe the past year of slow progress, forcing economies in production and a careful reconstruction of the whole machinery of commerce and manufacture will, in the end, prove a great advantage.

"The East is waking up. Intensified farming is nowhere receiving closer attention than along the Atlantic seaboard, more particularly in the southern section. Political power now lies with the East and South. The cities of the East and South are showing wonderful activity in the matter of developing the great tools of trade.

"The new banking system, about to be inaugurated, is an event of the first importance. Indeed, no testimony could be greater to the wonderful courage of the American people than the way in which they have calmly faced, without excitement, a complete reorganization in the banking, currency and tariff systems of the country; and the courage with which the great commercial situation is being met is convincing proof that it will be successfully solved."

Omaha, Neb., April 18—The Union Pacific Railroad, it is announced at headquarters in this city, has just placed an order for nearly $1,000,000 worth of locomotives for delivery before the opening of the San Francisco Exposition.

Pittsburgh, April 18—Rush orders for forty-one all-steel box cars have been placed with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's car shops at Altoona. In view of the fact that the cars are for quick delivery, the order is taken as an indication that business is improving.

JUST NOTES

The Common Council of Elizabeth recently appropriated $300 for the improving of the 175 by 200 foot lot immediately adjoining Recreation Pier at Elizabethport. This improvement will mean a great deal for that section of the city as far as real estate values are concerned. The action is a result of work and agitation by the First Street Association.

St. Stephen's Parish House on Belvidere avenue, Netherwood, is undergoing extensive repairs. The contracts for the work have been awarded to John Dahl, carpenter; John Caulfield, mason, and Johanson Brothers, painters. The overhauling will be complete in every detail.

Reports in metropolitan newspapers indicate that building operations on Manhattan Island have taken a great slump, a drop of over fifty per cent. being experienced during the first quarter of the year over the same period of 1913. Brooklyn, however, shows a slight increase. The fact that many of the home-seekers are leaving Manhattan Lsland for Long Island indicate that suburban sites will shortly experience one of the greatest booms in the history of real estate in this section of the country.

Sarah G. Ross, as the complainant in a mortgage foreclosure action, was the buyer of property located on Prospect avenue, this city, sold at vendue by Sheriff Wright at Elizabeth on Wednesday. Hannah M. Djurson was the defendant.

Ground was broken Wednesday for the New Jersey building at the Panama-Pacific Exposition. The ceremony was in charge of the New Jersey Society of California. The building, which is to cost $50,000, will be the headquarters of President Wilson on his proposed visit to the fair.

A bill authorizing the renaming of the New Jersey section of the Lincoln Highway, has been passed by the Senate of that State. The entire length of the Way across New Jersey is now officially designated, "Lincoln Way." Action of this nature is giving the great memorial project an added impetus through the East.

Announcement was made early this week of the sale of Glimpsewood Manor, the residence of the late Alfred R. Whitney, steel magnate, at Morristown, to George R. King, of New York, for $250,000.

The interior of the Hand Storage Rooms, on Somerset street, the borough, is undergoing a remodeling.

The work on the six room, hollow tile stucco dwelling on Cedarbrook place, belonging to Ralph Dilaboro, was started this week. The structure will be a two and a half story affair and will cost $2,300. McCullough and Rhodier are the carpenter contractors; Alphonse Cioci, the mason, the W. H. Clum, the architect.

THE DAILY PRESS IN BOUND BROOK will be found on sale or delivered to any address every afternoon by Hoagland, Union News Stand at station, and A. Aaron, newsdealer.

Some Cookery Suggestions

SPRING DESSERTS OF FRUIT.

THERE are so few fruits now available that a fruit dessert must at this season be planned with care. Some suggestions along this line are the following recipes, which include delicious combinations of the fruits now in the market:

With Fresh or Canned Fruit.

Pineapple Plombiere.—This is a frozen dessert which can be made from fresh or canned pineapples. To make it with fresh fruit, pare, remove eyes and cut into dice a ripe pineapple; put it in a bowl and pour over it two cupfuls of cold sirup made by boiling together equal parts of sugar and water for about ten minutes. Let the fruit stand in the sirup four hours; then put it in the ice cream freezer and freeze it until it is thick. Add a pint of stiffly whipped cream and let it stand in the freezer a little longer.

Made With Nuts.

Surprise Cream.—Many varieties of this dessert can be made. To begin, dip blanched and split almonds, candied cherries cut in halves or strips of candied fruit of various colors in uncolored jelly. This is gelatin dissolved and slightly sweetened. Place the nuts or fruit about the sides and bottom of the mold and pour in a thin layer of unsweetened jelly. Put the mold in chopped ice and turn it around until the jelly is hardened and the nuts or fruit are in place. Then put in a coating of jelly or cream, harden it in the same way, and finally fill the center cavity with cream of a different flavor.

A Fruit Medley.

Chartreuse of Fruit.—This can be prepared from such fruits as may be obtained. To make it, prepare a quart of lemon or orange jelly. Line a jelly mold which has a pipe in the center or an angel's food tin with glace fruits cut into neat pieces, quartered slices of bananas, orange sections with the thin connecting skin removed, skinned and seeded grapes cut in halves and candied violets and rose leaves. Pour in a layer of jelly. When it is set put in a layer of fruit and cover it with another layer of jelly. An occasional thin layer of plain jelly can be used. When the mold is full place it in a pan of cracked ice until it is solid. At serving time put the mold of jelly on a cold dish, hold a warm, damp cloth about the sides and bottom until the jelly is loosened and fit the hollow center with slightly sweetened whipped cream.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—How the Keeper Saved the Fawn's Life.

Put Her Head on the Keeper's Shoulder.

JACK and Evelyn sometimes went on trips to the zoo with daddy, but they hadn't been there for ever so long. So when daddy came home they spoke about it.

"I know," said daddy, "we haven't been for a long, long time, that's very true, but we'll surely go soon.

"First, though, I must tell you the story I heard of one of the deers in the zoo.

"This mother deer had a beautiful young fawn, and, oh, she was so proud of her beautiful child! She gave the fawn all the attention that any devoted mother deer could.

"One day, alas, the fawn, who was somewhat delicate, caught a terrific cold. The mother deer was frightened, and by evening the fawn's cough was dreadful. Now, the keeper had fed all the animals, and they had gone to bed for the night. But the deer cried so piteously that the good, kind keeper, whose own home was near by, knew that something was the matter.

"When he reached the little home of the mother deer and her beautiful fawn he found the mother deer leaning her head sadly against the wire door, and the fawn had her head by her mother's side.

"'Oh, my child, my beautiful child, is ill! She has such a dreadful cold, and I'm afraid she'll die! Oh, what can you do for her?' wailed the deer.

"The keeper understood perfectly, and he took a big warm rug and put it right over the fawn. Then he went back to his home and heated some milk, which he came back with and fed slowly to the deer.

"The keeper sat up all night with the fawn, giving her warm milk and keeping her well covered. She did look so sick, and her big eyes looked so pleading! They seemed to say:

"'Oh, Mr. Keeper, save me so I won't have to leave my mother!'

"And as the keeper began to soothe the fawn the mother deer looked on and seemed so relieved.

"In the morning the fawn's cold was ever so much better. It had almost entirely disappeared, and by afternoon, when the fawn had been in the sun all the morning, she was really quite herself again.

"Once more her big eyes looked happy, and the mother deer, when the keeper came to bring them their supper that night, put her head on the keeper's shoulder and cried—a very different cry from the night before. She cried for joy because her lovely fawn was alive and well, and she cried on the keeper's shoulder because she knew the keeper had saved her beautiful child's life."

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by Plainfield Branch New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman in a recent lecture on Feminism in New York said that home is a check upon the growth of humanity. It is a relic of the harem. "You talk of the home as holy," she said, "why, the post-office is holier than the home. The postoffice is a proof of an exalted civilization. There are many women who call home their field of expression. Well, God pity those women!"

Mrs. Gilman's views on the economic independence of women are well known. A writer in the Boston Post of March 18, says: According to Mrs. Gilman, since female animals are not dependent on male for food, why should women be? "The female cat supports herself and her young—why cannot humanity regain this lofty state?"

Dr. Stanton Coit, who is lecturing to Suffrage audiences around Boston, is a very ardent admirer of Mrs Gilman, and urges the importance of spreading the knowledge of her teachings. His own views on wifehood are expressed as follows: "Wifehood has all the characteristics of slavery, work without wage, no specified wage, no specified hours, no right to change employers."

* * * *

The Suffragists tell us on all occasions, that if women had the ballot, much better laws for the education and welfare of the child and youth of our country will be enacted. Let me cite a few instances to disprove such a theory.

At Berkeley, Cal., April 12, 1913 for the issuance of bonds for play grounds only about 1,500 of the 8,000 women of the city voted. The Mayor, who has been a zealous worker for woman suffrage, reprimanded the women for their negligence of this particular issue, which of all others should interest them. In a newspaper article he asks "Where were the mothers?" Berkeley has 1,301 more women than men over 21 years of age. Letter, February 28, 1914 Director of U. S. Census at Pasadena, Cal., where there are 2,688 more women than men of voting age, the play grounds that were the pride of Pasadena, and were established before women had the ballot, were discontinued last July on account of the failure of voters to vote money for the purchase of the grounds. (See Los Angeles Times, July 27, 1913) No other play grounds have been purchased or been provided for the children.

At an election Nov. 12, 1913, Pasadena, Cal., failed to vote bonds to repair leaky roofs and make sanitary repairs on schoolhouses, to complete new schools under construction and to make it possible to provide school for the entire school year. Superintendent of schools said the school year would have to be cut a month or two, and some schools will have to close when rains begin. (See Los Angeles Times, Nov. 13, 1913.)

It happened to rain Nov. 12 in Pasadena, and some thought the bonds might have carried, had the vote been taken on a fair day, when the ladies could more conveniently get to the polls. So it was decided to have another election to vote for bonds in a less amount than was voted on Nov. 12. So on January 16, 1914, a fair day, another election was held, and the bonds again defeated. So the voters of Pasadena have decided that the repair of leaky roofs and sanitary improvements, etc., of school houses as well as play grounds for the children are to be indefinitely postponed. Letter dated Jan. 12, 1914, from director of U. S. census states there were in 1910 9,262 males and 11,950 females over 21 years of age. The total vote for and against the bonds was 4,832, only 22.7 per cent. of the voters of Pasadena (population 30,281) was interested enough to go to the polls at election Jan. 16.

Much has been said by Suffragists about the recall of a Mayor in Seattle (who has since been renominated and elected) and the abolishing of the barbary coast at San Francisco. Mayor Harper was recalled at Los Angeles about four years before women voted, on account of not enforcing the law against vice, etc., and more than 50 cities in the country have abolished segregated vice districts in the past two years. Los Angeles abolished their segregated vice district about six years before women had the ballot, but it took Denver nearly 20 years after women voted to do away with its segregated vice district.

Helen M. Forster, in Los Angeles Times, Nov. 7, 1913, under head of Woman Lectures Women, commends Senator Works for daring to call attention to the neglect of citizenship by women voters which she says are facts backed up by data and registration lists.

Denver Post, Oct. 17, 1913. Report of Mrs. Stewart Walling and Dr. Elizabeth Cassidy, Colorado Reformatory: "Rotten, nothing but filth and graft found at Beuna Vista. Merely a preparatory school for the penitentiary. The reformatory submerged in politics is a monument to graft, ignorance, stupidity, extravagance and mismanagement. Building so infested with vermin that only fire could purify it."

The Daily News of Denver, of Oct. 3, 1913, says the Rev. A. E. Shattuck of Grand Junction, has stirred up the animals in fine shape by a public denunciation of conditions which he alleges exists in Grand Junction, Colo. Here is a few of the opinions he expresses.

"Lawlessness is pronounced among us."

"Illicit liquor selling is notorious."

"Gambling joints are in full swing."

"Boys and girls roam our streets late at night in unrestrained violation of the curfew ordinance." (The mothers are possibly away from hame attending to political affairs.)

"Officials who hate unjust gain we need."

The above statistics from the asterisks are taken from a report prepared and read before the Senate committee in Washington and are absolutely accurate.

They do but corroborate the statements of the Californian quoted in this column a few weeks ago.

In the same report we find confirmation of the statements of that famous Suffragist, Dr. Helen Sumner, of the failure of the women to support prohibition in suffrage States.

In the annual report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue we find that Jan. 1, 1912, in the six suffrage States—California, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho and Washington—there were 26,232 liquor dealers paying special license to the government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1913.

The combined population of these six States being 5,163,473, there existed one liquor dealer to each 196 people.

In the remaining forty-two States and the District of Columbia, to a combined population of 88,808,796 there were 226,009 liquor dealers, or one to every 392 people, half the number per capita of those in the woman suffrage States.

Sixty-five of one hundred and fourteen counties in Missouri have no saloons and about one-half of the people in the United States outside of suffrage States live in dry territory.

Miss Merion H. Drake, who was nominated for Alderman in the First ward in Chicago in the recent campaign (Feb., 1914) was quoted in the newspapers as standing for "free unches and the saloons."

In the Washington Star, Feb. 3, 1914, Congressman Dyer is quoted as promising the National Liquor Dealers' Association—"If I get a chance I will vote for woman suffrage and if suffrage is obtained, I will stop you fellows worrying about prohibition."

The figures and statements quoted above, are in no way a surprise to Anti-Suffragists, or others who keep themselves informed regarding such issues.

The surprise is, that despite such facts, the Suffragists still claim—and find believers, especially in the W. C. T. U.—that prohibition will automatically follow the granting of the franchise to women, and furthermore that in no other way can it ever become an accomplished fact.

Such unsubstantiated statements on the part of some women, finding ready credence on the part of others, goes far to show that women cannot be relied upon unfailing to handle the ballot scrupulously and intelligently.

The STORY of WAITSTILL BAXTER

CHAPTER IV.

Patience and Impatience.

PATTY had been searching for eggs in the barn chamber and, coming down the ladder from the haymow, spied her father washing the wagon by the wellside near the shed door. Cephas Cole kept store for him at meal hours and whenever trade was unusually brisk, and the Baxter yard was so happily situated that Old Foxy could watch both house and store.

There never was a good time to ask Deacon Baxter a favor, therefore this moment would serve as well as any other; so, approaching him near enough to be heard through the rubbing and splashing, but no nearer than was necessary, Patty said:

"Don't answer me back!"

"Father, can I go up to Ellen Wilson's this afternoon and stay for tea? I won't start till I've done a good day's work, and I'll come home early."

"What do you want to go gallivantin' to the neighbors for? I never saw anything like the girls nowadays—highty tighty, flauntin', traipsin', triflin' trollops, ev'ry one of 'em, that's what they are, and Ellen Wilson's one of the triflin'est. You're old enough now to stay to home where you belong and make an effort to earn your board and clothes, which you can't, even if you try."

Spunk, real Simon pure spunk, started somewhere in Patty and coursed through her blood like wine.

"If a girl's old enough to stay at home and work I should think she was old enough to go out and play once in awhile." Patty was still too timid to make this remark more than a courteous suggestion, so far as its tone was concerned.

"Don't answer me back! You're full of new tricks, and you've got to stop 'em right where you are or there'll be trouble. You were whistlin' just now up in the barn chamber. That's one of the things I won't have around my premises—a whistlin' girl."

"'Twas a Sabbath school hymn that I was whistling!" This with a creditable imitation of defiance.

"That don't make it any better. Sing your hymns if you must make a noise while you're workin'."

"It's the same mouth that makes the whistle and sings the song, so I don't see why one's any wickeder than the other."

"You don't have to see," replied the deacon grimly. "All you have to do is to mind when you're spoken to. Now run 'long 'bout your work."

"Can't I go up to Ellen's, then?"

"What's goin' on up there?"

"Just a frolic. There's always a good time at Ellen's, and I would so like the sight of a big, rich house now and then!"

"'Just a frolic!' Land o' Goshen, hear the girl! 'Sight of a big, rich house,' indeed! Will there be any boys at the party?"

"I s'pose so or 'twouldn't be a frolic," said Patty, with awful daring, "but there won't be many—only a few of Mark's friends."

"Well, there ain't goin' to be no more argyfyin'! I won't have any girl o' mine frolickin' with boys, so that's the end of it. You're kind o' crazy lately, riggin' yourself out with a ribbon here and a flower there and pullin' your hair down over your ears. Why do you want to cover your ears up? What are they for?"

"To hear you with, father," Patty replied, with honey sweet voice and eyes that blazed.

"Well, I hope they'll never hear anything worse," replied her father, flinging a bucket of water over the last of the wagon wheels.

"They couldn't!" These words were never spoken aloud; but, oh, how Patty longed to shout them with a clarion voice as she walked away in perfect silence, her majestic gait showing, she hoped, how she resented the outcome of the interview.

"I've stood up to father!" she exclaimed triumphantly as she entered the kitchen and set down her yellow bowl of eggs on the table. "I stood up to him and answered him back three times!"

Waitstill was busy with her Saturday morning cooking, but she turned in alarm.

"Patty, what have you said and done? Tell me quickly!"

"I 'argyfied,' but it didn't do any good. He won't let me go to Ellen's party."

Waitstill wiped her floury hands and put them on her sister's shoulders.

"Hear what I say, Patty: You must not argue with father, whatever he says. We don't love him and so there isn't the right respect in our hearts, but at least there can be respect in our manners."

"I don't believe I can go on for years holding in, Waitstill!" Patty whimpered.

"Yes, you can. I have!"

"You're different, Waitstill."

"I wasn't so different at sixteen, but that's five years ago, and I've got control of my tongue and my temper since then. Sometime, perhaps, when I have a grievance too great to be rightly borne, sometime when you are away from here in a home of your own, I shall speak out to father; just empty my heart of all the disappointment and bitterness and rebellion. Somebody ought to tell him the truth and perhaps it will be me!"

Waitstill bent over the girl as she flung herself down beside the table and smoothed her shoulder gently.

"There, there, dear! It isn't like my gay little sister to cry. What is the matter with you today, Patty?"

"I suppose it's the spring," she said, wiping her eyes with her apron and smiling through her tears. "Perhaps I need a dose of sulphur and molasses."

"Don't you feel well as common?"

"Well? I feel too well! I feel as if I was a young colt shut up in an attic. I want to kick up my heels, batter the door down and get out into the pasture. It's no use talking, Waity. I can't go on living without a bit of pleasure and I can't go on being patient even for your sake. If it weren't for you I'd run away as Job did, and I never believed Moses slipped on the logs. I'm sure he threw himself into the river, and so should I if I had the courage!"

"Stop, Patty, stop, dear! You will have your bit of pasture at least. I'll do some of your indoor tasks for you, and you shall put on your sunbonnet and go out and dig the dandelion greens for dinner. Take the broken knife and a milk pan, and don't bring in so much earth with them as you did last time. Dry your eyes and look at the green things growing. Remember how young you are and how many years are ahead of you. Go along, dear."

Waitstill went about her work with rather a heavy heart. Was life going to be more rather than less difficult now that Patty was growing up? Would she be able to do her duty both by father and sister and keep peace in the household, as she had vowed in her secret heart always to do? She paused every now and then to look out of the window and wave an encouraging hand to Patty. The girl's bonnet was off, and her uncovered head blazed like red gold in the sunlight. The short young grass was dotted with dandelion blooms, some of them already grown to huge disks of yellow, and Patty moved hither and thither, selecting the younger weeds, deftly putting the broken knife under their roots and popping them into the tin pan. Presently—for Deacon Baxter had finished the wagon and gone down the hill to relieve Cephas Cole at the counter—Patty's shrill young whistle floated into the kitchen, but with a mischievous glance at the open window she broke off suddenly and began to sing the words of the hymn with rather more emphasis and gusto than strict piety warranted:

There'll be something in heav-en for children to do.
None are idle in that bless-ed land.
There'll be work for the heart, there'll be work for the mind
And employment for each little hand.
There'll be some-thing to do,
There'll be some-thing to do.
There'll be some-thing for chil-dren to do!
On that bright, blessed shore
Where there's joy evermore
There'll be some-thing for chil-dren to do.

Patty's young existence being full to the brim of labor, this view of heaven never in the least appealed to her, and she rendered the hymn with little sympathy. The main part of the verse was strongly accented by jabs at the unoffending dandelion roots, but when the chorus came she brought out the emphatic syllables by a beat of the broken knife on the milk pan.

This rendition of a Sabbath school classic did not meet Waitstill's ideas of perfect propriety, but she smiled and let it pass, planning some sort of recreation for a stolen half hour of the afternoon. It would have to be a walk through the pasture into the woods to see what had grown since they went there a fortnight ago. Patty loved people better than nature, but failing the one she could put up with the other, for she had a sense of beauty and a pagan love of color. There would be pale hued innocence and blue and white violets in the moist places, thought Waitstill, and they would have them in a china cup on the supper table. No, that would never do, for last time father had knocked them over when he was reaching for the bread and in a silent protest against such foolishness got up from the table and emptied them into the kitchen sink.

"There's a place for everything," he said when he came back, "and the place for flowers is outdoors."

Then in the pine woods there would be, she was sure, Star of Bethlehem, Solomon's Seal, the white spray of ground nuts and bunch berries. Perhaps they could make a bouquet, and Patty would take it across the fields to Mrs. Boynton's door. She need not go in, and thus they would not be disobeying their father's command not to visit that "crazy Boynton woman."

Here Patty came in with a panful of greens, and the sisters sat down in the sunny window to get them ready for the pot.

"I'm calmer," the little rebel allowed. "That's generally the way it turns out with me. I get into a rage, but I can generally sing it off."

"You certainly must have got rid of a good deal of temper this morning by the way your voice sounded."

"Nobody can hear us in this out of the way place. It's easy enough to see that the women weren't asked to say anything when the men settled where the houses should be built. The men weren't content to stick them on the top of a high hill or half a mile from the stores, but put them back to the main road, taking due care to cut the sink window where their wives couldn't see anything, even when they were washing dishes."

"I don't know that I ever thought about it in that way." And Waitstill looked out of the window in a brown study, while her hands worked with the dandelion greens. "I've noticed it, but I never supposed the men did it intentionally."

"No, you wouldn't," said Patty, with the pessimism of a woman of ninety, as she stole an admiring glance at her sister. Patty's own face, irregular, piquant, tantalizing, had its peculiar charm, and her brilliant skin and hair so dazzled the masculine beholder that he took note of no small defects. But Waitstill was beautiful—beautiful even in her working dress of purple calico. Her single braid of hair, the Foxwell hair, that in her was bronze and in Patty pale auburn, was wound once around her fine head and made to stand a little as it went across the front. It was a simple, easy, unconscious fashion of her own, quite different from anything done by other women in her time and place, and it just suited her dignity and serenity. It looked like a coronet, but it was the way she carried her head that gave you the fancy, there were such spirit and pride in the poise of it on the long, graceful neck. Her eyes were as clear as mountain pools shaded by rushes, and the strength of the face was softened by the sweetness of the mouth.

Patty never let the conversation die out for many seconds at a time, and now she began again: "My sudden rages don't match my name very well; but, of course, mother didn't know how I was going to turn out when she called me Patience, for I was nothing but a squirming little bald, red baby. But my name really is too ridiculous when you think about it."

Waitstill laughed as she said: "It didn't take you long to change it. Perhaps Patience was a hard word for a baby to say, but the moment you could talk you said 'Patty wants this' and 'Patty wants that.'"

"Did Patty ever get it? She never has since, that's certain! And look at your name. It's 'Waitstill,' yet you never stop a moment. When you're not in the shed or barn or chicken house or kitchen or attic or garden patch you are working in the Sunday school or the choir."

It seemed as if Waitstill did not intend to answer this arraignment of her activities. She rose and crossed the room to put the pan of greens in the sink, preparing to wash them. Taking the long handled dipper from the nail, she paused a moment before plunging it into the water pail; paused, and leaning her elbow on a corner of the shelf over the sink, looked steadfastly out into the orchard.

Patty watched her curiously and was just going to offer a penny for her thoughts when Waitstill suddenly broke the brief silence by saying: "Yes, I am always busy. It's better so, but all the same, Patty, I'm waiting—inside! I don't know for what, but I always feel that I am waiting!"

RENO'S KNELL AS DIVORCE MECCA

Six Months' Residence Law Made Little City Famous.

BUSY MART FOR FOUR YEARS

During That Period 2,216 Actions Were Filed There, and the Final Rush Was Heavy—More Recently the Number of Men in Quest of Quick Freedom Showed Marked Increase.

The Reno divorce colony isn't what it used to be. No longer will dissatisfied married folks be able to settle in the Nevada city for six months and then obtain freedom from their mates. That procedure will hereafter take one whole year.

With this change the foremost inducement to divorce seekers from other states is eliminated and the advantages of short residence requirement, as may yet be enjoyed in two other states, under equally broad bases for causes of action, can have its only sequel—the diverting of future divorce activities from Nevada.

Last Minute Rush.

For four years, from 1910 to 1914, Reno has occupied a spot light position in the attention of the world. The divorce colony during this four year period numbered 2,250 men and women. Ninety-one persons rushed in just as the curtain was about to fall during December, the last day breaking all daily records for the four years in the history of the "colony."

The last rush brought the number of divorce seekers from other states up to approximately 650—390 women and 260 men—making the proportion 60 and 40 per cent greater in favor of the men than it previously was. Until then fully 75 per cent of the total were women.

Reno's Four Years' Record.

The total number of actions filed during the colony's period of greatest activity extending through the past four years to Jan. 1, 1914, follows: 1910, 492 cases; 1911, 546 cases; 1912, 588 cases; 1913, 590 cases; grand total, 2,216 cases.

Eighty per cent of the total number filed were granted decrees; 95 per cent of the prominent applications from the Atlantic coast secured decrees. The greatest number of actions filed in any one month was 102 in December, 1913. Communities furnishing the greatest number of colonists stand in the following order: New York, California, Canada, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Illinois and Pennsylvania.

There have been recently about thirty divorcees at Reno under assumed or using their maiden names, for the purpose of covering their identity. A year ago this number was double what it is now. Many gave up this effort to prevent identification, learning from the experience of others who preceded them that it is generally useless.

About 120 of the colony have immediately remarried, at Reno in most instances, to their "affinities," who have been simultaneously living there, either also for divorces or to be with their prospective husbands or wives. In several instances each never met the other until one or the other arrived in Reno.

CITY OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Notice of Sale of $30,000.00 4½% Joint Sewerage System Bonds.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on the 4th day of May, 1914, at 8 o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., the Common Council of said City will receive sealed bids for the purchase of the following described bonds of said City:

$30,000 Joint Sewerage System Bonds, dated April 1, 1914, and maturing, $5,000 annually on the 1st day of April in each of the years 1917 and 1922, both inclusive. The bonds will be coupon bonds with the privilege to the holder of registering the same, either as to principal alone or as to both principal and interest, and will bear interest at the rate of 4½% per annum, payable semi-annually. Both principal and interest will be payable in gold coin of the United States of America of the present standard of weight and fineness.

All proposals should be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to J. T. MacMurray, City Clerk, Plainfield, N. J., and should be marked upon the outside, "Proposals for Joint Sewerage System Bonds."

A certified check for 2% of the par value of the bonds bid for, payable to the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield, N. J., must accompany each bid. No bid for less than par and accrued interest will be accepted.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

The bonds will be prepared and certified as to genuineness by the Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company of New York City, and will be delivered to the purchaser on or before May 8, 1914, at 11 o'clock a. m., unless a subsequent date shall be mutually agreed upon between the purchaser and the City Treasurer.

The validity of the bonds will be approved by Messrs. Hawkins, Delafield & Longfellow, attorneys, of New York City, a duplicate original of whose opinion will be furnished to the purchaser.

Dated April 7, 1914.

J. T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.

Chalmers
The Master "Sixes"

Master Light Six
$1800
Coupelet $2050

Ride Behind the Wheel of This "Six" and You Will Never Again Want to Drive a "Four"

The "Six" has long been supreme in the high priced field. For the first to recognize six-cylinder luxury were those who could pay any price for the best. They demanded cars of highest efficiency. And they found the "Six" smoothest, most silent, and easiest for both car and passengers.

Our problem was to build a car with the silence, flexibility, luxury of the high priced "Sixes" to sell at a medium price. The 1915 Master "Light Six" is that car.

Building this new "Light Six" in thousands we are the first to be able to give the real quality of a high priced "Six" at a quantity price. It has what "Sixes" in the past have lacked; a low first cost which makes it easy to buy; a low operative cost which makes it easy to keep.

Six-Cylinder Value—at Less Than Four-Cylinder Price

Many have waited for this day to come. They want a car of low first cost; yet a car of generous size and ample power. A light car, but not a little one.

But that car must be a "Six." For they know that means a car easy to ride in, easy to run and easy to keep.

In the 1915 Master "Light Six" at $1800 weight has been lessened but strength has been preserved. Everything is reduced to simplest form, yet nothing essential has been omitted. It gives the luxury and economy of the "Six" at less than the price of any comparable "four."

Safety First Always

When you ride in the 1915 Chalmers "Light Six" you can trust it. Frame and axles are heat-treated steel with a four-fold margin of safety. Gears and roller bearings have withstood a crushing test of fifty tons. Its brakes will stop it within its own length.

Its electric starter prevents the motor from going dead at a critical moment. The gears lock themselves in mesh. The shifting device won't let you go wrong.

The assurance of safety is the corner stone of motoring pleasure.

A Lighter "Master Six"

What the Master "Six" at $2175 is among high powered cars, the 1915 "Light Six" at $1800 is among medium powered cars.

It has the same flexibility; the same silence; the same six-cylinder smoothness which make the appeal of the Master "Six" resistless.

For the man who wants a lighter car—one of low first cost and minimum upkeep, there's none better than the 1915 Master "Light Six."

Ride once behind the wheel of this new Chalmers "Six," say for 10 or 15 miles, and you will never again be content to drive any "four."

Let us give you the Chalmers Standard Road Test which proves every claim.

SEVENTEEN TAKEN IN BOROUGH RAID

Colored Crap Shooters Paid $270 in Fines Before Recorder Hand.

COST PROPRIETOR $100

North Plainfield Police Cleared Out Disorderly House on Upper Grove Street at 2 O'clock Sunday Morning—All Paid Their Fines.

Seventeen "crap shooters," all colored, were lined up in the borough police court before Recorder Fred Hand, this morning, charged with violating the borough ordinance by gambling in that municipality early yesterday morning. The prisoners ranged in age from seventeen to twenty-eight years and handed over fines aggregating $270 before they were released from custody.

Shortly after 2 o'clock Sunday morning Marshals Pope, Herrmann, Keller and Swody crept stealthly up to a house in upper Grove street that had been under surveilance and formed a circle about it. At a given signal from the leader the officers of the law entered the place, swoping down on the gamblers who were rolling dice in one of the rooms. The colored youths offered little resistance when they were confronted by the corps of bluecoats and were marched in single file to the police station where they spent yesterday and last night.

Weiss and his men confiscated the dice and money that was on the playing table and these were used as evidence in court this morning. All of the prisoners admitted that they frequented the gambling joint which they said Eddie Ford had been conducting and that they were playing for big stakes Sunday morning. Several hundred dollars were included in the "pot" for which the group were "rolling the bones," and a couple of the young men had already been "broke" by their more lucky companions.

The borough police officers were attracted Saturday night by the pairs of colored sportmen who passed at regular intervals up and down Grove street and investigation revealed the fact that they turned in at the same place. The borough police head got his men together shortly after midnight and after giving the game ample time to get underway raided the joint. All of the men were participants in the game in progress and John Crite was acting as "master of ceremonies" for Proprietor Ford when the bluecoats arrived. So cleverly had the operations been carried on that neighbors did not have the slightest intimation of a gambling house being run in their midst and the games had evidently been going on for several weeks without detection. The gang was taken completely unawares and a majority of the gamblers were too surprised to offer resistance.

When arraigned before Recorder Hand, this morning, Eddie Ford, of 613 South Second street, was fined $100; and his lieutenant, John Crito, of 443 West Third street, was fined $20. The other men in the place all got off with fines of $10 each. They were Albert Somerset, 409 Berckman street; Walter Robinson, 524 East Third street; Robert Johnson, 310 Arlington avenue; Augustus Houston, Scotch Plains; Lewis Davis, of Grove street; Hes Pollard, of 661 West Third street; Howard Pollard, of 661 West Third street; Clarence Geter, of 313 Arlington avenue; Clinton Hoffer, of 618 West Fourth street; Thomas Perry, of 402 Washington street; Joseph Pritchett, of 549 South Second street, and William Banker, of 522 East Seventh street. All paid their fines and were released this morning.

PETITION FOR HIGH PRESSURE ENGINE

Netherwood Residents' Association Appeals for Better Fire Protection.

The Netherwood Residents' Association, citing the fact that the people of that section of the city are greatly stirred over the lack of ample fire protection, feeling that their lives and homes are in jeopardy from fire, is taking the matter up with the Common Council for the purpose of securing an up-to-date fire engine to be placed in immediate service at the Netherwood firehouse.

Attention is called in a resolution, which will be presented to the Common Council tonight, that the city should have as complete a fire department as possible for a place of its size; aside from the comfort it would afford, it would be economical in the larger view, for the fire underwriters will soon re-adjust the insurance rates in accordance with the measure of fire protection and the lack of adequate protection will be felt by the entire city through higher rates.

The resolution adopted by the board of trustees of the Netherwood Residents' Association, which will be presented at tonight's Council meeting, is as follows:

"At a meeting of the board of trustees of the Netherwood Residents' Association, held on Monday evening, April 13, 1914, the following resolution was presented and unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, the recent fire which destroyed the home of D. P. Finney in Dixie lane, Netherwood, demonstrated the need of additional fire protection for the eastern section of our city, and

"Whereas, the Common Coucil recently transferred the city's steam fire engine to the Netherwood firehouse, and has authorized the location of new fire hydrants in this vicinity, and taken other measures for the protection of our lives and property, therefore,

"Resolved, that we thank the honorable members of the Council for their quick action in affording us relief in the manner stated, but we beg that they will give early attention to the petition presented to the Council at its last meeting, signed by one hundred and fifty of our citizens, entreating them for the acquisition by the fire department, of an additional modern automobile high pressure fire engine to be located at fire house number four, reminding them that the heights of Netherwood are at least eighty to one hundred feet higher than other portions of our city and therefore the need of the most effective fire apparatus is apparent. We are informed and believe that the old steam fire engine has outlived its usefulness, and we believe it should be superseded at an early date, by an engine of the most modern construction. Such an engine, while located in the eastern section, would, owing to its high speed and the down grade and fine pavement on South avenue, of course, be quickly available for use in any part of the city.

"We hope that your honorable body will take favorable action in this matter, without delay, and we remain, with great respect,

"Netherwood Residents' Association."

SILVER ANNIVERSARY.

AUTOISTS CAUGHT VIOLATING LAW

Number of Drivers Operating Cars Without License Cards Arrested Here.

TO APPEAR TOMORROW

Police Chief Kiely Co-operates With State Inspectors in Getting After Violators of State Auto Law—Crusade to Be Continued.

Local authorities took a hand in the annual spring "house-cleaning" among automobile drivers, yesterday afternoon, and as a result nine pilots of gasoline driven vehicles were apprehended by a quartet of patrolmen assigned to this duty. All were released to appear for hearing in the local police court tomorrow morning, when punishment will be meted out to the offenders.

State Automobile Inspectors Shinn and Shedd also visited Plainfield during the afternoon, continuing their campaign throughout the State in search of violators of the State automobile law. The local police authorities were informed of the intended visit of the State inspectors and cooperated with them in making arrests. A great number of auto drivers were found to be operating cars without a license card on their person, while several it was learned had no licenses at all. From here the inspectors went to Somerville.

Squads of patrolmen were stationed near the Netherwood depot on South avenue and as each car approached the driver was signaled to stop and display his license credentials. South avenue is one of the streets most frequented by automobilists and motorcycle drivers and over one hundred were examined by the inspectors during the afternoon. Several of the chauffeurs were caught running their vehicles at a speed that exceeded the city limits and others failed to display the necessary car and driver's licenses.

Patrolmen Kelley, McGinley, Welsh and Flatley were in charge of the work and each autoist was clocked as he passed the headquarters of the inspectors. A number of drivers were seen trying to reverse their cars and go in an opposite direction when they discovered the inspectors ahead, but the authorities had provided for this emergency with a high powered machine that apprehended all those who endeavored to illude the law. Those arrested are: Ralph Snyder, 537 North avenue, no driver's license; R. A. Young, 1344 Watchung avenue, no license; Charles Humphries, Dunellen, no license; Otto Holmes, 922 West Front street, no license; Vincent Terry, Raritan road, driving motorcycle without a license and exceeding speed limit; Charles Dziekan, South Amboy, exceeding speed limit. Two drivers alleged to have been exceeding the speed limit refused to stop when hailed by the officers and they will be arrested today, the number of each car having been taken. It is said that one driver was hitting a clip estimated to be 38 miles an hour and the other was speeding at a rate of 39 miles an hour. Both will be summoned to court tomorrow morning. Dziekan, according to the police, was also driving at 38 miles an hour.

COLUMBUS CLUB MEMBERS PLAN ELABORATE EVENT

The house committee of the Columbus Club is planning for a "ladies' night," which will be held tomorrow night in the new club house on West Front street. Elaborate preparations are being made for the event and the affair will be conducted in the nature of an "open night."

The committee in charge of the bowling tournament that just closed will take advantage of this opportunity to present the trophies won during the competition that has just closed. The house committee includes: T. F. Carty, chairman; J. F. Hillman, C. A. Shannon, James Hurley, Harry Pasch and George Howe.

PLAN FOR CARNIVAL.

The Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, are planning its anual carnival which will be held sometime next month. A committee in charge of the arrangements for the event will complete negotiations with the "Johnny Jones Company" for its appearance here in conneceion with the affair.

APPROACHING WEDDING.

Miss Nellie Smith, daughter of William Smith, of West Third street, and William Lafferty, of Prescott place, will be married at St. Mary's R. C. church, Wednesday, April 29.

WILL GIVE MUSICAL CONCERT.

The Owaissa Camp Fire Girls will give a musical concert in the parlors of the Y. W. C. A. Thursday night, April 30.

WILSON REVIEWS MEXICAN CRISIS

Washington, April 20.—President Wilson read a long message to Congress this afternoon on the Mexican situation, in which he said in part:

"It is my duty to call your attention to the situation which has arisen in our dealing with General Huerta at Mexico City which calls for action and to ask your advice and co-operation in acting upon it. On the 9th of April a paymaster of the U. S. S. Dolphine landed at the Iuterbide Bridge at Tampico with a whale boat and boat's crew, to take off certain supplies needed by their ship and while engaged in doing so they were arrested by an officer of Huerta's army. Neither the paymaster nor anyone of the boat's crew was armed. Two of the men were in the boat when the arrest took place and were obliged to leave it and submit to be taken into custody. The boat carried both at her bow and at her stern the flag of the United States. The officer who made the arrest was preceding up one of the streets of the town when the paymaster was met by an officer of higher authority who ordered him to return to the landing, and await orders. An hour and a half from the time of the arrest orders were received from the commander of the Huerta forces ordering the release of the paymaster and his men. The release was followed by apologies from the commander and later by an explanation of regret. General Huerta argued that martial law was in force at Tampico and orders had been issued that no one should be allowed to land at that bridge, and that our sailors had no right to land there. Our naval commander at the fort had not been notified of such prohibition.

"That the only justifiable course open to the local authorities would have been to request the paymaster and his crew to withdraw and to lodge a protest with the commanding officer of the fleet. Admiral Mayo regarded the incident as so serious an affront that he was not satisfied with the apology offered and demanded that the flag of the United States be saluted with full honors. The incident cannot be regarded as a trivial one as two of the men were in the boat which was the same as United States soil.

"A series of incidents have recently occurred to create the impression that representatives of General Huerta were willing to go out of their way to show disregard for the United States troops and the rights of this government and have felt perfectly safe in doing what they pleased.

"A few days after the incident at Tampico an orderly from the U. S. S. Minnesota was arrested at Vera Cruz while ashore in uniform to obtain the ship's mail and was thrown in jail for an hour and a half. An official dispatch from this government to its embassy at Mexico City was withheld by the authorities until preemptory demand was made by the charge of affairs in person. So far as I can learn such wrongs and annoyances have been suffered to occur only against representatives of the United States. I have heard of no other country's representatives being submitted to such indignities. The popular impression is that the government of the United States is being singled out with impunity to slight and affront, in retaliation for its refusal to recognize the Huerta government, who wish to be regarded as the constitutionally instituted rulers of Mexico.

"The manifest danger of such a situation is that such offenses might grow from bad to worse and something happen of a gross and intolerant sort, which would end inevitably in armed conflict.

"I therefore felt it my duty to sustain Admiral Mayo in the whole of his demands and insist that the flag of the United States should be saluted as to indicate a new spirit and attitude on the part of Huerta. Such a salute General Huerta has refused and I have come to ask your approval and support in the course I now propose to pursue. This government can, I earnestly hope, in no circumstances, be forced into a war with the people of Mexico, which is torn by civil strife. If we are to accept the test of its own constitution it would have no government. General Huerta has set up his power in the city of Mexico, and only part of the country is under his control. As a result of his attitude toward this government we should be fighting only General Huerta, and those who adhere to him and give him their support, and our object would be only to restore to the people of the distressed Republic the opportunity to set up again their laws and their own government, but I earnestly hope that war is not now in question.

"I believe that I speak for the American people when I say that we do not desire to control in any degree the affairs of our sister Republic, and our feeling for the people of Mexico is one of deep and genuine friendship and everything that we have so far done, or refrained from doing has arisen from our desire to help them,

FILES PAPERS IN SUIT FOR $1,000

E. A. Knapp Seeks to Recover That Sum From W. J. Buttfield.

FOR ADJUSTING LOSS

Complainant Declares That His Services Were Accepted—Defendant Asserts That He Did Not Engage Mr. Knapp.

Trenton, April 20.—Edgar A. Knapp, of Elizabeth, through his counsel, former Mayor G. W. V. Moy, of Plainfield, has filed papers in the Supreme Court in a suit for $1,000 against William J. Buttfield, of Plainfield, in which he seeks to recover for services performed in adjusting the fire loss at the time Mr. Buttfield's handsome dwelling on Rockview avenue, North Plainfield, was destroyed. The fire loss was adjusted by Mr. Knapp, it is claimed, and a prompt settlement was made by the company with Mr. Buttfield, shortly afteward.

Mr. Buutfield, it is asserted, claims that he did not engage Mr. Knapp's services, while the latter maintains that Mr. Buttfield did accept his services. The case will probably be tried at the May term of court. Vail & McLean are counsel for Mr. Buttfield.

Mr. Buttfield's residence on Rockview avenue, considered to be one of the finest in the borough, was destroyed by fire early in the winter of 1912. The total loss was reported at the time to be about $75,000, including dwelling and contents, there being many priceless articles included among the furnishings. No efforts have been made since to rebuild on the site and Mr. Buttfield for some time has been making his home on West Eighth street, this city. He is engaged in the tea importing business in New York city.

FATHER BOGAN ENDORSES CIRCUS FOR OPEN AIR SCHOOL

One feature of the society circus which has been planned for the benefit of the Open-Air School, and which will be held on the West Front street show lot on Monday, May 4, which has been gratifying to those having the plans directly in charge, has been the way in which all asked to serve on the men's committee have responded. Letters, telephone messages and personal calls have advised the committee chairman that if there is anything that can be done to help along the work, the committee members will be glad to aid this worthy cause. Rev. B. M. Bogan, head of St. Mary's parish, not only signified his wish to help, but sent with his acceptance a check for the cause, and this message: "Should you think my name of any service to the committee engaged in the laudable work of the Open-Air School you have it, and for any other use that may help the children to health and happiness."

The reserved seat tickets were placed on sale this morning at the Daily Press office, and there was an immediate demand for them. General admission tickets, which can be exchanged for reserved seats, have been sold by the members of the school committee for several days, and can still be procured from the women in that organization. Boxes seating four are also on sale at the Press office, and by members of the committee, while they last.

The advance car of the Robbins Circus, which will give the professional part of the show, was in town today, and bill posters have been at work putting up alluring pictures of the acts with the show. In addition to the two hour show provided by these people, many local acts will be added, which will be announced from time to time, and which will add pleasing features to the performance. Two complete shows will be given, one in the afternoon, and the other in the evening, and there will be the usual sideshows.

COUNTY C. E. MEETING.

The executive committee of the County Christian Endeavor Union will meet tomorrow evening at Hope chapel. Several matters of importance will be presented. Among these items will be the making of plans for the May mass meeting, at which time the annual election of officers will take place.

WILL EXPLAIN NEW COURSES OF STUDY

Principal Best to Address Annual Parent-Teacher Meeting at High School.

The annual meeting of the High School Parent-Teacher Association will be held in the High School library tomorrow evening, when the officers for the ensuing year will be elected and other business transacted. There will then be a discussion of the courses of study of the High School with the purpose of informing parents and pupils concerning the different lines of work which the school presents. Principal Lindsey Best and the teachers will describe the various subjects of the different curricula, especially the two new curricula of home arts and industrial arts.

A circular just issued has this to say about these two new curricula.

Home Arts Curriculum: Designed for girls who wish to prepare themselves for the practical duties of the home maker. This is a very good course for all girls not intending to go to college, normal school, or into business. It includes: First—the theory of dressmaking, millinery, designing, laundering, cooking, house decorating, sanitation, dietetics, etc. Second—much practical work in these activities. Third—courses whose object is purely a liberal education. This is a new valuable course, and will no doubt appeal to many.

Industrial Arts Curriculum: Boys not going to college or technical school, or into clerical work or bookkeeping will do well to take this course. It gives an excellent preparation for work as draughtsman, machinist, contractor, salesman, or business man, combining with the specially industrial subjects others of a broadly educational nature. It has in mind the production, not of skilled apprentices, but of well educated young men who will be specially likely to succeed in positions demanding a knowledge of the theory and some of the practice of shop and trade work.

The general and commercial curricula have been somewhat modified so as to adapt them particularly to their special purposes. The former prepares for entrance to the State Normal Schools and the latter gives a good preparation for work in a business office or for entrance into schools of commerce, accounting, finance and business administration.

The classical and scientific curricula need no modification as they now prepare satisfactorily for entrance into the colleges and technical schools. Those pupils who have satisfactorily completed these courses have found no difficulty in obtaining entrance to higher institutions and in doing well there.

All parents who are interested in securing information in behalf of pupils now in High School or about to enter, will find it worth while to attend this meeting.

PLAINFIELD LODGE OF ELKS TO VISIT SOMERVILLE

Plainfield Lodge of Elks is making great preparation for its fraternal visit to Somerville lodge Wednesday night. The plans are in charge of a committee composed of Charles S. Woolston, Fred Ivamy and Lewis A. Bellis. Already one hundred and fifty members have been signed up to go and it is believed this number will be doubled.

The trip will be made by special trolleys, leaving the Watchung avenue clubhouse at 7:45. A band has been engaged to furnish music and when Somerville is reached there will be a short street parade, accompanied by much red fire.

LUNCHEON FOR BRIDE-TO-BE.

Miss Emeline Manning gave a luncheon on Friday, at 518 West Front street, in honor of the engagement of Miss Helen L. Smith, of 602 Central avenue, to Clarence Leslie Bond, of East Front street. The prevailing color in the dining room was yellow, jonquils being used extensively in the decorations with other spring flowers. There were guests from Jersey City, Orange, Montclair and this city.

SOCIAL AND DANCE.

The Young Women's Hebrew Association gave a social and dance in Abrams' Auditorium, last evening. It was an invitation affair, there being guests from New Brunswick, Elizabeth, Perth Amboy and New York city.

SPRING IMPROVEMENTS.

The store of Samuel Rothberg, the West Front street men's furnisher, has undergone an overhauling, the entire store having been re-papered and painted. The work adds much to the appearance of the place of business.

ITALIAN ALMOST COMMITS MURDER

Enraged Prisoner Threatens to "Shoot-up" Entire Police Force.

NOTED TROUBLE MAKER

Dominic Cicero, Local Desperado, Bore Old Grudge Against Detective-Sergeant Flynn—Rare Nerve Displayed by Officer.

Facing the business end of a 32-calibre Colt automatic revolver in the hands of an intoxicated prisoner, Detective-Sergeant John J. Flynn, of the local police department, enacted a piece of strategy Saturday afternoon that probably saved his life. When Dominic Cicero, an Italian law breaker of considerable note in this city, demanded that Flynn get him a drink of water at the point of a pistol, the police officer calmly faced his man and demanded that he lay the gun on the floor of his steel cage in which he was confined. At a signal from Flynn, Police Chief Kiely entered the cell room, his appearance for a minute diverting the attention of the enraged Italian from his quarry. Taking advantage of the prisoner's quick glance in the opposite direction, Flynn sprang forward and grabbed the weapon from the interior of the cell. The Italian saw the officer's hand shoot through the steel bars and quick as a flash he had clenched Flynn's arm. In the tussle which followed the policeman had his hand torn by Cicero's finger nails, but held fast to the gun and finally pulled it through the bars.

Cicero was arrested Saturday afternoon by Patrolman John Kelley, who found him in the business section in an intoxicated condition. He was placed in a cell with a pistol on his person and, when Flynn entered the cell-room Saturday afternoon he had the deadly weapon thrust against his breast by the drunken Cicero. Muttering something about an old grudge he bore against the officer the prisoner in another second would have emptied one of the chambers into Flynn's body but for the prompt action of the officer. Five chambers of the revolver were loaded with 32 calibre bullets and the Italian was in a desperate rage over his apprehension.

During the last three years Cicero has been arrested on eight different occasions, according to the police, on charges of drunkeness, gambling and carrying concealed weapons, and is known as one of the most daring foreigners living in the thickly populated section along Cottage place. He makes a practise of resisting arrest and then creates a rumpus when placed in a cell. When arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court, this morning, he was held in bonds of $1,000 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

While confined in a cell Saturday afternoon with the pistol in his possession Cicero threatened to "clean up" the entire police force, mentioning as his most likable victims, Chief Kiely, City Judge DeMeza and Detective-Sergeant Flynn. All of these men have had dealings with him in the past and claim that he is a menace to human life while running at large. When examined in court this morning he said he had purchased the revolver for $3.50, Saturday morning, for the purpose of collecting some money from one Jack Kiederling. He admitted that he intended to fill Kiederling "full of holes" if he did not "come across" with the money.

When arrested on a charge of intoxication several months ago he was given his choice of paying a $10 fine or spending sixty days in the county jail by Judge DeMeza, and accepted the latter. Flynn was assigned to turn him over to the jailer at Elizabeth and Cicero has borne this as a grudge against the officer since that time. Since he was let out after serving his term those who know him say he has been constantly on the trail of the officer and when intoxicated made it his business to seek Flynn. Saturday happened to be his first real chance to carry out his object, however, and although his plot was carefully laid Flynn outwitted his would-be assailant. He will be taken to the county jail by Flynn this afternoon in default of bail.

Dunellen & Vicinity

Mrs. E. J. Dusel, of Walnut street, left Saturday for Atlantic City, at which place she will spend this week as the guest of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Dusel.

Robert Clark Wheeler, one of the engineers employed by George W. Fuller, the consulting engineer of the joint sewerage commission, and the force of Civil Engineer F. J. Hubbard, of Plainfield, were busily engaged Thursday and Friday of last week along the southerly bank of Greenbrook, back of this place, in establishing trenches for the joint sewer.

Samuel Harrison and sister, Miss Ellen, of Prospect avenue, visited friends at Easton over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Williams, of Prospect avenue, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Correll, of Harrison, yesterday. Since Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Williams have also been entertaining Mrs. A. B. White and son, Philip, of Hartford, Conn., who are here for a few days.

The funeral services of Mrs. Smith Laing were held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the home of J. A. Krinley, Evona avenue, Plainfield, Rev. E. R. Brown, of the local Presbyterian church, officiating. Interment was at Hillside cemetery, Plainfield.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. Margaret Sutphen tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Edward Pennock, of Mountainview Terrace, visited her cousin, Miss Louise Clark, at Hampton, yesterday.

Borough Engineer and Mrs. L. T. Churchill and Mrs. Churchill's sister, Miss Flossie Gangloff, visited Mr. Churchill's uncle, Mayor R. T. Churchill, of Secaucus, yesterday.

Jacob H. Acton is improving his house with a couple of coats of paint.

The advisory committee of the Boy Scout Cadets, the personal of which is Mrs. John A. Pierson, president; Mrs. Herbert E. Nelson, vice-president; Mrs. Fred Vail, secretary; Mrs. E. L. Field, treasurer; Mrs. Charles Johnson, Mrs. E. R. Smalley and Mrs. A. J. Hamley, met at the Whittier School on Saturday afternoon and made arrangements for the "Box Social" that is to be held under their supervision in the borough hall on Saturday evening, April 25, for the benefit of the cadets.

"Dory" Hubbard, who was in an unnavigable condition, was arrested by Marshal Mohan in front of Tozze's barber shop on Saturday evening and lodged in the borough jail for the night. He was arraigned before Recorder David S. Campbell in the borough hall at 9 o'clock yesterday morning and given a suspended sentence of twenty days. In releasing Hubbard the recorder in a voice filled with pity informed him that the court would have no other recourse, but to enforce the sentence if he should be brought before it again on the same charge.

Mrs. Lewis T. Churchill, of Fourth street, attended the funeral services of her aunt, Mrs. Amelia Lehr, at New York city on Friday.

Fred Blumenore, of Prospect avenue, spent the week-end with friends at Westfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Patson VanArtsdale, of Front street, entertained their daughter, Mrs. Margaret Blackmore, of New York city, aver the week-end.

The W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. Firman H. Gise, of Front street, on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

William L. Kline, of Plainfield, was arrested by Marshal Tarpey, in front of Taylor's Hotel, on North avenue, at 11 o'clock Friday night, for riding a bicycle without a light. Recorder Campbell, who upon being informed of the arrest considerately left his bed hastened to the borough hall in order to give the prisoner an immediate hearing. He was at first noticably inclined towards leniency. Kline, who was of a rather impressionable appearance, must have attributed the recorder's attitude of leniency to timidity, because he assumed a pompous attitude and became arrogantly impertinent, whereupon the court sternly admonished the prisoner and imposed a fine of $3 which was paid.

The fair of the William G. Holton Council was featured Saturday evening by the drawing of a number out of a receptable for every article that left. W. W. Walters, of Front street, won the $75 diamond with ticket No. 320; John Tinsman, also of Front street, secured the ton of coal that was donated by M. T. Moynihan; Robert Lowrie, of Jefferson avenue, secured the framed Junior charter; Arthur Vail, of Front street, won the large wedding cake that was donated by George Zink; Councilor Fred Vail secured the pair of shoes donated by Oscar Runyon; Richard Mann, of North avenue, won the ton of coal donated by the Dunellen Lumber and Stone Company, and William Smalley, of Fairview avenue, secured the large American flag donated by Price & Lawrence, of Newark. Chairman O. M. Weber, of the committee on arrangements, when interviewed yesterday said, the fair, owing to the hearty co-operation of every Junior had been a complete success. As to the amount of money that was cleared, he said that in the neighborhood of $200 would be a conservative estimate.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trade in the borough hall, this evening, is to be featured by a picture talk on "Porto Rico," by Carl F. Kees, of Irvington. The pictures that Mr. Kees will illustrate his lecture with have all been published in the magazine of the U. S. Geographical Society. Of the important matters to come before this meeting, the most important is the matter of surface drainage throughout the town.

Mrs. Harry Swackhamer, of Dunellen avenue, who has been ill for the past two weeks, is improving.

Alfred Day, of Front street, who represented Plainfield High School in the one mile event of the inter-scholastic meet at New York University, Saturday afternoon, finished ninth in a field of forty.

Rev. C. A. Biles, pastor of the Methodist church, at Mahaffey, Pa., who is visiting his sister, Mrs. Walter Vliet, of Front street, occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church last evening.

Miss Gladys Kern, of Bayonne, spent Sunday with Miss Matilda Muller, of Lincoln avenue. Miss Kern was accompanied home at the close of the day by her sister, Miss Louise, who has been spending her Easter vacation with Miss Muller.

STYLISH RELIABLE

Clothes
That Make a Man Well Dressed

So many men make the mistake of judging clothes purely from a standpoint of value and overlook the very important item of fitting their persons and temperaments. We've given this phase of the matter a lot of deep study; our stocks are ready with clothes that fit a man's personality as well as his body.

Two ideas are particularly popular in Suits—the black and white stripe and the Tartan plaid—we recommend them to men who like to follow the dictates of style absolutely.

We have them at all prices, but particularly fine values at

$20, $22.50 and $25

Parents who have children attending the Plainfield High School are urged to attend the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association to be held in the High School building tomorrow evening, as Principal Lindsey Best will explain the different courses for next year. Two new courses have been introduced, home arts and industrial arts, and the other courses have been somewhat modified.

The meeting of the Saturday Night Club in the firehouse on Saturday evening was largely attended by people from Plainfield and Westfield.

The F. F. C. baseball team went down to defeat Saturday afternoon in the first game of the season when they came out on the short end of a 10 to 8 score, in a well played game with Mount Pleasant. The local boys were ahead until the sixth inning when an error allowed four runs to come across, after which the Mount Pleasant aggregation could not be headed. The next game will be played on Saturday when the Garwood A. C. plays at this place.

"The Village School at Blueberry Corners" will be presented in Excelsior Hall on Friday evening, May 1, for the benefit of the Methodist church. The affair is being staged by the younger members of the church and bids fair to be a success.

Basketball at the Parish House has closed for the season. The last game which was to have been played between the second team and the "Canns," Saturday night, did not come off, disappointing the crowd that had gathered to see the contest.

Raritan

Tickets for the play, "A Regiment of Two," which will be given in St. Bernard's Hall on Thursday evening, April 30, will be placed on sale at Rohn's drug store next Monday.

Following instructions from the State Board of Health the so-called "Dear river" on the estate of James B. Duke has been connnected at both entrances, allowing fresh water to flow through it continuously and converting a great tract of Mr. Duke's land into an island. The water in the "dead river" had formerly reached there at times of freshets, when the Raritan overflowed its banks, had no means of exit. The order of the State Board of Health will entail considerable expense upon Mr. Duke, in the building of bridges, etc.

MRS. EDWARD H. LADD, JR. ENTERTAINS AT BRIDGE

Mrs. Edward H. Ladd, Jr., of Stelle avenue, entertained a large number of friends at a bridge party at her home, Friday afternoon, about seventy-two guests engaging in play. The whole afternoon was devoted to the play of bridge, attractive prizes being presented to the winner at each table.

Aside from the playing of bridge, there were many other pleasing features, Mrs. Ladd proving herself a delightful hostess. After the play refreshments were served and the sociability, which was a marked feature was further enjoyed.

MASQUE BALL ENJOYED BY YOUNGER SOCIETY SET

The masque ball which was given at the Park Club by the younger society set, Friday evening, was greatly enjoyed by the large number of guests present from the city and borough. The dancers were allowed to remain masked until 12 o'clock, at which time supper was served under the direction of Mrs. Henry Johnson, of the club.

The costumes of the dancers was a feature of the affair, and were noted for their attractiveness. The dancing, music for which was furnished by Brooks and Denton, continued until 3 o'clock in the morning. J. Hartley Mellick was chairman of the committee in charge, being assisted by A. W. EXPERTS SAY PICTURE IS A GREAT MASTERPIECE

"Les Miserables," which comes to Plainfield in moving pictures on the afternoons and evenings of next Friday and Saturday, has been pronounced by experts "the greatest motion picture ever made" and the fact that the initial cost of its production was $100,000 goes to prove the truth of this statement. The parts which are taken by some of the best known French actors are interpreted with all the dramatic power and insight which the great work of Victor Hugo demands—the costumes, the setting, the action are perfect in every detail, and the story lives again before the eyes of those who see the pictures.

The production has been called "the drama of humanity" and is said to mark "a distinct epoch in the educational work of moving pictures," but let not those who are tired in the evening and do not wish to be "educated" after a hard day's work or even too vigorously uplifted, become discouraged at such descriptions. The pictures are for those who are interested in real people with real feelings who find themselves in real situations.

It is because "Les Miserables" in moving pictures has been enthusiastically received in all the large cities of the country that the small group of Wellesley College girls who are bringing it to the Plainfield theatre for four performances this week, the proceeds of which will go to help in the rebuilding and equipping which the recent fire at the college made necessary, believe that they can rely on the support of the public both because the pictures are so well worth seeing and because the needs of the college are so apparent.

THE TANGO.

Tango parties have taken the country by storm. Everywhere by everybody is this dance now attempted. The dancing pump was dressy; it was also light, and, therefore, not tiresome to the feet, and so the most practical dancing shoe. Now this dancing pump was found to be very slippery on highly polished dance floors and so was practically worthless in dancing the tango. However, the PACKARD people have overcome this feature by equipping the soles of the

Packard

TANGO PUMP
with 3 rubber discs, thus eliminating the slipping, but still maintaining the light dressy evening pump for dancing.

About Buying at Home

A dollar spent out of town does not benefit Plainfield. It tends to weaken the commercial activity of the town, and, carried out to the fullest extent, would pauperize the community.

It is not goot citizenship to spend your money with the merchants of other cities. When you spend your money here you are helping yourself as well as your city.

All of this talk would not sound so well if you could not get—practically everything you want at home. Our merchants can immediately fill your needs, or in a few hours' time can get anything you want that they do not happen to have in stock.

U. S. PLANS TO BLOCKADE ALL PORTS; EXPECT TO CALL UPON THE MILITIA

Huerta Refused to Salute U. S. Flag.

ATTITUDE IS DEFIANT

Whole Fleet Is Being Rushed to Tampico.

MORE MARINES ARE SENT

President Is Prompt to Act After O'Shaughnessy's Report. Joint Session of Congress Today.

FOREIGN MINISTER EXPLAINS REFUSAL.

Mexico City, April 20.—Senor Portillo y Rojas, the Mexican foreign minister, announced that it would be impossible to agree to the demand of the United States that the flag of that country be unconditionally saluted, because that flag was not insulted, since it was not flying from the launch and because the marines were set free even before an investigation and the officer responsible for the arrests was himself arrested and held for trial.

The foreign minister further announced that the Mexican government would agree that both flags be saluted, the American flag first and then the Mexican flag, this arrangement to be made by a protocol, signed by the American charge, Nelson O'Shaughnessy, and the Mexican foreign minister.

The United States government, Senor Portillo added, had refused permission to Mr. Shaughnessy to sign such a protocol and demanded an unconditional salute by Mexico, which Mexico felt was incompatible with her dignity.

In conclusion the foreign minister said:

"Mexico has yielded as much as her dignity will permit. Mexico trusts to the fairmindedness and spirit of justice of the American people."

Washington, April 20.—Huerta has defied the United States and refused to order a salute of apology to the American flag. That is his answer to President Wilson's ultimatum.

The president in reply appeared before a joint session of congress and asked for authority to use the army and navy to enforce the demands of the United States. This request was granted immediately, and orders were issued for the blockading and seizure of all Mexican ports on the east and west coasts of the southern republic.

This movement, while not in itself an act of war, is almost certain to involve hostilities, and officials in Washington have accepted as inevitable an open declaration of war with Mexico.

The news of Huerta's refusal was flashed by wireless to Admiral Badger, commanding the Atlantic fleet, now hurrying toward Mexico, and to the commanders of the American war vessels already in Mexican waters. They will not, however, make any definite move against Mexico until they receive congress action. With the passage of the joint resolution by the legislative branch orders went forth for immediate action. The ports of Tampico and Vera Cruz will be the first to be seized.

Railroad communication to Mexico City will be interrupted, and an effort will be made to starve Huerta into submission through cutting off his customs receipts and his supplies of ammunition.

Huerta's defiance came after hours of haggling by him. It came after President Wilson had again served notice in the most emphatic terms that his demand for a salute was unconditional. The exact words of the message which the president sent to Secretary Bryan from White Sulphur Springs and which ended all hope on the part of Huerta for a modification of this government's ultimatum were these:

Tell O'Shaughnessy our terms are unconditional in every detail.

WOODROW WILSON.

The vigorous telegram from the president was caused by an eleventh hour demand on the part of Huerta that the United States, through Charge O'Shaughnessy in Mexico City, should enter into a formal protocol giving him assurance that this government would fire a return salute to the Mexican salute of apology. President Wilson informed Huerta that the United States would not give him a single assurance beyond the statement contained in Admiral Mayo's original demand on the Mexican general, which stipulated that an American war vessel would return the Mexican salute.

Congress assembled at noon today under circumstances almost as feverish as those which preceded the Spanish-American war. The president's address is momentarily expected unless General Huerta should recede from the attitude of refusal to salute. It was said in an official quarter that if Huerta relaxed at the last moment the president's address would probably be indefinitely postponed. So eager is the administration and the congress leaders to avoid a conflict that they will not draw the lines closely and insist upon strict compliance within the time limit fixed in the ultimatum.

PRESIDENT WILSON.

Will Ask Congress For Armed Force to Compel Reparation.

To Blockade Ports.

The order issued to the portion of the torpedo flotilla at Pensacola to proceed at once to join Rear Admiral Badger's fleet en route to Tampico clearly indicated the president's intention to blockade Mexican ports on the east coast. It was originally intended that all of the destroyers comprising the third, fourth and fifth divisions of the flotilla should be sent, but the Mayrant of the third division was prevented from leaving owing to injuries to her engines, which cannot be repaired for several days.

The long, low torpedo destroyers are able to make twice the speed of a battleship and can go many knots faster than the swiftest scout cruiser in the navy. They are, therefore superior in many ways for blockading purposes. The flotilla probably will be distributed along the Mexican coast if the blockade is ordered with a view to darting from port to port as their services may be needed.

Plans Well Formed.

Washington, April 20.—For the last two years the war department has had a complete line of strategy prepared in case hostilities should occur between the United States and Mexico. This scheme includes the blockading of all the leading ports of Mexico and also an advance of the regular army over the railroad lines leading southward through the Mexican republic.

Secretary of War Garrison, Assistant Secretary Breckinridge, Major General Leonard Wood, the retiring chief of the staff and who is likely to command the United States land forces should such tactics become necessary; Major General Wotherspoon, who will succeed Major General Wood on Wednesday, and Brigadier General Hugh L. Scott, lately in command of the troops on the Mexican border, have had several conferences, but none of them will discuss the matters under comment.

National Guard Ready.

Brigadier General A. L. Mills, chief of the division of militia affairs, has denied that any special orders have been issued to the national guard within the last few days, but explained that under a general order issued several weeks ago the national guard is prepared for immediate call.

It is said that the militia of the states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois and some of the New England states are at the highest point of efficiency, as well as that of the District of Columbia.

The aeroplane fleet, it was said, is also ready for any emergency, and in case of hostilities between this country and Mexico the flying fleet will be utilized.

To Call Out Militia.

Washington, April 20.—"In the event of war we will go ahead on the assumption that the organized militia of the country can be utilized as a basis for the volunteer force that would in all probability be authorized by congress."

This is the statement made by Mr. Garrison, the secretary of war.

"Should there be any opposition to that course," he added, "we will then have to meet it. Of course it is well known that the militia cannot be used outside the limits of the United States. The constitution limits it to the defense of the Union. It is proper, however, in the event of war to enlist the militiamen as individuals or organizations into a volunteer force should such be authorized by congress."

From an authoritative source it is learned that the entire organized militia, consisting of approximately 120,000 men, will be used for field service. Every militiaman will be given an opportunity to enlist in the volunteer force. Those declining will be used for home service, even should this take them to the Texas border in the capacity of a patrol or otherwise.

Officials of the war department believe that a few months' service on the border would be sufficient inducement to the militiamen to enter the volunteer force and see service across the border.

Every detail has been made by the War college here for the movement of every organized militia organization. Every letter and message containing necessary orders to be dispatched by governors of states, adjutant generals and commanding officers of national guard organizations has been prepared.

The call for volunteers will start this well laid out organization into operation. It is predicted that there will be no confusion such as occurred prior to and during the Spanish-American war.

The government has a good supply of arms, ammunition and other equipment in its various supply depots, sufficient to supply a volunteer force of the size required in the event of war with Mexico. Similar equipment in the possession of the organized militia can be utilized, the states being reimbursed by the federal government for expenditures out of state funds.

Men Eager For Service.

On Board the U. S. S. Arkansas, at Sea, by Wireless via Jupiter, Fla., April 20.—Prepared for a "fight or for a frolic," the battleships under command of Rear Admiral Badger are proceeding steadily toward Mexican waters. It is expected that the fleet will reach Tampico on Wednesday. Officers and men have busied themselves every day in preparing for any emergency that may arise. There is a subdued air of excitement not only on board the Arkansas, but on board every other battleship. The one topic is Mexico and the one question, "Will we have a good scrap?" Except a few of the officers and some of the old men in the navy, the complement of the Arkansas has never been under fire.

Skirmish drills are held each day, and calls to quarters have been frequently issued at unusual hours to see how the men responded. The results have been very gratifying.

Rear Admiral Badger is greatly pleased by the manner in which the big fleet was mobilized in practically a few hours' notice. He and his staff have been busy for hours in mapping out tentative war schemes.

The entire fleet will assemble off Tampico on Wednesday. That will mean a force of not less than 20,000 men.

It is understood that if the salute demanded by the United States government is fired by Mexico a gunboat will receive it and then return to the big battleships, which will lie about seven miles off the coast.

North Dakota Sails.

New York, April 20.—All in all, it was the biggest day the New York navy yard people have known since Spanish war times. And maybe the crowd that flocked from and to Brooklyn yesterday was even greater than some of the goodby throngs of the latter nineties.

You could say that 10,000 persons swarmed over the Texas, the New York and the Wyoming from 1 o'clock to 5, when the officers began to clear decks of visitors, and you wouldn't be on the far side of the estimate. If anything there were more than that and over on the dock across the basin from which the Dreadnought North Dakota steamed away on railroad time at 4:30 o'clock to join the fleet Mexico bound. There was hardly standing room what with friends, wives, sisters, sweethearts, children and acquaintances of Captain Plunkett and his thousand men.

If the North Dakota, the navy's sole turbiner, is going to see actual service in the south the men aboard her won't be very much disappointed. Several of them said that the only thing they didn't look forward to down in the gulf of Mexico is the heat, which is calculated to do some deck scorching when the sun gets shining.

Rebels Will Resent.

El Paso, Tex., April 20.—Considerable excitement was apparent in Juarez over the outcome of the Tampico negotiations between the United States and Huerta. The general attitude of the rebel officials appears to be that so long as the United States confines its repressive measures against Huerta to a blockade of ports held by Huerta the rebels will not resent it, but at the first firing of a shot against Mexican territory the rebels will resent it with arms. In the event of a blockade against the port of Juarez and other ports held by the rebels they appear to be generally of the opinion that they would be forced to resent with arms.

Weather Forecast.

Showers and cooler today; tomorrow probably fair, with fresh to strong southwest to northwest winds.

THE CLARK LICENSE.

Knotty legal problems are continually arising concerning the liquor traffic, but the one brought up through the death of the licensee of the Clark saloon is puzzling not only the general public, but many of the councilmen as well. No one wants to do an injustice to the Clark family, so far as the license for the present year is concerned, but it is very evident that the license cannot be continued if the Tyler zone ordinance remains in force. Clark paid for a year's license, and he only enjoyed a few months of the privilege prior to his death a few days ago. Now the question comes up as to what can be done.

No legal provision is made at the present time by which the city can refund to the estate any part of the fee paid, and no one wants to see them deprived of that money. It has been suggested that perhaps the administrator of the estate can carry on the business until the license expires, which would of course solve the problem, but under the authors interpretation of the Tyler Zone ordinance the license cannot be issued to anyone else for that place. It was so understood when the ordinance was passed. The Clark saloon and one other were the only two outside of that zone, and the proprietors of both places understood that with the death of those licensees the privilege would die, and could not be renewed by anyone else. Technically the ordinance was violated last year. John Clark secured the license as an individual after the death of Frank Clark, for at the time of the passage of the Tyler act the license was in the name of Clark Brothers. However, as it was continued by one of the brothers, no one wished to work a hardship, and the City Council granted the permit to John Clark.

If the Corporation Counsel decides that the administrator of the estate can continue the business until the present year expires, when the license will not be renewed, we believe that would be fair, but if the place must close, the estate should have returned to it a part of the license fee in proportion to the unexpired time. One thing is sure. If the Tyler zone is continued, and we believe the people of Plainfield would never stand for it being abolished, there can never be a saloon in the Clark property after this year.

Plainfield is mighty fortunate in the men who are selected as city councilmen. The sacrifices which they make to serve the city, are such as to warrant substantial salaries, and yet all do everything they can to efficiently administer public affairs, at the greatest personal sacrifices. One of the councilmen in a talk the other day said that the city business takes practically all of his evening time, and keeps him so late that he is nearly worn out. He has had to cut out all social engagements, and cannot accept many invitations to semi-public affairs, when he is asked to come and gather with the people whom he serves. His situation is similar to that of most men in the service of the city. Plainfield occupies a unique position in that in spite of all this hard work it has the good fortune to attract men of such sterling character and ability to its positions of government. The strongest argument that can be presented in favor of commission government with salaried officials or a city manager on the job at all times, is found in the task with which all of the members of the Council are now burdened.

Plainfield Democrats are getting very much wrought up about the postmastership, and they cannot understand why Senator James E. Martine lets things go along as they are. They feel that the salary belongs to one of that faith, now that Mr. Bird's term has expired. Almost every. Democrat one meets, and it seems as if a majority of them are candidates for the job, asks the question over and over again "Why doesn't Senator Martine make the appointment and have done with it?" They think that they have a right to know why some one is not named, but "our Jim" remains silent. By long and continued defeats the local members of the party have learned to be patient and trustful to a great degree, but they want the Senator to speak and break the suspense. As was predicted in these columns some months ago, we fear that Senator Martine has gotten himself into a peck of trouble by not letting Congressman Tuttle settle the question once and for all, as he originally was told he could do.

That live little organization, the West End Civic Association, will be heard from again tomorrow night. Their annual dinner promises to be well worth attending, for Senator Carlton B. Pierce, who could not get to the recent Board of Trade meeting, will come here to talk about taxation, and there are a lot of people who are much interested in his fight before the Legislature, which resulted in the enactment of the bank tax law. This is not the first time the civic association has "pulled off" something good, and it is making a mark for itself in the community such as is seldom made by a neighborhood organization.

Some of the pictures which were exhibited in a window of a store temporarily occupied by a traveling concern during the past week were of such a character that no local merchant would think of showing them.

THOUGHT CHILD HAD SWALLOWED POISON

Julia Hinkey, Aged Four, of Dunellen, Gives Parents Great Fright.

Julia Hinkey, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Hinkey, of Dunellen avenue, Dunellen, came running into her home about 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, with a blue bottle, which contained a whitish fluid, grapsed in her hands, with the exclamation, "I took some of it, mamma! I took some of it!" When asked by her mother where she had found the bottle, little Julia said, "Out in the street." It remained for the father upon his return at 6 o'clock from his duties of the day, to discover the word poison impressed upon the bottle.

Becoming frantic at once with apprehension the father grasped the bottle and rushed down to the pharmacy of Edward Pennock, where he asked Dr. Pennock to make an immediate analysis of its contents. Upon emerging from his laboratory after a hurried examination, the doctor informed the anxious parent that while according to the medical word on the bottle it had at one time contained bichloride of mercury its present contents appeared to him to only be a harmless concoction of flour and water, presumably put therein by some child. The doctor, however, prescribed treatment to induce vomiting. Up to a late hour last night little Julia appeared to be none the worse for the dose that she had taken.

OPEN DISCUSSION WILL FOLLOW ANTI-SUFFRAGE TALK

Miss Lucy Price, of Cleveland, and former Assemblyman John A. Matthews, of Newark, will be the principal speakers at the anti-suffrage meeting to be held tonight at the Y. M. C. A. at 8:15 o'clock, under the auspices of the Plainfield Branch of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage. Rev. Frank Goodwin, of Westfield, will preside, introduce the speakers, and afterward conduct an open discussion of the subject of suffrage.

All persons interested in the question of suffrage or anti-suffrage are cordially invited to attend the meeting, listen to the speakers and join in the discussion for which ample opportunity will be given.

JENKINS-REVIS.

Miss Esther R. Jenkins and Houston Revis, colored, both of this city, were married last night by Rev. E. W. Roberts, pastor of the Shiloh Baptist church, at his home on West Fourth street. The bride is a sister of Mrs. T. J. Banks, of 637 West Third street, where she made her home. For a time she was a maid in the home of Clare Dwiggins on Belvidere avenue. Mr. Revis is employed by Joseph Harrigan.

BODY OF MISSING RAHWAY CHILD IS FOUND IN RIVER

Rahway, April 29—The body of Harold Long, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Long, of 14 Main street, was found at 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning in the Rahway river, near the Elizabeth avenue bridge, a quarter-mile from the spot where he is supposed to have fallen in. The discovery was made by Thomas Avery, of 20 Lewis street.

The child disappeared about 11 o'clock Friday morning shortly after he went into the yard to play. Robinson branch, an estuary of the river, flows in the rear of his home.

UTILITY BOARD DISMISSES PLEASANT DALE 'PHONE CASE

Trenton, April 20.—The Board of Public Utility Commissioners has dismissed a complaint of F. W. Shrump, who protested against an additional charge of $18 a year imposed by the New Jersey Telephone Company for telephone service at his home at Pleasantdale, West Orange. To grant the relief sought by Mr. Shrump, the Board said, would involve discrimination, and it was upon this ground alone that the decision was based.

It was particularly pointed out by the Board that the decision should not be taken as a definite approval of the rates of the company, since no such detailed investigation as would be necessary to pass upon their justness and reasonableness had been made. The Board added that such an investigation on its part would not be justified by the issue raised on the record in the present case.

THE PRUDENTIAL FIRST.

Each year for the past 16 years The Prudential has led all life insurance companies in New Jersey in new business. In 1913 the amount of life insurance issued and revived in New Jersey by The Prudential exceeded $46,000,000 on nearly 200,000 policies. The claims paid by The Prudential in New Jersey in 1913 were over $2,700,000, a greater sum than that paid by any other company. This leadership of The Prudential in its home State is an indication of the confidence which the people of New Jersey have in The Prudential. The Prudential has in force in New Jersey over 1,468,000 policies, a number greater than one-half the population of the State, and the insurance in force is over 270 million dollars. These are interesting figures and particularly demonstrate the popularity of industrial insurance as first established on this continent by The Prudential in New Jersey in 1875.

WILL RESIDE IN NEW YORK.

Miss Amy R. Haynes, of Dunellen, and Walter M. Fowler, of New York, who were married at St. Paul's chapel, New York, Saturday, by Rev. Dr. Montague, will upon their return from Bermuda, spend a few days in Washington before making their home in New York.

PARTY HAD NARROW ESCAPE IN CRASH

Mrs. Van Hoesen, of Fanwood, in Accident Near Roselle Yesterday Afternoon.

Two automobiles, both traveling in the same direction, collided near the Van Court Inn, near Roselle, late yesterday afternoon, and the occupants of one of the cars, among whom was Mrs. Stephen Van Hoesen, of Fanwood, had a narrow escape from serious injury. Mrs. Van Hoesen and others in the car were bruised about the body but were all able to return to their homes unassisted.

The automobile containing the Fanwood party was traveling slowly toward Rahway, when a Ford car came up in the rear and smashed into the rear end to avoid colliding with another machine that had pocketed the Fanwood Studebaker. Those in the Studebaker car allege that the driver of the Ford machine, a William Jaeger, of Roselle, was traveling at a fast clip. The car in which Mrs. VanHoesen was riding was damaged to the extent of $75.

FEDERAL GRAND JURY WILL TAKE TESTIMONY

Postmaster W. S. Richards to Appear at Newark Tomorrow.

The Federal Grand Jury now in session at Newark will take testimony tomorrow in the charge against William S. Richards, the former postmaster at Nolans Point, Lake Hopatcong, who was removed because of a shortage in accounts. A strong plea has been made in the deposed officer's behalf and it is believed his reputation and the fact that the money taken was immediately returned will be taken into consideration.

Mahlon M. Smith, proprietor of the Sunnyside Cottage, and Horace Cook, a carpenter, who were on Postmaster Richards' bond, have turned over to the government the amount of the shortage, $3,021.23, and have requested that the case not be prosecuted. A close scrutiny of the books by Postoffice Inspector Robert H. Aldous, showed Richards to be short to the extent of $3,021.23. He was arrested April 9 and brought before United States Commissioner Edwin R. Semple, at Newark. He was arraigned on charges of appropriating to his own use money belonging to the government. The specific charges against Richards are that on April 6 he failed to deposit money-order funds to the amount of $1,400.05 and also the sum of $1,631,18 from the postal revenues, and instead converted them to his own use. Inspector Aldous brought Richards before Commissioner Semple on April 9, who fixed bail in the sum of $1,000 to await the action of the Federal Grand Jury. Freeholder George H. Hulmes, of Hopatcong, furnished the bail.

MRS. ANNA STITES DIES FOLLOWING LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Anna Stites, aged 81 years, wife of the late Amos B. Stites, of Grove street, died yesterday, after a lingering illness. She was for years a member of the First Baptist church, and had many friends and acquaintances in this city. Among those who survive are Amos B. Stites, Israel Stites and Theodore Stites, and one daughter, Mrs. Anna Laird, all of this city. Mrs. Elmeda Bennett, a sister, of Akron, Ohio also survives. The funeral services will be held from the home of the daughter, Mrs. Laird, 144 Central avenue, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be made at Hillside cemetery.

THE CAROLINA AND THE CLEVELAND IN COLLISION

The New York and Porto Rico line steamship Carolina, while coming to anchor at Quarantine in New York, early today, was in collision with the Hamburg-American line steamship Cleveland, which had previously arrived from Naples and was at her anchorage. The Carolina's stem was twisted above the water line and the Cleveland's plates on the port side were dented for some distance above and below the water line, causing her to leak. Nearly all of the passengers on both vessels were asleep, and there was little excitement.

"LADIES NIGHT" AFFAIR.

The members of the Men's Club of the Seventh-Day Baptist church and their wives and daughters met last night and enjoyed a social gathering. A program of vocal and instrumental music, together with several literary numbers passed the evening away. Among the soloists were Roy Titsworth and Charles P. Titsworth. A business session preceded the informal entertainment of the evening.

TAFT PREDICTS A LONG, FIERCE WAR

Will Mean Guerrilla Fighting, Says Ex-President.

New Haven, Conn., April 20.—Twenty-five hundred Yale students took part last night in a spontaneous demonstration favoring war with Mexico. Ex-President William Howard Taft, President Arthur T. Hadley of Yale and Secretary Stokes addressed the men, who marched to their homes and called for speeches on the war.

Professor Taft said:

"There are a great many circumstances which may yet prevent war. Every lover of his country ought to pray that this national calamity may be averted.

"The president, as the men in my constitutional law class know, has no power to declare war. That power rests with the congress. While I believe it may be inferred that congress will stand behind the president in his position, it is not impossible that before congress takes any step that is decided for war Mexico may comply with the United States' demands.

"A high authority has estimated for me that it would take from 300,000 to 500,000 men a very long time to subdue Mexico. I have had four years' experience in a country not dissimilar to Mexico. War in Mexico would be guerrilla warfare. It would be a long, hard pull, but we would do it.

"General Sherman, who knew most about it, said 'War is hell.' Following in the wake of war comes decadence in government, corruption and a tremendous burden of pensions. We have had our experience in the civil war and the Spanish war. War with Mexico will be no trail of glory—it will be a trail of woe. Not one of you, when you looked back at it after it was over, would welcome it. I hope you would greet it with a stern determination to meet your responsibility. Gentlemen, I hope God may avert war."

EDISON, STOUTER, BACK HOME

Vacation a Lazy Thing, He Says After Florida Trip.

West Orange, N. J., April 20.—Thomas A. Edison, Mrs. Edison, Miss Madeline Edison and Theodore and Charles Edison returned to their home, Glenmont, in Llewellyn park, West Orange, after a stay of six weeks at the Edison winter place in Fort Meyer, Fla.

Mr. Edison, several pounds heavier than when he left, said to one of his friends as he greeted him at the Market street station in Newark:

"A vacation is a lazy thing and keeps a fellow down so much that he has to put on weight whether he wants to or not."

Mr. Edison went into the Everglades with Henry Ford of Detroit and John Burroughs.

WEDS HER FATHER-IN-LAW.

Bride Has Five Children and Her New Husband Six.

Smyrna, Del., April 20.—Joseph C. Robinson, aged fifty-seven, a retired farmer of means, and Mrs. Bessie M. Robinson, aged thirty-three, his daughter-in-law, widow of his son Frank, were married here. Every effort was made to keep the affair a secret. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. H. Collins, pastor of Madeley Methodist Episcopal church, Wilmington, Del.

The bride has five children, ranging in age from one year to eleven. The bridegroom has half a dozen adult children. The bridegroom is a son of ex-Sheriff Robinson of Kent county, Del.

Pupils Struck For Fire Escapes.

Cleveland, O., April 20.—Five hundred children of the North Doan school called off their strike against their alleged fire trap building when an investigation was promised.

NARROWLY ESCAPES A TRAGIC DEATH

Thomas Mohan, B. & O. Fireman, Struck by Overhead Bridge at Bayonne.

Thomas Mohan, of Dunellen, fireman on a Baltimore & Ohio fast freight over the New Jersey Central and Reading railroads, between New York and Philadelphia, had a narrow escape from a tragic death, Saturday night, when his head struck the East Forty-ninth street overhead bridge at Bayonne, a glancing blow, just as he thrust it out of the cab window.

The engineer's attention was attracted by the accident, and stopping the train as quickly as possible, hurried to the fireman's side of the engine where he gave every assistance to his companion. The blow stunned Mr. Mohan and from the wound in his head blood flowed profusely. An ambulance was summoned and the fireman was removed to the Bayonne City Hospital, where it was found necessary to take several stitches to close the wound. Later in the evening Mr. Mohan was able to return home.

The East Forty-ninth street bridge is an especially dangerous one, as there is very little clearance between its girders and the passing trains. Two men, a fireman and an engineer, have met their death at that point and Mr. Mohan's escape is considered miraculous. He will be off duty for a few days.

HACKMAN'S LICENSE REVOKED FOR ABUSING BLIND HORSE

Charged with racing their horses at break-neck speed on Park avenue, yesterday afternoon, John Lacey and Charles Barry, hackmen at the North avenue depot, were arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court, this morning, and adjudged guilty of the offense. Lacey's license to drive a hack was revoked and Barry was given a suspended sentence, in consideration of his previous good record.

Lacey is an old offender, according to the police, and has been arrested eight different times. His horse when examined by Mrs. Van Hoesen, agent for the S. P. C. A., was found to bear a number of swellings on the back said to be inflicted by the whip he was using. The arrests were made by Patrolmen Nolan and Wicht. Lacey's equine is blind and he claimed that it was necessary to beat it in order to keep it in the road.

KERSHAW'S PITCHING AND NORTON'S RALLIES DEFEATED PLAINFIELDERS

The Plainfield High School baseball team met defeat in the twelfth inning of a game with Somerville High School, Saturday afternoon, by the score of 3 to 2. The game was a pitchers' battle from beginning to end, with Kershaw, of Somerville, a little in the lead. Kershaw allowed the Plainfield batsmen but three hits and made fourteen players fan the air; while Brick allowed Somerville five hits and fanned six men. In the first two innings Brick threw only ten balls.

Somerville's winning run came in the second half of the twelfth inning. Hamilton, the first man up, hit to O'Leary and was thrown out at first. Norton hit to left field and stole second and third. Kershaw hit a long fly to Peacock and Norton scored on the throw home.

Kershaw was pitching in his best form, striking out six men in the first three innings and not allowing a hit until the seventh inning. Somerville scored a run in the seventh and eighth innings. In the seventh Dumont went out on a foul to Hetfield and Hamilton on a a long fly to Van Deventer. Norton then hit one over first base and scored on Kershaw's hit. Amerman flied to Butler. The second score came in the eighth, when Stryker hit to Hetfield, who fumbled the ball, and Stryker reached first base. Katz flied to Peacock and McHugh to Butler. Robson then hit a high fly to Brick, who fumbled the ball and Robson reached first. Brick then threw to third to catch Stryker, but the throw was wild and Stryker scored. Robson circled the bases, but was nipped at the plate on a perfect throw from Hetfield, who had recovered the ball in left field.

Plainfield's only scoring came in the eighth inning. Smith, the first man up, flied out to left field; Brick walked and O'Leary went out at first. Hetfield walked and Brick scored on Peacock's hit. Hetfield scored on Van Deventer's hit, Peacock going to third. Rosenson ended the rally by striking out.

STINE AND TOWNLEY IN THE POINTS FOR COLLEGE

"Hub" Stine and George Townley acted as the Springfield Training School's first string battery in the game played against Amherst, Saturday afternoon, which the latter team won by a count of 4 to 3. The North Plainfield boys were in the points during eight of the nine innings and made a creditable record for themselves.

Townley did the pitching and held the opposition to nine scattered bingles. He made one assist and his teammates were charged with two bad errors behind him. Stine caught his fellow townsman's slants and handled four putouts with one error. Stine is credited with one of his team's stolen bases. In the ninth Townley and Stine were succeeded by Lannge and Holmes.

HUNT CLUB ENJOYS RUN OF TWELVE MILES

The weekly run of the Watchung Hunt Club, Saturday afternoon, was a thoroughly enjoyable one, carrying the riders over a distance of about twelve miles. The hounds were met at Dog Corners and thrown in nearby. After going a distance of about five miles, a check was made on the Peterson farm.

They were taken up again and cast in nearby, the second line leading to Westfield, where the hounds circled around to the finish at Goodman's Crossing on the Lehigh Valley Railroad. The riders negotiated a number of wide ditches and small streams, the horses performing well and without a mishap. Those noticed in the field were R. C. Finch, M. F. H., L. B. Smith, H. A. Bourne, H. L. Finch, Mayor H. W. Evans, of Westfield; Miss Wasserman, of New York; S. D. French, Stanley Bellows and Huntsman Harrison.

ROD AND REEL

There was good flounder fishing from the bulkheads and piers along the Shrewsbury River yesterday. Quite some rowboats were out, and their occupants brought in great strings of fish.

The Salem Camping and Fishing Club opened its home on Morgan Beach yesterday, and then extended an invitation to its neighbors to call, after which the members had dinner at Neidermann's hotel.

Yesterday was like a summer's day at the fishing resorts, and even the strong southwest wind didn't interfere with the fishermen. Jamaica Bay fishing boat owners did a rushing business, and the flounders responded nobly and bit on any old kind of bait. Over at Sehy's place rowboats were in demand as soon as the first train stopped at the Raunt and every station along the trestle reported all boats out by noon. Some of the local fishermen caught all the flounders they wanted and few brought home some nice tomcods from the fishing resorts along Long Island Sound.

A few more days like that of yesterday and the trout will work from the tidewaters of all streams, looking for food. While the freshets are on the grown fish keep up stream, and that probably accounts for the poor fishing.

"USTERWUS" CREW PUT ONE OVER ON ITS SUCCESSOR IN BORO SCHOOL UNIFORMS

George Conover's pitching arm and his ever-ready support proved too much for the North Plainfield High School baseball team Saturday afternoon and the "has-beens" took the game by a 8 to 2 score. Hyde Oval was in perfect condition and both teams put up a good article of ball, each making three misplays. Many of the High School's former stars appeared in uniform and were especially good with the stick. They started things going in the first inning and with two down and two on base, Percy Bailey proved himself a hero and poled out a single that scored two runs. The school lads were blanked in their opening session but in the second inning the "squeeze" play was successfully worked. Abrams bunting the ball down the first base line.

Warren Townley stepped into the limelight in the third inning by pulling a hot liner out of the air but this was overshadowed when Conover caught a sizzler right off the bat with his bare hand. All he did was to smile and pass another ball up to the batter. The graduates scored four times in the fifth on three hits and an error and then Stahl was derricked from the box and Denny sent to the rescue. "Dan" walked the first man to face him and forced in a run. In the next two innings the Alumni scored once in each and the only other score that the students made came in the eighth when Smalley was hit by a pitched ball and succeeded in getting home.

The visitors clouted the ball hard at the right times and most of their runs were earned. Smith led the bunch with a double and two singles and Percy Bailey, Demler and Martin each pounded out a brace. Townley led his teammates with two singles, while Abrams, Conroy and VanMater all hit safely once.

DAY FAILED TO PLACE IN UNIVERSITY MEET

Alfred Day, Plainfield High School's representative in the New York University schoolboy athletic meet held Saturday afternoon, failed to win a place in the mile run, the event in which he was a participant. As was the case in the Central High School meet in Newark several weeks ago, Day had the pleasure of seeing Charlie Broughton romp home an easy winner, smashing the previous record by almost two seconds. His time was 4 minutes, 39 4-5 seconds.

When the youngsters finished their afternoon's work on Ohio Field, Manhattan, Central High School, of Newark, only one of whose representatives got in the record breaking class, was in front in the number of points scored. The Newark lads took the New York University trophy with a total of twenty-seven points.

HARRY JENNINGS TWIRLS A NO-HIT, NO-RUN GAME

Superb twirling on the part of Harry Jennings, who pitched Plainfield to a Central New Jersey League pennant last fall, proved a winning feature in the Rutgers-Renssellaer game at New Brunswick, Saturday afternoon, when the home crew won by a score of 5 to 0. Jennings did not allow a single run or hit during the nine long rounds and he was supported in a sensational style by the men in the field. Harold Schenck, another Plainfield boy who is a regular in the Rutgers outfield, was unable to play Saturday afternoon.

Jennings was the big feature of the game. He held the opposition

FORMER LOCAL MAN EXPLAINS A STROKE

Tom Whitaker, Now Coach of Missouri A. C., Tells of American's Progress.

By Thomas G. Whitaker.
(Formerly Physical Director Plainfield Y. M. C. A.)

The greatest factor in the wonderful advance made in speed swimming in the past decade is, without question, the introduction of the crawl stroke. Viewed with suspicion as a freak innovation when first brought to light, it is considered today the stroke par-excellence for any distance up to and including the mile. A brief glance over the swimming records with a comparison, for as short a time as five years back, will make

Previous to 1903, the swimmers of the world used for their speed swimming a stroke, known as the trudgeon, or double over-arm stroke. This stroke required a drawing up and spreading of the legs to get what is known as the "scissors" kick.

The Australian championships of 1903 were productive of the first swimmer to swim 100 yards under a minute. Richard Cavill, an Australian, acomplished this heretofore unheard of feat by means of a stroke which was to prove revolutionary. Cavill used a double over-arm stroke with a peculiar up and down fluttering of the legs and feet. This stroke subsequently came to be known as the "Australian Crawl."

It was not long after Cavill's great accomplishment that the best American swimmers, notable among whom was the peerless C. M. Daniels and the perennial champion Bud Goodwin, changed their style to the Australian stroke, and with the change came a great increase in speed.

The Americans, however, were not satisfied to use a mere up and down fluttering of the legs and feet, which served only to keep the feet near the surface of the water. Numerous coaches and some swimmers experimented with a very much faster and stronger kick, resulting in the discovery that more propulsive power could be derived from the legs and feet with little or no resistance.

The swimmers of the West were among the first to realize and appreciate latent power in this style of kick with its possibility of increased speed, and they lost no time in applying it to their strokes, with the result that instead of merely keeping the legs fluttering up and down in a listless lazy fashion, they started to take a hard, fast, vigorous positive kick, some attaining as many as six downward beats to every double overarm motion.

While the new idea was still in its infancy, it was noted by shrewd observers that the swimmers who were using this method seemed to be moving through the water faster than the swimmers who were sticking to the old method of the Australian swimmers.

Such was the cast, for with the advent of the new stroke there came into existence a group of swimmers who were destined to wipe out all the American records and not a few world's records. Perry McGillivray, Harry Hebner and A. C. Raithel, all of Chicago, are the swimmers who hold the most of the American records, with the end not in sight, for after going after the short distance records of the country and breaking them, they are turning their attention to the middle and long distances, and it appears to be a matter of only a short time when our American swimmers will vie with the Australian and English swimmers at distances over a quarter of a mile.

It was at first thought that the crawl stroke, with its hard, strenuous kick, would prove too exhausting for the middle and long distance swims, but a new generation of swimmers has come to the front, a group of boys who, starting at the tender age of twelve or thereabouts, have gone through the special muscle training required for this most strenuous of swimming strokes. So that these swimmers can set a pace that would soon prove fatal for a swimmer of the old school.

It is known that even among some of the best of the later day swimmers there are a few who are unable to maintain a straight crawl stroke throughout any distance over 220 yards, these swimmers are using what is known as a modified crawl, a combination of the "scissors" kick and the crawl kick, a sort of hanging-over from the trudgeon stroke.

The swimming team of the Reading Y. M. C. A. has taken up the new American crawl with astonishing results. In a short space of time, with no training facilities compared to the advantages enjoyed by swimmers in larger cities, Harold Atkinson, Ed. G. Spangler and Paul Keiser have shown promise of developing into class A performers. Through John S. Farrington, resident commissioner of the Amateur Athletic Union, and an expert himself, means have been provided to givet he local lads the proper training, and there is a strong likelihood that the day is not far distant when Reading will take the place in the eyes of swimming enthusiasts it occupied in the palmy days of E. Carroll Schaeffer's great success.

COMEDY OF ERRORS IN SEVEN INNINGS

Leal School Lads Trounced and the Scorebook Was Lost in the Shuffle.

In a comedy of errors on Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon, the Leal School baseball team tasted another defeat, this time relinguishing a decision to the Montclair Academy youths by a count of 28 to 8. The game was a farce from start to finish, the visitors hitting the local twirlers at will and circling the bases whenever they saw fit.

At no time during the struggle did the locals appear dangerous and the decision was conceded to the visitors from the first crack of the bat. The balls were hit to the four corners of the lot and the private school youths were kept chasing the spheroids from start to finish. Bickerson adorned the mound for the Plainfielders while Skinner did this end of the work for the visiting clan. While the Plainfielders allowed plenty of bingles the Montclair hurler put up an airtight flinging exhibition and stood the local batsmen on their heads.

The score:

Montclair .....18 15 1 6 6—28
Leal School .....0 3 1 0 3 1 0— 8

DEMOCRATS OUTHIT THE WINNING CREW

Led in the Batting But Lost Out in a 1 to 0 Battle Saturday Afternoon.

One run in the third inning pushed across the platter by Brown, of the Monroe Avenue Sunday-School League baseball team, was enough to win a close and hard fought decision over the newly organized Jefferson Democratic Club combination, Saturday afternon. Clever twirling on the part of Laskoski, the politicians' pitcher, held the rival clan to a brace of bingles, but these intermingled with the trio of misplays chalked up behind him resulted in the solitary tally simmering over the home station.

Both teams put up a classy exhibition of the diamond pastime and appeared to be in mid-season form. The battling was done in a tooth and nail fashion and it was anybody's game up until the final putout was scored.

The losers outhit their rivals by a margin of four bingles, getting a half dozen healthy swats during the encounter. Morley led with a brace of safeties, and McClinton, Lanning, Dick Scott and Laskoski all smashed out one life giver.

AHEAD IN THE FIRST, BUT THAT WAS ALL

Public Service Proceeded to Clean up on Everything After the Initial Fest.

After a merry-go-round in the opening session when the Trinity baseball tossers outscored their Public Service rivals by a count of 8 to 5, the gas workers settled down and proceeded to smash out a verdict. Soon after the avalanche of counters in the opening cantor, Dufford was derricked and with Eddie Montross serving them over the plate the Public Service crew soon passed the Sunday-school outfit and had things its own way during the remainder of the conflict. The final score favored the P. S. C. combination by a margin of 17 to 9.

But one run was credited to the leaguers after the first round, while the laborers pounded out hits enough to pull twelve additional markers over the gutta percha. Heavy hitting featured the fracas and the volley of bingles coming from the gas workers' bats was so large that the official entrusted with the score keeping end of the battle neglected to put down in black and white the safeties cracked out after the initial session. It is enough to say that the winners led the hit harvest by a dozen or more clouts and whenever a heavy lick was needed it was forthcoming from the gas men's willows.

Moulton and Glover led the bingling on the winning side, the former getting a four-cushion slam and the latter tapping one that came back to earth when he had rested his 200 pounds of avoirdupois on the keystone bag. All of the winning regiment figured in the run getting while Harvey and French were the only ones left out in the Trinity harvest.

The teams lined up as follows:

Public Service—Moulton, ss; S. Montross, 3b; E. Montross, 1b-p; Schroffer, 2b; Dufford, p-lf; Terry, cf; Glover, c; Compton, rf; Kearns, lf.

"The present situation need have none of the grave implication or interference if we deal with it promptly, firmly and wisely. No doubt I could do what is necessary in the circumstances to enforce respect for our government without recourse to the Congress and yet not exceed my constitutional powers as president. But I do not wish to act in a matter possibly of so grave consequence except in close conference and co-operation with both the Senate and House. I therefore come to ask your approval that I should use the armed forces of the United States in such ways and to such an extent as may be necessary to obtain from General Huerta and his adherents, the fullest recognition of the rights and dignity of the United States even amidst the distressing conditions now unhappily obtaining in Mexico.

HAMLET LUCKEY WEDS MISS LILLIAN VAIL

Ceremony Performed by Rev. Dr. Strong at Home of the Bride's Parents.

Miss Lillian Olivia Vail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Vail, of East Front street, and Hamlet Lee Luckey, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles M. Luckey, of West Front street, were quietly married Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, performed the ceremony. Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom witnessed the ceremony, and there were no attendants.

The bride was gowned in pale blue crepe meteor, while her traveling gown was of taupe broadcloth. Following the ceremony an informal reception was held during which congratulations were offered the couple and supper was served. Miss Catherine E. MacClymont, a niece of the bride, entertained with several piano selections.

Mrs. Luckey, who is a sister of Mrs. William E. MacClymont, of Woodbine avenue, is popular in a wide circle of acquaintances. She is active in the work at the First Baptist church and Bible school, being a member of Mrs. Louis Matlack's class. Mr. Luckey is a member of the firm of Stone & Luckey, photographers, and is widely known. He is a member of Dr. N. H. Probasco's Bible class at the First Baptist church. After their return from a trip the couple will live with the bride's parents for the present. The bride received a number of wedding gifts from relatives and friends.

MAKE YOURS A PUBLIC SERVICE STORE

This is the age of service. The rewards of today go to the men who give the most in return.

Translated for you, Mr. Merchant, this means that the customers are certain to patronize the store that will give them what they want when they want it.

Cut prices may bring some trade, but better service will bring more.

This is the age when people are reading the advertising in their daily newspapers because they are finding it a distinct part of the service they expect their newspapers to give.

When a nationally distributed article of merit is advertised in the newspapers a demand for it sets in right away.

People want to see it and, if satisfied, want to buy it.

They are going to turn to the store that lets them know it has the article. That store will be giving them the service they want at that particular moment.

If it is a good article they are going to remember the store where they got it and will come back to that store again.

Co-operate with the manufacturers who come into the newspapers of your town to exploit their goods and you will be building business for yourself.

—If it would be "good business" for you to sell that real estate now, advertise it NOW.

—Could there be more important news in the paper than is contained in the "help wanted" ads?

—You can find work—your kind of work—through classified advertising of the persistent kind.

GIFFORD STILL DENIES MURDER

Has Pathetic Meeting With His Mother.

MYSTERY MORE PUZZLING

Boy Accused of Murder Breaks Down For First Time Since His Arrest—One Point Raised Is Erased From the Indictment.

Albany, N. Y., April 20.—Malcolm Gifford, the son of the wealthy machinery manufacturer, who is charged with the murder of Frank W. Clute, an Albany chauffeur, on the night of April 1, 1913, shows no signs of weakening, despite five days' imprisonment, during which he has been subjected to a severe grilling. All District Attorney Alexander has received from him is:

"I'm innocent."

There was a tearful meeting between the youth and his mother, Mrs. Madeline Gifford, at the Third precinct station, where the boy is detained. The mother intended to come to Albany to see her son later, but when she learned that he was to be removed to the county jail and subjected to the same discipline as other prisoners she came in order that she might see him in less sordid surroundings. He was reading a magazine when she entered, but as soon as his eyes fell on his mother he arose and walked quickly toward her, his arms extended.

Pathetic Meeting.

"Oh, my dear mother!" he cried, checking the tears. The mother was all broken up by the meeting, but soon the two were talking about everything else but the case. The woman companion and the police captain stood near by for half an hour while the mother and son talked. Then the woman and the captain withdrew from the room, leaving the two alone. For twenty minutes the mother and son were closeted in the detention room.

When the woman emerged there were tears streaming down her cheeks, and she walked out of the station broken hearted and sobbing quietly. The young man was affected by the meeting and asked to be left alone for awhile. Neither he nor his mother would say anything after the meeting.

The silence maintained by young Gifford since his incarceration has had the effect of making all the more mysterious the mystery surrounding his arrest and his alleged connection with the case. He is ostensibly keeping quiet on the advice of counsel, and the district attorney is wondering if he intends to go to trial without even making an attempt to prove an alibi.

His case was helped greatly by the discovery of the fact that one of the points upon which the district attorney obtained his indictment was erased. It was contended by witnesses before the grand jury that on the morning after the murder young Gifford was the first one up at the Boardman residence, where he was stopping during his stay in Troy about the time of the murder, and that after he had read an account of the murder in the morning papers he remarked:

"Isn't it awful to be a murderer?"

POLK OUT IN WEEK.

Condition of Wounded Official Is Said to Be Improving.

New York, April 20.—Corporation Counsel Polk, who was shot Friday afternoon by a man who aimed to kill Mayor Mitchel, is improving in New York hospital. It was said there that no sign of infection has appeared in the wound. The surgeon in charge believed that Mr. Polk could leave the hospital in a week or perhaps sooner.

A good many callers at the hospital left cards or flowers or messages of good will, but Mr. Polk saw only one visitor, Collector of the Port Malone. He remained with Mr. Polk a short time and found the patient comfortable and cheerful. Mrs. Polk spent the day with her husband.

George McAneny, president of the board of aldermen, left his card. Another visitor was Hamilton Fish. It was said that when Mr. Polk gets out of the hospital he will not be disfigured. The wound in the mouth, the doctor explained, was a perforation and at most would leave a small scar.

Mrs. Isham Wore Khaki In Mexican Town—Governor to Rescue.

San Diego, Cal., April 20.—The eighteen-year-old daughter of the late Mayor Gaynor of New York and her husband, Ralph H. Isham, arrived here by automobile from Ensenada, Mexico. They had been on a honeymoon trip east of Ensenada in the wilds, with a guide and three helpers. The party had saddle horses and seven pack animals.

When the couple arrived in Ensenada three days ago they were insulted in the street because Mrs. Isham was wearing khaki riding clothes, with a short skirt. They appealed to Governor Vasquez, who sent them here in an automobile.

BIBLE SCHOOL WILL SUPPORT MISSIONS

Park Avenue Baptists Raise Large Sum of Money at Annual Easter Service.

An audience that filled the Park Avenue Baptist church enjoyed the Easter exercises given, last evening, by the Bible school; the program, which was in charge of the superintendent, Willard M. Maxim, was entitled "The Triumph of Christ," and was prepared by the American Baptist Foreign Missionary Society to commemorate the Adoriram Judson Contennial; it included several missionary songs and Scripture readings by the elementary and intermediate departments; also the recitation, "The Radiant Dawn," by Alice Spangenberg, and "The Little Brown Bulb," by Ben Hadley.

The missionary exercise, "The King's Business," was of particular interest; this was given by six intermediates, Clara Hadley, Hilda Van Winkle, Myrtle Townley, Irma Mowen, Gladys Hadley, Freda Mowen, and was in the nature of a conversation bearing upon the need of sending the Gospel to China, Burma and Africa; this was splendidly illustrated by the blackboard artist, Charles Van Winkle, who had drawn upon a large canvas figures representing a Chinaman, a Burmese and an African, together with a myriad of smaller faces representing the millions of heathen in those countries; in striking contrast to these figures was a small one representing a Christian, indicating the small number of Christians in the world compared with the millions of souls in heathen lands, and laying great emphasis upon our tremendous responsibility in sending the Gospel of Jesus Christ to those who have never heard of the Risen Saviour. This exercise was prepared by Mrs. Gabriel Reid Maguire, and was very impressive.

Several weeks ago, at the suggestion of Mrs. Maguire, speaking for the missionary committee, the Park Avenue school voted to support for one year a village school in China, Burma and Africa, this money to be raised in the classes and brought in as a special feature of the Easter exercises; and the climax of the program was reached last evening, when from every class in the school, including the elementary department, one member acting as treasurer of this fund, stepped to the pulpit and deposited their class contribution, and it was very gratifying to note that in every case the amount exceeded the sum pledged by the class. Mr. Maguire gave a very interesting talk on these village schools in Africa, which are taught by native converts who use the Bible as their text book, so that the boys and girls are taught about the risen Saviour as soon as they learn to read and write.

As an offertory, the violin solo, Gounod's "Ave Maria," was impressively rendered by Arthur Mosher, with Frederick Smith at the organ. An orchestra of eighteen pieces gave with marked effect "The Heavens Are Telling," from Handel's "Creation;" and also accompanied the choir and school on all the songs. This orchestra included: Leader, Arthur S. Mosher, violin; violins, Mrs. Charles Hellyer, Miss Lyle Smith, Miss Evelyn Berg, Chauncey Wheeler, C. Allen, James Tanham, Mr. Borrup, flute, Elmer P. Wheeler; clarionet, George E. Volk; 'cello, Dr. J. F. Berg, Norman Bailey; cornet, Whitney Frazee, Edward Guest; trombone, Mr. Zwieful; bass, Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan; piano, Mrs. John Manley; organ, Frederick Smith.

At the close of the program the following candidates were baptized by Mr. Maguire: Mrs. J. Elizabeth Mosher, Grace Arline Mosher, Mary Louise Hunt, Clarence Van Norden, John Pigeon.

CHURCH QUARTET GIVES FINE RENDITION OF EASTER MUSIC

The Easter morning music by the quartet choir of Trinity Reformed church, was repeated last evening and enjoyed by a large congregation. Through the efforts of Organist A. L. Titsworth and Manager Wilson, of the New York Telephone Company, an instrument was placed in the choir loft of the church and connected with two 'phones at the home of A. L. Force, 82 Duer street, and the beautiful cantata of "Death and Life," by Shelley, was heard over the wire by Mr. Force and his daughter and thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. Force has been detained at home by illness for several weeks, and it was a treat for him to hear the music.

The quartet gave a fine rendition of the cantata, the solo parts being well taken by Miss Etta Raybert, soprano; Miss Hope Irene Miller, contralto; Roy Titsworth, bass and Edmund L. Young, tenor. Mrs. Nelson A. Miller assisted at the piano. After next Sunday Mrs. Howard Mason, former contralto soloist at the church, will succeed Miss Miller, who goes to New York State, to take a better position.

NEEDLEWORK

By

MARGARET LAWRENCE

DESIGN FOR A NIGHTGOWN TO BE COMBINED WITH LACE INSERTION.

14556

One should always have a pretty nightgown for best. This may be made of fine lawn, batiste, handkerchief linen, China silk or crêpe de Chine and embroidered by hand. Pattern number 14556 is an exceptionally attractive design which should be combined with lace insertion. The flowers and leaves should be developed in French and eyelet work in fine white mercerized cotton. This design is appropriate for embroidering a slip-over or one-piece nightgown, chemise or corset-cover. It may also be adapted to a front-closing garment by omitting the center wreath. The pattern includes transfers for stamping the front, back and sleeves. If a less elaborate design is desired, some of the flowers may be omitted.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfer pattern will be supplied to readers upon receipt of price, 15 cents.

Some Cookery Suggestions

NOVEL WAYS WITH POTATOES.

POTATOES form an important part of the bill of fare in most American households. Their preparation in ways that will not warrant the charge of monotony is a problem with many housewives. The following recipes may help in a difficulty of that sort:

Appetizing Viands.

Potato Fritters.—Take one cupful of mashed potatoes and stir into them two well beaten eggs and three tablespoonfuls of flour, seasoning to taste. Beat thoroughly and let stand for half an hour. Drop in small spoonfuls of hot fat in a saute pan. Only a small amount of fat is needed. They should rise quickly like small puffballs.

Spanish Fried Potatoes.—Chop fine some cold boiled potatoes. Season and saute in hot fat until golden brown. Fold over like an omelet, slip on a platter and pour over the potatoes the following sauce: Boil together for ten minutes one-half can of tomatoes, one-half can of shredded pimentos and one-half can of button mushrooms. Season with salt, butter and paprika or pepper. Thicken with two tablespoonfuls of flour rubbed to a cream with two tablespoonfuls of butter. Add to the sauce, cook until smoothly thickened, stirring constantly.

Simple, Yet Successful.

Stuffed Creamed Potatoes.—Take perfect potatoes of uniform size and shape, pare and hollow them out to form cases and boil in salted water until tender. Drain and fill with hot buttered peas. Pour over each a generous spoonful of hot cream, which has been seasoned to taste with salt, pepper and butter and slightly thickened. Garnish with parsley.

Potatoes a la Maitre d'Hotel.—Take two pounds of potatoes of even size, mash and peel them thinly, boil them till nearly done, take up and drain them. When cold cut into slices. Melt an ounce of butter in a saucepan, stir in half an ounce of flour and cook for a few minutes without browning. Gradually add half a pint of boiling milk and a little stock, stir and cook for ten minutes. Strain and return to the saucepan, put in the potatoes, a tablespoonful of finely chopped parsley and the juice of half a lemon, season to taste with salt and pepper and a little grated nutmeg. Shake the pan or stir its contents carefully so as not to break the slices of potatoes. When thoroughly heated dish up and serve hot.

"Have you marbles?" they asked.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Elves Discover the Game of Marbles.

JACK and Evelyn had been getting out their marbles for the season. When daddy came in he saw them all in a big box on the table.

"Have you commenced your games yet?" he asked.

"No; we haven't," replied the children, "but we're going to tomorrow. We've got them out, all ready for many, many games. We will play our first game tomorrow afternoon."

"That's fine!" said daddy. "But the elves have beaten you out, for they had their first game several days ago."

"The elves?" said Evelyn. "Do they play marbles? How did they happen to think of playing marbles?"

"You see, it was this way," daddy continued—"the elves, as you know, have just quantities of games that little boys and girls never even dream of playing. But sometimes the elves think it would be fun to play a game that is a special favorite with little boys and girls.

"One day two little elves were flitting about near the village, off the woods where they lived most of the time. They suddenly spied a lot of little boys playing a game with little round things made of glass.

"'What are they, I wonder?' said the first elf.

"'I haven't the remotest idea,' said the second elf.

"At that moment a little boy exclaimed to another, 'You've won, and you'll get most of the marbles.'

"'Marbles, marbles!' said the first elf. 'Those funny round things must be called marbles!'

"'That's certainly what they must be,' said the second elf. 'Let's get some and take them home to the other elves, and we can have a brand new game. I watched them playing, and I am sure I understand the game perfectly, so I can explain it to the other elves. You understand it, too, don't you?'

"'Oh, yes!' said the second elf.

"So together they went to a little shop. It was the only shop the elves ever went to, and that was because it was kept by a funny, mysterious old man, and it was near the woods.

"'Have you marbles?' they asked the old man.

"'Dear me, so you think you would like to play the beloved spring game of little boys and very often little girls? Well, here's a fine collection for you of all colors and for all the elves,' he replied.

"The little elves thanked the old man and went home to the Silver Stream, where they lived. Then they told all the other elves of the new game, and the elves thought it was a wonderful discovery."

INSURANCE OF ALL KINDS.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

The low-belted, long waisted frock is one of the most popular styles for children. Low collars and straight lined skirts are as modish for the little maid as for her grown up sister.

No. 7697 is a long waisted blouse dress in drop-shoulder effect, closing at the side front; it has a full length sleeve and a plaited skirt attached to an underwaist.

Some of the prettiest school frocks are being made of wool crepe in the new vivid shades and trimmed with a touch of dark plaid or a bit of embroidered batiste, which can easily be removed and freshened.

This dress would be effective made in a blue or red wool crepe with collar and cuffs of plaid. Another pretty way of adding a bit of contrast to a frock of this description is to outline the buttonholes with the silk instead of making the regulation buttonhole.

It will require 3½ yards of material to make this dress in size 12, with ½ yard of contrasting material for collar and cuffs.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes—8 to 14.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to state right size, passing the tape around the fullest part of the chest well up under the arms.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

WHEN BOILING FISH.

Thoroughly cleanse the fish and rub it with vinegar or lemon juice. This whitens the fish and makes it firm.

Add salt and a little vinegar to the water in which the fish is boiled.

The water must be boiling and just sufficient to cover the fish.

Allow the water to boil for three minutes after the fish is put in and then simmer very gently until the fish is cooked.

Overboiled fish is tasteless and unappetizing. Underdone fish is not fit for human food.

The time allowed for the cooking of fish is ten minutes to every pound and ten minutes over. Common sense must be brought to bear with regard to thickness of the fish, when a fork or skewer should be used to test the fish, for as soon as the flesh parts easily from the bone it is ready.

Dish the fish at once. Never allow it to remain soaking in the water after it is ready, or it will become "woolly."

If there is not a fish kettle at hand the fish should be placed on a dish and tied in a cloth. The stock, if not too salt, should be used in the making of the sauce.

PRINTED CRAPES.

They Are Fashionable For Spring Costumes.

CREPE AFTERNOON GOWN.

Never were the cottons more varied or beautiful than they are now, and there is an equal diversity in prices. Ratines and crapes are sharing favor, with a noticeable preference for the latter, and the long popular voiles are again in great demand. This is but natural, since these fabrics are ideal for draperies and the clinging effects that are again fashionable.

Printed effects are especially popular, and the flowered crapes are very dainty. In voiles the embroidered designs seem to be preferred, and many of the new ratines are in stripes, checks and plaids.

In the white crapes there are many beautiful fancy weaves. The jacquard and broche designs on crape grounds are new and pretty. White goods generally show the preference for rough surfaces. Ratine is largely used to produce this effect, and it is applied in broken checks or stripes and in conventional or floral designs.

Printed crape in bordered material was used for this very pretty spring gown. The skirt was very fully draped and cut in the front to give a glimpse of the flounce of lace. The long shoulder lines were imparted by means of the deep collar. The wide satin girdle was adjusted above the short tunic with clasp fastenings so that it was removable. The little hat with the ribbon crown was finished with a smart feather ornament.

ADVANCE PLANTING.

Flowers For the Garden May Be Started In Window Boxes.

Sow hardy annual flowers in the window boxes this month. You will then have good sized plants ready for putting out of doors in May. Here are the names of a few of the best to sow: Sweet alyssum, mallows, godetia, annual chrysanthemums, larkspurs and lupins, cornflowers, gilia, linum, mignonette.

But don't forget that plants with a "taproot," such a poppies, eschscholtzia and yellow bartonia, do not like transplanting, so do not sow these in the greenhouse. Keep them to put in a little later in the outdoor garden.

Don't forget that perennial flowering plants can be raised most successfully from seed sown in the house now. Sow some seeds of perennial phloxes at once. They will flower the first year after planting out if you are lucky.

Put the seeds in shallow boxes of sandy soil in a warm spot. Later you will be able to transplant the seedlings to the garden, first putting them in a cold frame to "harden off," as it is called.

Lighting the Dining Room.

The preferred custom for lighting a dining room is to have shaded electric side lights from the walls and to use lighted candles in old fashioned silver candlesticks on the table. Colored silk candle shades or openwork silver shades lined with a colored silk are liked. If no side lights are in a room and there is the necessity of having a light from overhead, at least it should not be glaring. Although a dining room should not be too brilliantly lighted it is undesirable to go to the other extreme and have it dimly lighted. That is unbecoming and depressing. Flowers, candlesticks or ornaments should be arranged so that they may not interfere with the view across the table or with conversation with guests opposite.

Care of the Basket.

To save a clothes basket from getting dirty and worn at the bottom, get four clothes pegs (those with a tin band), split them as far as the band and insert them at each corner of the basket. They will thus act as feet by raising the basket from the ground.

The STORY of WAITSTILL BAXTER

CHAPTER V.

A Kiss.

"SHALL we have our walk in the woods on the Edgewood side of the river, just for a change, Patty?" suggested her sister. "The water is so high this year that the river will be splendid. We can gather our flowers in the hill pasture, and then you'll be quite near Mrs. Boynton's and can carry the nosegay there while I come home ahead of you and get supper. I'll take today's eggs to father's store on the way and ask him if he minds our having a little walk. I've an errand at Aunt Abby's that would take me down to the bridge anyway."

"Very well," said Patty somewhat apathetically. "I always like a walk with you, but I don't care what becomes of me this afternoon if I can't go to Ellen's party."

The excursion took place according to Waitstill's plan, and at 4 o'clock she sped back to her night work and preparations for supper, leaving Patty with a great bunch of early wild flowers for Ivory's mother. Patty had left them at the Boyntons' door with Rodman, who was picking up chips and volunteered to take the nosegay into the house at once.

"Won't you step inside?" the boy asked shyly, wishing to be polite, but conscious that visitors from the village very seldom crossed the threshold.

"I'd like to, but I can't this afternoon, thank you. I must run all the way down the hill now or I shan't be in time to supper."

"Do you eat meals together over to your house?" asked the boy.

"We're all three at the table, if that means together."

"We never are. Ivory goes off early and takes lunch in a pail. So do I when I go to school. Aunt Boynton never sits down to eat. She just stands at the window and takes a bite of something now and then. You haven't got any mother, have you?"

"No, Rodman."

"Neither have I, nor any father, nor any relations but Aunt Boynton and Ivory. Ivory is very good to me, and when he's at home I'm never lonesome."

"I wish you could come over and eat with sister and me," said Patty gently. "Perhaps sometime, when my father is away buying goods and we are left alone, you could join us in the woods, and we would have a picnic? We would bring enough for you—all sorts of good things—hard boiled eggs, doughnuts, apple turnovers and bread spread with jelly."

"I'd like it fine!" exclaimed Rodman, his big dark eyes sparkling with anticipation. "I don't have many boys to play with, and I never went to a picnic. Aunt Boynton watches for uncle 'most all the time. She doesn't know he has been away for years and years. When she doesn't watch she prays. Sometimes she wants me to pray with her, but praying don't come easy to me."

"Neither does it to me," said Patty.

"I'm good at marbles and checkers and backgammon and jack straws, though."

"So am I," said Patty, laughing; "so we should be good friends. I'll try to get a chance to see you soon again, but perhaps I can't; I'm a good deal tied at home."

"Your father doesn't like you to go anywheres, I guess," interposed Rodman. "I've heard Ivory tell Aunt Boynton things, but I wouldn't repeat them. Ivory's trained me years and years not to tell anything, so I don't."

"That's a good boy!" approved Patty. Then as she regarded him more closely, she continued, "I'm sorry you're lonesome, Rodman, I'd like to see you look brighter."

"You think I've been crying," the boy said shrewdly. "So I have, but not because I've been punished. The reason my eyes are so swollen up is because I killed our old toad by mistake this morning. I was trying to see if I could swing the scythe so's to help Ivory in haying time. I've only 'raked after,' and I want to begin on mowing soon's I can. Then, somehow or other, the old toad came out from under the steps. I didn't see him, and the scythe hit him square. I cried for an hour, that's what I did, and I don't care who knows it, except I wouldn't like the boys at school to hector me. I've buried the toad out behind the barn, and I hope Ivory'll let me keep the news from Aunt Boynton. She cries enough now without my telling her there's been a death in the family. She set great store by the old toad, and so did all of us."

"It's too bad. I'm sorry. But, after all, you couldn't help it."

"No, but we should always look round everywheres when we're cutting—that's what Ivory says. He says folks shouldn't use edged tools till they're old enough not to fool with 'em."

And Rodman looked so wise and old fashioned for his years that Patty did not know whether to kiss him or cry over him as she said: "Ivory's always right. And, now, goodby. I must go this very minute. Don't forget the picnic."

"I won't!" cried the boy, gazing after her, wholly entranced with her bright beauty and her kindness. "Say, I'll bring something, too—white oak acorns, if you like 'em. I've got a big bagful up attic!"

Patty sped down the long lane, crept under the bars and flew like a lapwing over the highroad.

"If father was only like any one else things might be so different!" she sighed, her thoughts running along with her feet. "Nobody to make a home for that poor lonesome little boy and that poor lonesome big Ivory. I am sure that he is in love with Waitstill. He doesn't know it. She doesn't know it. Nobody does but me, but I'm clever at guessing. I was the only one that surmised Jed Morrill was going to marry again. I should almost like Ivory for myself, he is so tall and handsome, but of course he can never marry anybody. He is too poor and has his mother to look after. I wouldn't want to take him from Waity, though, and then perhaps I couldn't get him anyway. If I couldn't, he'd be the only one! I have never tried yet, but I feel in my bones, somehow, that I could have any boy in Edgewood or Riverboro by just crooking my forefinger and beckoning to him. I wish—I wish they were different! They don't make me want to beckon to them! My forefinger just stays straight and doesn't feel like crooking! There's Cephas Cole, but he's as stupid as an owl. I don't want a husband that keeps his mouth wide open whenever I'm talking, no matter whether it's sense or nonsense. There's Phil Perry, but he likes Ellen, and besides, he's too serious for me. And there's Mark Wilson, he's the best dressed and the only one that's been to college. He looks at me all the time in meeting and asked me if I wouldn't take a walk some Sunday afternoon. I know he planned Ellen's party hoping I'd be there! Goodness gracious, I do believe that is his horse coming behind me! There's no other in the village that goes at such a gait!"

It was, indeed, Mark Wilson, who always drove, according to Aunt Abby Cole, "as if he was goin' for a doctor." He caught up with Patty almost in the twinkling of an eye, but she was ready for him. She had taken off her sunbonnet just to twirl it by the string, she was so warm with walking, and in a jiffy she had lifted the clustering curls from her ears, tucked them back with a single expert movement and disclosed two coral pendants just the color of her ear tips and her glowing cheeks.

"Hello, Patty!" the young man called in brusque country fashion as he reined up beside her. "What are you doing over here? Why aren't you on your way to the party? I've been over to Limington and am breaking my neck to get home in time myself."

"I am not going. There are no parties for me," said Patty plaintively.

"Not going! Oh, I say, what's the matter? It won't be a bit of fun without you. Ellen and I made it up expressly for you, thinking your father couldn't object to a candy pull."

"I can't help it. I did the best I could. Waitstill always asks father for me, but I wouldn't take any chances today, and I spoke to him myself. Indeed, I almost coaxed him."

"He's a regular old skinflint," cried Mark, getting out of the wagon and walking beside her.

"You musn't call him names," Patty interposed, with some dignity. "I call him a good many myself, but I'm his daughter."

"You don't look it," said Mark admiringly. "Come and have a little ride, won't you?"

"Oh, I couldn't possibly, thank you. Some one would be sure to see us, and father's so strict."

"There isn't a building for half a mile. Just jump in and have a spin till we come to the first house; then I'll let you out, and you can walk the rest of the way home. Come, do, and make up to me a little for my disappointment. I'll skip the candy pull if you say the word."

It was an incredibly brief drive at Mark's rate of speed and as exciting and blissful as it was brief and dangerous, Patty thought. Did she imagine it or did Mark help her into the wagon differently from—old Dr. Perry, for instance?

The fresh breeze lifted the gold thread of her curls, and gave her cheeks a brighter color, while her breath came fast through her parted lips and her eyes sparkled at the unexpected, unaccustomed pleasure. She felt so grown up, so conscious of a new power, as she sat enthroned on the little wagon seat (Mark Wilson always liked his buggies "courtin' size," so the neighbors said) that she was almost courageous enough to agree to make a royal progress through the village—almost, but not quite.

"Come on, let's shake the old tabbies up and start 'em talking, shall we?" Mark suggested. "I'll give you the reins and let Nero have a flick of the whip."

"No, I'd rather not drive," she said. "I'd be afraid of this horse and, anyway, I must get out this very minute—yes, I really must. If you hold Nero I can just slip down between the wheels. You needn't help me."

Mark alighted notwithstanding her objections, saying gallantly, "I don't miss this pleasure, not by a jugful! Come along! Jump!"

Patty stretched out her hands to be helped, but Mark forestalled her by putting his arms around her and lifting her down. A second of time only was involved, but in that second he held her close and kissed her warm cheek, her cheek that had never felt the touch of any lips but those of Waitstill. She pulled her sunbonnet over her flaming face, while Mark, with a gay smile of farewell, sprang into the wagon and gave his horse a free rein.

Patty never looked up from the road, but walked faster and faster, her heart beating at breakneck speed. It was a changed world that spun past her. Fright, triumph, shame, delight, gratified vanity swam over her in turn.

A few minutes later she heard once more the rumble of wheels on the road. It was Cephas Cole driving toward her over the brow of Saco hill. "He'll have seen Mark," she thought, "but he can't know I've talked and driven with him. Ugh! how stupid and common he looks!"

"I heard your father blowin' the supper horn jest as I come over the bridge," remarked Cephas, drawing up in the road. "He stood in the door-yard blowin' like Bedlam. I guess you're late to supper."

"I'll be home in a few minutes," said Patty, "I got delayed and am a little behindhand."

"I'll turn right round if you'll git in and lemme take you back along a piece, it'll save you a good five minutes," begged Cephas abjectly.

"All right, much obliged, but it's against the rules and you must drop me at the foot of our hill and let me walk up."

"Certainly; I know the deacon, 'n' I ain't huntin' for trouble any more'n you be, though I'd take it quick enough if you jest give me leave! I ain't no coward, an' I could tackle the deacon tomorrow if so be I had anything to ask him."

This seemed to Patty a line of conversation distinctly to be discouraged under all the circumstances, and she tried to keep Cephas on the subject of his daily tasks and his mother's rheumatism until she could escape from his overappreciative society.

"How do you like my last job?" he inquired as they passed his father's house. "Some think I've got the ell a little dite too yaller. Folks that ain't never handled a brush allers think they can mix paint better 'n them that knows their trade."

"If your object was to have everybody see the ell a mile away you've succeeded," said Patty cruelly. She never flung the poor boy a civil word for fear of getting something warmer than civility in return.

"Mother says that two rooms are big enough to set up housekeepin' in."

"It'll tone down," Cephas responded, rather crestfallen. "I wanted a good, bright, lastin' shade. 'T won't look so yaller when father lets me paint the house to match, but that won't be till next year. He makes fun of the yaller color same as you; says a home's something you want to forget when you're away from it. Mother says the two rooms of the ell are big enough for somebody to set up housekeepin' in. What do you think?"

"I never think," returned Patty, with a tantalizing laugh. "Good night, Cephas; thank you for giving me a lift!"

FIXED LICENSE POLICY PROPOSED

Councilman Calkins Introduces Ordinance to Regulate Liquor Traffic.

POPULATION A BASIS

Change Would Allow One Retail Place to Every 2,500 and One Wholesale Place to Every 6,000 Inhabitants.

That the Common Council may more effectively regulate the sale of liquor as it may deem most conducive to the public good, Councilman Leighton Calkins, at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, offered a supplement to the ordinance to license inns and taverns which if adopted will establish a fixed policy in the matter of granting such licenses. According to the plan suggested by Mr. Calkins, the number of both retail and wholesale licenses to be granted would be determined upon the population of the city.

He suggests one retail licensed place to every 2,500 of the population and one wholesale place to every 6,000 population, the increase to be regulated entirely by the growth in population, the census taken every five years to goven such action.

The supplement to the ordinance which was read last night for information, to be taken up at a future meeting for adoption, is as follows:

"A further supplement to an ordinance entitled, 'An Ordinance to license Inns and Taverns and to Regulate and Prohibit the Sale of Spirituous and Fermented Liquors,' approved February 10, 1892, as amended.

"The inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

"Section 1. That, in order to enable the Common Council of the City of Plainfield more effectively to regulate the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors within said city as they deem most conducive to the public good, the number of licenses to sell spirituous or fermented liquors in quantities less than one quart to be granted under Section 4 and Section 5 of the ordinance to which this ordinance is a further supplement and to be in force at the same time within said city shall hereafter be limited to one such license for each two thousand five hundred of population of said city; and the number of licenses to sell spirituous, vinous, malt or brewed liquors in quantities of one quart or more to be granted under Section 7 of the ordinance to which this ordinance is a further supplement and to be in force at the same time within said city, shall hereafter be limited to one such license for each six thousand of population of said city. In ascertaining the population of said city from time to time for the purposes of this ordinance, the population of the city stated in the report of the then last census, national or State as the case may be, shall be taken as conclusive.

"Section 2. That this ordinance shall take effect immediately."

In explaining his proposed change, Mr. Calkins addressed the Council as follows:

"Plainfield has a policy with regard to liquor licenses by virtue of which the city enjoys a State-wide reputation. Its basic feature is its compromise character. It has now been accepted for a number of years by those who would much prefer that we have no saloons, because those who believe in high license have agreed that the number of licenses in the city shall be limited to a degree which is without parallel in high license communities. The State law prohibits a greater number than one for each 500 inhabitants; and according to the census of 1910 we have only one for every 2,500. This is not only high license, but highly restricted license. It enables us to maintain law and order throughout the city.

"This policy has the support of an overwhelming majority of our people and I do not believe that any-

COUNCIL TRANSFERS CLARK'S LICENSE

Michael J. Devine Will Conduct Saloon for Balance of License Year.

Complying with the request of Mrs. Anna Mary Clark, widow of John C. Clark, former owner of the Clark saloon at Liberty and West Third streets, the Common Council at its adjourned meeting, last night, transferred the license to Michael J. Devine, the Liberty street barber, who is a relative by marriage of the Clark family. This action followed an executive session of the councilmen at which William Newcorn, as counsel for the Clark estate, was present.

In transferring the license to Mr. Devine, it was expressly stated that it carried with it no rights for a renewal after the present license year, indicating that the Council would be free as to future action in the matter. Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed had advised the members that they had the right to make such transfer for the balance of the license year.

No action was taken last night regarding the request of Peter Floersch, of the Queen City Hotel, for a change in the hours of opening and closing his bar, the matter being deferred. It seems to be the opinion, however, that no change will be made, as a majority of the liquor dealers appear to prefer the present hours.

LOCAL DELEGATION ATTENDED MEETING

Semi-Annual Fire Chiefs' Convention Held in Morristown Yesterday.

Fire Chief T. O. Doane and Councilmen Martin, Graves and Cose represented Plainfield at the semi-annual conference of the chiefs and ex-chiefs of the New Jersey fire departments which was held in Morristown yesterday. The local delegation made the trip by automobile returning home last night.

At the morning session Captain Albert C. Gasser, of Newark, superintendent of combustibles, was the principal speaker. Captain Gasser spoke on "Fire Prevention." After the session dinner was served in the United States Hotel. The rest of the afternoon was spent by the visiting firemen in sightseeing. The local representatives visited the interesting parts of Morristown and inspected the fire apparatus at that place.

They were shown the various equipment in the Morristown department by the firemen of that place. The department at that place is said to be the only completely motorized one in the State. Many of the delegates took advantages of the opportunity to visit various parts of the city in one motor apparatus which was turned over by the department for the use of the guests.

The conferences are more in the nature of social gatherings than business sessions and little routine business was transacted. The visiting chiefs took advantage of the opportunity to renew old acquaintances and to discuss topics of mutual interest.

FOR COLLEGE BENEFIT.

"Les Miserables" in motion pictures will be given at the Plainfield theatre, Friday and Saturday afternoon and evening, under the auspices of the local graduates of Wellsley College, the purpose being to raise funds to assist the college in rebuilding the structure destroyed on March 17 last. This greatest play by one of the world's greatest authors will doubtless attract capacity audiences. This play is presented by the best French actors.

LIBRARY MAKES A CUT

Netherwood Residents' Association Renew Appeal for Auto Fire Engine—Numerous Petitions Received.

Pending the adoption of the annual tax budget which carries with it the appropriations for the various city departments, the Common Council at its adjourned meeting, last night, passed resolutions offered by Mr. Blatz appropriating $3,000 for sewer, $7,500 for streets and $300 for the work of the Shade Tree Commission, which will carry these departments along until they get their regular appropriations.

Representatives of the Netherwood Residents' Association were at the meeting and presented a copy of a resolution requesting the Council to place a high pressure auto engine in the Netherwood section. This matter was referred to the fire committee.

Residents of West Third street, between Liberty street and Plainfield avenue, petitioned to have that thoroughfare permanently paved, and residents of the West End again urged the Council to give them relief from the expense of having cesspools cleaned, inasmuch as they do not have the benefits of sewers. A petition from William Jeffery and others asking that Monroe avenue be macadamized. Residents of Columbia and Leland avenues petitioned for sidewalks. These matters were referred to the proper committees.

The board of directors of the Public Library in a communication to the Council, stated that $11,500 would be needed for the coming year. This is a cut of $500 from last year's appropriation. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

S. C. Baird and others petitioned the Council for a light on Hillside avenue, between Watchung and Putnam avenues. The matter was referred. Upon motion of Mr. Calkins a new resolution was offered and adopted, providing for the sale of the $30,000 sewer bonds, in which a slight error in the original resolution was corrected so that all notices shall agree.

On motion of Mr. Hylan two lights were ordered placed on Stelle avenue and one light at George street and Geneva place. Mr. Hylan also reported that the New Jersey Central had given the city permission to erect lighting poles on its property as requested by the Public Service Corporation.

Mr. Blatz called up on third reading the sidewalk ordinance and it was adopted. Council then adjourned to go into executive session to consider the tax budget. Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed having advised that it must be ready for the May meeting.

FLAG RAISING CEREMONIES AT NEW SCOUT RENDEZVOUS

The Boy Scout troops in Plainfield will meet at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Chapel of the First Presbyterian church, East Front street, and proceed in a body to Camp King, the new scout summer headquarters where a flag raising will take place and the first work of laying out the tract will be done. Troops will appear in uniform, equipped with axes.

The members of Troop 5 announce that the date of the entertainment for the benefit of the new chapel building fund of the First Presbyterian church has been set for Thursday evening, April 30.

KING'S DAUGHTERS' SALE.

A successful sale of household utensils was held yesterday afternoon under the direction of Charity Circle of Kings Daughters, at the home of Mrs. John P. Stevens, of Hillside avenue. The articles on sale were of a great variety, many being of a novel and unusual in their construction. A silver offering was received at the door. The general committee in charge consisted of Mrs. John P. Stevens, Mrs. William A. Conner, Mrs. William C.Kinney, Mrs. Fred W. Yates and Miss Weber. The committee on decorations consisted of the associate members,of which Mrs.Marion S. Ackerman was chairman. Subcommittees were in charge of the various booths.

CREDITORS TO COMPLETE WORK

Name Committee to Adjust Troubles With Contractors on High School Addition.

LOCAL MEN IN CHARGE

C. C. Randolph, W. A. Garrigues and C. E. Loizeaux Appointed to Confer With Board of Education and Consider Proposition.

The creditors of the P. J. Exner Company held a meeting at the High School, yesterday afternoon, and elected a committee consisting of C. C. Randolph, W. A. Garrigues and Charles E. Loizeaux to represent their interests in the settlement of the insolvent contracting company's affairs so far as they relate to the completion of the contract for the erection of the High School addition.

At the meeting tonight the Board of Education will receive an application from the committee to be allowed to complete the contract, and while no official action has yet been taken, it is probable that this application will be favorably received by the Board.

Since the failure of the contractor a week ago every effort has been made by the public school authorities to assist the local creditors by giving them all the information which can be gathered as to the physical and financial condition of the new building. The Board has, of course, no financial interest as they are protected from loss by a bond of the Globe Indemnity Company, and have besides reserved a large percentage of the value of the work done from their payments to the contractor. It has been felt, however, that if the creditors could be united and would undertake the work of completing the building, they would be able to reduce their losses very materially. With this in mind the records of the work have been thrown open to them by the school authorities.

The difficulties of bringing the creditors together have been considerable as they are numerous and scattered, and as further delay in getting the work started was out of the question it was necessary that if they were to act at all they should act promptly. But the generally harmonious result of yesterday's meeting, and the thoroughly responsible character of the committee selected to represent the creditors are taken today as an indication that the work will go forward from now on under the management of the local men.

LOCAL BAKER FINED $50 FOR SANITARY VIOLATION

Arraigned in the District Court, in Elizabeth, yesterday, Nathan Lewis, a baker having a store on Liberty street, was fined $50 for not living up to the labor and sanitary code of the State. Lewis conducts a small store for retail trade with a baking establishment in the rear.

He was accused by State Labor Commissioner Lewis T. Bryant with not properly protecting his stock and not adhering to certain parts of the code.

EDWARD BERRY SUCCUMBS TO A LINGERING ILLNESS

Edward Berry, aged sixty-two years, died this morning at the home of his son-in-law, Herbert Shillinger, of 220 Church street. Mr. Berry has been a resident of this city for the past forty-two years, and was a gardener by trade. His daughter, Mrs. Herbert Shillinger, died but a month ago.

Mr. Berry was a member of St. Mary's R. C. church. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Mary Stiles and Mrs. Thomas Robert, both of Elizabeth. The funeral services will be held at St. Mary's church on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. Interment will be made at St. Mary's cemetery.

RECOMMEND AN IMPROVED SYSTEM

Public Affairs Committee Suggests Changes in Collection of Garbage and Ashes.

TO ASCERTAIN COST

Proposed to Divide City Into Districts and Sell Privileges to Highest Bidder—Approved Wagons One of the Regulations.

Following a detailed report of the committee on public affairs, of which Councilman Richard A. Claybrook is chairman, as to its investigation of various systems for the collection and disposal of garbage and ashes, the Common Council at its adjourned meeting, last night, accepted the recommendations of the committee and adopted a resolution offered by Mr. Claybrook.

This resolution, which carried with it the recommendations of the committee, provides that the committee and Board of Health shall make a further investigation, securing necessary data, including costs, etc., for the proper regulation of the collection of garbage, as outlined, but that no contracts are to be made until same are reported to the Council. The resolution follows:

"Resolved, That, in accordance with the recommendations made by the special committee from the public affairs committee and the Board of Health, the Board of Health be, and is, hereby authorized to secure all the necessary data, including costs, etc., for the proper regulation of the collection of garbage, as outlined in these recommendations. No contracts or agreements to be binding until same are reported to, and confirmed by, the Common Council.

"The recommendations of this special committee, which have been unanimously endorsed by the Public Affairs Committee and the Board of Health, are as follows:

"That the city be divided into districts or zones, that these be sold to either the highest bidder or that the license fee be made high enough to make some return to the city, and in any case the holder to be under bond for the proper performance of his contract; that all the wagons be of one type and protected with covers; that the horses shall be passed on by the S. P. C. A., and the drivers and assistants shall wear khaki clothes.

"That all householders shall keep a can for garbage, which must be drained before being put into the can, and a can or barrel for ashes, and a receptacle for rubbish and papers, the latter to be tied into bundles before being put in.

"That the city shall purchase three small portable incinerators to be rented to owners of dumps receiving permits for ashes and rubbish, and that the latter shall be immediately burned, and not dumped on the ground to prove unsightly or be blown away.

"Finally, as garbage, ash and rubbish collection is a sanitary measure, and in order that complaints may be properly investigated, rules, regulations and ordinances enforced, we recommend that the system be placed under the supervision of the Board of Health. This will necessitate an additional inspector whose time will largely be devoted to this work."

The report of the committee, prepared after exhaustive investigation, shows that information obtained from fifty-five cities shows that in twenty-one the method of dumping on the ground or in trenches, etc., is employed, while in thirteen cities garbage is fed to pigs and in four the incineration method is used and in eight there is the rendering or reduction system. Twelve cities have a municipal system, thirty-one handle it by contract, while six dispose of garbage by private method.

The report further sets forth that dumping into waters, used in the west, will doubtless be prohibited soon, that dumping on the ground is most wasteful, feeding to hogs is profitable only when conducted on a large scale and in a scientific manner, and that it naturally follows that the larger the community, the greater profit and the smaller the proportionate expense, for it is only under exceptional cases is it possible to make refuse a source of revenue.

The report of the committee further states:

"Our fellow-townsman, G. H. Frost, a prominent engineer and ex-member of the Common Council, very tersely says, 'If we were in England a refuse destructor would be located as near the centre of the locality to be served as possible. A high stone wall would surround the buildings and a tall chimney would accentuate the situation.' But would such a destructor be possible in our city? Plainfield is a community that will not permit within its borders what others allow, even if it does condone the present inefficient filthy system under which we are suffering. Spreading over such an extended area, it would be necessary, in order to have

CHRISTEN FRIENDS' NEW RESIDENCE

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong Mulford Given a Surprise at Their Home Last Night.

Fiends of Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong Mulford gave them a surprise last night,featured as a "house warming," at their new home, 123 Netherwood avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Mulford have been living in their new residence about a month.

The evening proved one of much enjoyment, during which the host and hostess were presented with a valuable set of silver. The presentation was made by W. R. Causebrook on behalf of the guests. During the evening pleasing vocal selections were rendered by Mrs. E. Poinier and Miss Curns. Mrs. Poinier presided at the piano. A portion of the evening was taken up in playing "500." Awards were made to Mrs. Sandford Ramsey, Mrs. L. A. Hummer, Joseph Haines and Clarence Rittenhouse. Later in the evening a collation was served by the women guests.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Causbrook, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Corsa, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Wescott, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Poinier, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Hummer, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. DISCUSS TROLLEY EXTENSION PLANS Boards of Trade Preparing for Hearing Before Public Utilities Commission April 30.

Representatives of the Boards of Trade of this city and South Plainfield, to the number of about twenty, together with William Newcorn, one of the attorneys for the local organization, who outlined the plan of action, met in the office of the secretary, Lamar VanSyckel, yesterday afternoon, and discussed the proposed extension of the trolley from this city to South Plainfield. Unusual interest was manifested on the part of those present.

Another meeting will be held on Monday to select witnesses who will appear before the Public Utilities Cimmission, Thursday morning, April 30, at 10:30 o'clock, in the interest of the proposition. A number of local real estate men will also appear for the purpose of showing the necessity for the extension of the trolley. This being determined those who are interested in the plan will be prepared to suggest a route.

It was stated yesterday that on the authority of an engineer the extension could be built for $14,000 a mile, while the Public Service Corporation has stated that it would cost $101,700, which led Justice W. E. Smith, of South Plainfield, to remark, "I guess the company must include power-house in its estimate."

Arrangements have also been made to have representatives of the Spicer plant at South Plainfield as well as the Board of Education of this city attend the hearing to further show the necessity of rapid transit. P. J. McDonough and Justice W. E. Smith were appointed a committee to get in touch with engineers and ascertain the exact cost of building the line. It was urged that everyone who is interested sign the coupons now appearing in the local newspapers, which will be presented to the Public Utilities Commission.

BENDER FOUND GUILTY IN DISTRICT COURT

Judgment for $25 was rendered against Moses Bender, of West Second street, in the District Court, in Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon, when he was arraigned on a complaint filed by the State Board of Tenement House Supervisors. Bender is the owner of a dwelling on West Second street, which it is alleged, is not properly provided with fire escapes.

The place referred to is at 232 West Second street and the charge was made as the result of a recent inspection conducted by the supervisors in this city.

DAVIS FINED $100.

Lewis Davis, proprietor of the gambling joint raided by the North Plainfield police Sunday morning, was the prisoner fined $100 by Recorder Hand yesterday morning, and not Eddie Ford as was stated in this paper last night. Ford was one of those who paid a $10 fine.

DEBATE HOLDS UP ORDERS FOR WAR

FLETCHER'S ORDERS

Admiral Told to Take Possession of Custom House if Ammunition ship Arrives at Vera Cruz—Canal Can Soon Be Used in Emergency.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, April 21—That the Congress may delay the final passage of the resolution on the Mexican situation for several days was indicated this afternoon, when the Senate reconvened.

Senator Lodge began to discuss the Mexican situation as soon as the Senate opened. He said he thought the President was right to come to the Senate for advice, and there was considerable discussion as to the length of time it took after McKinley's Spanish War message to Congress, until the resolution calling for that conflict was passed, which was seven days. From the indications at 3:15 p. m., the discussion will last at least a couple of days.

Senator Lodge maintained that no declaration of war will follow the passage of the resolution, but no nation can afford to pass unnoticed an insult to her flag and her uniform.

The resolution as redrafted and presented this afternoon was as follows: "In view of the facts presented by the President of the United States, in his address to the joint session, be it resolved that the President is justified in the employment of armed forces to enforce his demands for unequivocal amends for affronts and indignities, although the United States disclaims any hostility to the Mexican people, or any purpose to make war on Mexico."

Washington, April 21.—The first aggressive act of war was ordered very early this morning, when Admiral Fletcher was told to seize the custom house at Vera Cruz, if the German ship bringing ammunition and supplies to the Huerta government appeared off the harbor today. She had not arrived early this afternoon. Ten of the torpedo destroyers of the Flotilla which left Pensacola yesterday for Tampico, have been ordered to go to Vera Cruz instead.

Washington, April 21.—The only topic of discussion at the cabinet meeting today was the Mexican situation. The administration's program is now fully outlined and all that is needed is the passage of resolution by Congress. All members of the cabinet were present.

Colon, April 21.—Colonel Goethals said today that he could make the Panama Canal available for our warships in very short order, if necessary for them to pass through to reach the Pacific coast.

Texas City, Texas, April 21.—Colonel Benjamin Alverti, adjutant general of the second division, says that all the men stood a practice march well and only one per cent. were ill. Some had sore feet, but wouldn't stay in the hospitals. Every man wants to do his duty.

Mexico City, April 21.—There has been a general exodus of Americans here, and all the women and children will be out by tonight. The same is true at Vera Cruz.

Mexico City, April 21.—President Huerta said today: "The policy of the American government is particularly unfortunate at this time. The Mexican government is striving to prevent a condition of chaos in the Republic, but just at the time when we are looking to success we are threatened with international complication. Naturally, the patriotism of Mexico will not tolerate the sight of its government trampled in the dust, but we hope to prevent any marked violence developing from the resentment that our people will feel."

Washington, April 21—A persistent rumor was abroad early today that Rear Admiral Fletcher has seized Vera Crug to prevent the landing of two million rounds of ammunition said to be due here in a German ship. Secretary Daniel refused to deny or affirm the report.

Monteray, Cal., April 21.—"Three thousand troops were entrained here in less than ten hours and fifteen thousand more can be sent from this coast in quick order," so said a high officer in the Presidio, the largest army post here, today.

STYLISH RELIABLE

Clothes

That Make a Man Well Dressed

So many men make the mistake of judging clothes purely from a standpoint of value and overlook the very important item of fitting their persons and temperaments. We've given this phase of the matter a lot of deep study; our stocks are ready with clothes that fit a man's personality as well as his body.

Two ideas are particularly popular in Suits—the black and white stripe and the Tartan plaid—we recommend them to men who like to follow the dictates of style absolutely.

We have them at all prices, but particularly fine values at

W. F. Sands, an expert electrician, has located in town and is ready to give estimates on all kinds of electrical wiring.

There is considerable agitation in the borough at the present time about the sidewalk question. In an effort to have uniform sidewalks the Council passed an ordinance at the April meeting which specified the kind of walks to be laid. This has not seemed to satisfy the residents as they have appeared before the Council at various times to petition for the laying of cement walks. They state that the gravel sidewalks are always in bad condition and in rainy weather almost unpassable. It may be remembered that the Council circulated a petition about to get the consent of the people to lay permanent walks, but through the unwillingness of one man the project had to be abandoned. It is highly probable that something more will be done about the matter in the near future.

Residents are wondering what has happened to the improvement society that was going to form in the borough sometime ago. There is plenty things to be done by such an organization that would benefit the borough and it would be too bad if the project fell through.

A fast traveling bunch of local youngsters have organized a baseball team under the name of the "Canns" and if they live up to the reputation attained by the local basketball five of that name the team ought to have a successful season.

In the fall a poultry show will be held at which the chickens thus raised will be exhibited and cash prizes aggregating $75 distributed.

On account of Carl F. Kees, of Irvington, having been procured to give a picture talk on "Porto Rico," the Board of Trade held only a short business meeting, last evening, the regular routine with the exception of the reports of the various committees being set aside until the May meeting. The committee, consisting of Messrs. J. Alfred Wilson, John Fedderman and C. Lester Rule, that was appointed to look into the source of the borough's water supply in conjunction with committees appointed by the Board of Health and Common Council, reported that the Board of Health was greatly incensed over the step that had been taken and refused to have anything to do with the investigation. The committee on its report then went on to say that they had investigated the matter alone and had found one of the wells of the water company, from which the borough had been supplied with water, located upon an island formed by the contaminated waters of Greenbrook. They called attention to the fact that twenty new cases of typhoid fever had developed since this well was plugged up and in this respect recommended that action be taken forever enjoining the water company from using the well as a source of water supply. In proceeding the committee next reported that they had inspected the reservoir and had found it half way up the mountin in back of the pumping station at Sebring's Mills, along a public road poorly protected by a dilapidated board fence. They asserted that it would be an easy matter for any animal to find a watery grave therein and also that it was an attractive receptacle for miscreants to throw all manner of rubbish thereinto.

There was a scant supply of water in the reservoir at the time of the investigation and its bottom was covered with green scum, the committee reported, and in conclusion they recommended that action be taken enjoining the water company from using the reservoir in its present open condition. The report was adopted and ordered turned over to the Common Council for consideration. A general discussion was then entered into as regards the action of the local Board of Health in withholding from the town folk the result of the analysis by the State Board of several samples of the water supply. The concensus of opinion was that this report should have been made public. In this connection W. H. Cockburn, of Penfield place, took the floor and wanted to know if the boroughites were going to be obliged to boil the water forever.

Mr. Cockburn said that he had been endeavoring for sometime past to persuade a friend to move to Dunellen, but he said that he was afraid that he was going to be obliged to discontinue his solicitations at a time when they appeared to be very promising of success as he could not expect a friend to move to a place where it was necessary to boil the water supply. Mr. Cockburn wanted to know what the report of the State Board to the local Board contained and he made a motion to the effect that a letter be written to the local Board requesting them to reveal the contents of the State Board's report. This motion was duly seconded and carried.

THE TANGO.

Tango parties have taken the country by storm. Everywhere by everybody is this dance now attempted. The dancing pump was dressy; it was also light, and, therefore, not tiresome to the feet, and so the most practical dancing shoe. Now this dancing pump was found to be very slippery on highly polished dance floors and so was practically worthless in dancing the tango. However, the PACKARD people have overcome this feature by equipping the soles of the with 3 rubber discs, thus eliminating the slipping, but still maintaining the light dressy evening pump for dancing.

The eighteenth annual meeting of the Grand Council, Loyal Association, is meeting in the lodge room of Union Council, Westfield, today, for the purpose of electing officers and transacting such other business as may come before the council. At this session the supreme representatives elected by the subordinate lodges will be present for the first time by invitation so as to familiarize themselves with the work which will make them more efficient as representatives at the Supreme Council which i sto be held in June. Thirty councils in the State will be represented at the meeting of the Grand Council. The holding of the Grand Council at Westfield comes as a reward of merit to the local council for the good work it has done in the past year and also to the insistent pleading of Grand Orator Morton, who is a member of the local council. Mayor H. W. Evans, who is a member of Union Council, welcomed the delegates and Grand Council officers at the opening session this morning and at the luncheon at Willett's Hotel, on North avenue, at noon. Arthur N. Pierson, the president of the Board of Trade, extended a welcome to them. For the accommodation of the delegates who came by way of the D. L. and W. Railroad, two of the members with their automobiles met them at Summit and conveyed them here. A reception committee met the delegates at the Central Railroad station and conducted them to the lodge room.

FIXED LICENSE POLICY

one could be elected to any office in the city if he openly stood for a reversal of it.

"The only trouble with this policy is that it is neither fixed nor determinate. By not being fixed I mean that it rests wholly on custom or precedent, and has not the support of any written law or declaration. By not being determinate I mean that it is not specific. For example, if eight saloons are enough for our present population, how many would be enough for a population of 100,000? Of course some would say that eight would still be quite enough; but that is from the angle of those who would prefer to have none, and from that angle there is no reason why we should have as many as eight. It must not be forgotten that the proper angle or viewpoint is compromise. We are trying to settle a vexed question so that all the people may be nearly satisfied, rather than that about one-half shall be entirely satisfied, and the other half wholly dissatisfied, and everybody stirred up each year by a controversy which convinces nobody and is harmful to the community. I therefore propose a plan which will make our policy both fixed and determinate.

"I suggest that it be made a fixed policy by putting it in the form of an ordinance. Of course it will be only an ordinance and can be repealed by other Councils. We cannot bind them. But this will be our declaration of belief and our valedictory to the city fathers who may succeed us; and will at least reduce to writing for their benefit the conclusions to which our study of local conditions have brought us.

"We shall make it a determinate or specific policy by making it automatic. I am convinced that it will always be in danger as a policy until we do this. Now there is only one way to make it automatic, and that is by frankly basing our limit on our population so that as the city grows the policy may continue undisturbed.

"With regard to the proposed ordinance, let me say t[illegible] hastily drawn, but [illegible] of study and with [illegible] our corporation [illegible] aided me in getting [illegible] the form in which I t[illegible] stand. The limit fo[illegible] been put at one for [illegible] inhabitants, which ex[illegible] eight retailers on the [illegible] cording to the last cens[illegible] could not be made one [illegible] of inhabitants as that w[illegible] renewals next year. An[illegible] each 2,000 of inhabitants [illegible] mit two more retailers i[illegible] the ordinance would not [illegible] sentiment of the people a[illegible] ent time, which is that on[illegible] ent population we have as [illegible] loons as are needed. Beside[illegible] dinance is drawn so as to p[illegible] additional wholesale licen[illegible] year; and I think this is a co[illegible] which may reasonably demar[illegible] the retail situation shall rem[illegible] disturbed until the State cen[illegible] 1915.

"I am entirely prepared [illegible] some of our people will not [illegible] kindly to the proposed limit i[illegible] ordinance of one wholesale plac[illegible] every 6,000, which would permi[illegible] other wholesale license next [illegible] But I am convinced that this is j[illegible] fied by existing conditions. [illegible] liquor business is a legalized busin[illegible] under high license, and yet to all [illegible] tents and purposes we have in Pla[illegible] field not that kind of a reasona[illegible] monopoly which is the aim and pu[illegible] pose of high license, but an absolu[illegible] monopoly so far as the wholesal[illegible] business is concerned. The law per[illegible] mits you to buy, but practically says that you shall do all your buying at one place whether you want to or not. I am satisfied that the present wholesale limit is unreasonable and therefore unwise because obnoxious to a large number of citizens. I have supported it hitherto by my vote, but reluctantly and only because our whole policy would be endangered by voting for any additional licenses so long as this policy remains unfixed by ordinance. In other words, you can't be guided by vague precedent, and safely make any exceptions. But if you will write out a rule which will work this year and next year and right along, then you are in a position to settle the wholesale question on its merits.

"One word in conclusion. The adoption of this ordinance does not mean that we have got to have one saloon for every 2,500 of inhabitants, or one wholesale place for every 6,000. It merely means that we may not have more than that. It means that we shall do away with a yearly agitation which is unnecessary and harmful and that we shall have a policy which will take care of itself. It means that the Council can start in to do business on January 1st instead of giving up a month or six weeks every year to the license question with meetings, petitions, hearings and misunderstandings. It means that only once in five years shall we be called upon to decide whether an additional license or two shall be granted, and if any are granted, the number will be fixed in advance automatically, and the increase at most will be only proportionate to the growth of the city.

"I ask for this plan the support of all who are willing, in the general interest, to make some concessions and to waive in part their individual preferences."

In answer to a question by Councilman C. C. Graves as to whether the change in the ordinance would continue to restrict licensed places to the business section, so, as he expressed it, "that people would have to walk from Westfield or Dunellen to Park avenue if they wanted a drink," Mr. Calkins said that the proposed supplement had nothing whatever to do with what is known as the Tyler "zone" ordinance.

RUNKLE WILL ARGUMENT IS BEGUN IN ORPHANS' COURT

Argument opened yesterday before Judge William P. Martin, in Orphans' Court, Newark, in the fight over the $2,000,000 estate of William Runkle, whose will is being contested by Harry G. Runkle, of this city.

Robert H. McCarter, representing William E. R. Smith, executor and chief beneficiary under the will, made a brief opening, in which he outlined what his argument would be. Argument on the other side was made by former Governor John W. Griggs.

Mr. Griggs set forth that the mutilation of the original document, referring to the ripping off of the first page of the will, nullified the instrument because it was done after the will had been executed. He also held that the addition of Mr. Smith's name after another name had been erased, also invalidated the document.

This contention Mr. Griggs upheld by referring to the law which allows a testator to cancel any part of a will but forbids the addition of anything without republishing the will. Using only common sense, said Mr. Griggs, one could see that the tearing away of the first page invalidated the will. He also asserted that there was lack of proof as to whether Mr. Runkle made the changes before or after the will was executed.

Mr. Griggs quoted an authority as follows: "If, in a codicil to a will, there is no reference to any mutilations or additions to the will, the presumption of law is that they had been made after the codicil was drawn."

WILSON ON MEXICO.

President Wilson's message to Congress on the Mexican situation, in which he reviewed in detail the causes which led up to the necessity of the United States taking a hand in the matter, and which was printed exclusively in Plainfield in the Daily Press last night, is a great state document. He shows clearly his conviction that the American people do not want in any way to control the affairs of the Mexican Republic, and that the American people have a feeling of the greatest friendship for the inhabitants of the country to the south of us. Huerta's attitude, however, of submitting only American representatives to indignities, has become such that it has been necessary to call a halt, and the President advises Congress that such is his intention.

His summing up states the position of this country only as President Wilson knows how to do it. He expresses tersely what every red-blooded American has been saying about the Mexicans ever since Huerta murdered his predecessor, and shows that in sending the fleet and troops to Mexico this nation has no ulterior purpose. As the President says: "There can, in what we do, be no thought of aggressing for self-aggrandizement. We wish to maintain the dignity and authority of the United States only because we wish always to keep our great influence unimpaired for the uses of liberty both in the United States and wherever else it may be employed for the benefit of mankind." The situation is in capable hands, as the President's message proves, and the American people may rest assured that the honor of the nation will be maintained, as has always been the case in similar situations in the past.

The State Motor Vehicle Department gave local autoists a scare on Sunday, and they taught a well needed lesson. There has been too much running about without the formality of procuring licenses to drive cars, and the work of the inspectors in stopping every one entering town and arresting those lacking the necessary pasteboard permits will have the approval of every automobilist who has lived up to the spirit of the law. Commissioner Lippincott has proven a careful and efficient official, and everything he has proposed or done in the conduct of his department has been for the benefit of the people as a whole, and not for the motorists as a class. Such visits as those of Sunday are good things and the inspectors should call oftener. Their work not only affects the few whom they catch without licenses, but also has a wholesome influence on others when they hear of the work of the inspectors.

The Netherwood Residents' Association, in their appeal to the City Council for a high pressure engine at the firehouse in that section of the city are thoroughly justified, but with the prospects of the tax rate soaring above $2.00, the city fathers may feel that the requested apparatus cannot be provided. It seems to us that the money saved on horse feed and care would pay the interest on the amount necessary to provide all of the city equipment with motors.

The contributed editorial for Saturday has been written by a comparative newcomer in Plainfield, but what he will say shows that he has made a close study of local affairs. It will deal with a phase of the consolidation proposition about which little has been said heretofore, but which is of vital importance to the people of both communities. It is short, but to the point.

If activity on the part of the local Board of Trade committee will accomplish anything, the effort to have the trolley extended to South Plainfield will bring results. The Plainfield men who are interested in the affair are giving much time to preparing their case, and will have strong arguments ready to present to the Public Utility Commission next week.

Plainfield does not want a reconstructed fire house for a city hall, using walls of antique architecture. What this city needs is a well built building, and one that will be a credit to the place, and the people would rather wait to see that than to have a temporary make-shift, which would be little more than a waste of money.

The New York Telegram quotes Senator Martine as saying that he is glad the President has quit "shillyshallying," and put some action in the Mexican situation. There are a lot of Plainfield people who believe "our Jim" has been doing a little 'shillyshallying" himself, in failing to eject activity into the post office nertia.

Judging from the amount collected in fees the shooting of "crap" in the brough is a profitate business, especally for the borough treasury. Ther is only one way to stop the pracice, and Recorder Hand knows what that is. As one of the crapshoocers, said, "North Plainfield is not healthy place for spo'tin' gemmen"

MAXIMUS ONE OF STRONG MEN IN OPEN AIR SCHOOL CIRCUS

Every circus that comes to Plainfield has a strong man, but the show which is to be given here Monday, May 4, for the benefit of the Open-Air School will have two strong men, and both will be local people. Maximus, who has conducted a physical culture institute on Putnam avenue in this city for two years or more, during which time he has made many local friends, will be one of the features of the show, and the other man of might will be a well-known young society man, who has a large circle of friends who had no idea of the reserve power which he possesses. Maximus, before settling in Plainfield, was on the professional stage, and has been seen in the local theatres, so that the merit and skill of the act which he is arranging especially for this show, in order to do his part to aid to raise funds for the local young people, can well be anticipated. These acts are only two of the many that will be provided by local participants, which will be announced from time to time.

But it is not only local acts upon which the show will depend for its attractions. The big canvas which will house the show on the lot on West Front street which has been donated for the occasion by John E. Dunn, the owner, will be the one which regularly covers the Frank A. Robbins Circus, and all of the splendid features of the well-known aggregation will appear as well as the many local acts. The Robbins circus has appeared regularly in Plainfield for many seasons, this being their thirty-fourth on the road. The trained elephants, and the $20,000 troupe of German stallions, which are two of the features of the show, are not only well known in the "white top" amusement world, but appear all winter in the best known vaudeville houses of the country. There are scores of men and women performers, in every known circus stunt, which have gained for the Robbins circus a reputation second to none.

Tickets for the show are already on sale, being in the hands of the members of the school committee of the Anti-Tuberculosis League, and reserved seats can now be secured at the Daily Press office, the public sale having commenced yesterday, when there was a big demand. The boxes are also selling rapidly, many of the society people of the city having formed box parties, for either the afternoon or evening performances. Two shows will be given, at 2:30 and 8 p. m., and in the morning there will be a free street parade in which many local people will participate.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE DESTROYS HOME

So Declared "Antis" Who Addressed Audience in Y. M. C. A. Last Night.

WOULD DO MUCH HARM

Miss Lucy Price and John A. Matthews Present Their Views on "Votes for Women"—State Suffrage Leader Criticized.

Before a large and thoroughly appreciative audience opposed to the enfranchisement of women, Miss Lucy Price, of Cleveland, and former Assemblyman John A. Matthews, of Newark, presented arguments against woman's suffrage at a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. last night. The attendance was made up of both sexes, men being as prominent among the listeners as women. Both speakers kept their hearers interested from the beginning and told of numerous personal experiences they had encountered while making a close study of this current topic. Miss Price said in part:

"Suffrage is no longer a movement to secure equal rights for women and it is hard to know just what it stands for. We believe that Suffragettes have never been able to single out one good that has come from women's voting and we contend that suffrage will do more harm than good. If women were enfranchised they would lose the non-partisan element which is so valuable to them at the present time. When they go before a legislative body now they are not queried concerning their party and can present their pleas as a non-partisan. The destruction of this element would hamper woman's influence.

"All laws represent the domination of public opinion and we have the kind of laws circumstances demand. Public opinion is born and bred in the homes of our nation and women have a great deal to do with the home. If women cast a ballot they must share in the work now being done by men and this would take them away from the home where they are most needed."

Mr. Matthews, who has been one of the most active workers for the "anti" faction in this State, said:

"In the meeting held last week in Cranford I spoke on the same platform with the head of the New Jersey Suffrage movement and she showed at that time that she had no more idea of what suffrage would mean to the nation than I have of what it would mean to Zuzuland. In answer to certain questions that were put to her by anti-suffrage workers, she declared that she was no walking encyclopedia and I contend that she would represent a very much abridged edition. I lost out in Cranford by a margin of eight votes when a ballot was taken for and against women suffrage, after the meeting, but I was speaking before an audience of Suffragettes. Woman suffrage is a foolish experiment with results far too serious to be tampered with.

"Socialism has entered suffragism and the men who are advocating the enfranchisement of the opposite sex are being led by undesirable women. The movement was imported into this country from Europe and was grabbed up by a few men who had nothing better to occupy their time. The immigrant's first taste of American liberty is to hear the cry of suffrage leader for the ballot. There is not a suffrage platform in the State of New York that does not have Socialism and Feminism preached from it some night during the week and these elements are being used to spread un-American doctrines. Women can do their part in making future good citizens by attending to their home duties in a proper manner.

"The real cause of the spread of juvenile crime is the lack of proper home training and this is what the women should take charge of. The womans work is the conservation of the home and the enfranchisement of women will do nothing but add to their burden. The Suffragettes claim that their balloting will take but twenty minutes. Men have been fighting for years against this twenty minute balloting. If women vote they must devote time to politics in order to be enlightened on what they ballot for.

"I have no objection to women voting, but I do object to some women forcing their sisters to vote. It will do nothing but increase the cost of the electorate."

Rev. Frank Goodwin, of Westfield, acted as chairman of the meeting.

MOUNT CALVARY GRAND COMMANDERY MEETS HERE

Mount Cavalry Grand Commandery, Knights Templar, colored, the highest branch of free masonry for that race in New Jersey, met last night in the lodge rooms of Stone Square Lodge, in this city, and chose officers for the year. The delegates present were former Minister to Hayti, Powell, of Camden, and Messrs. Doctor Allerson, of Cape May; Bowman, of Salem; Samuel Gordon, the Governor's messenger, of Trenton; Zermbie, of Trenton; Frank Binn, of Burlington; W. A. Murray, of Asbury Park; William Reilly, of Long Branch; Fitzgerald and Bailey, of Atlantic City; Sperling, of Princeton; W. A. Wright, of Newark; William Scott, of Orange; Thomas Wright and James McCadle, of New York, and Jones, of Montclair.

The officers elected and installed were William J. Douglas, of this city, re-elected grand commander; Arthur Venable, also of Plainfield; deputy grand commander; Allerson, generalissimo; Bailey, grand captain general; James Connett, grand recorder; Binn, grand treasurer; Doctor Newton, grand prelate. Other officers were appointed for the ensuing year, and a social gathering was held following the meeting.

AUTO CASES POSTPONED.

The nine automobile and motorcycle drivers arrested by State Inspectors Shinn and Shedd, Sunday, were arrigned in the city court, this morning, before Mayor Percy H. Stewart and all were released to appear for trial Tuesday, April 29. Mayor Stewart conducted the court proceedings this morning in the absence of City Judge William G. DeMeza, who is one of the speakers at the New Jersey Conference of Charities being held at Asbury Park, today.

RECRUITING CORPS TO WAR STRENGTH

Several Vacancies in Field Hospital Offer Exceptional Opportunities.

The field hospital of the State which is stationed at the Elizabeth armory is recruiting to war strength, in view of the pending troubles in Mexico. There are fifteen vacancies to be filled. Applicants must be of good charcter, eighteen years of age or over and in excellent physical condition. This service is particularly attractive to young men as the opportunities are unusual for learning various duties of 'sanitary troops," including ordinary drills, litter and ambulance drills, caring for the wounded, thorough first-aid instructions, horsemanship and many other duties which have to do with patients in hospitals.

The field hospital is provided with 108 bed equipment, capable of 150 bed expansion, fully equipped for attending to patients in a medical and surgical way. The equipment for surgery is particularly good, including all the latest appliances. Men especially trained in pharmacy are very acceptable. Applicants should communicate with the Elizabeth armory or call 'phone number 1328-Plainfield.

BERGEN NAYLOR INJURED IN RUNAWAY AT DUNELLEN

An automobile truck was the cause of an exciting runaway this morning, when a horse attached to a buggy, driven by Bergen Naylor, became frightened on West Front street, and made a wild dash in the direction of Dunellen. The rig was upset on North avenue, Dunellen, after running onto the sidewalk in front of Pennock's drug store. A bootblack stand standing on the walk in the vicinity was turned over. While Mr. Taylor was thrown from the vehicle, he escaped with but a few slight injuries. The horse was caught in the vicinity of the Dunellen car barns. The wagon was considerably damaged, but the horse was injured but slightly.

SPEAKERS ANNOUNCED FOR COUNTY DEMOCRATIC BANQUET

United States Senator James E. Martine, Congressman W. E. Tuttle, Governor James Fielder and Congressman Helfin, of Alabama, will be the speakers at the Democratic banquet to be given in Turn Hall, Elizabeth, tomorrow night. Mayor Percy H. Stewart, who is chairman of the Union County Democratic Committee, will preside, and Gen. Dennis F. Collins will be the toastmaster.

It is expected that there will be a large number of guests from this city, as well as other parts of the county. An elaborate menu has been prepared and there will be numerous features which should make the gathering one of unusual interest.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Martha Philpott, of Inwood, L. I., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. David R. Conover, of Jackson avenue, the borough.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Shrager, of Madison avenue, entertained Max Ginsburg, of New York city, over the week-end.

Mrs. Louis Alpaugh, of West Fifth street, is visiting her mother, Mrs. John Mulligan, of Clinton.

Miss Ruth Miller, of Watchung avenue, has returned after spending Saturday and Sunday with her parents at Coontown.

Mrs. Benjamin Fritts, of Trenton, who has been visiting her son, John R. Fritts, of West Fifth street, left today for Camden.

Miss Carrie Combs, of West Fourth street, has returned home after a visit with friends out of town.

"LADIES' NIGHT" AT TRINITY.

Despite the inclement weather the "Ladies' Night" affair given at Trinity Reformed church, last night, by the Dutch Arms, mens association, was largely attend and greatly enjoyed. The entertainment of the evening was provided by Emil Closs, the Swiss hand-bell ringer, and the program was a pleasing one throughout. Prior to the entertainment the Dutch Arms held a short business session.

EMPEROR FRANCIS IS SAID TO BE IMPROVING

Vienna, Austria, April 21—The condition of health of Emperor Francis Joseph was satisfactory today, according to semi-official information given out at the Palace of Schoenbrunn. His Majesty passed a good night, having slept for a longer period than usual. The imperial patient's temperature was 97.5. His Majesty had a very good appetite at breakfast today, and his physicians say his general condition gives no cause for apprehension, as his strength has been well maintained.

PROGRESSIVE EUCHRE.

Sixteen tables were occupied at the progressive euchre given last evening under the auspices of the Park Club. The auditorium of the club house was prettily decorated for the occasion. Favors were given to those in attendance.

RECOMMEND NEW SYSTEM

efficient service, to place such a plant at a central point, and the offensive sights and odors would not be tolerated either from an aesthetic or real estate point of view. If placed at either end of the city (and if the old sewer grounds were not used), it would have to be outside our limits and in a more or less isolated place. This would make the haul so long that the cost would probably be prohibitive, especially when the fact is considered that curb collection—a system which prevails in most cities—would not be permitted in ours.

"The whole question of garbage collection and disposal is summed up by Selskar M. Gunn, G. S., managing editor of the 'American Journal of Public Health,' who says: 'My own feeling with regard to refuse collection and disposal is that it is unwise for a community to undertake municipal collection and disposal unless it has the advice of competent sanitary engineers on the matter.'

"The following cities have been personally visited and their several system investigated by our health officer, Mr. Chandler, with the hope that we might find something practical to adopt for ourselves, but his report simply emphasizes all that has been previously said. The report is as follows:

"Montclair, of all the cities in the United States, with its eighty miles of streets and 25,000 population, comes nearer to Plainfield in comparison than any other, and the civic conditions and personnel are alike to both; therefore, when we find such a community spending $25,000 per year and still laboring under obsolete conditions, we cannot recommend until there is a more general agreement among sanitary engineers as to improved methods and cost, that our city should adopt a municipal collection of garbage.

"We do not believe, however, that our present system can be so improved and controlled that it will not be offensive, and the work done at less rates than at present. Everyone is familiar with the ramshackle leaky wagons, drawn by decrepit horses, that serve us at the present time, but few realize that these are run on a go-as-you-please method, that crosses and re-crosses all over the city, and engaged in by so many, that none can afford to better their equipment and put the work on a business basis unless protected by the city.

"We find that twenty-seven men are employed in collecting daily from 230 to 690 (according to the season) barrels of ashes, mixed with papers and rubbish; and that an additional twenty-seven, using thirty-four wagons, collect approximately 109 cans of garbage per day. As no boundary lines have been established, practically all of these wagons traverse the entire city.

"The ashes and rubbish are dumped at points under permit by the Board of Health, on private ground for filling purposes; the papers and dry rubbish are raked up and fired on the ground, in many cases bringing complaints from adjacent property owners, by reason of smoke and odor. The garbage is taken outside the city limits, used in a limited way to feed hogs and chickens and otherwise as fertilizer.

"In view of our findings, we make the following recommendations:

"That the city be divided into districts or zones, that these be sold to either the highest bidder or that the license fee be made high enough to make some return to the city, and in any case the holder to be under bond for the proper performance of his contract; that all the wagons be of one type and protected with covers; that the horses shall be passed on by the S. P. C. A., and the drivers and assistants shall wear khaki clothes.

"That all householders shall keep a can for garbage, which must be drained before being put into the can and a can or barrel for ashes, and a receptacle for rubbish and papers, the latter to be tied into bundles before being put in.

"That the city shall purchase three small portable incinerators to be rented to owners of dumps receiving permits for ashes and rubbish, and that the latter shall be immediately burned, and not dumped on the ground to prove unsightly or be blown away.

"Finally as the collection of garbage, ashes and rubbish is a sanitary measure and in order that complaints may be promptly investigated, rules regulations and ordinances enforced, we recommend that the system be placed under the supervision of the Board of Health. This will necessitate an additional inspector whose time will largely be devoted to this work."

KENTUCKY CLUBWOMEN MEET.

Louisville, Ky., April 21.—An army of clubwomen recruited from every section of Kentucky invaded Louisville today and will remain in possession of the city until the end of the week. The occasion of the gathering is the twentieth annual convention of the State Federation. All signs point to one of the most successful as well as the largest convention ever held by the organization. Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, is to be present as the guest of honor. The business sessions of the convention are to be held in the auditorium of the Seelbach Hotel and will be interspersed with a number of features of social entertainment prepared by the local clubs.

PROPOSALS FOR COAL.

Proposals will be received by the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital through their Executive Committee at a meeting to be held on April 30th, for furnishing 650 tons, more or less, of the best anthracite coal for steaming and hot-air purposes in the different sizes as follows:

Buckwheat Coal	600 tons
Egg and Stove Coal	30 tons
Nut Coal	10 tons.

Parties bidding will be required to specify in their bids the name of the coal and shippers of same.

All coal to be non-clinking, thoroughly screened over a sieve fine enough to take out all dust and small particles of coal, and to be of a quality acceptable to the Board of Governors or their agent.

All coal to be placed in the coal bins within the Hospital without any extra expense to the Hospital for handling or trimming the coal in the bins, and to be delivered at such time as the Hospital may direct.

Bids to specify whether long or short tons are to be delivered.

All proposals to be sealed and endorsed "Proposals for Coal," and addressed to the Superintendent of the Hospital.

The Board of Governors reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

PLAINFIELD KNIGHTS HOLD DOWN THE SEVENTH RUNG

Watchung Council, Knight of Columbus pinners, who rolled in the Knights of Columbus Eastern Championships being run off on the White Elephant Alleys, in New York city, last week, are anxiously awaiting the final announcement of prize winners which will be made public April 28. The Castilian team continues to lead the five-man standing while the Plainfield team has earned seventh place, its score being 2,496. Bayley, No. 2, is in ninth place and Bayley, No. 1, holds down the thirteenth rung.

New Brunswick Knights will shoot on April 28 in the concluding series of the tournament which has attracted much interest among Eastern bowlers. The Plainfielders are practically assured of one of the numerous valuable prizes in the five-man event but have failed to place in the doubles and singles.

ROD AND REEL

Quite a few trout were taken from Sarah Green Brook, near Scotch Plains, last week. A large portion of that stream is being posted against the public, which should not be, as it was stocked by the State.

Our weather report was one day late, for which our fishermen friends appear thankful. We had predicted rain for Sunday, and everybody knows how near right we were. A few such rains as yesterday and it will put the trout streams out of business again.

Experts who have made a study of the pollution of New York Bay claim that none of it gets as far as Sandy Hook. That is good news, as the millions of gallone of pollution going into the Arthur Kill river and Staten Island Sound look very bad.

Pollution of the spring that supplies the trout pools at the State hatchery in Hackettstown, is said to have been responsible for the death of at least 40,000 big trout. The cause, having been located, will be stopped immediately by the State authorities. Forty thousand trout would have been an enormous amount a few years ago, but while it is to be regretted, the facilities at the hatchery will soon make up the amount.

Weakfish follow the butters up the coast and are expected about May 1 by the market fishermen. The butterfish are plentiful just at present.

It is now unlawful for any person to place, for the purpose of decoying water fowl to be killed, and wild rice or other grain on the waters of any bay or stream or on any feeding grounds where wild water fowl can be killed. Senator William Read, of Camden, introduced and passed the bill in the interest of conservation, as he knows from experience that such methods are unsportsmanlike and should be stopped. The Senator is a prominent gunner and knows the situation from experience. Then, to help the good cause along, Senator Read passed a bill, which is now a law, prohibiting any person or persons from drawing any seine under the ice for fish. In many of the waters of South Jersey the perch gather in schools of thousands under the ice, and fishermen, by an ingenious net arrangement, draw them out at a time when they are preparing to spawn. Still wishing to help the sportsmen, Senator Read introduced and passed a law that permits the hunters to again train their dogs prior to the hunting season, for which we all give many thanks.

CANNUCK CAPTURED FIRST PRIZE IN BOSTON GRIND

Boston, April 21—Canadian runners, headed by James Duffy, of Hamilton, Ont., outfooted their American competitors in the eighteenth marathon run of the Boston Athletic Association yesterday. Duffy covered the twenty-five miles in 2.25.01. Two years ago M. J. Ryan, of New York established the course record of 221.18 1-5.

Trailing but fifteen seconds behind Duffy came Edward Fabre, of Montreal. More than three minutes elapsed before the first American, John M. Lordan, of Cambridge, reached the finish, with Walter Bell, of Montreal, coming up strong for fourth place. The rest of the prize winners were Americans.

INTERNATIONALS OPEN.

New York, April 21—The season of the International Baseball League, which was opened today with games in four cities, is expected to develop some interesting doings before the umpires call their last "out" on the wind-up day at the end of September. In two cities of the circuit, Buffalo and Baltimore, the league is to have the opposition of the Federals. These are two of the strongest cities of the organization and the results of the invasion of the Federals will be watched with close interest. The International starts the season with very few changes since last year. The managerial roster remains unchanged, with the exception that Larry Schafly has relinquished the helm at Jersey City to become pilot for the Buffalo club in the Federal League. Rudy Hulswitt has succeeded Schafly at Jersey City. In the inaugural festivities today the Toronto team plays at Providence, Baltimore entertains the Buffalo team, Montreal lines up at Jersey City and Rochester meets the Newark champions in Newark. The league schedule provides for a season of 154 games, with September 27 as the closing date.

WATCHUNG HUNT CLUB.

The mid-week run of the Watchung Hunt Club will be held tomorrow afternoon, the hounds meeting at the kennels at 3:30 oclock.

CONSISTENT PINNING MARKS SERIES WON BY TEAM NO. 2

After taking the first two games in the Elks' Club tournament series rolled last night, on the club's alleys, the Campbell crew dropped the final match to the Waldorf aggregation by a count of 855 to 767. Campbell's men took the inaugural contest by a margin of forty-eight pins and the second by eighteen points.

Campbell and Waldorf set up the two double century counts of the evening when they recorded 206 and 236 respectively in the curtain setto. Consistent rolling featured the evening of competition all of the ten men hitting the pins in a creditable fashion for their respective combinations.

The scores:

WESTFIELD HIGH SCHOOL NINE SOUNDLY SPANKED

Westfield High School opened its baseball season Saturday afternoon with a defeat at the hands of the Westfield Cubs in a battle waged on Recreation Park by a count of 14 to 2. The Westfielders put up an inferior article of baseball and the Cubs had little trouble in clouting the ball and circling the cushions whenever they chose.

The lineup:

Cubs—Green, 1b; Valleau, ss; Douglass, 2b; Young, 3b; Himmelberger, rf; Worth, c; Dallon, lf; Hunt, c; Cowperthwaite, p.

Westfield H. S.—Rhab, lf; Dr. Gilmartin, 2b; W. Gilmartin, ss; Cruttenden, p-cf; Marenghi, c-rf; Bourne, cf-c; Underwood, rf; Taylor, 1b; Davis, 3b; Pearsall, p.

Score by innings:

Cubs	0	8	0	2	1	2	0	1	0	—14
W. H. S.	1	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	— 2

Batteries—Cowperthwaite, Hunt and Worth; Cruttenden, Pearsall, Marenghi and Bourne. Umpire—Ketcham.

WILL TRY NOTABLE FEAT.

Buster Elionsky, the 205-pound long distance swimmer of New London, Conn., announces that he will attempt to swim ten miles next summer with his hands and feet chained and carrying a man strapped to his back whose weight will exceed 200 pounds. Elionsky, perhaps the greatest freak in the history of acquatics, while manacled himself tugged a boat with seven passengers on board for eight miles last fall, so his statement may be serious though it sounds amusing. Elionsky is 20 years old.

MONSTER GOLF EVENT.

Atlantic City, April 31.—Nearly 150 players will tee off in the qualification rounds at the annual spring tournament of the Atlantic City Country Club here Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Five sixteens will be drawn this year instead of six, as in former years. The first and second rounds start off on the championship race Friday and the last two Saturday. Special events are listed for the defeated eights and a handicap will be contested on Saturday.

ELKS' CLUB TOURNEY.

The Cose and Nash teams will line-up against each other in the series scheduled in the Elks' Club Bowling Tournament on the club's alleys tonight.

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

By letting an opponent score a victory by a margin of twenty runs the Leal School baseball team did the first really remarkable stunt of the season in local schoolboy circles Saturday afternoon. The private school team's mound ornament was pounded to the four corners of the lot and had it not been for the mutual agreement reached between the managers in the stretch stanza the contest might have still been going. The "wise ones" got together and agreed on a curtailment after a dozen or more balls had been lost in the tall timbers by the Montclair youths.

In the opinion of Skillman, who twirled for the Monroe Avenue clan against the Democrats Saturday afternoon, Joe Morley, the "Home-Rulers" little catcher, is as good as they come in these parts. Several years ago Skillman was one of the best semi-pro heavers in this State and while piling up a reputation for himself he threw to scores of backstops and has had a good opportunity to give the best of them the "once over." He declares that Morley has the makings of a big leaguer and was complimentary in the remarks he passed for the opposing side's hurler after the contest. The Democratic youth covered himself with all kinds of glory, handling the base runners in a way that spread terror in the Monroe camp and held the shoots of the slat artist in a way that would make a veteran envious. Keep one good eye on this promising young recruit until he reaches his majority.

Plainfield High School appears to have cultivated a liking for close contests. The one on Parker Field Friday with Central High School was a thriller from start to finish, and the one at Somerville Saturday afternoon resulted in a similar situation, the Somerset county ballists winning in twelve innings by a count of 3 to 2. It seems to be the old case of either good or bad. Friday Plainfield was in fine fettle and won, but Saturday the team appeared to have a decided off day and the Somervillians were practically handed the encounter.

Now that all of the schools have had their winning streaks bottled up by an opponent we will not have to look forward to any unblemished records this spring. North Plainfield, Plainfield and Leals have all met the toboggan at least once. Let's hope they don't start sliding.

Haven't heard anything regarding the organization of a Plainfield team for sometime past. Where are all those magnates who were going to establish baseball on a firm basis hereabouts at the close of last season? There's plenty of players but no manager running loose.

Giving the Public Service aggregation the "once over" we note several new faces wearing the gas fumed suits. It's going to be a big season for the Public Service team on the diamond.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—Can pigeons travel at a rate of two miles an hour?—V. S. I.

Answer—Human beings travel faster than two miles an hour. A pigeon has been known to make one mile a minute in flying.

Sporting Editor:

Query—To whom should I apply for a hack license?—F. P.

Answer—The city clerk whose office is located in the city building on North avenue.

Sporting Editor:

Query—How can I engage Parker Field for a holiday exhibition to be conducted under the auspices of a benevolent organization?—J. T.

Answer—Apply to Supervisor George W. Wriston. Better make application at once, however, as the holiday dates are fast filling up. The field is in constant use and indications at the present time point to a busy season of work there.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where is the New Jersey Law School located?—V. B.

Answer—33 East Park place, Newark, N. J.

Sporting Editor:

Query—How fast can the average racing motorcycle travel (unpaced)?—C. H.

Answer—Paced or unpaced, the average racer can do a mile in twenty-seven seconds. If your machine won't travel at that rate you had better stay out of the larger meets.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is there a place for boating in or near Plainfield that is open to the public?—X. Z.

Answer—There are several small bodies of water in and near Plainfield but none are sufficiently large to warrant good boating. Tier's pond, Silver lake at South Plainfield and the New Market pond are among the nearest to Plainfield.

LEAL'S vs. MORRISTOWN.

Leal School baseball tossers will tackle a stiff proposition tomorrow afternoon when they lineup against the slants of DeVatalis, the Morristown school's slab artist, in a game at that place. DeVatalis is one of the most formidable twirlers in schoolboy circles and his ability vanquished the locals last season. The trip will be made via automobile.

The society completed arrangements for the corn-growing contest, which will be open to all boys of Somerset county under twenty years of age. Nearly $100 in premiums will be offered. These premiums will be as follows: Best full acre of corn grown by a boy under twenty, five premiums, aggregating $21; a similar amount for the best ten ears of corn and for the best essay on the subject, "How I Grew My Crop." There is also a series of premiums for the best ten ears raised by a man.

TO ANSWER FOR "JOY RIDE."

Chicago, Ill., April 21.—A two days' joy ride across northern Illinois, with frequent stops at wayside inns, brought young Raymond Harrison into court today to stand trial on a charge of being responsible for the death of seventeen-year-old Marjorie Chauncey. Harrison and the girl were companions on the automobile trip, which ended when Miss Chauncey took a fatal dose of mercury. Before she died in the Chicago hospital the girl is alleged to have said that she took the poison on a dare from her companion. Both Harrison and the victim of the tragedy belonged to respectable families residing on the South Side.

PHILANTHROPIST'S CENTENARY.

London, April 21—The centenary of the birth of the Baroness Burdett-Coutts, the celebrated philanthropist, was recalled today with special exercises held in many public institutions which she had aided during her lifetime. The Baroness was a granddaughter of the famous banker, Thomas Coutts, and was the principal heir to his vast fortune. During her lifetime she distributed millions of dollars in charity and philanthrophy. Her efforts were directed particularly toward bettering the condition of the poor and unfortunate of her own sex.

COPENHAVEN PLANS TO SUE THE COUNTY

Young Man Arreested in Naylor Case Retains Counsel to Start Legal Action.

Suit for damages against Union county for false imprisonment is threatened by Thomas Copenhaven, one of the young men arrested in connection with the disappearance of Miss Ruth Naylor on April 2. He was arrested in New York and detained until April 17 in the Tombs, although the girl had been found on April 7, and in a statement exonerated him of all blame for her absence.

The New York authorities were appraised of this fact and were requested to release Copenhaven, but declined to do so until a letter directing his release was received from Prosecutor Stein. This was not received by the proper official until last Thursday, a week and two days after the girl had cleared the prisoner.

Immediately upon his release he wired John Naylor, the girl's father, of 322 Lee place, asking a settlement, and if it was refused an action at law would be brought to recover. When it was learned, however, that Mr. Naylor had accompanied Chief Kiely to the Tombs and poined in the request to liberate Copenhaven, it was indicated that he had done his part and therefore was not liable.

The young man has retained counsel to look after his interests in the case, and if his threats are made good the suit will be brought.

MARTINE EXPLAINS STAND ON REPEAL

Presents New Jersey's Petition Asking Senate to Uphold Free Tolls Act.

In presenting a New Jersey petition protesting against the repeal of the exemption clase of the Canal act, United State Senator J. E. Martine made statements today explaining why he differs with the President on this question. Senator Martines address to the Senate follows:

"I desire to preface the presentation of this petition with the statement that I am opposed to the bill to repeal the so-called Panama Canal tolls and should it be my privilege to be present when the vote comes I shall so declare myself in my vote.

"With no spirit of gloating or exultation, I have in my hand a petition, that is most numerously signed, from the capitol of my State, protesting against the passage of the repeal bill.

"I want to say that I agree with the President. I believe him to be a patriot and a statesman, but on the question of the Panama Canal tolls my conscience and my judgment lead me to say nay. I do this in no sense or desire to be spectacular but because the dictates of my judgment bid me.

"I believe that the welfare of the country demands the toll exemption. I believe that the great preponderance of public sentiment in the United States protests against it. I want to be with the President, but I will only vote with the President or any other man on this or any other theme when conscience and heart bid me.

"I do not believe, I have too much faith in the President of the United States to believe that he desires me or any other man to be with him without heart and without conscence."

FAVOR INCREASE IN RETAIL LICENSE FEE

Councilmen Said to Be Considering Plans to Raise it From $1,200 to $1,500.

That some of the members of the Common Council favor increasing the retail liquor license fee from $1,200 to $1,500 became known today, following a general discussion of the plan proposed by Councilman Leighton Calkins to fix the policy of that body in granting licenses in the future. The members who favor the increase say that if the policy of the Council is going to be to restrict licensed places to the business section and to the present number, they believe that the holders of such licenses should be willing to pay a higher fee, for, as they express it, they are enjoying a monopoly.

It was learned today that one of the members of the Council had planned to introduce a resolution last night, increasing the license fee, but decided at the last moment to hold it up for the present. In view of the fact that the tax rate for the coming year will be high, the idea of increasing the license fee would be a means of securing a little more money for city purposes.

The councilmanic fire committee would like to grant the request of the Netherwood Residents' Association who ask for an automobile fire engine in that section, but at present cannot see its way clear to provide for such an expense in view of the increased demands being made by other departments.

AN ANNIVERSARY SURPRISE.

Mr. and Mrs. John Traynor, of East Second street, were given a surprise by twenty friends who called unexpectedly at their home, last night, the occasion being the twentieth anniversary of their wedding. A program of cards, music and dancing was enjoyed until a late hour, refreshments being served in conclusion. The affair was arranged by Mrs. John Flynn, of West Front street.

The first of the serial of "Lucille Love, the Girl of Mystery," will be shown at both performances today. Tomorrow a five reel feature, "Germinal," or "The of Labor," will be presented.

DEBATE HOLDS UP WAR

Washington, April 21.—The president's plans for the immediate blockading and seizure of Mexican gulf ports were held up for a time and the Washington administration greatly embarrassed as the result of strong opposition in congress to the resolution in support of the president's program.

The house, after a long wrangle in which the president's move against Huerta was bitterly attacked, voted, 337 to 37, that the president "is justified in the employment of armed forces against Huerta." Five members of the president's own party voted against the resolution.

This unexpected opposition of congress was a blow to the administration It has been accepted as evidence of a lack of enthusiasm over the president's program, but chiefly as an expression of dissatisfaction with his previous policy in Mexico. The present embarrassing situation was being contrasted here with the spontaneous and unanimous support given by congress to President McKinley when he called for support just before the Spanish war.

When the hitch occurred in congress plans were under way for the dispatch of orders to the American war vessels in Mexican waters to close in on the ports of Vera Cruz and Tampico, seize them and establish a blockade.

Orders also were waiting to be sent out to the army along the Mexican border, especially at Galveston, to prepare itself for embarkation to the Mexican gulf ports. The secretary of war and the secretary of the navy, Major General Wood, chief of staff of the army and most of the bureau chiefs from the army and war departments had gathered at the White House with their maps and plans ready to obtain the president's approval for the orders which were to inaugurate the military operations.

The opposition in congress came like a dash of ice water on the gathering at the White House, and when the conference adjourned it was with the understanding that no orders would be issued by either the war or navy department until the situation on Capitol hill had cleared. The president and all his advisers were plainly worried over the opposition that had developed. They feared that it would immediately be accepted by a large part of the Mexican people as justification for the statement that the president lacked the support of the country in the campaign that he has undertaken against Huerta

Cause of Dissension.

The resolution which stirred up so much opposition and which was passed by the house was as follows:

Resolved, by the senate and house of representatives in congress assembled, that the president of the United States is justified in the employment of the armed forces of the United States of America to enforce demands made upon Victoriano Huerta for unequivocal amends to the government of the United States for affronts and indignities committed against his government by General Huerta and his representatives.

Two points of bitterness immediately developed. Republicans objected to the word "justified" becnuse it said it would commit them to an indorsement against their judgment of the president's entire Mexican policy. They insisted upon the substitution of the word "authorized." Other members of congress, including some Democrats refused to consent to the use of Huerta's name in the resolution and declared that the resolution was too personal and represented a step in the president's campaign against the Mexican dictator. They insisted upon the substitution of some more general terms, such as "federals."

Eliminate Huerta's Name.

While the house was wrangling over the resolution in support of the president, the senate committee on foreign relations was having an equally inharmonious meeting behind closed doors In fact, at the first meeting of the committee, which lasted two hours, it was practically determined to amend the resolution as drafted by the administration and reported to the house.

Every member of the committee drew a draft of a resolution himself, and in each case it was said the name of Huerta was eliminated and the resolution was made broader so as to refer to the Mexican federals. Members of the committee argued that in the original resolution President Wilson had singled Huerta out as an individual. They said that as an individual Huerta had already done all he could to make amends for the incident at Tampico, having released the Americans, apologized and arrested the officer who caused the arrest of the Americans. But now it was proposed to make Huerta as an individual undertake to do something which he could only do as the representative of a government of some kind in Mexico.

WILSON READING MESSAGE

President Asking Congress to Sustain His Action.

Every seat in the house was occupied when Chairman Flood arose to report the resolution from the committee on foreign affairs. Mr. Underwood and the other Democratic leaders gathered about Representative Flood. The situation was tense, and there was every indication that a spirited fight was brewing.

Mr. Flood was wildly applauded by Democrats as he sent the resolution to the desk to be read.

Republican Leader Mann arose and inquired:

"What proposition do you propose to make for debate on this measure?"

Underwood Grave.

Before Chairman Flood could reply Leader Underwood jumped to his feet and took command of the administration forces. Usually Mr. Underwood begins a legislative battle smilingly and in the best of good humor. On this occasion he was grave in demeanor and cautious in speech.

"It is the desire of the Democratic side of the house to put this resolution through as speedily as possible in order that it may become a law tonight," said Mr. Underwood, emphasizing every word. "We are willing to allow a reasonable length of time for debate. How much time will you require?

"I understand that the committee on rules has prepared a rule to be used, if necessary," returned Mr. Mann.

The Republican leader's jaws clicked as Mr. Underwood informed him that a "gag" had been devised and would be applied if the Republicans tried to obstruct.

Democrats Applaud.

"I will remind the gentleman that we are facing a condition such as has always impelled the legislative branch of the government to sustain the chief executive of the nation," replied Mr. Underwood gravely.

Mr. Underwood was enthusiastically applauded by the Democratic side. Continuing, Mr. Underwood said:

"I would not insist upon the immediate passage of this resolution were it not for the fact that the president himself has said that it is of the utmost importance to the nation that it should be put through at once."

STATE BOARD TO MEET.

The State Board for the Equalization of Taxes will sit at the Court house in Elizabeth tomorrow to hear appeals from decisions of the Union and Middlesex County Boards. Four appeals are scheduled for hearing, one from Mountainside in Union county, and three from Middlesex county offecting property in Sayreville, Raritan and Woodbridge townships.

ASSOCIATION COLLECTS $400.

Reports submitted at the monthly meeting of the Business Men's Credit Association, held last night, show that $400 has been collected from delinquents since the last session. Routine business occupied the time of the association and a large accumulation of this was disposed of during the evening.

NEW FIRE BADGES.

Mayor Percy H. Stewart and the members of the councilmanic fire committee have received fire badges of a new design. They are in the form of a shield, bearing the wearer's initial or office. The distribution is customary and gives the officials all the privileges of the fire departments in this and other cities.

PLAYER-PIANOS

A Very Rare Opportunity

Twenty-five of our own player-pianos that sell year in year out in large numbers, are now to be disposed of at greatly lowered prices.

They have been used for demonstration purposes in the regular course of our piano business. This prevents us from selling them as new instruments, but makes no difference in their tone or durability.

Artists who play in public prefer pianos that have been played—"become magnetized," as one artist put it.

It is a most unusual thing to be able to buy a Lindeman player-piano, or a Lindeman, Emerson or a Knabe-Angelus, at a saving; for these are not nameless waifs, made for advertising purposes, and which give but a little music, and mighty thin music at that.

They are Famous Old Pianos and the ANGELUS factory has all it can do to supply the demand for those to be fitted with this first and finest of all piano-players.

You will realize the largeness of this opportunity when you see the instruments and hear them—and not before.

Kindly note—Full details as to regular prices, terms, and whatever you desire information upon, will be given in the Piano Salons.

The Instruments

To be sold at prices fixed according to condition.

LINDEMAN PLAYER-PIANO, 3 models to choose from, $325, $340, $360, $365, $415, $445.

LINDEMAN-ANGELUS, one model, $525.

EMERSON-ANGELUS, one model, $550.

EMERSON-ANGELUS, one model, $575, $595.

KNABE-AMPICO Player, 1 model, $765.

KNABE-ANGELUS, Grand, one model, $1,375.

A little money down and a small payment each month will enable you to become the happy owner of one of these player-pianos tomorrow.

Piano Salons, First Gallery, New Building.

Player-Pianos Are Mind and Heart Medicine

You can play upon these player-pianos any sort of music you want, whenever you want, in just the time and tone you want.

Children are given a glimpse of finer things—something to reach for.

Busy men and women refresh tired minds and bodies.

And it can be made as near the finest hand-played music as you wish it to be.

You can have this mind and heart medicine just now at a decided saving—as long as the 25 player-pianos last.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

The woman who can handle a needle with any skill whatever need not worry over her limited dress allowance; she may have several frocks at the cost of one purchased ready made.

Materials are attractive and not expensive. The silks and novelty fabrics, crepes, voiles or tussahs may all be used for the fascinating one-piece dresses, which still continue popular.

Voile is perhaps one of the most sensible fabrics for the utility frock, especially in the dark colors.

No. 7999 would be most effective made up in a dark blue voile with a tiny colored flower sprinkled over the surface. By way of trimming a design worked out in soutache braid on collar and cuffs would be smart and all sufficient. If desired a softly draped sash the color of the flower or in plain blue might be added to make it a bit more dressy.

This dress may be made in size 36 with 4½ yards of 36 inch material.

The pattern is cut in 6 sizes; 34 to 44.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to state right size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust for dimensions.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Some Cookery Suggestions

WAYS WITH PEPPERS.

AMONG the numerous ways of cooking this piquant vegetable the following recipes are worth trying. While peppers have no particular dietetic merits they serve to whet the appetite for other foods.

Peppers and Bacon.—Take firm, large sweet green peppers. Wash them and remove the seeds. Cut in rings and lay in cold water to which has been added a pinch of salt and set away for one hour. Fry slices of bacon, saving the drippings. Remove the peppers from the water, dry thoroughly on a clean towel and fry in the bacon drippings. Serve the fried pepper in a circle as a border to the dish of bacon.

With Canned Tomatoes.

Peppers With Rice.—Take a tablespoonful of flour and one of butter and rub smooth over the fire. Cook one can of tomatoes until tender and strain. Pour over the butter and flour. Fill sweet peppers with boiled rice and add butter, salt, pepper and the pulp of the tomatoes. Cook in double boiler, with sauce poured over peppers. If the juice is not thick enough add more flour.

Peppers and Eggs.—This is a very nice dish that may serve for a change, especially for luncheon. Take as many green peppers as there are persons to serve and having cut off the tops and carefully removed the seeds place upright in a pan and break an egg into each pepper. Bake for about fifteen minutes and serve with tomato sauce on toast.

Easily Prepared.

Peppers With Chicken.—Boil a chicken, saving the water in which it was boiled. Cut chicken very fine. Add one can mushrooms, one cup pecans and half a cupful of butter, the nuts and mushrooms having been chopped up. Mix together and add enough of the chicken stock to moisten and fill the peppers, which have been made ready by cutting off the tops and removing the seeds. Put in a baking dish and heat the remainder of the chicken stock, adding a lump of butter the size of an egg. Pour on the peppers, cover with breadcrumbs and bake in oven a few minutes until thoroughly cooked.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Pussy Who Wandered From Home.

Rubbed Her Throat With Liniment.

"PUSSY hated home. She liked to go off with all the other cats of the neighborhood. And yet the funniest part was that Pussy's home was so delightful. She had as nice a home as any little cat could wish for. She lived with her mother and two little sisters and brothers in a kitchen which was part of a very fine house.

"There they had a box back of the big kitchen stove which was full of soft cushions. There was always a large bowl of milk on the floor in a corner of the kitchen. Three times a day they got big meals and quite often in between times, for Katy, the cook, was very fond of cats and spoiled them.

"But in spite of all these comforts and luxuries Pussy loved to wander.

"One day after Pussy had been home some time, during which the cook, the old mother cat and all Pussy's sisters and brothers had tried to make her life in the kitchen so attractive that she should not want to leave it, off she went again.

"She met some other stray cats, her wild friends. They all said: 'Why do you want to be petted by your mother for? Aren't you big enough to look after yourself? You don't want to be a little mollycoddle and drink milk out of a bowl and have your food all cut up for you? That's simply ridiculous. Come with us. We lead a free life and an exciting one. We never know when we'll catch a mouse or whether we'll find anything to eat in the garbage tins or not.'

"And once more little Pussy was influenced by the naughty cats, and off she went with them. She got into many a scrimmage, but she tried to make herself think it was great fun.

"One night, though, they were all hidden in a cellar. They had crawled in through an open window through which coal was put in. But when they went to get out, having learned there were no mice, they found the window had been closed and they could find no way of escaping. Oh, how cold it was, and Pussy was so hungry! It was dark in the cellar too. The icebox was quite empty, and, finding no food anywhere, they all began to quarrel. Now, in Pussy's home there was never any quarreling, and Pussy felt very unhappy. Besides, she was bitterly cold, and her throat was sore and swollen.

"In the morning, though, good luck brought the coal man with more coal for the cellar, and the window was opened.

"Pussy simply fled for home. No one scolded her when she reached the warm kitchen again, and they all acted as though they realized she had been taught a severe lesson. The cook rubbed liniment on her poor swollen throat, and she had such a good drink of milk. And never again did Pussy leave home."

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney troubles, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.—Adv.

The STORY of WAITSTILL BAXTER

BY KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN

Copyright, 1913, by Kate Douglas Wiggin

Author of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm"

CHAPTER VI.

"What dreams may come."

SUPPER was over and the work done at last. The dishes washed, the beans put in soak, the hens shut up for the night, the milk strained and carried down cellar. Patty went up to her little room with the one window and the slanting walls, and Waitstill followed and said good night. Her father put out the lights, locked the doors and came up the creaking stairs. There was never any talk between the sisters before going to bed, save on nights when their father was late at the store, usually on Saturdays only, for the good talkers of the village, as well as the gossips and loafers, preferred any other place to swap stories than the bleak atmosphere provided by old Foxy at his place of business.

Patty could think in the dark. Her healthy young body lying not uncomfortably on the bed of corn husks, and the patchwork comforter drawn up under her chin, she could think, but for the first time she could not tell her thoughts to Waitstill. She had a secret, a dazzling secret, just like Ellen Wilson and some of the other girls who were several years older. Her afternoon's experience loomed as large in her innocent mind as if it had been an elopement.

"I hope I'm not engaged to be married to him, even if he did"— The sentence was too tremendous to be finished even in thought. "I don't think I can be. Men must surely say something and not take it for granted you are in love with them and want to marry them. It is what they say when they ask that I should like, much better than being married, when I'm only just past seventeen. I wish Mark was a little different. I don't like his careless ways! He admires me, I can tell that by the way he looks, but he admires himself just as much and expects me to do the same. Still, I suppose none of them are perfect, and girls have to forgive lots of little things when they are engaged. Mother must have forgiven a good many things when she took father. Anyway, Mark is going away for a month on business, so I shan't have to make up my mind just yet!" Here sleep descended upon the slightly puzzled, but on the whole delightfully complacent little creature, bringing her most alluring and untrustworthy dreams.

The dear Innocent had indeed no need of haste. Young Mr. Marquis de Lafayette Wilson—Mark for short—was not in the least a gay deceiver or ruthless breaker of hearts, and so far as known no scalps of village beauties were hung to his belt. He was a likable, light weight young chap, as indolent and pleasure loving as the strict customs of the community would permit, and a kiss, in his mind, most certainly never would lead to the altar, else he had already been many times a bridegroom. Miss Patience Baxter's maiden meditations and uncertainties and perplexities, therefore, were decidedly premature. She was a natural born, unconsciously artistic, highly expert and finished coquette. She was all this at seventeen, and Mark at twenty-four was by no means a match for her in this field of effort yet. But sometimes in getting her victim into the net the coquette loses her balance and falls in herself. There wasn't a bit of harm in Marquis de Lafayette, but he was extremely agile in keeping out of nets.

Waitstill was restless, too, that night, although she could not have told the reason. She opened her window at the back of the house and leaned out. The evening was mild, with a soft wind blowing. She could hear the full brook dashing through the edge of the wood lot and even the "kerchug" of an occasional bullfrog. There were great misty stars in the sky, but no moon.

There was no light in Aunt Abby Cole's kitchen, but a faint glimmer shone through the windows of Uncle Bart's joiner's shop, showing that the old man was either having an hour of peaceful contemplation with no companion but his pipe or that there might be a little group of privileged visitors, headed by Jed Morrill, busily discussing the affairs of the nation.

Waitstill felt troubled and anxious tonight, bruised by the little daily torments that lessened her courage but never wholly destroyed it. Any one who believed implicitly in heredity might have been puzzled, perhaps, to account for her. He might fantastically picture her as making herself out of her ancestors, using a free hand, picking and choosing what she liked best, with due care for the effect of combinations; selecting here and there and modifying, if advisable, a trait of Grandpa or Grandma Foxwell, of Great Uncle or Great Aunt Baxter; borrowing qualities lavishly from her own gentle born and gently bred mother and carefully avoiding her respected father's stock, except perhaps to take a dash of his pluck and an ounce of his persistence. Jed Morrill remarked of Deacon Baxter once, "When Old Foxy wants anything he'll wait till hell freezes over afore he'll give up." Waitstill had her father's firm chin, but there the likeness ended. The proud curve of her nostrils, the clear, well opened eye with its deep fringe of lashes, the earnest mouth, all these came from the mother who was little more than a dim memory.

Waitstill disdained any vague, dreary, colorless theory of life and its meaning. She had joined the church at fifteen, more or less because other girls did and the parson had persuaded her, but out of her hard life she had somehow framed a courageous philosophy that kept her erect and uncrushed, no matter how great her difficulties. She had no idea of bringing a poor, weak, draggled soul to her Maker at the last day, saying, "Here is all I have managed to save out of what you gave me!"

Patty slept sweetly on the other side of the partition, the contemplation of her twopenny triumphs bringing a smile to her childish lips, but even so a good heart was there (still perhaps in the process of making), a quick wit, ready sympathy, natural charm; plenty, indeed, for the stronger sister to cherish, protect and hold precious, as she did with all her mind and soul.

There had always been a passionate loyalty in Waitstill's affection, wherever it had been bestowed. Uncle Bart delighted in telling an instance of it that occurred when she was a child of five. Maine had just separated amicably from her mother, Massachusetts, and become an independent state. It was in the middle of March, but there was no snow on the ground and the village boys had built a bonfire on a plot of land near Uncle Bart's joiner's shop. There was a large gathering in celebration of the historic event and Waitstill crept down the hill with her homemade rag doll in her arms. She stood on the outskirts of the crowd, a silent, absorbed little figure clad in a shabby woolen coat, with a blue knit hood framing her rosy face. Deborah, her beloved, her only doll, was tightly clasped in her arms, for Debby, like her parent, had few pleasures and must not be denied so great a one as this. Suddenly one of the thoughtless young scamps in the group, wishing to create a new sensation and add to the general excitment, caught the doll from the child's arms and running forward with a wild warwhoop, flung it into the flames. Waitstill did not lose an instant. She gave a scream of anguish and without giving any warning of her intentions, probably without realizing them herself, she dashed through the little crowd into the bonfire and snatched her cherished offspring from the burning pile. The whole thing was over in the twinkling of an eye, for Uncle Bart was as quick as the child and dragged her out of the imminent danger with no worse harm done than a good scorching.

He led the little creature up the hill to explain matters and protect her from a scolding. She still held the doll against her heaving breast, saying, between the sobs: "I couldn't let my Debby burn up! I couldn't, Uncle Bart, she's got nobody but me! Is my dress scorched so much I can't wear it? You'll tell father how it was, Uncle Bart, won't you?"

Debby bore the marks of her adventure longer than her owner, for she had been longer in the fire, but stained and defaced as she was, she was never replaced and remained the only doll of Waitstill's childhood. At this very moment she lay softly and safely in a bureau drawer ready to be lifted out, some time, Waitstill fancied, and shown tenderly to Patty's children. Of her own possible children she never thought. There was but one man in the world who could ever be the father of them, and she was separated from him by every obstacle that could divide two human beings.

* * * * * * *

Village "aunts" and "uncles" were elected to that relationship by the common consent of the community, their fitness being established by great age, by decided individuality or eccentricity of character, by uncommon lovableness or by the possession of an abundant wit and humor. There was no formality about the thing. Certain women were always called "Aunt Sukie," or "Aunt Hitty," or what not, while certain men were distinguished as "Uncle Rish," or "Uncle Pel," without previous arrangement or the consent of the high contracting parties.

Such a couple were Cephas Cole's father and mother, Aunt Abby and Uncle Bart. Bartholomew Cole's trade was that of a joiner. As for Aunt Abby's, it can only be said that she made all trades her own by sovereign right of investigation, and what she did not know about her neighbor's occupations was unlikely to be discovered on this side of Jordan. One of the villagers declared that Aunt Abby and her neighbor, Mrs. Abel Day, had argued for an hour before they could make a bargain about the method of disseminating a certain important piece of news, theirs by exclusive right of discovery and prior possession. Mrs. Day offered to give Mrs. Cole the privilege of Saco hill and Aunt Betty Jack's, she herself to take Guide Board and Town House hills. Aunt Abby quickly proved the injustice of this decision, saying that there were twice as many families living in Mrs. Day's chosen territory as there were in that allotted to her, so the river road to Milliken's mills was grudgingly awarded to Aunt Abby by way of compromise, and the ladies started on what was a tour of mercy in those days—the furnishing of a subject of discussion for long, quiet evenings.

Uncle Bart's joiner's shop was at the foot of Guide Board hill on the Riverboro side of the bridge, and it was the pleasantest spot in the whole village. The shop itself had a cheery look, with its weather stained shingles, its small square windows and its hospitable door, half as big as the front side of the building. The step was an old millstone too worn for active service, and the piles of chips and shavings on each side of it had been there for so many years that sweet williams, clove pinks and purple phlox were growing in among them in the most irresponsible fashion, while a morning glory vine had crept up and curled around a long handled rake that had been standing against the front of the house since early spring. There was an air of cozy and amiable disorder about the place that would have invited friendly confabulation even had not Uncle Bart's white head, honest, ruddy face and smiling welcome coaxed you in before you were aware. A fine Nodhead apple tree shaded the side windows, and underneath it reposed all summer a bright blue sleigh, for Uncle Bart always described himself as being "plagued for shed room" and kept things as he liked at the shop, having a "p'ison neat" wife who did exactly the opposite at his house.

The seat of the sleigh was all white now with scattered fruit blossoms, and one of Waitstill's earliest remembrances was of going downhill with

"A shop or a barn has saved many a man's life and reason."

Patty toddling at her side, of Uncle Bart's lifting them into the sleigh and permitting them to sit there and eat the ripe red apples that had fallen from the tree. Uncle Bart's son, Cephas (Patty's secret adorer), was a painter by trade and kept his pots and cans and brushes in a little outhouse at the back, while Uncle Bart himself stood every day behind his long joiner's bench almost knee deep in shavings. How the children loved to play with the white, satiny rings, making them into necklaces, hanging them to their ears and weaving them into wreaths. Wonderful houses could always be built in the corner of the shop out of the little odds and ends and "nubbins" of white pine, and Uncle Bart was ever ready to cut or saw a special piece needed for some great purpose.

The sound of the plane was sweet music in the old joiner's ears. "I don't hardly know how I'd 'a' made out if I'd had to work in a mill," he said confidentially to Cephas. "The noise of a saw goin' all day, coupled with your mother's tongue mornin's an' evenin's, would 'a' been too much for my weak head. I'm a quiet man, Cephas, a man that needs a peaceful shop where he can get away from the comforts of home now and then without shirkin' his duty nor causin' gossip. If you should ever marry, Cephas—which don't look to me likely without you pick out a dif'rent girl—I'd advise you not to keep your stock o' paints in the barn or the shed, for it's altogether too handy to the house and the women folks. Take my advice and have a place to yourself, even if it's a small one. A shop or a barn has saved many a man's life and reason, Cephas, for it's ag'in a woman's nature to have you underfoot in the house without hectorin' you. Choose a girl same 's you would a horse that you want to hitch up into a span; 't ain't every two that'll stan' together without kickin'. When you get the right girl keep out of her way consid'able an' there'll be less wear an' tear."

INDIANA REPUBLICANS MEET IN CONVENTION

Daily Sessions Will Be Held at Indianapolis Until Friday.

Indianapolis, In., April 21.—That the spirit of hope and confidence again animates the breasts of the Republicans of Indiana was indicated by the display of enthusiasm among the party workers who gathered here in large numbers today in readiness for the State convention. Many of the old leaders who have taken little actice interest in the affairs of the party for several years past were to be seen about the headquarters at the Hotel Severin.

The convention will hold its sessions in Tomlinson Hall, beginning tomorrow and continuing over Thursday. The program has been arranged with a view to reviving the old-time enthusiasm among the rank and file of the party. The action of the Progressives in putting their own ticket in the field precludes the possibility of the two parties getting together in the coming campaign. Nevertheless the Republicans have let it be known that any of the former members who desire to return to the party fold will find a cordial welcome awaiting them.

The proceedings tomorrow will partake largely of the nature of a rally, the real business of the convention being left until the concluding day. At the opening session the principal address will be delivered by William A. Prendergast, of New York. Mr. Prendergast was one of the founders of the Progressive party and made the speech placing Theodore Roosevelt in nomination for the Presidency at the Chicago convention in 1912. Last November he withdrew from the Progressive party and renewed his affiliation with the Republicans.

The convention will nominate candidates for United States senator and for all State officers, with the exception of governor and lieutenant governor. There are several aspirants in the field for nomination to run against Senator Benjamin F. Shively, who has been renominated on the Democratic ticket. Among those whose names are most prominently mentioned in connection with the senatorial nomination are Addison C. Harris, of Indianapolis, former United States minister to Austria; W. L. Taylor, former attorney general; Hugh Miller, of Columbus, former lieutenant governor of the State; Frank A. Ball, a wealthy manufacturer of Muncie, and Edgar D. Crumpacker, of Valparaiso, for more than fifteen years a representative in Congress from the Tenth district.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE ISSUES DIGEST OF N. J. LIQUOR LAWS

"Laymen's Guide to the Liquor Laws of New Jersey" is the title of a pamphlet issued by the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey and compiled by Samuel Wilson, assistant superintendent of the league. The booklet contains a history of the regulation of the liquor traffic in this State as well as a digest of Supreme Court decisions and suggestions for law enforcement.

The publication contains twenty-seven pages of solid reading matter. Information is classified for the convenience of citizens generally, of persons wishing to complain of violations, of lawyers and of the saloonkeepers.

"All patriotic citizens are agreed that the very general violation of laws by men engaged in the traffic in alcoholic beverages, and the open indifference of many officials in the cities is a menace to our civil institutions," says Mr. Wilson in his foreword.

"Good government clubs, civic leagues, law and order societies, temperance organizations and patriotic citizens have been deterred from prosecuting these law-breakers through lack of understanding of the complicated network of statutes and decisions relating to the liquor traffic, and there is a widespread demand for a digest unburdened by legal terms that will be a safe guide and instructor for laymen in their struggle for civic righteousness."

SPRING FIESTA IN TEXAS.

San Antonio, Texas, April 21—The seventy-eighth aniversary of the battle of San Jacinto, which resulted in the wresting of Texas and all the vast territory westward to California from the Mexicans, was celebrated in San Antonio today. The celebration was combined with the opening of the annual spring flower carnival. The crowd of visitors was one of the largest ever entertained here.

ROME OBSERVES BIRTHDAY.

Rome, April 21.—Rome kept a holiday today in celebration of the 2667th Anniversary of the founding of the city. Although the year of the foundation of the city, by Romulus, is officially recognized as 3961 of the Julian period, or 753 B. C., recent archaeological discoveries indicate that it should be moved back many centuries.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant.—Adv.

PRACTICAL WORK FOR P. H. S. PUPILS

Teachers Described New Courses at Parent-Teacher Association Meeting.

NEW OFFICERS CHOSEN

Mrs. F. St. John Fitch Heads Organization—Principal Best and Aids Told Fully of the New Courses Proposed for Next Year.

Description of the new courses which will be provided in the High School next year, when the increased facilities are provided by the new addition, and the election of officers for the coming year occupied the time of parents of High School pupils who are members of the Parent-Teacher Association at the annual meeting last night. It was one of the largest attended meetings ever held under the auspices of the organization, three hundred or more people filling every available chair in the library of the school. The new officers are Mrs. F. St. John Fitch, president; Principal Lindsey Best, vice-president; Mrs. Joseph H. Blanchard, second vice-president; Mrs. E. J. Berrien, recording secretary; Mrs. A. T. Runyon, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Charles A. Dall, treasurer. The financial condition of the organization was shown to be good, and there are now one hundred and forty-five members.

Principal Lindsey Best presided after the business session, and told about the new courses which will be added next year, a well as briefly mentioning the old ones, making six in all. He said that it was the purpost of the school authorities to provide some course that will appeal to every child, and urged the parents to permit their children to take the full four years' course if it was a possible thing to spare them from the home, so that they would have something of distinct value for the future. He briefly described the new courses in the home arts curriculum, saying that they were divided into three parts, domestic science, domestic art and domestic drawing, and then called on teachers to further describe each of the branches, which are especially planned for the girls.

Miss Clifford took up the domestic science topic, telling of the practical instruction it is planned to give in cooking and similar things, saying that it was planned to give the girls four hours a week for four years in this work, or four times as much as is the case at present. Miss Hill told of the art course, saying that it was one which would permit the different girls to work out their own ideas, and teach useful topics, and how to accomplish the most in the way of dress and appearance with the least possible expenditures of time, energy and money. Miss Burnett described what is planned for the drawing course, saying that it would be worked out with the idea of developing taste in everything the pupil does.

Charles R. Bostwick was the first speaker on the industrial arts topic, saying that it was planned to teach how to get the most value from food, household management, keeping simple household accounts, the arrangement of furniture to get the best service and similar things. He said that Plainfield is coming to its proper place in presenting a course of the kind, which is much broader than any which a trade school might give. Mr. Hubbard briefly described the course in general science and Miss Ball and Mr. Lord of the plans for teaching mathematics to the girls and boys respectively. The addresses by teachers were concluded when Mr. Beers described the course in household chemistry and industrial physics.

Mrs. Fitch urged stronger support of the association in the future, and Miss Ball told what is being done to get the merchants to close their stores on Saturday afternoons during August, urging all to sign petitions and do what they could to bring it about.

COURT UPHOLDS TRUSTEE'S ACTION

Judge Connolly Says Their Accounting of Dreier Estate Was Reasonable.

VICTORY FOR DEFENSE

Decision States That Litigation Was Prompted by Bitter Feeling—Report Allowed to Stand in Its Entirety.

Garret Dreier, of New Brunswick, and Harry Dreier, of this city, trustees of the estate of Samuel Dreier, were successful in defending the action brought by their sister, Mrs. Bertha Senger, of this city, who took exceptions to the accounting of the trustees of the estate. The decision, which was given today by Judge James C. Connolly in the Union County Orphans' Court, sustains the trustees. After reviewing the case somewhat in detail, Judge Connolly concludes by saying that "the accounting appears to me to be fair, just and reasonable, and is allowed to stand in its entirety."

This decision by Judge Connolly brings to an end litigation which has been in progress for some time and which has been marked by considerable personal feeling on the part of the litigants. William Newcorn was counsel for the trustees and William R. Wilson, of Elizabeth, represented Mrs. Senger. The decision follows:

"The trustees in this matter have filed an account to which exceptions are made by Bertha Senger, one of the beneficiaries. Nearly all of the exceptions question expenditures made by the trustees, on the ground that the account does not show upon what properties, held by the trustees, the expenditures were made, and that such expenditures were excessive and unnecessary. A few other exceptions question the amounts expended for legal services for the estate, and allege that the trustees have allowed the property to deteriorate.

"I am of the opinion that there is absolutely no ground to sustain the exceptant in her contentions. All of the property which came to the trustees was old and much in need of repairs as were made in every instance reasonable.

"I am also of the opinion that the amounts charged for legal services, some of which were incurred in ejectment proceedings brought against the exceptant and her husband, were reasonable. A bitter feeling, as is shown by the testimony, exists between the exceptant and the trustees, who are her brothers, and I am satisfied that this bad feeling prompted the exceptant in filing her objections to the report. But aside from this the accounting appears to me to be fair, just, and reasonable, and is allowed to stand in its entirety."

COMPLETE ORGANIZATION.

The Plainfield Flower and Fruit Guild met last night at the Friends' Meeting house and completed their organization by adopting a constitution and by-laws. Final preparations for the plant and bulb sale to be held next Tuesday were made. Those desiring to make contributions to this affair should notify Joseph Harper, of 107 West Fourth street. The sale will be an all day affair, and will be held on the lawn of the Friends' Meeting house.

CHANGE ENTERTAINMENT DATE.

The date of the entertainment originally planned by the Women's League of St. Joseph's R. C. church, the borough, to be held May 4, will be held on April 29 instead. The affair, to be preceded by the monthly meeting of the league, will be held at Debele's Auditorium.

PROGRESSIVE EUCHRE.

The Men's Association of the Church of the Heavenly Rest will give a progressive euchre party to its friends and members tomorrow evening, in the parish house. Refreshments will be served after the games.

NO PROTEST AGAINST SCHOOL

Evergreen Avenue Residents Fail to Appear at Board of Education Meeting.

SEE NEW SCHOOL PLANS

J. T. Simpson Impressed Board with Suggestions Made, and Drawings of Buildings Elsewhere—Creditors of Exner Company Have Hearing.

Although notice had been sent to them in writing and through the newspapers, not one of those who petitioned the Board of Education not to erect a schoolhouse on the Evergreen avenue site, appeared at the meeting of the Board, held in the High School building, last night. Only one signer of the protest was seen in the High School building and he was attending the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association. The school body held a conference with the committee representing the creditors of the P. J. Exner Company, and discussed plans for completing the new addition to the High School. This committee consists of W. A. Garrigues, former Councilman C. C. Randolph and Charles E. Loizeaux. J. T. Simpson, a Newark architect, took up much time describing proposed plans for the Evergreen avenue school, and routine business was transacted. Included with the latter was the passage of a resolution by the Board in which it was generally voted to have one session of the schools on May 4, when the circus will be given for the benefit of the open air school, as it was thought that many of the pupils would stay away anyhow.

Mr. Simpson shed much new light on the subject of new school buildings. The Board has been contemplating the erection of a twelve room school at a possible cost of $125,000, and Mr. Simpson, whose specialty is the erection of such buildings, and

BROWN ROLSTON TO IMPERSONATE WOMAN

Well Known Local Amateur Has Amusing Part in Comedy Club Show.

Brown Rolston's impersonation of a girl will be one of the most amusing incidents in "The Arrival of Kitty," to be presented by the Comedy Club, of Plainfield, on April 13 and May 1, at the Plainfield Theatre. His is one of the principal male parts, as a matter of fact. As Bobby Baxter he is in love with Jane (Miss Eva Browne) and in the course of his intriguing to defeat her father's will and prevent her marriage to the old bachelor, Benjamin Moore (Frederick W. Goddard), he pretends to be a certain notorious lady of the musical comedy stage.

Any one who remembers seeing him in the Princeton Triangle Shows will know him plausibly and cleverly he does it. He was inimitable in the leading feminine parts of the Triangle Club and became famous for his skill in them far beyond Princeton, some five years ago.

Anyone who sees him in this part, in costume, will easily believe in the success of the clever deception he is represented as perpetrating in the play.

Tickets for the two perfomances of "The Arrival of Kitty" will be put on sale tomorrow at the Plainfield Theatre.

CHANGE PLACE FOR SALE BY SUFFRAGE LEAGUE NEXT WEEK

The members of the Plainfield Branch of the State Equal Suffrage League decided to change the place where they will hold their suffrage sale next week. It was first announced for the building formerly occupied by W. L. Smalley and Company at the corner of Park avenue and Fourth street, but those in charge have decided to change to the Stillman building, in the store formerly occupied by Mme. Tytus as a millinery establishment, just west of Madison avenue. The sale will be held as announced, on each day next week except Friday.

CALL FOR RECRUITS.

The armory of Co. K on West Front street will be opened every night this week for recruiting purposes. It is desired to increase the present corps to sixty-five and applicants may receive further instructions by applying at the armory. Applicants must be between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years.

DEATH FOLLOWS A LONG ILLNESS

David E. Titsworth Passes Away at His Home on Madison Avenue.

LIFE-LONG RESIDENT

Was Indentified With Plainfield in All Its Transitions From Village to City—Active in Church Work—Wife and Two Sons Survive.

David E. Titsworth, one of Plainfield's foremost citizens, died at his home on Madison avenue, about 8 o'clock last night. He had been in poor health for several months, and while his death was not unexpected by the family and friends, it brings a feeling of loss to many people in this city.

Mr. Titsworth came of old New Jersey stock, on both his father's and mother's side, running well back into Revolutionary war connections. His father was Edward Burke Titsworth, son of Louis and Rebecca Dunham Titsworth, and his mother was Anne, daughter of Mary Holton Dunn, of New Market. His father was one of the pioneer clothing manufacturers, an industry which, at that time, covered a wide extent of territory, situated in Plainfield.

Mr. Titsworth was born in Plainfield on October 10, 1850, in the house on West Front street, that stood opposite the present site of the Stillman building, and he has thus been identified with Plainfield in all its transitions from a village to a city. His education was obtained in the public schools of the city, chiefly in the white frame building that formerly stood on the site of the Franklin School; his principal was Michael F. Marclay. After leaving the Plain-

READY FOR HOSPITAL AUXILIARY DANCE

Affair at Columbus Hall on Friday Night Promises to Be a Success.

When the music starts for the dance to be given by the Woman's Auxiliary of Muhlenberg Hospital, at Columbus Hall on Friday night, it is expected by the large list of well known women in charge that it will begin the most successful affair of the kind during the present season. The members of the committee have been busy selling tickets and completing arrangements so that everything is ready except the gathering of the dancers.

Several specialties will be provided for the entertainment of those present, and these will be announced tomorrow night. Mueller's orchestra will furnish the dance music. The function will be a community affair, and everyone will be welcomed. Tickets can be procured from the various members of the committees, Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Jr., being in charge of the hall and music, and Mrs. Charles A. Reed, the tickets, while the advertising is being looked after by Mrs. R. Story Rowland, Mrs. Walter L. Righter and Mrs. Frederick W. Goddard. The floor committee will consist of Mrs. Henry C. Irons, chairman; Mrs. J. C. Gilbert, Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Jr., Mrs. C. D. Borrowe, E. H. Ladd, Jr., S. D. Lounsbery, J. Hartley Mellick, R. S. Rowland, Walter L. Righter, A. L. Otterson, George L. Babcock and Thomas M. Day.

The refreshments, which will not be included in the price of the admission ticket, will be sold by a committee of which Mrs. C. E. Lipscomb is the chairman, and she will be assisted by Miss S. R. DuBois, Mrs. Sherman B. Joost, Mrs. J. Hartley Mellick and Mrs. J. Whitney Baker, and a sub-committee in charge of the lemonade will be as follows: Miss Juliet Weber, Mrs. William M. Wherry, Jr., Mrs. Frank C. Ard, Mrs. C. B. Tyler and Mrs. T. M. Day. Mrs. Isaac Schwed will take charge of the sale of cigarettes and cigars.

MANY ATTENDED CLUB'S BANQUET

First Annual Affair Held Under the Auspices of West End Civic Association.

STATE SENATOR SPOKE

City Officials Present Land Work of Organization—President Thomas C. Vail Acted as Toastmaster—Consolidation Discussed.

Men actively engaged in promoting the civic welfare of Plainfield and North Plainfield were the guests of the West End Civic Association at its annual banquet held in the Waldorf, last night, and the affair proved to be a far greater success than was originally anticipated by the organization under whose auspices it was conducted. Included in the assemblage of fifty diners were Mayor Percy H. Stewart, of this city; Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of North Plainfield; State Senator Carlton B. Pierce; President William Jeffery, of the Board of Trade; Councilmen John H. Cose and Richard A. Claybrook, and the officers of the association.

William L. Saunders, of North Planifield, who was expected to act as toastmaster at the occasion, was unable to be present owing to the death of a friend and his place was taken by President Thomas C. Vail, of the civic association. Mayor Stewart, the first speaker of the evening, reviewed the history of the organization from its inception, and commented on the work being done along many lines by the members. The speaker lauded the non-partisan spirit that has been evidenced by the association's members and outlined the various chanels along which the body could conduct its work in a way that would be beneficial to the community. He spoke of the vast amount of time given over to the city by the

CHIEF KIELY NAMED TO SECURE CONNORS

Requisition Papers Were Issued by Governor Fielder Yesterday.

Charles Connors, alias "Ice Wagon" Connors, of Chicago, who broke into the home of former State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of West Eighth street, and stole $17,785 in cash and jewelry, is to be brought from Chicago to Union county for trial. Governor Fielder has just issued a requisition upon the Governor of Illinois for the purpose of getting Connors back to New Jersey. The requisition was issued at the request of Prosecutor Alfred A. Stein, of Union county, and designates Police Chief Patrick S. Kiely as the officer to go to Chicago after the prisoner.

The robbery of the Ackerman home took place on Jaunary 3 and was remarkable for the fact that although Conors got away with the large sum named in cash and jewelry, he did not disturb the very valuable collection of postage stamps owned by ex-Senator Ackerman. This collection is one of the finest in the whole world, and contains many stamps that are priceless. Some time after the burglary Connors was captured in Chicago, where he has since been under arrest, awaiting extradition from New Jersey. He has already been indicted by the Union county Grand Jury on the charge of breaking, entering, larceny and receiving.

LOCAL SCHOOL TEACHER'S ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mrs. Henry W. Rankin, of Central avenue, gave a "Rose Dinner" to a number of friends at her home yesterday, at which time the engagement of Miss Gladys Teasdale to Norman Dudley Fulton was announced. Covers were laid for sixteen. The dining-room was elaborately decorated with pink roses and sweet peas.

Miss Teasdale is a teacher in the local public schools and is well known to a wide circle of acquaintances. Mr. Fulton formerly lived on Central avenue and was formerly employed in the engineering department of th Public Service Gas Department. He was recently transferred to a similar position in the corporation's plant in Camden. Mr. Fulton is a graduate of Drexel Institute in Philadelphia, in the class of 1910, and was a popular member of his class in athletics and collegiate endeavor.

AMERICANS CONTROL VERA CRUZ; PRESIDENT GIVEN WAR POWER

Firing in Mexican City Practically Ceased This Afternoon—O'Shaughnessy Given Passports — Wilson Signs Resolution Making Him Commander-in-chief of Forces.

SUMMARY OF WAR NEWS.

Fighting has about stopped in Vera Cruz. No more casualties are reported. Americans in possession of the city.

Rear Admiral Fletcher reports four Americans killed and twenty wounded in the first fighting. Two hundred Mexicans were slain.

Defiant, General Huerta says he has 400,000 men who will fight twenty-five years, if necessary, to repel the Americans.

Refugees in Mexico City have been cut off from Vera Cruz by the blowing up by the Mexicans of a railroad bridge fifteen miles from Vera Cruz.

By a vote of 73 to 13 the Senate today adopted the committee substitute for the House resolution, justifying the use of arms in Mexico.

The constitutionalists under General Carranza are expected to support the United States and take Tampico.

An unconfirmed report has been heard in Washington that Arnold V. Shankin, United States Consul General at Mexico City, had been shot during rioting in Mexico City.

Fifteen members of Troop B, Tenth cavalry of the United States, are reported today in an unconfirmed rumor to have been seized by rebels when they unintentionally crossed the border line into Mexico.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, April 22 (Bulletin).—The President has asked Congress to appropriate immediately $500,000 to get Americans out of Mexico. The Senate has adjourned until tomorrow.

Washington, April 22.—President Wilson at 2:05 o'clock this afternoon attached his signature to the joint resolution of Congress empowering him to employ the military strength of the U. S. in the Mexican crisis. The President, by his action, thus became in actuality the commander chief of the army and navy of this nation. The signing of the resolution was devoid of ceremony.

Washington, D. C., April 22—The Senate adopted the substitute Mexican resolution by a vote of 73 to 13, at a quarter past three this morning.

The substitute was adopted after a substitute to it, proposed by Senator Lodge, had been defeated by a vote of 47 to 35.

It was passed unanimously in the House before noon today.

The resolution, which was proposed by the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate was printed in last night's Daily Press and is as follows:

"Whereas, In view of the facts presented by the President of the United States in his address delivered to the Congress at the joint session on the 20th day of April, 1914, with regard to certain affronts and indignities committed against the United States in Mexico;

"Resolved, That the President is justified in the employment of armed forces of the United States to enforce his demand for unequivocal amends for affronts and indignities against the United States.

"Be it further resolved, That the United States disclaims any hostility to the Mexican people or any purpose to make war on them."

The thirteen Senators who voted against the resolution are Republicans. They are Senators Brandegee, Connecticut; Bristow, Kansas; Dillingham, Vermont; Gallinger, New Hampshire; LaFollette, Wisconsin; Lodge, Massachucetts; Lippitt, Rhode Island; Norris, Nebraska; Oliver, Pennsylvania; Root, New York; Smoot, Utah; Weeks, Massachusetts, and Works, California.

The Lodge substitute resolution, which was the subject of debate for hours, recited outrages committed on Americans by Constitutionalists as well as the Tampico incident, as a reason for giving the President authority to used armed force. The resolution provided for the use of the army and navy in Mexico upon the general conditions instead of the flag incident alone. Senator Root led the Republicans in demanding that the general conditions in the country be the basis for use of the army and navy.

Following the defeat of the Lodge resolution an amendment offered by Senator Gallinger, justifying the President in the use of force to protect American citizens in Mexico" as well as to demand reparation for the Tampico incident, was defeated by 43 to 40.

By a vote of 44 to 39, the Senate defeated the amandment offered by Senator LaFollete to provide that after the subjugation of Mexico the United States should retire from that country, leaving Mexico and "every portion of it to its own people.'"

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, April 22.—At 1:10 p. m. today, Consul Canada telegraphed to the State Department that the American forces were in complete possession of Vera Cruz at that hour. So far as known there were no casualities among the American or foreign non-combatants. The firing practically ceased this afternoon.

The German steamer Ypiranga docked at Vera Cruz early today, and the American forces now are in possession of the 15,000,000 rounds of ammunition and the 200 field cannon consigned to the Huerta government.

The general bombardment of Vera Cruz was in progress during the entire morning. The fleet is shelling the southern end of the town to which the Mexican forces are retreating. Great damage was wrought by the guns of the fleet, which is covering the landing of additional marines and bluejackets.

Nelson O'Shaughnessy, charge of affairs in the U. S. embassy at Mexico City has been given his passports by order of General Huerta, and will leave the city as soon as he can make arrangements for safe conduct.

Vigorous efforts to expedite the departure of all Americans in Mexico are being made by the State Department. General Villa will arrive at Juarez late today, and some anxiety is felt by officials here on that account. The town officials have reported that every safeguard and precaution against a demonstration have been taken.

Vera Cruz, April 22 (From Alfred J. Rourke, Central News Correspondent on Board the Arkansas).—Rear Admiral Badger's fleet arrived here at 2:1 5o'clock this morning. Two thousand marines and bluejackets were landed under the protection of fleet's guns. Incessant firing is continuing in the streets of the city. The sailors and marines are carrying full field equipment, including 100 rounds of ammunition. A few dead bodies are lying in the streets this morning. They will be buried when the streets are safe. The city presents a wrecked appearance, many buildings have been partially demolished and broken glass and wrecked street lamps are everywhere. The Mexicans have put all of the most important coast lights out, but the American fleet navigated in the darkness, despite the dangerous reefs. When the vessels arrived here the disembarking was rapid. It was a wonderful spectacle. The enemy kept up a slashing fire all the time. 5 o'clock this morning saw 2,000 additional forces ashore, and most of the casualities yesterday occurred in the public square adjacent to the terminal building, the Mexican snipers being sheltered in the tower of the police station, which was later riddled with shells.

Before noon today the streets of the city were completely deserted, and the place had the appearance of the city of the dead. The condition of some of the wounded Americans is serious, but no further casualities were reported this morning. Refugees are being taken on board the Esperanza, a Ward liner. The number of Mexican dead is estimated at 200, but this is by no means definite since no adequate opportunity for verifying it has been afforded. Lack of water has seriously inconvenienced the U. S. forces. A patrol from the Utah and Florida, while marching through the centre of the town, lost one dead and six wounded.

Mexico City, Mexico, via Galveston, Texas, April 22.—President Huerta in a statement to the press says the war is not between Mexico and the people of the United States, but that the situation was forced by men in

SCOTT'S TRAGIC STORY TOLD.

Commander Evans, Second in Command, Is Giving Illustrated Lectures.

The story of Captain Robert F. Scott's march to the south pole—a story whose record of accomplishment thrilled the world and whose closing chapter swept the nations with sorrow—is being told in various cities of this country at first hand. Commander E. R. G. R. Evans, second in command of the British antarctic expedition, who was the last man to see Captain Scott and his party alive and who received the last verbal instructions and messages of his superior officer, is now on an extended lecture tour in the United
